

DAVID CHORLEY... "Plumb Wore Me Out"

AN OINK-OINK DRAMA

'Ol' Man' Chorley Had a Pig, E-Ai-O

By GEORGE ERES

Anybody lost a little grunter?
This little porker suddenly showed up at 637 E. Eighth St. Saturday afternoon and began roarin' round the shrubbery.

Mrs. David Chorley saw it and didn't believe it. "I had to look three times," she admitted. "Now I've got something to write home about."

Mrs. Chorley called her husband, Dave, 24, who gave chase.

"I GAVE OUT with a few 'pig-pig-pigs' but she didn't pay any attention—just took off down Eighth Street, crossed Lime Avenue went down Ninth Street and back up Lime Avenue."

Passing Long Beach motorists didn't even stop. Youngsters in the area looked up and wondered: "What is it?"

Dave finally cornered and captured the shoat and brought it home where he hog-tied it (fastened a length of rope to a hind leg).

"I tell you this little pig plumb wore me out," he said.

The black and white, 10-inch-high porker never had it so good for a while. She was fed, petted and pampered. Occasionally her short tail took on the semblance of a curl.

THERE ARE NO MARKS of ownership on the animal. Mrs. Chorley called the Humane Society. "Do you live in Bellflower?" she was asked. "They lose pigs quite often in Bellflower."

"No," said Mrs. Chorley who next called the Long Beach Animal Shelter.

Animal Inspector George Wilderman came out in his truck, identified the animal as a Poland China and said the shelter would hold it for five days.

The little critter went squealing all the way to her new home.

JFK, Rusk Plan for Paris Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy met with Secretary of State Dean Rusk late Saturday to round out U.S. plans for the Western ministerial meeting to be held in Paris this week.

Kennedy and Rusk were reported anxious to win full Allied agreement on a strategy of negotiation with the Soviets for a Berlin settlement.

The assistant presidential press secretary, Andrew Hatcher, said Kennedy conferred with Rusk at the White House for about an hour immediately after the President's return from a trip to Florida. Rusk arranged to leave for Paris by midnight by jet plane.

French President Charles de Gaulle, who met during the day with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, holds the key to Allied agreement on negotiating strategy over Berlin.

2 Women Killed

Two women were killed and four persons injured Saturday night in a two-car collision on Sepulveda Boulevard one mile south of Mulholland Drive in West Los Angeles. Police tentatively identified the dead women as Zineta Hubbard, 38, La Canada, and Ann Hughes, 40, Sherman Oaks.

Katangese Launch All-Out Offensive on U.N. Positions

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Katangese troops Saturday night launched an all-out attack against the United Nations in Elisabethville, placing its headquarters "under heavy fire," according to reports received by U.N. officials in Leopoldville.

In New York a U.N. spokesman charged Katanga with "misusing the Red Cross flag and its symbols to protect their military operations," and directing attacks on U.N. positions from cars marked with the Red Cross. International Red Cross officials in Elisabethville have confirmed this misuse, the spokesman said.

The spokesman first denied but later confirmed that U.N. jets have gone into action inside the city.

De Gaulle Balks Over Soviet Talks

PARIS (UPI)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer failed Saturday night in a last-ditch attempt to get President Charles de Gaulle to the Berlin conference table with the Russians.

The two leaders conferred for 4½ hours at the Elysee Palace and a French Foreign Office spokesman said later there was no change in De Gaulle's opposition to Berlin talks.

The French spokesman said it now would be up to the Western Big Four foreign ministers who meet here Monday and Tuesday to try to work out a joint Western policy.

DE GAULLE has refused to negotiate with the Russians "under pressure." It was understood Adenauer came here at urging of President Kennedy to try to get De Gaulle to change his mind.

A communique issued after their talks said only that Adenauer and De Gaulle had reached agreement on the need to maintain Allied solidarity.

Russian sources have hinted that President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev might work out something in talks in Moscow but there was no indication either Britain or the United States was ready to adopt a go-it-alone policy.

SATURDAY'S failure meant the United States and Britain faced an agonizing decision on whether to proceed without France.

A crowd of about 200 cheered Adenauer as he left the Elysee Palace to drive to Orly Airport on his way home. But, as the 15-car motorcade reached the Orleans Gate in a working-class district, between 1,500 and 2,000 demonstrators blocked the boulevards, shouting anti-Adenauer slogans.

Viet Nam Bomb Plan Reported

CHICAGO (AP)—The Soviet Union unofficially has been warned that the United States may bomb Van Viet Nam if it continues to be used as a base to support guerrilla forces in South Viet Nam, the Chicago Sun-Times said Saturday.

In a story by Thomas B. Ross of its Washington staff, the Sun-Times said it was emphasized that the bombing threat was unofficial. It does not represent a policy formally approved by President Kennedy, the paper said.

"THE U.N. aircraft made direct hits on the post office with cannon at 1 p.m. Saturday," he said. "The diplomatic representatives in Elisabethville confirm that there were no civilian casualties and that the post office was empty at the time of the attack."

In Dar-es-Salaam, Tanganyika, an informed diplomatic source said U.N. Undersecretary Ralph Bunche of the United States is expected to go to the Congo. But Bunche, in Tanganyika for independence ceremonies, said such a trip would depend on many factors, but he is ready to go if Acting Secretary General U Thant sends him.

The United Nations in Leopoldville said Katangese troops, stirred up by a harrangue from the commanding general, M. Muke, attacked U.N. headquarters in Elisabethville.

IT SAID the U.N. immediately sent its Canberra medium jet bombers, piloted by Indian airmen, against screaming hordes who attacked at night. The planes fired cannon but did not drop bombs.

The U.N. spokesman said U.N. jets have attacked a military convoy and arms and ammunition dumps outside Elisabethville as well as the post office inside the city.

He said the U.N. command had "positive proof" the Katangese were painting Red Crosses on military vehicles or flying Red Cross flags and using them to direct fire against U.N. positions and convoys.

WIDE SEARCH

Strontium 90 Applicator Disappears

BAKERSFIELD (AP)—A widespread search was under way Saturday for a strontium 90 medical applicator described as dangerously radioactive.

"If the thin metal window covering at the active end of the cup is ruptured the release of strontium 90 could present a serious contamination problem," said a spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission at Berkeley.

He said the applicator, used in treating eye conditions in animals, was found to be missing Thursday from the office of Dr. Leon Ackerman, Bakersfield veterinarian.

The AEC spokesman said "the applicator was last seen some time in October. It consists of 100 millicuries of strontium 90 encased in a metal cup mounted on the end of a metal rod about ¼ inch in diameter and 7 inches long."

Reds Shoot Down Youth in Border-Break Attempt

BERLIN (AP)—East German guards Saturday night shot down a 20-year-old Austrian student in a group of three youths and three girls who had crossed the border and were cutting a hole in the barbed wire behind it.

West Berlin police said they believed he was killed. The incident took place near Staaken, where the Communists' wire is back of the actual boundary line between West Berlin and the East German countryside. Western police said the group had wanted to help the mother of one of the girls escape to West Berlin.

Five fled safely from the guns, but the Austrian fell and was quickly dragged behind the wire. His body was seen lying on the ground there for more than two hours.

Earlier Saturday East Berlin police opened fire with submachineguns at four West Berlin youngsters standing near the border at Spandau. The youngsters managed to escape unhurt.

Russians reiterated charges that U.S. troop movements along the autobahn between West Berlin and West Germany are an open military demonstration aimed at sharpening the situation.

The charges came in a Berlin report of the official Soviet news agency Tass.

Tass correspondent Vladimir Ivanov wrote that another aim of American troop movements was to turn West Berlin into a NATO stronghold.

He was referring to the march along the 110-mile highway of two U.S. battle groups.

The move started Thursday morning. It is carried out in small groups shuttling along the lifeline highway daily. Saturday, two small convoys moved into Berlin, one moved out. So far, there have been no incidents.

The official East German radio meanwhile charged that, while the Americans were committing provocations on the autobahn, "other elements who are only interested in blocking a settlement of the Berlin issue were attempting to start fresh provocations in the railroad traffic between West Germany and West Berlin."

East Germany's star radio commentator, Karl Eduard Von Schnitzler, claimed there had been a sharp increase of acts of sabotage against Berlin's elevated network. The elevated trains are operated by the East German state railroad.

There have been 30 major acts of sabotage against the elevated, Von Schnitzler claimed. A total of 800 coaches were damaged, he said.

Cuban Ties Broken Off by Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI)—Colombia Saturday night broke off diplomatic relations with Cuba, hours after Cuban Premier Fidel Castro charged in a radio speech that the Colombian government was composed of "traitors."

Colombia became the 11th Latin American nation to rupture relations with Cuba since Castro took power nearly three years ago.

Banners Banned

WETHERSFIELD, England (AP)—An attempt by banner-bomb demonstrators to break into the giant U.S. Air Force Base here fizzled Saturday. Fewer than 300 showed up and found themselves heavily outnumbered by servicemen and police. Thirty were arrested. Demonstrators at two other U.S. bases also found hard going against tough police, who arrested 300 at one place, 16 at another.

Still Preparing for JFK-Ordered Atmosphere Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission Saturday credited Russia with progress toward lighter nuclear bombs, but said "there is no reason to believe" that the balance of nuclear power has shifted in her favor.

"This balance," the AEC said in a statement, "rests not only on nuclear technology, but also on numbers of weapons available and effective system of delivery."

AT THE SAME time, the AEC said preparations which President Kennedy has ordered for atmospheric tests are going forward. A decision on whether the United States will resume testing in the atmosphere will be made "at the appropriate time, in the light of all the evidence," the AEC said.

The AEC's evaluation of the recent series of Russian nuclear tests was based, it said, on "preliminary analysis," which has been completed.

The AEC said the Russians conducted approximately 50 atmospheric tests with a total yield of about 120 megatons.

In crediting Russia with technological progress, the AEC said: "... The Soviet Union has made advances in certain areas, especially in improving the yield-to-weight ratios of weapons in the megaton range."

"THE FISSION yield in comparison to the total yield for some of the large weapons is lower than achieved in their previous tests."

The AEC statement provided no confirmation for the claim made Saturday by Premier Khrushchev that Russia has nuclear bombs even more powerful than 100 megatons. A megaton is the equivalent of a million tons of TNT.

As it had done before, the AEC said the Oct. 30 Soviet test was of 55 to 60 megatons range. "Of special interest," the AEC said, is "the small fission yield" of this test.

KHRUSHCHEV did not say Russia had exploded a 100-megaton weapon, but said such a bomb is in the Soviet arsenal and:

Another Russ Space Venture Indicated

LONDON, Sunday (AP)—A rearrangement of Russia's internal radio channels caused speculation here today about a new Soviet space venture, possibly a manned orbit around the moon.

The alteration of radio channels will last three days. Such announcements have at times anticipated the need for a national link-up to announce some major event, notably the Gagarin and Titov space flights.

L.A.C. Says: Being Too Extreme About Extremists

One of the most difficult subjects to cover objectively is that of the present groups fighting communism in the United States. On the one hand we have extremists who see a Communist in everyone who disagrees with them. By their intemperate charges against our State Department and even former President Eisenhower, these people have destroyed confidence in anything they say. However, only a few individuals in such groups are so extreme. But they get the headlines.

On the other hand, we have actual Communists and many left-wingers who support the programs of Communists. These are extremists of the worst kind. But they have been with us so long the public has become apathetic. But they are more dangerous today than they have been in the past because there has been so much apathy. We may be sure these left-wingers, pseudo intellectuals and their apologists are enjoying and promoting this feeling toward the extreme anti-Communists.

The real danger, it seems to us, is that the great majority of our people are taking too much of an extremist attitude themselves toward the anti-Communist groups which are attempting to awaken the people to the danger of appeasement of communism in government or wherever it tries to expand its philosophies. It is probable the great majority of the people agree with what these groups are attempting to accomplish—but thoroughly disagree with the way some of the individuals go to extremes.

This means the great majority of people are doing nothing to fight against subversive influences in labor unions, churches, government and social organizations. This apathy keeps people from voting or writing their public officials or newspapers to express their views. They refuse to read literature showing how Communists work because they are too busy watching television or playing golf. It is a deadly apathy that encourages those who would change our way of life for one few of us would like. And a record of the past 20 years shows a drastic change in the system we have called the American Way.

We do not like extremists regardless of which side they represent. But we certainly agree with the principals of the many anti-Communist groups. We are not willing to condemn them all because of a small minority of extremists among them. We despise the left-wing extremists—and we are deeply concerned over the terrible apathy of the great majority of people who justify their apathy by saying all anti-Communists are extremists.

This anti-Communist movement that is sweeping the country is actually a switch to conservatism. The great meeting a few months ago in the Los Angeles Sports Arena was one of the most inspiring patriotic demonstrations we have seen or heard. There was no extremism in that group when 15,000 young people and their parents were told of the benefits of our free enterprise society. It was an example of what is taught in most neighborhood meetings taking place all over the country.

This is why we say too many of us are being too extreme in our criticism of what we call extremists. It is well to criticize individuals who make radical charges against some of our finest citizens. But there are extremists in every organization, whether it be a school or country club, or labor union, or Chamber of Commerce. But we do not close our eyes to the good that is done by these organizations. We would be wise to take the good that is apparent in this awakening of Americanism and accept individual responsibility to try to guide it and take part in a movement to keep America free. The worst enemy we have is the defeatism or apathy of our people who do nothing themselves, while loudly criticizing any group that is attempting to do something that should be done.—L.A.C.

Balaguer Denies Agreeing to Resign

SANTO DOMINGO, D.R. (UPI)—Dominicans Saturday night celebrated the apparent end of their government crisis, but President Joaquin Balaguer denied he had agreed to resign Jan. 1 to pave the way for a transitional junta to rule.

The general strike ended early Saturday and the curfew was lifted for the weekend. Night clubs and movies, dark for days, reopened their doors. Dominicans sang and shouted happily in the streets to celebrate.

BUT A presidential palace spokesman said talks between the Balaguer government and opposition groups were continuing, and Balaguer, in a statement to local newsmen, said reports he would resign Jan. 1 were "insidious propaganda" designed to disrupt the public.

The agreement called for Balaguer to resign about Jan. 21. It provides for a transition to full democratic government, with the combined opposition sharing power with the remnants of the Trujillo dictatorship.

Details of the coalition agreement, reached after nearly a month of day and night wrangling, were being completed in a series of discussions that lasted through the day.

Green Beret Official for Ranger Units

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (UPI)—The green beret became the official distinguishing mark Saturday of the U. S. Special Forces soldier.

Official authorization of the new headgear by the Department of the Army ended a long struggle by the Special Forces, the nation's guerrilla fighters, for the return of the beret, once the unofficial cap of the group.

The decision was prompted by a message from President Kennedy after his visit to Ft. Bragg in October. The White House communication congratulated the Special Forces on their part in a presidential demonstration.

"I am sure that the green beret will be a mark of distinction in the trying times ahead," the President wrote.

IN ADDITION to Dominican officials and political leaders, representatives of the United States, Venezuela and Chile took part in the final settlement which is basically civilian and non-partisan but has a coalition cabinet of opposition and government parties.

The transition council or junta probably will take office next week. It will be composed of six non-partisan members plus Balaguer as chairman of the council.

'Fanatics' Gain GOP Influence, Demo Says

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—National Democratic Party Chairman John M. Bailey said Sunday that the Republican party leadership "is moving closer and closer to the fanatics of the far right."

Bailey addressed the final session of the national convention of Young Democratic Clubs of America at which Allan A. Howe, 33-year-old Salt Lake City attorney, was elected national president, defeating Berrien Moore, 32, of Inglewood, Calif., 644-380.

Bailey accused Republican leaders of trying to delude Americans into thinking that "rock firmness and cool patience are the same as appeasement" in international affairs.

Republicans, he said, "try to pin the tags of socialism or communism or reckless spending on any program to improve the American way of life."

Southland Seeks 11 More Seats in State Senate

PALM SPRINGS (UPI)—A proposal to correct inequalities in representation in the state Senate by adding 11 new seats in Southern California counties was presented Saturday to the governor's commission on state reapportionment.

The plan, presented by George V. Berkey of Palm Springs, chairman of the special study committee of the Southern California Regional

Association of County Supervisors, was based on a new balance between city and farm areas.

Boy's Model Train Leaves Him in Lurch

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP)—A boy, wearing a red stocking cap, ran as fast as little legs could carry him, trying to catch a New York Central freight train moving into Bay City Saturday.

Brakeman Edward Ebel and conductor Robert Austin, watching from the caboose windows, were puzzled. Why was the boy so determined?

The train picked up speed and soon they lost sight of the boy.

After the train arrived at Bay City's West Side depot, the trainmen found a package on the caboose platform. It contained what most little boys and a lot of their fathers would like for Christmas—an electric train set.

The trainmen figured the boy, before trying to climb aboard, had laid the package on the platform as the train slowed down on the outskirts of the city. But the train increased its speed and left the boy behind.

If the youngster can be found, he can have his train back, the trainmen said, and maybe even get a free ride on the caboose.

THE redistricting would be based on a large urban area and the rural balance of the county. At present there are 40 seats in the upper chamber.

Under the plan Los Angeles County would have five seats, San Diego, three; and Santa Barbara, Ventura, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties would have two each.

Berkey explained that in Santa Barbara County, for example, one senator would represent Santa Barbara and another would represent the rural areas.

"This proposal maintains a majority for the rural areas and actually increases rural representation in areas where it's lacking," Berkey said.

The proposal was endorsed by Lionel Steinberg, vice chairman of the state Board of Agriculture, and Los Angeles County Counsel Harold W. Kennedy.

BERKEY'S plan will undergo study by the governor's blue-ribbon reapportionment committee which will meet for the last time Dec. 15 in San Francisco.

The group concluded two days of hearings in Los Angeles the past week prior to the single Palm Springs session.

The group is chaired by Glendale savings and loan executive Charles Wellman.

NIKITA TELLS OF SUPERBOMBS

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev tells Congress of World Federation of Trade Unions Saturday in Moscow that Russia has built 50 and 100 megaton bombs which the Western Powers have not yet matched. He warned West that the superbombs "will always hang over their heads like the sword of Damocles." (AP) bombs will hang over their heads (the Western powers) heads like the sword of Damocles."

U.S. Denies Soviet Union Holds Lead in H-Bomb

In its statement, the AEC said "the significance to the national security of these Soviet developments is still being evaluated."

It added: Although substantial progress has been made and much useful information obtained by the Soviet Union there is no reason to believe that the balance of nuclear power has been changed in favor of the Soviet Union.

AMERICAN weaponeers have disclosed that for U.S. and British bombs of the H-bomb variety tested up until late 1958 the ratio between fission and fusion was approximately 50-50, although this country claimed to have made much progress toward cleaner bombs. They had estimated a similar ratio for Russian H-bombs detonated use the weapons except in up through 1958.

The fusion reaction—which provides most of the punch of the popularly termed hydrogen bomb—produces little fallout.

But fission energy—that of the conventional atom bomb—can produce 110 pounds of radioactive material for every megaton of explosive energy.

In his Moscow speech, Khrushchev for the first time seemed to tell the world the superbomb is a terror weapon in dealing with the West. He warned that the rockets that sent Soviet astronauts into orbit can deliver superbombs any place on earth.

Khrushchev addressed more than 1,000 labor leaders from around the world assembled in the Kremlin for the congress of the Communist-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions. Khrushchev was cheered repeatedly as he spoke of Soviet weapons exceeding the equivalent of 100 million tons of TNT. He vowed never to use the weapons except in defense of the Soviet Union.

Again accusing the West of war preparations and forcing the Soviet Union to resume nuclear tests—including 50-megaton shots—in September, the Premier said "We would be slobbering idiots if we did not carry out the nuclear tests."

He said the new Soviet tests had brought the biggest bombs into final shape. Noting that Soviet space ships had carried astronauts around the earth, he added: "But we could have replaced them with other loads." He said there is "not a single place on earth which can consider itself safe from them (Soviet rockets)."

Blue Law Lasts Only Five Days

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI)—The City Council, in the face of stormy protest, Saturday rescinded a Sunday "blue law" it passed just Tuesday.

Although the council took the law off the books before it was tested on a Sunday, council members set up a committee of 15 residents and merchants to study the problem.

On Jan. 16, the committee will hold a public hearing on controversial Sunday selling. The ordinance against Sunday selling was enacted at the urging of businessmen who protested some of their "cut-rate" competitors insisted on remaining open Sunday.

Protests against the "blue law"—which exempted such items as drugs, gasoline and food—were loud and many.

Editors of the Beverly Hills Citizen said one irate lady telephoned her protests, pointing out that since toothpaste is not a drug, drugstores could not sell it on Sunday.

Navy Launches 2 Nuclear Subs

By Associated Press

Two new atomic submarines, America's 27th and 28th, slipped down the ways a continent apart Saturday, soon to strengthen the U.S. Navy's force to meet the demands of a nuclear and missile age.

Also launched in separate ceremonies were a guided-missile frigate and a guided-missile destroyer. Another guided-missile destroyer, launched several months ago, joined the fleet.

But it is not ships alone which give an enemy pause, a speaker at one of the ceremonies pointed out.

REAR ADM. Lawrence R. Daspit, deputy commander of the Atlantic Fleet submarine force, told the audience at the launching of the atomic submarine USS Tinosa at Portsmouth, N. H.:

"The potential enemy will not be deterred merely by the number of missile ships and planes, but by the knowledge that these units are manned by skilled people able and ready to use them if ordered."

Many ships of war are built and never fire a shot in anger, but they serve by their very existence to keep the peace."

AT VALLEJO, Calif., the atomic submarine USS Plunger—sixth of the Skipjack hunter-killer class—was launched while a group of pacifist pickets paraded at the entrance to Mare Island Naval Shipyard.

Security police arrested one student who entered the grounds carrying a sign which said "Peace Through Love, Not Subs."

The Tinosa is the second of the Thresher class submarine, considered one of the world's fastest, capable of diving deeper and running quieter at high speed than any other type.

Because her finely tapered stern might cause her to dive, the Tinosa entered the water bow first, christened on the stern by the wife of Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y.

Crippling Snows Bury Wide Area

By United Press International

A death-dealing snowstorm, biggest of the season, struck much of the nation Saturday, clogging Christmas-shopping traffic and creating treacherous conditions on thousands of miles of highways.

There was two feet of snow in western New York state. At least five persons were dead in Iowa, three in Illinois, two in Indiana and one in Pennsylvania as a result of traffic accidents caused by the storm. In Omaha a boy was killed sledding on a street.

About 75 rugged road runners clicked off a 9-mile race in freezing rain and sleet between Blacksburg and Christiansburg, Va. A county deputy posted to keep the traffic clear said:

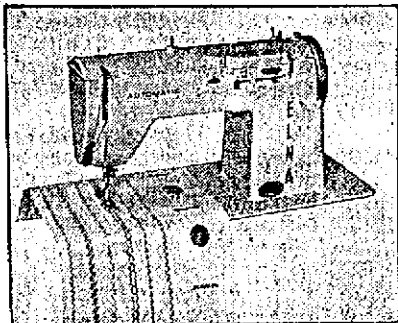

"I felt sorry for those boys. When they finished in that cold they ranged in colors from red to dark blue. Boy, was it cold!"

Three young men taking an 80-mile canoe trip down the ice-clogged Des Moines River in Iowa said they were halfway but "mighty cold." The youths, making the trip in conjunction with President Kennedy's physical fitness program, braved heavy snow, 26-degree weather and large chunks of floating ice.

Four inches of snow swept into Illinois, and forced cancellation of a "Christmas party in the sky" for a group of crippled children. The group was to have left Mount Vernon by plane for a ride with Santa Claus.

A fog-like snow settled over Chicago. Six inches or more was due for the city before Sunday morning. There were 437 accidents in Chicago in 4½ hours Saturday.

Snow also piled up in isolated areas of central New Mexico.

Kefauver Offers Drug Truce

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Estes Kefauver offered a truce to the much-investigated drug industry Saturday but he warned the manufacturers that "clearly excessive" prices must come down.

The Tennessee Democrat showered unusual praise on the $2.5-billion-a-year industry—the first such in two years of investigation—for agreeing to accept more government supervision to keep impure and worthless drugs off the market.

He applauded an agreement by the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association (PMA) that no new drug should be marketed in the absence of substantial evidence that it works as advertised. This, Kefauver said, was an "act of industrial statesmanship."

In return, the senator offered to moderate hotly disputed patent sections in his pending bill.

He said he was not wedded to provisions that would reduce from 17 to three years a patent holder's exclusive right to manufacture the new drug.

JFK Trip Safe, Says Salinger

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Security plans, plus President Kennedy's personal popularity, are enough to insure his safety on his visits to Venezuela and Colombia, White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said here Saturday.

In Caracas, the Venezuelan capital, President Romulo Betancourt dismissed pro-Castro and Communist rioters demonstrating against Kennedy's visit as "four dozen irresponsible persons."

Betancourt urged the people to give Kennedy a cordial reception on his arrival next Saturday and thus teach the extremists a lesson. And he assailed the "despotic totalitarian regime" of Cuba, which he said was following orders from Moscow.

IN HAVANA, Prime Minister Fidel Castro called the Kennedy trip an attempt to defend U.S. "oppressive policy against workers." He charged that Kennedy is going to Venezuela to "attack justice, defend ignorance, plot with the reactionary for the destruction of progress and culture."

Salinger came here from Caracas to coordinate the program for the President's visit to Bogota Dec. 17. He told reporters he saw no reason for undue concern about Kennedy's safety in Bogota and added: "I don't think we have to worry about Caracas either."

He pointed to security measures taken by both Latin American and U.S. agents and said they would be more than adequate.

VA Patient Leaps to Death at Hospital

A 41-year-old leukemia patient at Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital Saturday leaped to his death from the second floor of the main hospital building.

Lakewood sheriff's deputies said Doyle W. Denbow, 2065 Thurin St., was being transferred from one ward to another when he leaped out of a wheelchair and plunged over a concrete barrier. He was killed instantly in the 30-foot fall.

Virus Found in Tots With Pneumonia

WASHINGTON (AP) — A newly recognized virus has been found responsible for a severe outbreak of pneumonia in a group of young children, public health scientists reported Saturday.

They noted that "in the early months of life, infections of the lower respiratory tract are a leading cause of death."

The evidence came from Junior Village, an institution operated for homeless children by the District of Columbia Department of Public Welfare.

THE PUBLIC Health Service said interest was stimulated in the relation of this virus to children's diseases when National Institutes of Health scientists and physicians at Children's Hospital, Washington, reported last June that they had been able to isolate the virus and to associate it with respiratory illnesses.

The linking of the RS—respiratory syncytial — to pneumonia is described in an article in the current issue of the American Journal of Hygiene. The authors are: Drs. A. Z. Kapikian, J. A. Bell, K. M. Johnson, R. J. Huebner and R. M. Chanock of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases and Dr. F. M. Mastrotta, formerly with the district's welfare department.

THE HEALTH service's announcement of the findings said:

"Involvement of the respiratory syncytial virus in an outbreak of pneumonia affecting 36 of 90 children, ranging in age from 8 months to about 4 years, supplies further evidence that the virus plays a significant role in causing pneumonia in the very young . . .

"A striking feature of this outbreak was the extremely high proportion of children it affected."

Sex Attack Reported by TV Actress

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television and film actress Dolores Michaels told authorities she was raped early Saturday by a young man—the same one, she said, who attempted to rape her last August.

Sheriff's Lt. John Norris said the attacker fled when Miss Michaels' roommate returned to their apartment.

The intruder apparently slipped to the front door. Miss Michaels had left it open for the roommate, actress Sue Barton, 25.

Miss Michaels, 27, is a divorcee. She had roles in "The Wayward Bus," "April Love" and "Fraulein" at 20th Century-Fox and has had many television roles.

MISS MICHAELS was unable to give a complete description of the man who entered her apartment. She said that his voice sounded similar to that of a young man—between 17 and 20—who attempted to rape her last August in the same apartment.

Miss Michaels, a blue-eyed blonde, is from Kansas City, and attended Kansas University. She came to Hollywood in 1954 after a TV career in New York City. In 1955 she and interior decorator Maurice Martine of Laguna Beach were married. They were divorced in 1959.

Formosa Calls Nehru 'Coward'

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Formosa provincial government newspaper, Shin Shen Pao, said today the Chinese Communist charges of aggression by India were a "direct outcome of the cowardly policy of appeasing the Communists pursued by Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru.

The newspaper urged Nehru "to have the courage to deal with the Chinese Communists," but said, "This is unlikely because he is a coward."

DO-IT-YOURSELF KIT

Army Probes Reserve Gripe Letter

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (UPI) —The Army Saturday disclosed it was investigating a do-it-yourself gripe kit found tacked to the bulletin board in a barracks housing Army reserves.

An Army public information officer said the kit was made up of carbon copies of a form letter, urging reservists to complain to their congressmen and explaining how to go about it.

The letter suggested the men get 10 of their buddies to co-sign their complaints, and to make things easier, the form letter spelled out some common gripes.

Army officials would not say how many of the letters had been found, but a spokesman in Washington said that distribution was limited to Ft. Bragg.

The letter came to light while Gov. Wesley Powell of New Hampshire was visiting the Army post.

His visit had been prompted partly by published complaints from members of New Hampshire National Guard on duty at Ft. Bragg. The gripes ranged from charges of poor food to inadequate equipment. Powell said he felt they were "minor and undisturbing."

Powell continued on to New Orleans for an executive committee meeting of the National Governors Conference. He is president of the conference and Friday said he would ask other governors to visit reservists and National Guard troops called to active duty because of the Berlin crisis.

The New Hampshire governor said he felt his visit to his home state unit was

"a definite morale booster," adding that "the men were obviously pleased I had taken this interest in them."

During his 4½-hour tour through the barracks Friday night he said he heard no complaints of a major nature.

A sergeant did complain to him, however, that there was a lack of maintenance equipment for servicing the 155 mm. howitzers, and that the food had been in short supply until the past couple of weeks.

Sec. Ribicoff Plans to Curb Relief Abuses

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff is expected to announce Monday 10 major administrative changes aimed at curbing abuses in the federal welfare program and at helping people leave relief rolls.

Details are a closely guarded secret but some of the changes are expected to be in the direction of increasing state responsibilities in the relief program. The administrative changes will be preliminary to legislative changes to be proposed next year.

Ribicoff has said he favors work relief as a means of rehabilitation. But he feels the question of federal participation in work relief is so important that Congress should express itself before there is a change.

Currently, no federal public-assistance funds may be used for work-relief purposes, under rulings dating back to the 1930s. Some advocates of work relief contend Ribicoff has administrative power to change the situation.

The secretary is believed to have given a clue as to the scope of the administrative changes when he recently told the American Public Welfare Association:

"Changes are needed, both large and small, and they must be made in two broad directions. First, they must be made to meet head on any abuses at all which exist in our welfare system—with practical solutions. Changes must be made to correct abuses . . . with fair solutions rather than heartless, nickel-saving schemes that cost more dollars in the long run.

"Second, and equally important, changes must be made to develop a new constructive approach: To make of public welfare a positive, productive force in our society, a force that helps people move off relief and into self-respecting and satisfying lives . . ."

"The very essence of our new and vital program will be full use of preventive and rehabilitative services, including, but not confined to, the provision of financial assistance," Ribicoff said.

However, at no point did he draw clear lines between steps he may take administratively and those which require legislation.

One study made for Ribicoff by George K. Wyman, a former deputy commissioner of Social Security, specifically found that among administrative changes the secretary could make are:

Permitting states to provide incentives for children and adults to accept employment by allowing retention of a portion of individual earnings for future identifiable needs.

Requiring states to provide intensive case-work services and to offer maximum preventive, protective and rehabilitative services for all family and children's cases involving proven money mismanagement, social maladjustment, illegitimacy, and behavior problems.

Encourage states to establish training and retraining programs for recipients with potential for self-support.

Require states to establish case-load diagnosis, management, supervision, and review methods.

Direct that all department statements of policy and program regulation be focused on the prevention and reduction of social and economic dependency.

Katharine Cornell Sails for Europe

NEW YORK (AP)—Katharine Cornell sailed Saturday for a European vacation and said "it's tough to take the first holidays alone."

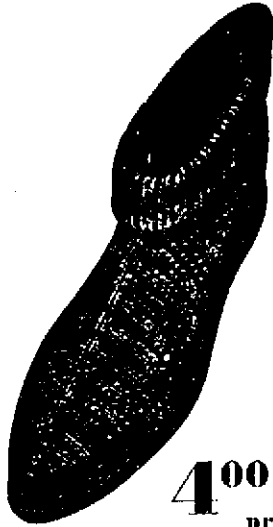

Her husband, producer Guthrie McClintic, died Oct. 29. They had been married 40 years. She said she did not want to spend the Christmas holidays alone at their New York home.

2 Veteran Fire Dept. Men Retire

Two Long Beach Fire Department captains with 61-years and 19-days experience between have retired—with just one regret.

"Leaving the best fire department in the country and the fine men who are on it."

Both captains, Donald C. Tyler, 1415 Loma Ave., and Robert W. Carroll, 12 W. 47th St., have identical plans—to travel in their trailers with their wives.

Capt. Tyler and his wife, Lila, plan to hunt and fish in this country and Capt. Carroll and his wife, Jean, plan to concentrate on fishing here and in Canada. Capt. Carroll also plans to indulge in another hobby, skin diving.

CAPT. TYLER was appointed a fireman July 16, 1929, was promoted to auto fireman April 16, 1942 and captain Aug. 16, 1942. He completed 32-years, 4-months service on the department.

Capt. Carroll was appointed fireman March 24, 1933 and from Oct. 12, 1942 until Dec. 10, 1945 served in the Seabees in the Aleutian Islands and the Pacific theater. On July 20, 1947 he was promoted to engineer and on Sept. 20, 1949 to captain. He served a total of 28-years, 8-months and 6-days on the department.

Fire Department engineer Jesse W. Recourt was named to succeed Capt. Carroll and engineer Lauren M. Peck succeeds Capt. Tyler.

BOTH RETIRED captains recalled oil fires as the most difficult to control and said the new fog nozzle used on fire hoses has helped to combat them.

Capt. Carroll said the worst fire he helped fight was the Richfield refinery fire in 1933. In that fire nine Richfield employees lost their lives in an explosion.

In a similar vein Capt. Tyler recalled the 1958 Hancock refinery fire in Signal Hill in which two Hancock men were killed.

Fire Chief Leonard V. Foster praised the ability and devotion to duty of the two captains, wished them well in their retirement and added "the department will miss them."

L.B. Man Wins $100 for Idea

Paul T. Berry, senior deputy probation officer in the Long Beach office of the County Probation Department, has been awarded a $100 check for a labor-time saving suggestion.

County Probation Officer Karl Holton made the presentation to Berry on behalf of the department. The prize suggestion was that all deputy probation officers carry pre-carboned forms of various types making it unnecessary for them to make time-consuming trips to the office from the field.

Holton said the suggestion is expected to save several thousand dollars annually in operation costs.

Berry lives at 7109 Premium St.

JFK Praises Kress Family for $50 Million Art Gifts

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 20-year project which has given away paintings and other art treasures costing more than $50 million was hailed by President Kennedy Saturday night as "an achievement of which America can be proud."

Kennedy sent a letter to a ceremony at the National Gallery of Art, marking the turning over of final documents covering the huge donation by the Samuel H. Kress Foundation to the National Gallery and to 18 other museums.

"The successful completion of your plan to make great works of art available to the public... is an achievement of which America can be proud," Kennedy said in a letter to Rush H. Kress of New York, president of the foundation and brother of its founder.

"This extraordinary contribution to the artistic resources of our country, unprecedented in scope, will be an enduring memorial to the industry, foresight and generosity of the Kress family and of the Samuel H. Kress Foundation."

CHIEF JUSTICE Earl Warren, chosen to preside at the ceremony in his capacity as chairman of the National Gallery's board of trustees, called the Kress donations "a landmark in the history of American philanthropy."

He added in prepared remarks: "As a result of the gifts which will be made here this evening millions of people will gain an insight into values that lie beyond the reach of time. "Each of us contemplating these achievements of human genius will feel renewed faith in the dignity of man and in the ultimate triumph of our humanistic ideals."

The Kress collection given away during the past two decades cost the foundation more than $50 million, but Director John Walker of the National Gallery says that "a valuation of the gift in terms of today's prices, staggers the imagination."

It was started by the late Samuel H. Kress, who quit a $25-a-month school teaching job in 1896 to found a chain of specialty stores which brought him a multimillion-dollar fortune.

No Labor-Management Crisis Seen in Study Group's Report

No crisis exists in labor-management relations today, an independent labor study group headed by Dr. Clark Kerr, president of the University of California, reported after a two-year study made public today.

There are, however, changes needed to improve the functioning of union organization and collective bargaining and to adapt these systems to new problems, the study found.

The 160-page report covering policies of government, unions and employers was made by an independent body financed by the Committee for Economic Development (CED) and is titled, "The kets where demand was weak"; "bidding up of salaries of managerial, technical and scientific personnel not covered by collective bargaining."

GOVERNMENT help to meet transitional problems created by automation is advocated but emphasis is put on the government's role in seeking improvement in the operations of the labor market and maintenance of high levels of employment.

In discussing the economic power of both labor and management, the report states it sees no harm in associations of employers so long as they "confine their attention to collective bargaining." The report opposes curtailment of use of "strike insurance" by employers as "little different from a union strike fund."

The study opposes payment of unemployment insurance to workers involved in a labor dispute and asks study of the financial impact of government policies on struck employers since these policies may sometimes mean that the employer does not bear the cost of the strike.

THE REPORT hit hard at labor organizations and corporations guilty of discrimination. Unions which discriminate should not be certified as exclusive bargaining agents, and employers so discriminating should not be given government contracts, the study declared.

Serving with Dr. Kerr in the study were Douglass V. Brown, Abraham V. Siegel and Robert M. Solow of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; John T. Dunlop and W. T. Elliot of Harvard University; David L. Cole, attorney and arbitrator of Paterson, N.J.; Albert Reese and George P. Schultz, University of Chicago; Philip Taft, Brown University; and George W. Taylor, University of Pennsylvania.

'Top Secret' of U.S. Told by Izvestia

By FREDERICK W. COLLINS

WASHINGTON—The Russians are now mad at the United States for a new reason.

As they view the scene from atop the Kremlin towers, they see the United States aiming to create a "world community."

They should have let sleeping dogs lie.

If they hadn't sounded off, the chances are very good the pursuit of this devilish purpose by the Washington government would have remained in the classification of top-secret material as far as the American people are concerned.

NOW that it has been called to American public attention by Izvestia, someone around here might think it smart to pick the idea up and run with it.

Particularly if the Russians don't like it. That makes it an okay idea, automatically.

To heighten their error, the Russians claim that this American purpose which they alone perceive is a new form of imperialism.

Obviously the news has not yet penetrated the Kremlin towers, which ought to be ivory, that all Americans nourish a latent nostalgia for things imperial. We apply the adjective "imperial" to one of our automobiles. We favor king-size cigarettes. A long series of plays called "The Age of Kings" appeared on our television screens. The Emperor Concerto is broadcast by any self-respecting good music station at least once a week.

ANY idea that (A) frets the Russian, and (B) opens vistas of imperial splendor is likely to sweep the country—if the country finds out about it.

This latest Russian tantrum is really very funny, in a cosmic sort of way, when sprayed with reality.

It is based upon two recent speeches—one by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the other by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

According to Izvestia which special reasons is almost the sole authority for the statement, Mr. Rusk suggested to the Academy of Political Science at New York that a world community could be based on present United States alliances such as the NATO, SEATO, CENTO, and such alphabetical groups.

VP LBJ told a banquet audience in New York that the central U. S. objective is to build a world community, meaning "a world of progress . . . a world of security . . . a world of interdependence."

THE JOKE is that the editor of Izvestia appears to have been the only one who caught these speeches, for reasons which in the context offer their own amusement.

The Rusk speech on Nov. 28, which ordinarily might have been carried in full text or generous excerpts by many American papers, was absolutely swamped the next morning by another story. That was President Kennedy's interview with the editor of Izvestia, who also happens to be Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law. Ironically, the part of the Rusk speech which did squeeze into the papers here had to do with four possible areas of negotiation with the Soviet Union. The editor of Izvestia seems to have muffed that part.

VICE President Johnson's disquisition on a world community, delivered the next night at New York, also got lost in the next morning's newspapers. And again the Russians were to blame. The Soviet representative at the United Nations, Valerian S. Zorin, walked out of the banquet because another part of Johnson's speech irked him. So, of course, the headlines and host of the space were taken up by that tasty item.

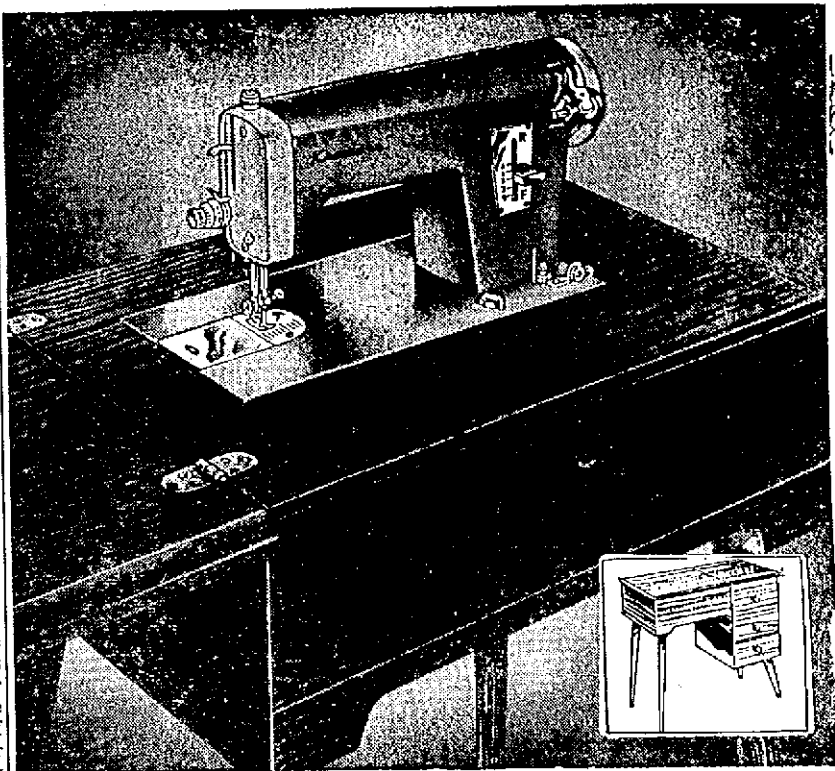

But now, thanks to the diligence of Izvestia, the Kennedy administration has been caught in its secret task of building a world community. The people of the United States have been duly warned. It only goes to show what a free press can accomplish—when it finally gets around to printing what Izvestia says is happening in the United States.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Russ May Invite JFK to Moscow

GENEVA (UPI)—President Kennedy might be invited to Moscow soon if the United States agrees on the need for a "joint understanding" with Russia on major cold war issues, Soviet sources hinted Saturday.

Within the past week, qualified Communist informants have indicated Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev now prefers direct Russo-American talks to any East-West foreign ministers' meeting on Berlin.

"The most important thing is for Washington and Moscow to achieve a joint understanding on the German question and disarmament. Other questions, such as Laos, are not very pressing," a Soviet source said Saturday.

Search for 28 Seamen Ends

MANILA (Sunday) (AP)—A sea and air search for 28 missing Chinese crew members of the Panamanian freighter Combined One, which sank in the stormy South China Sea, was called off late today. "They must be presumed dead," a U.S. Navy spokesman said.

Menzies Returned to Power

SYDNEY, Australia (Sunday) (AP)—The Conservative coalition government of Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies appeared today to have been returned to power for three more years in Saturday's national election.

But the Liberal-Country Party majority in the House of Representatives was reduced and the coalition apparently lost control of the Senate, the observers said on the basis of returns from key electorates.

Many of the 5.6 million ballots cast remained untallied when the count was suspended Saturday midnight, but Arthur A. Calwell, 65, the Labor Party leader, conceded defeat.

New Mexico A-Test Due Today

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP)—A nuclear "peace bomb" is set to explode at 10 a.m. today in a tunnel 1,200 feet deep 25 miles southeast of here.

The blast is a multi-purpose experiment exploring peaceful potentials for nuclear explosives, including using the earth as a chemical test tube.

"I'm optimistic for both successes and failures," said Dr. Edward Teller, an architect of the H-bomb, and an early advocate of trying to turn nuclear blast, heat and radiation to constructive purposes.

$350,000 Gem Theft in Bel-Air

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Burglars who jimmied a side door of the Bel-Air home of millionaire realtor Arnold S. Kirkeby stole $350,000 in precious gems, police said Saturday.

Detective Sgt. Frank Gravante called it "a well-planned and well-organized job." The theft occurred Friday night while the Kirkebys were attending a dinner party.

Brown News Releases Policy Told

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—All public information releases for the State Department of Water Resources must make reference to Gov. Edmund G. Brown, it was reported Saturday.

The San Diego Union said it had learned the memo had been issued by Frank Bragg, information officer for director William E. Warne, and gave instructions on "how the department's publicists should make apparent the governor's interest in all newsworthy matters pertaining to this department."

ARE WOMEN'S DRESSES TOO SHORT?

(Asked at Fourth Street and Pine Avenue.)

BETTY WALL, 147 W. 223rd St., Torrance, homemaker: When you can't sit down without showing your knees, it's too much.

EDNA PRINCE, 904 Island St., Wilmington, homemaker: Dresses are entirely too short. They don't do anything for you. Why wear something that doesn't do anything for you?

BOB RUSSELL, 2921 Delta Ave., receiving manager: You want my personal opinion? They're real nice.

REX TANNER, 4729 Hazelbrook Ave., stock clerk: Some are too long. Others are just about right—a little above the knee.

RONALD WAFFORD, 847 Raymond Ave., drug store floor manager: I think they're about right. Women should show their figures; they should wear the clothes to do it. That's what I tell my wife.

KATHLEEN SOLMUNDSON, 160-D Quincy Ave., receptionist: Some of them are too short—not all. Some people go to extremes, and the ones that shouldn't go to extremes, do.

CHARLEEN DOHLMAN, 3159 Oregon Ave., homemaker: Yes. Knees show—and they shouldn't.

Blood-Type Tags Seen of Little Use for Civilians

WASHINGTON (UP)—Tags identifying blood types would be of little use in treating civilian victims in a nuclear attack, the civil defense and public health officials believe. Officials said there has been no national program for issuing such tags, although this may have been done by local authorities in some areas.

A Public Health Service expert said, in answer to questions, that use of such tags for civilians would be of doubtful value for several reasons. He said that tags might accidentally be shifted from one person to another. Before any transfusion of blood was made, there should be the precautionary "cross match" and "compatibility" blood tests made of each victim, he added.

U.S.-Russia Arms Race Gains Momentum

By HARRY WILSON
SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The greatest arms race the world has ever seen gained momentum this week with no check in sight.

The Soviet Union announced its largest peacetime military budget in history—$14.740 billion—in the wake of U.S. plans to spend $50 billion in 1962.

But Moscow's smaller figure was not a true reflection of overall Russian military outlays. Other categories in its $88 billion general budget concealed defense spending.

For example, missile and space rocket projects were carried under a science tag. Defense plants and equipment came under economic expansion.

The United States is spending $47 billion on defense in the current fiscal year out of a $90 billion budget, and will step that up to $50 billion and perhaps more next year.

American officials said the United States and Russia actually were spending about the same amount on arms.

Moscow said piously that it was forced to raise military spending to counter the West's "aggressive" North Atlantic defense alliance (NATO). The truth is that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has balked at all disarmament proposals in a drive to outstrip American defense strength.

In the light of this and the Russian threat in Berlin, President Kennedy is determined to keep the United States out in front. A few weeks ago he said the United States had superior armed power and doesn't intend to be overtaken. Congress agreed and voted millions more for planes, missiles and manpower.

The Washington Post editorially summed up the situation as "a melancholy index to the state of world affairs—a dismal forecast of things to come" in terms of "mutual impoverishment and then mutual destruction."

The President put in a busy week, capped by announcements of visits to Venezuela and Colombia Dec. 16-17 to press his alliance for a progress program and for Berlin strategy talks with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in Bermuda Dec. 21-22.

He used an address to the National Manufacturers Association in New York to unveil a legislative plan to replace the reciprocal trade act with powers to permit him to lower tariffs. He said this would allow American products to compete in the new European Common Market and, together with the latter, build an extraordinary economic NATO to combat Communist trade inroads.

The President carried the same message to the AFL-CIO convention in Miami Beach and in each instance appealed for business and labor support. He warned of economic troubles for both unless the U.S. and the West keep pace with revolutionary changes in the trading world.

Kennedy said that what he was proposing was a new American trade initiative which will harness the marketing potential of the U.S. and the common market countries in a team "capable of pulling the full weight of our common military, economic and political aspirations." He said labor and management could play an important part by stabilizing wages and prices.

The NAM reacted with reserve until the program is spelled out. The AFL-CIO pledged its full cooperation. In Congress there was strong protectionist sentiment which bodes ill for the plan.

On other news fronts, Secretary Dean Rusk defended United Nations military action against rebellious President Tshombe's troops in secessionist Katanga province as necessary to save all the Congo from civil war and anarchy. He said the loss of life was regrettable but that the U.N. "must not be prevented from fulfilling its mandate." Tshombe charged the U.N. had become a tool of international communism.

aided and abetted by the United States.

The National Space Administration delayed until January plans to put a Mercury astronaut in orbit. This dashed hopes of matching Russian successes this year.

The Labor Department reported the first substantial improvement in the job picture in a year, with the number of persons out of work cut to 4 million. At the same time employment in November rose to 67.3 million.

United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson turned down a proposal by Illinois Democratic leaders that he try to unseat Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen in the 1962 election. The Senate has been Stevenson's ambition since he was twice defeated for the presidency.

But President Kennedy was reported to have offered him a stronger voice in foreign policy to stay where he is.

The council of the Organization of American States voted 14 to 2 to meet next month on whether to impose a trade embargo against Cuba. The action came after Cuban Premier Fidel Castro boldly proclaimed he was a Communist and that he had duped democratic nations into supporting his revolution.

In Washington the Communist Party of the United States pleaded innocent to an indictment charging it had failed to register as an agent of the Soviet government. Trial was set for Feb. 1.

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Deck the halls with boughs of holly, but make sure they're fireproof.

By doing so, explained State Fire Marshal Glenn B. Vance, you won't hear the jingle bells of a fire truck.

Vance said that flameproof Christmas trees and flameproofing chemicals for other decorations were easily available. Vance also suggested that parents choose toys that won't cause fire, electrical shock or an explosion.

Naples Residents Elect Officers

Officers and directors of the Naples Improvement Association will be elected at 8 p.m. Monday in the Naples School Auditorium, 5537 The Toledo.

Auto Makers Produce 162,695 Cars in Week

DETROIT (AP)—Ward's Reports show passenger car production last week will total 162,695 units and will run the year's total output to 5,087,255.

The total for the week is off slightly from the 164,334 cars built the previous week but well ahead of the 135,834 in the comparable week of 1960.

Ward's said 26 of the nation's 47 car assembly plants were working overtime Saturday including 14 of the 16 Ford plants.

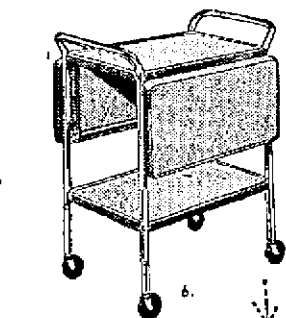

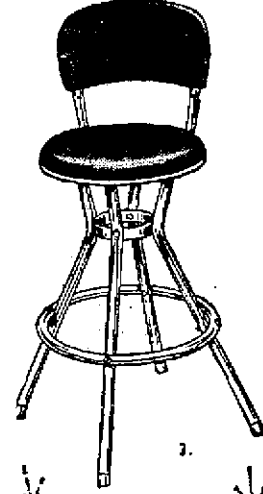

Truck production ran 27,357 units last week.

Does He Regret It Today?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Twenty-five years ago romance did what the centuries rarely could—toppled a King of England. Here's a review of the tense days that cost Edward VIII his crown that also asks two intriguing questions: Has the Duke of Windsor any regrets? And did he leave the throne willingly—or was he pushed?)

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Twenty-five years ago, on Dec. 11, a king-emperor paid an American woman one of the most magnificent compliments of modern times.

After nights and days of soul-searchings and wranglings with an astute and stern prime minister, King Edward VIII gave up his throne to marry Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson.

And now, on the eve of the abdication anniversary, an intriguing question has been asked here:

Did the duke freely abdicate—and thereby step down to the title of the Duke of Windsor—or was he pushed off his ancient throne

COINCIDENT with this theory, another and perhaps even more audacious question has been raised:

Why is the Duchess of Windsor still not allowed to share her husband's title?

Without exception, the wives of the other royal dukes carry the full royal tag.

Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express says the exclusion of the Duchess of Windsor after 25 years appears to be childish on the part of Buckingham Palace.

THE THEORY that the late Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin drove King Edward VIII into abdicating, comes from the distinguished historian-biographer, Lewis Broad.

In a new book, "The Abdication—A Re-appraisal" Broad offers clues to support the theory that Baldwin nudged Edward off his throne.

In his speech to the House of Commons on the abdication, Baldwin said the king told him:

"I am going to marry Mrs. Simpson and I am prepared to go . . ."

Then, explaining his own actions, Baldwin went on:

"My efforts during these last days have been directed in trying to help him (the king) make the choice which he has not made" (give up Mrs. Simpson and stay on as king).

BROAD THEN recalled that years afterwards, when he had retired, Baldwin told his official biographer:

"The only time I was frightened was when I thought he might change his mind."

In other words, Baldwin was frightened that the king might give up the woman he loved—and remain king.

Baldwin publicly insisted that he wanted Edward to remain on the throne.

BUT NOW, a quarter of a century later, a number of people are leaning towards the theory that the king threatened to abdicate, but didn't offer to.

They feel he put up a courageous fight to marry the American and remain king.

As interesting as this theory is, the king's love for the fascinating Baltimore-born Wallis, the twice divorced woman, contains the elements from which high drama is made.

EDWARD ALBERT Christian George Andrew Patrick David, the dashing Prince of Wales, first met Mrs. Simpson at a weekend house party near London in the winter of 1931.

He was a bachelor, blue-eyed, fair-haired and 37.

THEIR WEDDING DAY

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor on the steps of the Chateau de Candé at Monts, France, a few moments after the ceremony which made them man and wife on June 3, 1937.—(AP Photo.)

She was married to a London shipping magnate. She was witty, urbane, slim and highly attractive at the age of 35.

Striking up a conversation, the prince asked Mrs. Simpson if she, as an American, didn't find discomfort in Britain's lack of central heating.

"I'M SORRY, SIR," replied Mrs. Simpson, "but you have disappointed me."

"In what way?" asked the prince, pleasantly surprised at a woman, or anyone else for that matter, giving him anything but a sugary answer.

"Every American woman," she is reported to have replied, "is always asked that same question. I hoped for something more original from the Prince of Wales."

That was as far as the conversation went. But the prince was intrigued by her.

More and more they found themselves together at parties. Mrs. Simpson's husband was usually along too.

Learning about the divorce, and suspecting the king's interest in Mrs. Simpson, the prime minister had a talk with his sovereign.

None too delicately he suggested that Mrs. Simpson drop her divorce suit.

The king said in effect that Mrs. Simpson's divorce was no business of his.

BALDWIN didn't like it. In early November, the king's secretary, Maj. Alec Hardinge, told him the dam of press silence was about to break.

The secretary suggested that Mrs. Simpson should leave the country.

The king was outraged.

He told the woman he now loved very deeply that if the government was opposed to his marrying her, he was prepared to go.

She cautioned him against rash, quick action.

Baldwin called again.

He told the king that the British people would never tolerate Mrs. Simpson as queen.

THE FRIENDSHIP blossomed to the point that the Simpsons invited the prince to their apartment in London.

He accepted, had a good time and began dropping in on them.

In his own account of their friendship, he has said:

"And then one day she began to mean more to me in a way she did not perhaps comprehend."

By the summer of 1936, the Prince of Wales was king, his father having died.

He and Mrs. Simpson were truly in love.

In the summer of 1936, he asked her—and a number of other friends—to accompany him on an Adriatic cruise.

THE PACE of romance quickened.

By this time he knew he wanted to marry her. The question was—how.

As king he was the titular head of the Church of England, which doesn't recognize divorce.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Simpson started divorce proceedings against her husband, accusing him of misbehavior with another woman.

The king replied that he did.

THAT WAS where he made his first big tactical mistake.

By asking for their advice, he automatically bound himself to accept it.

At last, Baldwin had him in his pocket.

From then on the king didn't have a chance. The pressure against him stiffened. It became almost unbearable.

The suggestion of a morganatic marriage was turned down.

Now feeling very secure in his struggle with the king, Baldwin offered him three choices:

Abandon Mrs. Simpson. Marry against the government's advice—which would have brought on a resignation of the government and a true constitutional crisis.

Abdication.

RECALLING the meeting years later in his memoirs ("A King's Story"), the former monarch said:

"Never taking his eyes off me, he went on to say that if I would not abandon the project (marriage), there was really no choice for me but to go."

"Believe me, sir," Baldwin is said to have replied, "it is my sincere hope—and the hope of the cabinet—that you will remain our king."

Edward told his beloved Wallis that the prime minister had left him no choice but to give her up or abdicate.

The ex-king and his closest friends here maintain that she replied that no matter what happened, he must not surrender the throne.

But the pressure became too crushing. The king wearied of it all.

He decided to abdicate.

It was a gloomy night when the king broadcast his abdication message to the nation and the world.

The scene was Windsor Castle, in the leafy countryside 20 miles west of London.

"At long last," he began, "I am able to say a few words of my own."

He spoke slowly and with great dramatic effect.

"I have found it impossible to carry on the heavy burden of responsibility and to discharge my duties as king as I would wish to do without the help and the support of the woman I love."

"The woman I love . . ."

THE KING told his premier that he was determined to wed the American and if the people and the government wouldn't accept her, that he was prepared to go.

That seemed to shake the prime minister.

The question of a morganatic marriage was raised.

This meant the wife would be legally wed but would not have royal rank and any children could not succeed to the throne.

Baldwin replied that he did not think he could get such legislation through parliament. He added that anyway, he would have to ask the premiers of the dominions—Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa.

The prime minister looked hard at the king.

"Do you really want me to?" he asked.

THE PHRASE was cracked out in radio and telegraphic messages across the world. . . It made thousands of headlines in many languages.

The king stepped down, saying:

"And now we all have a new king. I wish him, and you, his people, happiness and prosperity with all my heart. God bless you all. God bless the king."

Late that night, cold and almost alone, he sailed in the rain for France—and to marry the woman he loved.

Today, he is 67. She is 65. Not long ago he said he had never regretted his decision, and with becoming charm—at which he was always a master—he added: "I am a very happy man."

Heavy Rain Perils X15 Altitude Try

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI)—X15 project officials hope today the rocket plane could make a record altitude flight to 47 miles high this week—weather permitting.

But heavy rains on the lake beds where the record-setting craft must land have darkened the outlook—not only for this week, but if they keep up, the rest of the year.

Forty-year-old Joe Walker—like prime astronaut John Glenn, the oldest man in the program—was tabbed to make the difficult flight to 250,000 feet.

IF HE succeeds, both the speed and altitude goals set by the X15's builders will have been reached this year. Air Force Maj. Robert White, who holds the current rocket plane altitude mark of 41 miles above earth bettered the speed goal this fall by flying 4,093 miles an hour.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) officials said that if it appeared the rains were continuing, the two X15's now flying would be taken down for check-outs and modifications.

If muddy lake beds do force a prolonged delay, officials said, the altitude flight might not be scheduled until mid-January. Officials have not yet scheduled the flight for next week—waiting to see, if the mud there now dries up.

WORKMEN at Edwards are now finishing one modification on the stubby research plane to eliminate a danger that cropped up on both of White's record flights.

Change in Name of Osteopathic College Sought

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The College of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons has requested permission to change its name to the California College of Medicine.

College President W. Valentine Henley said the formal request was forwarded to the California secretary of state in Sacramento following action of the college's board of trustees.

The trustees voted the change in line with action taken by the osteopathic and medical professions toward uniting the two schools of medicine in California.

SHOP MONDAY THRU SATURDAY NIGHT TILL CHRISTMAS

SOMETIMES my unofficial reporters come through with some pretty vivid stories. Like the woman who was just on the telephone. Her report:

She saw a young man walking on the sidewalk at Seventh St. and Long Beach Blvd. in Long Beach.

A woman came along in one of those electric sidewalk cars. She was going too fast to stop, hit the young man amidstships. He somersaulted right across the driver's lap and landed in a heap on the sidewalk, pens and other items spilling from his pockets.

He picked himself up ruefully and looked indignantly at the sidewalk car operator. She giggled boisterously at his discomfiture and went riding off, possibly looking for other pins to knock down.

My informant didn't like any of this. "Fine way to show the Christmas spirit!" she snorted.

A BETTER way to show it: Leave your porch light on foggy nights.

Several foggy night drivers have mentioned this to me as an appeal worth making. The lights serve as guiding beacons to the lonely wayfarer trying to steer a machine through the soupy blanket. And they also identify your house for him. Otherwise, he might come driving right through your front wall.

GREAT showing for the Long Beach Community Chest was made by the officers and men of the USS Larson, a Navy destroyer based here.

They gave a total of $1255, averaging more than $5 per man, and came out tops in contributions among all destroyers. One of the groups on the Larson averaged $5.82 per man.

As I was saying, if Long Beach civilians would do as well by their own worthy agencies as the service men do, we'd never have any trouble making quota.

RECENT item here quoted Phil Hattery, business man, in a complaint that the Long Beach meter maids don't give any warning noises when they're about to tag a fellow's car. The maids evidently read the paper. They've gotten Hattery half a dozen times since the item appeared, never once making any noise. Maybe he'd better hunt up a parking lot.

Another reader reports an encounter with a meter maid. He said he parked on L.B. Blvd. but found he had no nickel for the meter. He went into a nearby shop to get change. When he came back, a "girl in blue" was just writing up a ticket for him.

He complains that she simply handed him the ticket when he put out his hand, and walked away with a smile. He thinks that she should have withheld the ticket when she saw he had change for the meter.

But he didn't tell her he had gone in to get change. I think the maid is innocent of unfair tactics. If our friend let himself get tongue-tied, he has only himself to blame. On the face of it, he was parked in violation, and coming up late to make amends (as he appeared to be doing) hardly lets one off the hook. You ought to speak up, man.

He was just darned lucky the maid smiled at him.

(And if that doesn't get me in good with the gals in blue, what will?)

DRIFTWOOD—Understand long-windedness is getting its second wind. A certain public official, they tell me, nearly bored a big audience to tears with a long dissertation when he was expected to give only a brief word of greeting.

Traffic Hearings Just, Says Judge

By DON MADDOCK

Many U.S. traffic courts may be a disgrace, but not the one in Long Beach, presiding Municipal Court Judge Lyman Sutter said Saturday.

Judge Sutter took exception to an article in the Parade section of last Sunday's Independent Press-Telegram. The article pointed out many miscarriages of justice in courts across the country which mete punishment to traffic-law violators.

The courts were accused of being overcrowded and inefficient, of ignoring or flouting basic constitutional rights of offenders, disregarding their duty to re-educate defendants and fostering contempt for law and order.

"I don't know about courts in other parts of the country, but none of those charges applies here," said Judge Sutter.

LONG BEACH Traffic Court is part of Municipal Court. Last year it won an American Bar Association award for "outstanding improvement of practices and procedures."

The court was honored for its constant effort to expedite processing of traffic-law violators while assuring each defendant his day in court—if he wants it.

Persons who know they're guilty and wish to save time are allowed to post (and forfeit) bail on all but the most serious charges, rather than being forced to waste time through a useless trip to a courtroom, said Judge Sutter.

UNLIKE MANY major cities, Long Beach allows parking-law violators to mail in their fines. The back of each parking ticket carries the bail schedule so offenders can tell easily how much is due.

Council's Calendar

City Council agenda items for Tuesday:

Notice by Signal Hill of a Dec. 19 hearing to decide whether to designate Willow Street, between 10th and 11th streets, as a one-way street, prohibiting traffic between California and Temple avenues and during peak traffic hours, between California and Atlantic avenues. All States Society activity report calling attention to inadequacy of present building.

Final map, for approval, of Tract 2449, east of Atlantic Avenue and south of 70th Street.

Ordinance committee recommendation for approval of new building permit fee schedule.

Board of Supervisors request for Council views on whether to hold special election on public reaction to need for fallout shelters.

Ordinance, for adoption, rezoning property south of East Second Street on Naples Plaza at Davies Bridge approach from 9-1 to P (public use).

Informal presentation of 2 p.m. by George Hill, Highway Division district engineer, on proposed realignment of Riverside (Artesia) Freeway from Orange Avenue to west city limits.

Award of contract to Hale Young Ford Co. for 40 medium-light-duty trucks; to Glen E. Thomas for 24 light-duty trucks.

Proposed permit with Henry Saxon for use of park property for entrance and exit to proposed apartment building between Ocean and Seaside boulevards at Atlantic Avenue.

Resolution authorizing contract with state for establishment of alcoholic rehabilitation program in Long Beach.

The court's Traffic Bureau, headed by Robert N. Howard, receives 400 such letters daily.

Every American's constitutional rights—such as the right to trial by jury and to be confronted by his accusers—are posted conspicuously in the bureau.

EACH JUDGE reads those rights at the start of every court session to those who choose, or must, go to court.

Nine of every 10 who appear in court plead guilty. Each is allowed to explain the circumstances fully.

Where there are mitigating circumstances, suspended sentences and even dismissals are common.

Those who plead innocent can choose a jury or court trial. Long delays are unknown.

A DEFENDANT can get a court trial within 10 days, or submit his case to a jury within three or four weeks.

If he selects a court trial, he may name the weekday which is the most convenient for him. He also can choose to appear at 11 a.m., 2 p.m. or 3 p.m.

Last month, 20 per cent of those who went to trial were acquitted.

"We've tried to make it as convenient to the violator as possible," Judge Sutter commented.

"WE TRY to treat our traffic as just as important as any

Prisk Honorary '62 ARC Drive Chairman

William F. Prisk, long time civic leader and former publisher of the Press-Telegram, last week was appointed honorary chairman of the 1962 Long Beach Red Cross campaign for members and funds.

In making the appointment, John Munkholland, Red Cross Chapter chairman, said, "Bill Prisk has faithfully served this community in many untold ways but none more dramatic than his personal contributions through the Long Beach Red Cross. His term of service dates back 52 years to the time of the original formation of the Long Beach Chapter of the American National Red Cross.

"He presently holds the position of honorary member of the board of directors for the chapter. His acceptance of this new post clearly demonstrates his dedication to community service and his prime concern for the welfare of his fellow citizens," said Munkholland.

RECEIVING his honorary appointment at a special Red

Cross board meeting, Prisk said, "It is with deep appreciation that I accept this appointment as honorary chairman for the 1962 Red Cross campaign for members and funds. Having been associated with the Long Beach Red Cross for over 52 years and seen the many fine things they have done for our community, I deem it a great privilege to once again be able to offer my services in the Red Cross cause."

"I am looking forward with great anticipation to the next 52 years of association with the Long Beach Red Cross," Prisk said.

The 1962 campaign, which will begin on March 1, will include the areas of Long Beach, Lakewood, Signal Hill, Artesia, Bellflower, Paramount, Avalon, and Dominguez.

The Long Beach Microwave Society will elect officers for 1962 at the meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Bayshore Public Library, Second Street and Bayshore Avenue.

the Henderson brothers are immortal for bringing intellect to a field that had a world of rhythm and "damn little sense."

Fletcher, Horace and their sister, Irma, were the children of Fletcher Henderson Sr. and his wife Ozie. The father was a classical pianist, taught all his children in that field.

Despite that, Fletcher Jr. struck out for New York to become a chemist.

IN NEW YORK, he soon fronted a band. Such men as young Louis Armstrong played for him—often as second cornet.

Trailing his brother, Horace went to Wilberforce University, in Ohio, in 1937, and again followed his brother in the band business. He organized "Horace Henderson and His Legions" to play for summer casinos, soon hit the "big time" at Gene Goldkette's Graystone Ballroom in Detroit.

BROTHER Fletcher kept sending Horace arrangements, and both brothers got interested in this field of music. When Fletcher retired from the bandstand to write for Benny Goodman, Horace moved into the Fletcher band as its pianist.

During World War II, on a 30-day tour of Army camps, Horace came to California, liked it and stayed. For two years he was arranger and pianist for Lena Horne, served as arranger for the Armed Forces radio service, did the same for Billy Williams—"all his music is from my current library."

HORACE Henderson is a quiet, scholarly bandleader who writes the type of music that enables his musicians to appear as though they are in the throes of abandon.

His music, however, preserves the "beat."

"I always watch people when they come into a dance hall," he says. "If they don't feel that beat right away, they don't feel like dancing. They drift away."

"The beat has to be there, if music is for people."

His arrangements, for such bands as Charley Barnett, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey and Jimmy Lunceford, emphasize his point: "Keep the beat."

MUSIC HAS taken Horace half way around the world.

"I just had a nice vacation in Europe. You know, I ran into Don Byas and June Richmond in Paris."

"The last time I saw Louis (Armstrong) was in the airport at Denver. His plane was going one way, mine another..."

"I might not have gone back into the band business if Lena Horne hadn't decided to go to Cuba for a vacation. She got married, and I couldn't wait for her honeymoon to be over. So I started a small combo, just to keep eating, and it went over big..."

"I just counted the other day. I belong to four musicians' locals—New York, Chicago, Denver and Los Angeles."

HENDERSON has been married twice. One marriage created controversy

BELTING THE BLUES

Reena Sands, vocalist with Horace Henderson's new "big band," sings blues numbers with a bouncing beat—an ingredient the bandmaster insists is essential to popular music.

'Y' Doubles Capacity at Mountain Camp

Winterization of facilities at Camp Oakes, the Long Beach YMCA's mile-high mountain retreat near Big Bear, will increase its cold-weather accommodations by 50 per cent. The camp presently can take care of 45 winter visitors. The new accommodations will be ready by next winter.

The local YMCA Board of Management's announced the plans at the annual meeting.

Highlight of the meeting was the re-election of Max J. Durham as board chairman for the ensuing year. Ray F. Berhower was elected vice chairman, Gene Dreckman, secretary, and William J. Harbert, treasurer.

The site for Camp Oakes, in a primitive forest and meadow area, was a gift to the Long Beach YMCA from Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Oakes of San Francisco. The camp opened in 1958.

DURING THE summer it is the scene of a 10-week camping session which is attended by youngsters belonging to the local YMCA's five branches.

Summer camp facilities accommodate a maximum of 120 kids plus 19 members of the summer staff and as many as 45 counselors. This is the big feature of a year-around program which, during the past 12 months attracted a total of more than 2,600 different campers.

The Camp Oakes program is self sustaining. The camp operates under a special charter as a member of the National YMCA's camp program, with its own executive secretary, Al Holladay. The facility also holds membership in the American Camping Association.

Present winterization work at Camp Oakes is part of a long-range expansion program designed to double its present cold weather potential, Holladay said.

County Contracts for City Services Deserve Scrutiny

COUNTY SUPERVISOR Frank G. Bonelli has practically invited the independent cities to protest the continued increase in county personnel and payrolls at a time when territory and population of unincorporated areas are shrinking.

Sheriff Peter Pitchess touched off a sour reaction from Bonelli by asking for 25 additional employees—mostly deputies—despite the fact that recent annexations by Whittier and El Monte have absorbed some 40,000 residents of formerly unincorporated territory. Both cities handle their own police duties.

PITCHESS EXPLAINED that his department is understaffed and, further, he needs the extra personnel to handle traffic patrol work formerly discharged by the state in the contract cities. The county will recover from the contract cities the payroll cost of the added employees, according to Pitchess. L. S. Hollinger, the county's chief administrative officer, agrees with the sheriff.

But Bonelli is still unconvinced. He remarked that the independent cities "will blow the whistle on county government if we do not make corresponding reductions in the cost of county government under such circumstances as these large annexations." The matter is still pending before the Board of Supervisors.

WE ARE NOT prepared to take sides on the issue of the sheriff's request. It would be irresponsible to suggest that the contract cities (or unincorporated territory) should get along with substandard police protection—if they are paying their way fully under the various service agreements with the county.

But this is the question that worries officials and taxpayers in the independent cities. Are the contracts equitable in all respects? Are they being kept up to date so that the county taxpayers who live in independent cities are not paying part of the cost?

IF SO, why can't county personnel and payrolls be reduced as the unincorporated territory diminishes? Supervisor Bonelli also is thinking along those lines, as demonstrated by his comment: "If we don't face up to the problem of continually adding personnel, our payroll of 40,275 county employees will continue to pyramid."

County administrative officials say they can prove the service contracts are self-sustaining. The contract cities take the same position. We are not for promoting civil war between the two categories of cities in this county. But neither side should object to an independent and impartial study to develop the facts. It would also help if the study is brought up to date with each new annexation or incorporation.

Opinions Differ on Future Crop Needs

By ROBERT E. LEE and WILLIAM BROOM

WASHINGTON—U.S. officials in Asian posts have reported to Washington that Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman made an excellent impression on his recent trip. One U. S. aide in Pakistan said the former Minnesota governor's winning personality and frank approach went over in a big way with Pakistani officials and also the public. He won rave notices in the press.

Back home, however, Freeman is up to his elbows in problems. A chief one, how to plan future agricultural production, is also among the most complicated, as illustrated by this:

The other day Freeman received two reports on the food needs of the American people in the next two decades. One, from a congressional committee, estimated that if the population increase continued as predicted, the nation would need 50 million more acres of farmland by 1980. The other, an Agriculture Department study, said technology will have improved so much by 1980 that we'll need 80 million fewer acres of farmland than now.

ONE INDICATION of the Soviet Union's new "peace offensive" is the speed with which Russian Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov solicited and accepted an invitation to speak at the National Press Club. Menshikov, who is known as "Smiling Mike," is as adroit as Khrushchev at turning the charm on and off. When the Kremlin signals to turn it off Washington doesn't see much of Menshikov. But when orders come to turn it on, Menshikov starts showing up almost everywhere, exuding amiability.

A couple of weeks ago

FREEMAN

Menshikov sent word he was available in case the club would like to have him address one of its famous luncheon sessions. The club wrote the ambassador Nov. 27 to invite him for Dec. 11. Two days later—a near record for any speaker—Menshikov accepted.

AS THE presidential special train returned from the Army-Navy football game last weekend, President Kennedy noticed that Undersecretary of Navy Paul B. Fay wasn't taking part in the post-game banter. Fay was laboring over a sheaf of papers, and told the President that he was drafting a speech to be given the following Monday.

"What's the subject?" asked the President.

"Leadership," said Fay.

The President then sat down and quickly roughed out an outline of the speech within a few minutes, enabling Fay to savor Navy's triumph on the playing field.

Pentagon Snowed by 18,000 Appeals for Service Delay

WASHINGTON—There has been a run on crying towels at the Pentagon for reservists who want to get out of active duty. Some have difficulty, legitimate cases. But the most cries have come from men who missed the past two wars, then signed up in the reserves or National Guard to avoid the peacetime draft.

Now that their numbers have been called, they are howling about "hardship." More than 18,000 appeals for deferments and postponements have swirled down like autumn leaves upon the Pentagon.

NO "HARDSHIP CASE" has received more political endorsements than that of David Shuirmann, 26-year-old owner of Radio Station KSFE in Needles, Calif.

Except for his training, he not only has escaped active duty but has been deferred from the draft because of his reserve status.

Yet he carried his campaign, first for a deferment, then for a 90-day postponement, all the way from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers to the White House. On the Republican side, California Sen. Thomas Kuchel added his political influence.

Two days after Shuirmann was ordered to active duty, he telephoned the Air Force Reserve Records Center and asked for a deferment. He argued that his radio station, as part of the conelrad system, was vital to defense.

He was politely told, however, that he could be excused only for death, illness or injury.

A WEEK later, he wrote a letter to Secretary of the Air Force Eugene Zuckert requesting a 90-day postponement. This was turned down too, with a reminder about his duty to his country.

But Shuirmann didn't give up; he got the town's leading citizens to write to the Pentagon in his behalf. Letters arrived from the Needles Rotary Club, Needles Lions Club and Local 383 of the Locomotive Engineers. The engineers were joined, too, by the Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Local 237.

Finally, the political guns were brought into action. Sen. Kuchel fired a telegram to the Air Force about the importance of Station KSFE to the national defense. The White House was also alerted, reportedly by California Democrats.

Secretary of Defense McNamara's top assistant, Adam Yarmolinsky, was obliged to review Shuirmann's file and report to the White House.

The young radioman succeeded in stirring up a lot of political smoke. But last month he reported for active duty with the 162nd Fighter Squadron at Springfield, Ohio—on schedule.

BIGGEST government competition of the year was that of 140 advertising agencies to handle U. S. tourist advertising abroad. Most of the top ad agencies of the nation submitted ideas. The top winner, as finally selected by Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges, was Ogilvy, Benson & Mather. They will handle the advertising camaign in England, France and Germany. Significantly, David Ogilvy is British.

All sorts of pressure was brought by individual congressmen for other ad agencies, but a Britisher was finally selected, partly because of his experience in handling the travel campaign for Puerto Rico and the British government. His exhibits were photos of beautiful, quiet scenes in the U.S.A. which the average European never heard about.

Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osburn, the agency which F.D.R. used to rib, came in as second choice and will handle U.S. advertising in Italy. Secretary Hodges' boys picked BBD and O despite the fact that they are the official ad agents for the Republican National Committee and contributed $5,000 to elect Ike in 1956.

LANGUAGES in the News
By Charles F. Briff and Robert Strumpfen-Dante
A recent international race at Laurel, Md., had as entries horses from five foreign countries, including two Russian horses named Zabeg (zah-byeg) and Irtysh (eer-TYSH). Here are some useful phrases for international racing enthusiasts to try on bookies or others at future meets:
Spanish: Cual es el favorito? (kwahl ehs ehl fah-voh-REE-toh) "Who is the favorite?"
German: Er hat Reugeld gezahlt (ehr haht ROY-gelt geh-TSAHLT) "He's been scratched."
Russian: Pashli! (posh-LEE) "They are off!"
French: Qui mene? (kee-menn) "Who is ahead?"
And returning to the Laurel meet, which the Russian horses did not win, here is what the other horses might have said to Zabeg and Irtysh, after the race, if, of course, they could speak Russian:
Vas Soshliut v'sibir za tohto vi proigrati? "Will you be sent to Siberia for losing?"
To which they might have truthfully answered: M ib'yeyz tovo tam jivim. "We live there anyway."

QUESTIONS, ANSWERS

Homestead Law History

Q. How did the Homestead Laws originate? R. T. A. The Republic of Texas entered the Union on December 29, 1845, under the conditions (1) that she keep her unappropriated and vacant land; (2) that she might divide herself into no more than five states; and (3) that the United States should settle all foreign boundary questions. Texas was the only state which kept ownership of the public lands, and this resulted in a separate general land office, in a state university with a high endowment, and in separate land laws unique to Texas. The practice of donating land to settlers under Homestead Laws began in the Republic of Texas, and was later adopted by the United States.

SOME 20 YEARS removed from the USC backfield, Joe Shell probably could still jump and click his heels twice in the air.

That's an unconservative gesture however and Joe didn't do it here Friday when he spoke before Republican Associates, Long Beach Advisory Board. But the nip-up was in his eyes.

He was telling Assembly colleague Bill Grant and other table mates that Jim Copley had assured him that Richard Nixon would not get a primary endorsement from the Copley chain papers in the June 1962 gubernatorial primary.

"Does that mean you'll get the endorsement?" I asked Shell.

"I always go after these things in two parts," Shell answered. "Step No. 1 is to get the assurance that somebody else won't be endorsed. I haven't got to Step No. 2."

"Isn't it logical that you would be the likely one to get the endorsement if Nixon doesn't?"

Mr. Shell's nod indicated he thought it would indeed be logical.

Now, for any but the Copley press to disengage from Nixon in the primary is fathomable. But remember that this empire provided Mr. Nixon with press secretary Herb Klein. And remember you had to hold a copy of the San Diego Union up to a strong light to get any news about JFK during the 1960 campaign.

Abandonment of Nixon, if it is the fact that Shell asserts, is however, not as illogical as might appear. Because if there's anything the Copley empire admires more than a Nixon, it's something more conservative. Shell is.

SHELL'S TELLING of the tale, with undisguised satisfaction, included what he obviously felt to be a development of separate but equal significance—the fact that the San Diego Union told Klein about a month ago to come home from the Nixon camp and tend to his editor's job.

Of course it's possible the Copley group will bypass any primary endorsement in deference to its recent great romance with

Nixon. Shell says he's sure the papers would endorse Nixon in the general election if he happens to win the primary. This is understatement in the best tradition of the conservative mind.

Until Pat Brown declares himself officially in the race and starts to make campaign speeches under that sanction, he could do worse than let Joe Shell do his work for him against Richard Nixon.

The Republican national committeeman for California, Joe Martin, likes Nixon—even for publication. It provokes Shell to bittersweet ambivalence, like this:

"I asked Joe what his position would be with regard to the candidates before his election as committeeman. He told me he would be impartial. I could have blocked his election at that time. We've gone round and round over this. We're still the best of friends."

I gather from this that Shell has the utmost regard for Martin but if he steps on a land mine soon, that's okay too.

SPEAKING OF VIOLENCE, Joe made it quite a day here Friday when he virtually offered to throw himself in front of a speeding train or submit to some similar coup de grace if only the state's voters would give him a four-year stay of execution, to be spent in the bare corner room at Sacramento with only bread, water and blue pencil.

Joe says he could blue pencil California budgets to return California to the forefront of states of business opportunity from its waxing image as a welfare state—a state just one percentage point removed from the 35 per cent taxation brink which has historically separated the free enterprise men from the socialist goat.

BUT ONCE the goat is dead—in 1966—the man who killed him is also dead politically, Shell says. So any man who intends to use the office of governor with any intent of building his stature for a political future is not going to be able to do the ruthless budget cutting job that has to be done.

Even an accomplished cat like Nixon must entertain some suspicion of despair with his lives being threatened by murderous thunder from his left and from (the most unkindest cut of all) his right.

Says U.N. Caused Congo's Bloodshed

EDITOR:

We talk out of the left side of our mouth about fighting communism and send planes to The Congo to help the Reds kill off the anti-Communists. Why not let the Reds do their own fighting? If, as we say, we do not want communism, why are we helping them in The Congo, Cuba (we buy their tobacco) and nothing is done by the U.N. to free the colonies of Russia in Europe.

If any whites have any rights in The Congo, it is not the Reds. If colored people have rights in the country in which they were born (this one), then the Belgians who were born in The Congo are also natives of The Congo and as such are entitled to fight for their own country, which would be The Congo. Why turn it over to anyone?

The U.N. started the conflagration in The Congo and is responsible for the blood bath there. Too many people are interfering in things that are none of their business all over the world. The U.N. is taking over the clothing of a dictator, a wolf in sheep's clothing, in the name of peace. Peace has become a dirty word.

What did the women of America give their husbands and sons for in two world wars?

Won't Patronize Sunday Business

EDITOR:

I have thought considerably about the problem of what to do about doing business on Sunday. I have come to a very satisfactory conclusion. This is it.

I, being a Christian, will not patronize a store that holds business hours on the Lord's Day.

I have spent a lot of money in the past month, and it all went to businessmen who have consistently refused to open their doors on Sunday.

Since I have reached this decision there has come into my neighborhood a food market that is closed on Sundays.

Need New Tactics for Peace in Congo

WALTER LIPPMANN

THE BLOODY business in Katanga dramatizes the grave issue which is now before the United Nations.

The issue is whether it shall revert to being merely "a conference machinery," as Dag Hammarskjold put it, or shall be also a tentative venture in international government.

The intervention of the U. N. as law and order collapsed in the newly independent Belgian Congo was a bold attempt to fill a dangerous vacuum.

When the intervention was decided upon, there was no visible alternative to multiple intervention by the various powers concerned, which included not only Belgium, France and Great Britain but also the Soviet Union and the United States. However badly the U. N. intervention has gone, it probably will be said in retrospect that the alternative would have been much worse.

NEVERTHELESS, the intervention has worked badly, and the reason is that it has never had the support of the great powers. The U. N. is not a world government. It is and always has been an association of national governments in which the most powerful ones have a veto on action. They have a recognized and legalized veto because in fact they have the power to obstruct decisively.

This veto, which means that the U. N. can act only with the unanimous consent of the great powers, is the inner principle of the U. N.

Thoughts
And they were very sorrowful, and began to say to him one after another, Is it I, Lord?—Matthew 26:22.

More sorrow, which weeps and sits still, is not repentance. Repentance is sorrow converted into action; into a movement toward a new and better life.—Marvin R. Vincent.

If this is the way it is, then we shall all of us have to face the problem of how to contrive in the unworkable situation in The Congo something that will work. It is not easy to see what that could be, and it is not being made any easier for the responsible powers by the grand abstainers in Moscow and in Paris.

EXCELLENT CAST IN NEW SHOW AT MAGNOLIA

Kathy Davis Fine in 'Lady in Dark'

Kathy Davis is a great actress.

She proves it again as she plays Liza Elliott, the confused fashion magazine editor in "Lady in the Dark," which opened this weekend at the Magnolia Theater. She demonstrates an amazing depth of understanding and breadth of talent in a difficult part which calls for a wide variety of styles. In each she is superb.

For instance, in one scene she plays a high school girl disappointed in her first important date. With an artfulness so sure that it never shows, she creates a real high school girl and conveys her agony completely. Gesture, tone of voice, general movement all blend to bring alive a young, sensitive girl easily hurt by life's inevitable cruelties.

But in another scene, she is a brassy, sexy stripper who recounts the saga of Jenny, the girl who would make up her mind. The high school girl has entirely disappeared. In still another scene she is the efficient woman executive, with no hint of Jenny left. And so on through a number of roles. Never in any one of her scenes is she anything less than wonderful.

The variety of roles Miss Davis is asked to play arises out of the nature of the show. "Lady in the Dark" concerns the various steps in the process of psychoanalysis of Liza Elliott.

"Lady in the Dark," despite its musical sequences, is not a musical comedy in the usual sense, but a serious play with music. Moss Hart wrote the play, Ira Gershwin the lyrics, and Kurt Weill the music. The songs and dances are confined to the dream sequences, where they emphasize the significant events in the analytic probing. The music is thus organic and not just ornamental.

In both the musical and dramatic scenes Miss Davis has a good deal of competent help. Among a cast of actors, singers, and dancers too large to list here, a number stand out as especially capable. Dave Roberts, in his best performance to date, plays the psychoanalyst who is helping Liza to find herself. Madelon Annable and Vi Coulter are two of Liza's female associates on her magazine.

Keith Laing doubles as magazine photographer on the magazine and ringmaster in the circus dream. He is very good in both roles. Ed Skillman plays the advertising manager skillfully, and Bill Dusablon plays Liza's lover. Ron Hallmark is Randy Curtis, the movie star, Risa Burk and Bobbie Miller portray Liza as a child.

General director of these plus all the other singers and dancers was James Brittain, assisted by Joan Strickland. William Helden fashioned the dances, and Jan Runolfsson and Dan Cariago provided music and musical direction. Dick Hunter designed the sets.

Obviously, "Lady in the Dark" is a big show. On opening night it was also a sprawling, loosely knit show, with far too much time wasted in unnecessary scene changes. It had not yet jelled into the smooth production it promises to be for the rest of the 22-performance run.

However, smooth or rough it has Kathy Davis, and that alone is enough. The rest of the show is only accompaniment.

Reservations are still available for weekend performances. Call the Magnolia Theater any time. Curtain is the usual 8:30.

How to Create Christmas Tree

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — How do you make a Christmas tree? First, take a 60-foot pole, attach 6,636 pounds of reinforced steel rods, loop the rods with 11,025 feet of wire and drape on 10,000 pounds of cedar branches.

For decoration, add 3,000 lights, 120 balls, 60 bells, 400 yards of garland, 200 yards of foil and 100 yards of red plastic ribbons.

That's how Parks Director Bob Frazer told his workmen to make the annual community Christmas tree for downtown Alamo

Torrance Man's Car Just Misses Dive off Bluff

A Torrance man narrowly escaped serious injury when his car went out of control on Ocean Boulevard Saturday, ran over the curb and crashed into a fence.

Officers said Raymond J. Anderson, 2519 Arlington Ave., lost control of his vehicle in the 3200 block and almost plunged off the high bluff above the ocean.

Anderson, who was not injured, was booked by police for investigation of drunk driving.

Frazier said the tree will cost $1,800.

End Near in Bribe Trial of 4

A jury of six men and six women is expected to start deliberating Wednesday the assorted bribery and conspiracy counts against four men accused of taking payoffs when they headed Westminster's city government.

Santa Ana Superior Judge Ronald Crookshank will call Monday for whatever rebuttal testimony Prosecutor William Speirs will produce against Westminster's former mayor George W. Meinhardt, ex-Councilmen Arthur W. Payson and Gerald Allison, and City Administrator James E. Black, who is on leave from his job.

ONE-BY-ONE, each protested to innocence of any wrongdoing. Their defense rested Friday, and counsel for each then filed a brief asking dismissal of charges handed down in an Orange County Grand Jury indictment.

Judge Crookshank said he will rule Tuesday on the dismissal motions. If refused, final arguments will begin, probably to finish by Wednesday.

Facing Black and the three former policy makers a total of nine charges, embellished by allegations of overt acts, so that there actually are 49 accusations.

IF THE JURY finds either or all guilty of any charges or of overt acts alleged, prison terms are mandatory. The law says the minimum term will be one year.

Black, facing seven counts, is accused of being the contact man for cash payoffs for favorable consideration of the city councilmen on zoning and annexation matters. Each of the four defendants accused of taking payoffs for killing the northern annexation which would have extended Westminster's city limits into the Eastgate subdivision.

Gunman Due in Court on Two Charges

Albert B. Cote, 34-year-old three-time loser nabbed for shooting an off-duty unarmed Anaheim policeman who thwarted an alleged kidnap attempt, will be arraigned Monday on dual felony counts.

Police said they will file tent to kidnap a teen-age charges of assault with in-gil and assault with intent to murder Officer Samuel D. Punter, 28, when he sought to capture Cote.

The arraignment is set for 10 a.m. Monday in Anaheim Municipal Court.

OFFICER PUNTER continued to rally in his battle for recovery. Surgeons at Buena Park Memorial Hospital took a .25-caliber slug from near his spine after Cote gunned him down late Thursday.

Punter rushed to the aid of a girl who said Cote tried to force her at gunpoint to enter his car. Two other girls with her fled to a nearby residence and screamed for help. Punter was shot as he pulled the girl to safety.

El Segundo officers are checking out Cote's alibis for his whereabouts July 22, 1957, when two El Segundo policemen were slain by a man who opened fire on them when he was stopped for driving a stolen car.

EL SEGUNDO police said Cote gave them "garbled stories" they will have to check out. They said they intend to question him again after checking his alibis.

Cote, who told police he had "a $50-a-day heroin habit," allegedly admitted a drugstore robbery Nov. 24 in Alhambra and a market hold-up in Fullerton Dec. 2. No robbery charges have been drawn against him, as yet, however.

Brothers Created New Jazz

at home, another controversy in another field. From his first marriage came his daughter, Ozie, named for his deceased mother. She, too, became a classical pianist, now teaches music in Chicago public schools.

His second was a "mixed" marriage, to a Caucasian singer, Phyllis.

"It's been a happy marriage. Well, it's lasted 18 years and we're still happy. She loves music and understands it."

HORACE preserves the memory of his brother. His band is called "Fletcher Henderson's Hot Six"—named after an old and famous recording unit—and is subtitled: "Directed by Horace Henderson."

So long as the music of the Goodmans and the Dorseys is remembered, so will the writings of the Hendersons. Horace now feels, with big bands back in popularity, the bands of the Hendersons may achieve hall-of-fame status, too.

WITH THE Horace Henderson band is an entertainer named Tangerine (she uses no other name) and Horace becomes hilarious when Tangerine explains how anyone can do the twist. Her version:

"Jes' act like you are grinding out cigaret butts with your feet. And then act like you got a towel behind you, and are drying off (the lower part of your spine) after you come out of the shower."

Somehow or other, Horace' classical education hasn't been able to formalize an arrangement for that step.

WOMEN PAST 35 MAY LOOK OLD & TIRED

From Bladder "Weakness" With Secondary Backache and Nerve Tension

Are you one of the hundreds of thousands of sufferers who feel old, tired, worn out and depressed by losing sleep and worrying about getting up nights, due to common irritation of the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Passages? Does this condition cause frequent, urgent and painful daytime urination and sometimes result in Backache? If so, you owe it to yourself to try NEW IMPROVED CYSTEX at once.

OTHER SYMPTOMS Common Kidney and Bladder Irritations which cause getting up nights may also cause strong, cloudy urine and sometimes result in secondary Backache, Headache and Nervous Tension.

OLD, TIRED, WORN OUT FEELING MAY RESULT

If frequent urination worries you, and hils you at the most embarrassing moments, you're bound to feel tense and nervous. Then if your sleep is disturbed by getting up nights and you can't get much rest and you wake up feeling tired and grouchy—yes, you really begin to feel old. And if your back aches you feel grouchy—hard to get along with—and your work is a burden.

CAUSE OF IRRITATION

The cause of common Kidney and Bladder Irritation frequently arises from a germ called the colon bacillus, and non-specific germs resulting from colds, bad teeth and other causes. These germs can set up so much irritation in the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Passages that nature sends a warning through your nerves to your brain that help is needed. Heed this warning now and you may easily avoid many anxious, worrisome hours and days.

HOW CYSTEX HELPS

NEW IMPROVED CYSTEX releases a gentle, soothing bacteriostat in acid urine to combat germs which may be causing irritation. This is like a gentle, mildly antiseptic, soothing bath for the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Passages. CYSTEX also contains two of the very best known analgesics for soothing, gentle pain relief of the discomforts due to common Kidney and Bladder Irritations. Thousands have been amazed to discover how quickly CYSTEX helps them to combat such irritations thus feel cleaned and refreshed, and because of lessened nerve tension able to sleep better and feel better, and stronger.

So get CYSTEX from your druggist today. Fresh up and cheer up and feel better fast.

Kennedy Asks Industry to Back Low-Tariff Move

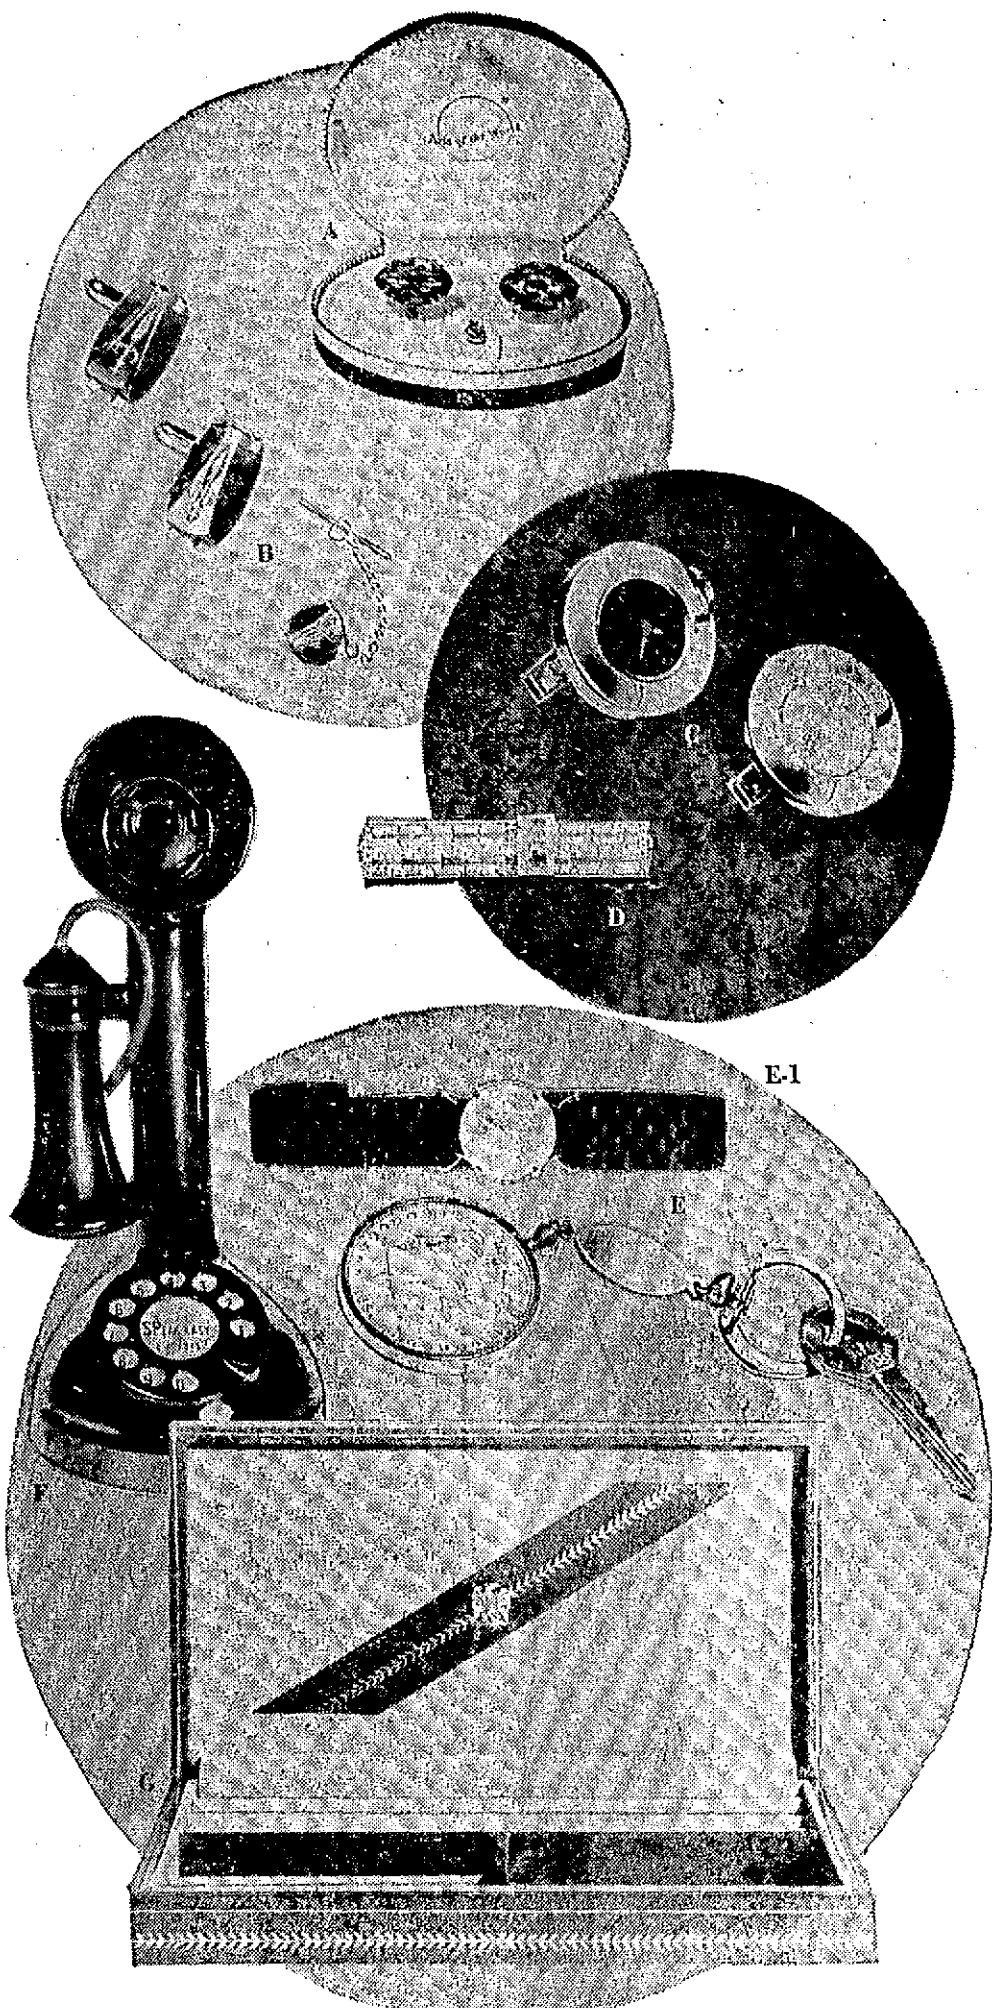

By JACK LEFLER
 NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy appealed to business and labor this week for support of what he called a "bold and new" foreign trade policy.
 He spread his proposal for broad tariff cutting powers before the National Association of Manufacturers in New York City and the AFL-CIO convention in Miami, Fla.
 Neither of these groups in the past has expressed much enthusiasm for lower tariffs.
 Kennedy based his pleas for support on the argument that improved international trade will be a means of providing

Record Year for Business Is Forecast

NEW YORK (AP)—The largest one-year increase ever made in national output was forecast for 1962 by the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, second largest in the nation.
 In the company's annual business prediction to be issued last week, Louis R. Menagh, president, said the gross national product—the value of all goods and services—will reach $566 billion.
 This would make 1962 the most productive in the nation's history.
 IT WOULD result from an increase of $46 billion or 9 per cent over 1961, the largest increase ever made in one year, both in dollar amount and percentage.
 The company's economists noted that most of this will be "an increase in real output instead of a bookkeeping rise resulting from inflated dollars."
 Marring the picture, the company said, was its prediction that joblessness will stay at more than 5 per cent of the total labor force.
 IT ADDED that this unemployment would result largely from "inadequate training, poor information regarding job openings and lack of geographic mobility."
 But for most Americans, it said, 1962 will mean a higher standard of living.
 The prediction indicated the public will purchase more new automobiles, home appliances and other durable goods, and put more money into education, travel, recreation and other services.
 SUCH SPENDING will total about $364 billion, some $25 billion more than last year, Prudential said.
 Business will increase its investments in new plants and equipment to $51 billion, $5 billion more than in 1961, and governments (federal, state, local) will spend $119 billion, a gain of $11 billion, the forecast continued.

MOST members of both organizations apparently were waiting for the President's program to be spelled out upon submission to Congress in January before committing themselves definitely about his desires.
 However, qualified approval of lowering international trade barriers had been expressed earlier by chairman Ralph J. Cordiner of general Electric Co. but he said he was not commenting on any specific proposal.
 Kennedy took the occasion of his appearance before the AFL-CIO to announce that the unemployment rate declined in November for the first time in a year. The rate dropped to 6.1 per cent of the work force from 6.8.
 THE total employment of 67,349,000 in November was a record for the month.
 An encouraging development for the economy as a whole was the tremendous surge of new car buying. Sales of 584,960 U.S.-made passenger cars in November were the highest ever for the month, exceeding the 530,000 sold in that month of 1955 and 1960.
 General Motors, Ford and American Motors set records for the month.
 Total November production of 646,015 cars was second only to November of 1955, the year in which sales set an all-time record.
 Production continued to boom this week with output estimated at 160,000, compared with 164,967 last week and 135,453 a year ago.
 SPURRED by increasing demand from automakers and other users, steel production last week posted its biggest gain in two months. Production of 2,073,000 tons was 2 per cent above the 2,032,000 tons turned out the previous week. Producers aimed at another increase this week, putting more facilities into operation at several plants. Some steel facilities which have been idle as long as 20 months were set to go back into production.
 Another good sign was the Commerce Department report that combined record sales were registered by manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in October. The $63 billion total was 2 per cent ahead of September.
 Forecasts of record production, income and profits in 1962 came out of a Washington conference sponsored by the United States Chamber of Commerce. An 8 per cent increase in private housing starts next year was forecast by the Commerce Department. Housing starts were estimated at 1.4 million.

Santa Visits Rams Early, 34-17

41,268 See Colts' Lacing

By JERRY WYNN

Yes, children, there is a Santa Claus. With their 1961 epitaph all but inscribed, the poor-boy Rams came up from the gutter to feast in a 34-17 triumph over the swanky Baltimore Colts at the Coliseum Saturday.

There was an aura of disbelief among the 41,268 fans when Joe Marconi barreled through the line for a six-yard touchdown in the final seconds to seal the outcome. Surely, a Ram victory couldn't end so conclusively.

But this was the rare day when the Rams not only played good football but had all the breaks falling their way. After a season of miseries and following their debacle at Minnesota last week, it was both sweet revenge and a well-deserved present.

"YOU WERE TREMENDOUS both ways (offense and defense)," coach Bob Waterfield told his players in the dressing room. "There's no reason we can't do the same against the Packers."

The Rams, who, temporarily at least, vacated the Western Division basement with their fourth win in 13 games, close out the season against champion Green Bay at the Coliseum next Sunday.

Almost everything went right for the Rams Saturday. They had good passing (14 of 23) and excellent play-selection from Zeke Bratkowski; strong running from Dick Bass, Jon Arnett and Marconi... the latter who delivered a big fourth-quarter boost. Sparked by rookie Deacon Jones and veteran Lindon Crow, the defense stayed tight. John Lovetere blocked his first kick of the season, and even the Ram kickoffs traveled into the end zone. Har-rumph!

BALTIMORE WAS A PUZZLE. Johnny Unitas had as much poise as ever and completed 15 of 27 passes. Lenny Moore was a constant breakaway threat and averaged 10.0 for six runs. Raymond Berry caught six passes. And yet the results were nebulous. This Colt team could not stampede.

Baltimore did muster one explosion.

Trailing 20-10 near the end of the third quarter, the Colts had a fourth down with seven yards to go from their own 40. They went into a normal deep punt formation, and the Rams massed their normal 10-man rushing line. But the snap from center never reached the punter.

Jim Welch, a who's-he reserve defensive back, took the ball from a blocking-back post, and shot through the on-charging Ram line before it could discover the sneak attack.

WELCH, then, had just one man to beat... Arnett at safety, and he deftly spun out of Arnett's clutches on the Ram 30 before continuing unimpeded into the end zone. Steve Myhra kicked the extra point to make the score, 20-17.

Instead of wilting under the low blow, the Rams boomed back as Bass returned the ensuing kickoff from his goalline to the Colt 45. Bratkowski passed to Jim Phillips for 25 yards and three runs by Marconi took the ball to the 8, from where Bratkowski speared Marconi with a touchdown toss. With 1:22 elapsed in the final quarter, the Rams had regained their cozy 10-point spread 27-17.

Baltimore then made one big comeback bid. Starting on their own 20, the Colts moved downfield on Unitas' short passes (6 for 6) to a first down on the Ram 7. Three runs left the ball still on the 2. Ever the gambler, Unitas tried to pass it over and his cinch touchdown flip to Dee Mackey failed only because the ball flip-flopped out of the big end's grasp.

Unitas fumbled the next time the Colts had the ball, and Les Richter recovered on the Ram 41 to set up the Rams' final touchdown. Arnett and Marconi traded off blasts at the injury-weakened Baltimore line, and Marconi

Aggies Surprise Gades, 28-20

Cameron Clicks for JC Crown

By RAY CUNNINGHAM

Good ol' Cameron College probably ran a lot of gamblers out of business Saturday.

Amid the glamour of the 16th annual Junior Rose Bowl, the heavily-underrated Aggies from Lawton, Oklahoma, opened up in the early minutes and then proceeded to upset mighty Bakersfield, 28-20, before a shocked crowd of 49,023.

The game wasn't quite as close as the score and statistics indicate. A touchdown in the final 34 seconds brought the Renegades within a respectable distance, but Cameron actually was a much-superior team Saturday.

Bakersfield was a strong pre-game favorite and was expected to move easily, which it did but in the wrong direction.

BY WINNING, THE AGGIES thus lay claim to the national junior college championship won last year by Long Beach. The victory was their 11th in a row this season.

Nearly 30,000 Bakersfield fans, who had traversed the Ridge Route to watch the great conquest, sat in hushed disbelief as the Oklahomans struck for a quick 10-4 lead after only 6:49 had elapsed in the first quarter.

The first play from scrimmage was sort of an indication of what was to unfold. All-America halfback Bob Kelly arched a 38-yard jump pass to right end Jack Mars who was downed on the Bakersfield 31.

Three plays later from the 32—Bakersfield looked good on defense—Bill Harper slipped from the arms of onrushing Leon Standridge and twisted 32 yards through the rest of the Renegade defenders for the opening touchdown. Stuart Tonemah kicked the first of his four conversions.

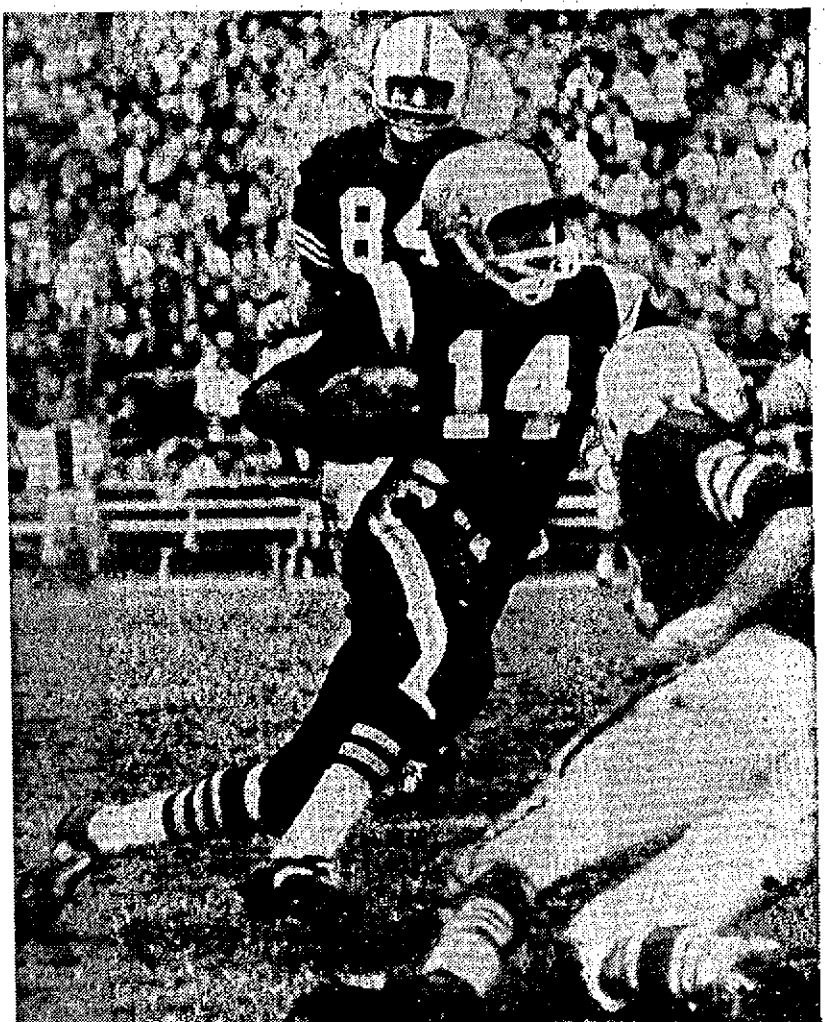

HARPER'S RUN WAS THE beginning of a brilliant performance for him. He did so well that it is a virtual certainty he will be named "player of the game" when it is announced Monday.

Bakersfield took the ensuing kickoff, but on the third play Ronnie O'Rear intercepted Paul Franklin's pass and took it 10 yards to the Gade 35.

Five plays later Harper saw end Ulysses Kendall all alone in the end zone and rifled a 27-yarder to him for the second Aggie tally.

The West Coast representative got back in the game with 4:39 left in the first quarter when Joe Don Joonev's quick kick attempt was blocked by Earl Corley and picked up by all-America end Ed Witzke, who loped 21 yards to the goal. On a fake kick play, Franklin passed to

ARMY FIRES COACH-- COULDN'T BEAT NAVY

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Army, smarting from three straight defeats by Navy, fired head football coach Dale Hall Saturday and tossed its 50-year policy of hiring only U.S. Military Academy graduates as football coaches onto the scrap heap.

Hall's successor will be "the finest coach available" even if he is not a member of the Army alumni, said Col. Emory S. Adams Jr. in announcing Hall's release. Hall, a former Army star who was hired in 1959 when famed Army coach Earl (Red) Blaik retired, got the gate even though his contract still had one year to run. Maj. Gen. W. C. Westmoreland, Academy superintendent, said Hall "will be compensated" for the remaining year. Hall, whose three-year record at Army included 16 wins, 11 losses, and two ties, said the firing "caught me by surprise" and said he had not made any plans for the future.

Despite Hall's surprise, reports had been widespread for some time that his job was in jeopardy. There were numerous reports—none of them denied—that he would be fired unless Army beat Navy this year.

Army, rated at even money, lost that game to the Middles last week, 13-7, just as it lost to Navy, 43-12, in 1959, and 17-12 in 1960.

Dodgers to Meet Braves in Apr. 8 Blair Field Benefit

By GEORGE LEDERER

The Dodgers' final spring exhibition game against the Milwaukee Braves is the plum awarded to Blair Field by Dodgers general manager Buzzie Bavasi, under sponsorship of the Independent, Press-Telegram.

Bavasi made the announcement Saturday in his second annual "thank you" to the City of Long Beach, home of the Dodgers' pre-spring training workouts.

As last April, when the Dodgers met Dallas-Ft. Worth, Bavasi will contribute the Dodgers' entire receipts to the Long Beach junior baseball program. The Dodgers-Braves spring windup, first all-major league contest to be played here in 15 years, is scheduled Sunday, April 8.

The Dodgers open the season in their new stadium 48 hours later against National League champion Cincinnati, then meet the Braves in a three-game series April 13-15.

Eleven Long Beach junior leagues shared the Dodgers' $3,769 donation for the first game. Each league received $342.66 for the purchase of equipment. Participating leagues were Long Beach, East Long Beach, Plaza, Los Altos and Lakewood Village Little Leagues; Kiwanis T-Shirt, Elks 888, Catholic Boys, PONY, Rotary and Dodger Intermediate leagues.

Bill Feistner again will serve as chairman of the game committee, which includes Gerald Desmond, Toby Wick, Rod Ballard and Charlie Brown. J. P-T executive sports editor Hank Hollingsworth, managing editor Miles Sines and George Lederer represent the sponsors' advisory board.

Fullmer Decks Paret for Full Count in 10

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Body-belted Gene Fullmer of Utah belting Gene Fullmer of Utah retained his share of the world middleweight championship Saturday night when he pounded welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba into submission in the 10th round of their scheduled 15-round fight.

The end of the savage, bloody bout came after 2:31 of the 10th, with referee Harry Krause tolling the 10-count over the 24-year-old challenger lying on his back, gamely trying to get up.

Fullmer, of West Jordan, Utah, weighed 159½ in this seventh defense of the National Boxing Association portion of the world title.

PARET, succumbing to only his second knockout, weighed 156½.

The nationally televised brawl was staged before an estimated 6,500 fans in the Las Vegas Convention Center.

The Utah bruiser, ahead all the way, finally polished off Paret with three knockdowns in the riotous 10th, the last for the full count.

The first knockdown came early in the round as Fullmer sent the Cuban kid staggering into a neutral corner, where Paret slumped down and sat on the lower rope.

THE REFEREE waved Fullmer away, giving Paret a surprising mandatory eight-count and Krause admitted, after the fight ended, that he made a mistake. The eight-count had been waived for this title match.

The astonishing Cuban suddenly caught fire again and shook up Fullmer with a flurry of lefts and rights. But again Gene sent Paret bouncing to the canvas for a count of two.

The end was evident and came soon after as a long Fullmer overhand right sent Paret reeling backwards and down for the final time.

Paret staggered to his feet after the count but again collapsed on his way back to his corner.

The Cuban kid's only knockout loss in 47 previous fights was by Emile Griffith, when Paret lost the welterweight title in Miami last April 1.

capped the march by scoring from the 6.

"Those injuries hurt us," said Baltimore coach Weeb Ewbank, who kept his dressing room locked to reporters for 20 minutes. "The Rams didn't do anything special. Neither did we, huh?"

COLT casualties included fullback Joe Perry and defensive linemen Billie Ray Smith and Orrell Braase.

So it will be a bruised and unhappy Baltimore club which will regroup Monday in Long Beach to begin a week of training here for its game at San Francisco next Sunday. The setback ended a three-game win streak and visions of a second-place finish and trip to Miami for the NFL Playoff Bowl.

In view of a national-TV audience, the game began as a wide-open offensive show.

Baltimore took the opening kickoff and rolled to the Ram 18 before having to call on Myhra for a 30-yard field goal.

ARNETT then signalled the Rams' offensive intentions by returning the ensuing kickoff 54 yards to the Colt 45. Bratkowski passed up the middle to Carroll Dale for 38 yards to the Colt 5. On second down from the 3, Bass cracked over the goal line to put the Rams ahead, 7-3.

Baltimore regained the lead in the final seconds of the quarter on a lightning, 71-yard, three-play thrust. Unitas passed to Jim Mutscheller for 37 yards, Moore ripped off 13 to the Ram 22, and Perry covered the remaining distance on a high-stepper through the line. The Jet was grounded on that play by a leg injury.

A 36-yard field goal by Danny Villanueva of the Rams was the only scoring of the second quarter and left the game knotted, 10-10, at halftime.

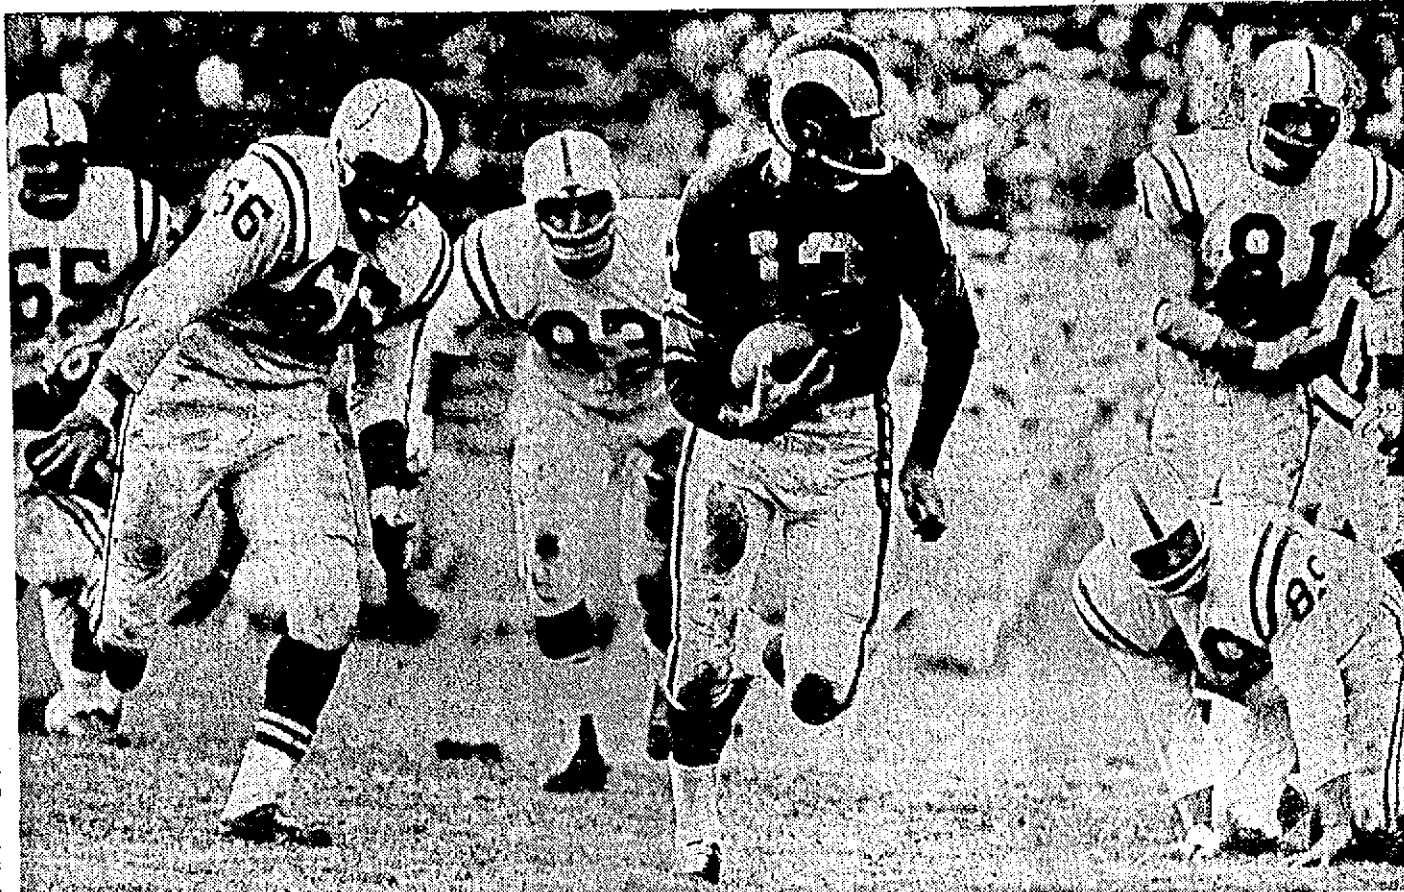

MYHRA HAD one field goal attempt from the Ram 19 blocked by LeVetere, and missed another from the 49

after the whistle ending the half had sounded. The Colts received the extra play (shades of Notre Dame vs. Syracuse) when Urban Henry, the Rams' answer to Tom McNeeley, was called for roughing Unitas.

The third quarter was only 24 seconds old when the Rams went ahead to stay on a 68-yard touchdown pass from Bratkowski to Dale, who snared the ball on the Colt 35 and sped away from defender Gary Glick.

Their momentum high, the Rams soon took over on their 36. Arnett cruised end for 16 and a pass to Phillips gained 10. Then faced with a fourth-and-two on the Colt 30, the Rams boldly went for the first down... Bass succeeding by inches. However, a field goal was in order after a few more plays, and Villanueva delivered from the 20 to boost the score to 20-10.

The Rams had one injury. Defensive back Alvin Hall took 14 stitches to close a shin gash. The team awarded the game ball to Bass.

Our Worst Game--Gade Boss

Bakersfield coach Ray Newman said after Saturday's 28-20 Junior Rose Bowl loss that the Renegades played their worst game in two years and that one of the reasons might have been the harsh publicity his team had received during the week.

Newman was referring to the Metropolitan Conference meeting Tuesday in which the Renegades were subjected to much criticism for their recruiting tactics.

He was quick to point out, however, that he did not want to minimize Cameron's outstanding effort. He admitted the Aggies outcharged his Potato town boys and that the Oklahomans had come to the game with more desire.

Newman thought the turning point of the game came on the first play of the fourth quarter when Bob Miller, hampered by a bad pass, hampered by a off only a nine-yard punt. Cameron moved to its third touchdown shortly thereafter.

There was a certain air about Newman that indicated he was not sure Cameron would beat Bakersfield if the two teams met again. He did mention he would rather face Cameron than either Long Beach or Santa Monica.

Meanwhile, coach Leroy Montgomery of Cameron said the game had come out just as he had expected. The Aggies had Bakersfield well scouted. For example, he said game films showed the Gades "didn't have a respect for the lonesome end deep" so his team practiced this play about 100 times the past week. It paid off in Cameron's second touchdown.

Cameron players were just as happy as their coach. Almost to the man they expressed that they were extremely happy but not particularly surprised. They had expected to win. Only one who showed any disappointment at all was a defensive halfback Jimmy Cabbiness who was a bit mad at himself for letting Vance Fisher catch a touchdown pass just before the half.

Cabbiness blinked his eyes and said, "He done snuck behind me and the ball went way ova mah head."

Clifton Chilton for the two-point conversion.

However, Bakersfield got back in the game with seven seconds left in the half when Terry Craven, taking a pitch-out, threw 15 yards to Vance Fisher in the end zone. Andy Forgiore nailed Craven as he tried to sweep right end for the conversion.

There was no more scoring until Cameron took the fourth quarter by a 14-6 margin.

CAMERON got the ball at the start of the final period and chugged 43 yards in 14 plays. It was set up by B Miller's nine-yard punt. Touchdown came on a third down situation in the goal line.

Bakersfield's touted fence held from the two three straight thrusts, then Harper tossed a ball-point pitchback to K who scampered around r end the final yard.

The relentless Oklahoma taking a fumble, rolled yards to sew up the game with 4:39 left. On the play Looney exploded yards up the middle with three defenders trying to get out of his way.

Bakersfield still kept trying, though, and covered 62 yards in eight attempts for the last touchdown. Payoff was a nine-yard pass from Ricky Swan who threw across field to Witzke.

The Aggies then took the kickoff and ran out the clock. They already had run out Bakersfield.

Patriots Whip Raiders, 35-21

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Babe Parilli and Billy Lott, a pair of veteran backs the Oakland Raiders traded off, gave the Boston Patriots a 35-21 victory over the Raiders Saturday.

The win pulled the Patriots within a half game of the Houston Oilers, who lead the American Football League Eastern Division.

Lott scored three touchdowns and carried the ball for the first down time after time in key third-down situations.

PARILLI passed for three touchdowns and had one of the best days running the ball in his eight-year professional career.

PARET TOUGH AS I'VE EVER MET---FULLMER

LAS VEGAS (AP)—"I can't remember hitting anybody as hard and with him not falling down," NBA middleweight champion Gene Fullmer said Saturday night after his 10th round knockout of Benny (Kid) Paret.

"This guy was as tough as I've ever fought," Fullmer, blood-spattered and disheveled, said in his dressing room. "You can't take that kind of punishment but I thought he was going to."

Fullmer, a cut beside his left eye and an angry purple welt rising alongside his right eye, said Paret did not have him in trouble at any time in the fight but admitted: "He hurts."

In his dressing room, Paret said through an interpreter that he was not hurt by any single punch. He blamed his loss on Fullmer's rough-house tactics against the ropes.

The Cuban's manager, Manuel Alfaro, sputtered that the referee, Harry Krause, should have taken "at least 20 points" away from the middleweight champion.

Alfaro said there would be no more middleweight opponents immediately for his fighter.

Columns Right Marches to Win

SAN BRUNO (UP)—Columns, sophomore champion of the Right moved to the rail at the first turn, stayed there the rest of the way and won the $16,550 San Francisco Handicap at Tanforan Saturday.

Apprentice jockey Dan Castle booted Columns Right home first by a nose over Ronnie's Ace, ridden by the veteran Ralph Neves.

Park Royal, an entry with Columns Right for the Charles Turner Stable of Los Angeles, finished third, three lengths back. Typhoon 2nd, the six-to-five favorite, finished seventh in the field of 10 under the high weight of 124 pounds.

For Columns Right, son of Renown it was the first stakes victory and his fourth win in 17 starts this year. He's the

Two Tourney Rookies Tied for Golf Lead

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP)—Dan Sikes, playing his first tournament tour, and Bill Farrell of Springfield, N.J., grabbed the third-round lead in the $20,000 Coral Gables open golf tournament Saturday with 54 hole totals of 8-under-par 205s.

Sikes, 30, of Jacksonville, a former national publicin champion, fashioned a 3-under-par 68 with the help of a mallet-headed putter to which he changed a week ago. He bagged four birdies on putts ranging from 5 to 20 feet in carding 34-34.

Farrell, in a four-way tie at the halfway point, used his irons to good advantage to keep up the pace with a 35-34-69. His driving also was improved and he had a 300-yard shot on the first tee.

TOP SULKY HONOR AGAIN TO 'BUTLER

COLUMBUS (UP)—Adios Butler, world champion standardbred, Saturday was voted "the harness horse of the year" for the second straight year by 113 sportswriters and sportscasters in a nationwide poll.

The U.S. Trotting Association said the 5-year-old pacer was voted the outstanding horse by 100 persons on the panel and racked up a total of 1,059 points.

Adios Butler, fastest harness horse of all time, easily took top honors as Su Mac Lad received only six first place votes and gathered 353 points for runnerup honors.

Oxy Runner Success in 1st Marathon Try
CULVER CITY (UP)—Bill Peck, a 26-year-old graduate history student at Occidental competing in his first marathon, Saturday won the 14th running of the Western Hemisphere marathon run.

Peck, who ran the two-mile for Occidental's track team, finished the 26 mile, 385-yard run in 2 hours, 26.19 minutes.

He was a minute ahead of second-place Frank Muller of Australia, who finished in 2:27.38. Muller now attends Glendale College.

Third was Ed Duncan, Bridgeport, Conn., who finished in 2:27.49. Tom Ryan of Culver City, a former winner, was fourth in 2:28.51 and Richard Jones, Hertfordshire, England, was fifth with a clocking of 2:30.59.

'Can't Catch Me'—But They Do

It is surprising how many California fishermen try to evade the law by refusing to buy basic fishing licenses, plus the two stamps that are needed when they fish on inland waters for warm-water species and trout.

Department of Fish and Game wardens arrested 1,031 persons in October and November in the Southern counties of the state. Of that number, 397 were fishing without any kind of license; 83 others were fishing without the required stamps.

Two other violations stood out: Improper fishing for lobster, 110, and carrying loaded guns in cars, 125.

Once there was a time in California when most of us waited until May 1 to get our licenses, but that was a long time ago. Nowadays, we fish the year 'round, not only in the ocean but also in a few lakes and still fewer streams of Southern California.

Any fisherman 16 years of age or older must have a license. There are some exceptions for the elderly and handicapped, and, if you only fish from land-connected piers, no license is required.

IN REVIEWING ALL THIS, we are leading up to the fact that 1962 licenses are available at all sporting goods dealers. It might make a good Christmas present, especially for a boy just turning 16.

A basic stamp costs $3, plus $1 each for the warm-water and trout stamps. For nonresidents there is a special 10-day license for $3, plus the usual fees for stamps. An annual license for out-of-staters costs $10.

There is still another stamp, but it is required only for those persons fishing the Colorado River or any backwaters that form the mutual boundary of California and Arizona. It's known as the Arizona use stamp and cost $2.

If you remain on the California side and fish from the bank of the river, you do not need it. But get in a boat and start floating, rowing or using a motor while fishing and Arizona wardens may have a case against you.

Under the reciprocal agreement, California wardens have the same right to demand that a stamp be shown by Arizona residents.

If you want to play it safe, get the Arizona stamp and you then may enter fishing areas on either side of the river.

GARCIA'S NEW ABU AUTO-SPIN 505, which was announced to the tackle dealers last month, is the first fishing reel of a totally new design since World War II. It leads a parade of new products from the Garcia Corporation that will be exhibited at all the spring shows.

The Auto-Spin provides a touch-control disc which automatically releases the line onto the casting finger. It takes the place of a bail. The reel provides instantaneous line pickup, has a star drag, as well as the Garcia exclusive synchro-drag that releases and controls drag tension with half a twist of the handle.

While designed primarily for fresh-water fishing, it may be used in the ocean provided it is given fresh-water baths after salt-water use.

Garcia has introduced its Mitchell 330, which eliminates line handling with an automatic bail. You don't have to snub the line with your finger while casting.

Also, Garcia has put three lightweight Ambassador casting reels on the market. They are the 200, 2500 and 2600 and each model weighs just seven ounces. The famed Ambassadors, made in Sweden, represent the ultimate in casting reels.

Custom models of the Mitchell 300 and Ambassador 5000 in black and gold anodized finish are available now for presentation sets and special gifts.

The Ambassador offers a free spool riding on a set of precision-cut Swedish ball bearings. The Mitchell features a train of eight precision gears and a highly refined drag. Each reel comes in a wooden case, with an attached sterling silver plate suitable for engraved name.

11 TOP .300 IN NL

Clemente 2nd Buc Bat King in Row

CINCINNATI (AP)—Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates was confirmed the National League batting champion for 1961 Saturday with the release of the official averages.

Clemente, 27-year-old out-fielder from Carolina, Puerto Rico, batted .351 to give the Pirates their second straight titleholder. Dick Groat was the 1960 leader with a .325 mark. It was the first time the same club claimed two successive batting champions since Paul Waner and Arky Vaughan of Pittsburgh won in 1935 and 1936, respectively. Clemente has a lifetime average of .298 for seven seasons in the National League. His previous high was .314 in 1960.

VADA PINSON, fleet out-fielder of the pennant-winning Cincinnati Reds was second with a .343 average. Ken Boyer of St. Louis was third with .329 followed by Wally Moon, Dodgers, .328.

Only 11 players hit .300 or higher among those eligible for the championship with 477 or more total plate appearances.

Orlando Cepeda, slugging outfielder-first baseman of the San Francisco Giants, captured the home run and runs batted in crowns. He had 46 homers and 142 RBI. Willie Mays, Cepeda's teammate, had the most runs scored, 129.

THE BRAVES Aaron had the most doubles, 39, and George Altman of the Chicago Cubs collected the most triples, 12. Maury Wills of the Dodgers stole the most bases, 35. Wills also led in sacrifice bunts with 13.

Pittsburgh compiled the highest team batting average for the second straight year, .273. Milwaukee hit the most home runs, 188. San Francisco headed two departments, runs scored 773 and runs batted in 709. The collective batting average for the eight teams was .262.

Other baseball names in the news:

ELSTON HOWARD—The Yankee catcher was chosen to receive the St. Louis baseball man-of-the-year award at the St. Louis Baseball Writers dinner Jan. 31.

WARREN SPAHR—The Milwaukee pitcher will receive the J. Louis Combs memorial award for "long and meritorious service" at the Chicago Baseball Writers' Dinner Jan. 31.

ROGER MARIS AND MICKIE VENTURA—The Yankee outfielders have been voted joint winners of the St. Louis award as "Players of the Year" by the New York Baseball Writers Assn. Maris will also be the featured guest at the 27th dinner of the Boston Baseball Writers Jan. 25.

Undefeated L.B. Kickers Visit Bell

The unbeaten, once-tied Long Beach Soccer Club tests the Bell Gardens Rangers at 2:30 p.m. today at Bell Gardens Park on Perry Road in Bell.

Long Beach has scored 40 goals in seven games and has held its opposition to only five.

The Long Beach United soccer team faces Azusa at 12:45, followed by a game between the Lynwood Dons and Redondo at 2:30, both at Pan-American Park.

IN AREA action, the San Pedro Jadrans, California's No. 1 hope in the national open soccer cup playoffs, runs into Costa Rica today at Wrigley Field at 2:30 p.m.

The fourth district game of the coast-to-coast playoffs brings together Victoria and Glendale at Van Ness Play-ground at 12:30 p.m.

Aussie Net Queen Again Stops Darlene

MELBOURNE (UPI)—Wimbledon champion Rod Laver won the men's singles title in the Victorian Lawn Tennis Championship Saturday and Australian star Margaret Smith once again beat U. S. champion Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., 6-3, 6-2, to win the women's crown.

Southpaw Laver dropped the first set and then had to go all out to beat his Australian Davis Cup teammate Roy Emerson, 4-6, 8-6, 9-7, 6-3 in the men's final.

Miss Smith's triumph over

Miss Hard was her third straight over America's top player in the last fortnight. The Aussie star was below form but still much too good for Miss Hard, who was suffering from the effects of a muscle strain.

Both players were hitting the ball hard, but Miss Hard made far too many errors and the match lasted only 44 minutes with few worthwhile rallies. All told, blonde Darlene was charged with 36 errors against Miss Smith's 28 and the U. S. champion scored only half the number of placements and held her own service only three times.

Once, after a line call that displeased her, Miss Hard belted a backhand volley fiercely and almost hit a baseline ballboy.

Rain-Plagued Rockets Host Carmelita Today

After two Sundays of rain and wet grounds, the Long Beach Rockets will try to get back into action today against Carmelita at Blair Field. Game time is 2 o'clock.

Their first meeting of the Winter League baseball season was a wild one with the Rockets winning, 3-2.

Reuben Rodriguez is expected to pitch for the visitors, while Casey Cox will get the nod for the Rockets. The Rockets were cheered by news that minor leaguers Bryan McCall, Tom Sisk and Bob Bailey will join the club in time for the playoffs.

Fishing Facts

St. Louis—34 passengers on 2 boats caught 11 barracudas, 180 bonito, 2 sculpin, 63 halibut. Piercing Landing—59 passengers on 2 boats caught 5 barracuda, 98 bonito, 4 sculpin bass, 6 rock cod, 132 halibut, 69 miscellaneous.

Pacific Landing—37 fishermen on two boats caught 11 halibut, 11 bars, 101 bonito, 44 rock cod, and 2 miscellaneous.

JOHNNY NEWMAN
Heading for Top?

AGAINST RODRIGUEZ

Newman Eyes 15th KO in Aud Feature

Johnny Newman, undefeated Los Angeles welterweight, will attempt to score his 15th knockout in 17 starts Wednesday night when he tackles Sergio (Lopez) Rodriguez in the 10-round main event at Municipal Auditorium.

However, fight men point out that Newman has never stepped a full 10 rounds while Rodriguez has gone the distance 21 times in winning 30 of his 33 fights.

Newman, should he win, would be established as one of the most feared welterweights in the country.

Co-managers Ray York and Nick Toste believe that Newman will be the next world welter champion and are ready to put up a big guarantee against any of the top-rated 147-pounders to fight Johnny here early next year provided he can dispose of Rodriguez.

Lee Turner and Jim Anders have been signed to meet in the six-round semi-windup. Two five-round bouts complete the card.

UPI BACK OF YEAR HONOR TO FERGUSON

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Ferguson, Ohio State's bone-crushing fullback, edged halfback Ernie Davis of Syracuse in a nationwide United Press International poll of sports writers and broadcasters Saturday to win honors as college football's "Back of the Year" for 1961.

The 217-pound lineslammer from Troy, Ohio, previously had proved the top vote-getter on the UPI All-America team announced during the past week when he was mentioned on 90.1 per cent of all ballots cast.

Ferguson followed that up by gaining 94 votes as "Back of the Year" out of 324 cast for a solid plurality. Davis, the free-wheeling halfback who erased all Jimmy Brown's school rushing records at Syracuse, finished second in the poll with 70 votes while halfback James Saxton, the Texas jackrabbit, was third with 58.

GRID WRITERS PICK ROYAL AS TOP COACH

NEW YORK (AP)—Darrell Royal, who has his University of Texas team in post-season bowl for the fourth time in five years, was named coach of the year Saturday by the Football Writers' Association of America.

The once-beaten Longhorns, who meet Mississippi in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1, tied with Arkansas for the Southwest Conference title.

The voting by the football writers produced a three-man race. Minnesota's Murray Warmath, who won the honor last year, finished runner-up, and Bear Bryant, coach of undefeated Alabama, was third.

CHANGED HER MIND

Debbie Decided Not to Retire

(Editor's Note: Rick Du Brow is on vacation. Today's guest columnist is actress Debbie Reynolds, who tells why she changed her mind about retiring.)

By DEBBIE REYNOLDS

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—About three years ago I told an inquiring reporter that I intended to retire from the entertainment field in five years.

Usually, when I make a decision, I stand by it. There have, however, been exceptions.

When I was first offered a movie contract, I turned it down. I would never for one minute give up my ambition to be a gym teacher. I told the man who was a few weeks later to become my agent, for such a nebulous undertaking as acting.

But just as I thought I was serious about never entering pictures in the first place, I thought I was serious about making an exit.

AT THE TIME, I had finished "Tammy and the Bachelor," a picture enjoyed making, but another in a line of young ingenue roles. I couldn't see any future for me in those parts, and, to be honest, didn't know if I would be believable in other parts.

In the past three years I've had the opportunity to find out, by having been given the opportunity to appear in a wider variety of roles.

I'm not an actress who wants to concentrate on drama. I've liked the dramatic things I've done—"The Cat in the Hat" and "The Rat Patrol"—but my preference is comedy and musical comedy. Regrettably, musicals aren't as prevalent in Hollywood these days, but comedies are, which balances the scale where I'm concerned.

LUCILLE BALL is the comedienne I admire most. She is a reason I like to do all my own work in a film. She does it—and no one is funnier or more successful than she is.

It seems odd, what with the popularity of westerns and what with the number of films I've made, that I had never appeared in a rough and ready outdoor role until just recently. Then, suddenly, two in a row.

The first is "The Second Time Around," a comedy about the West of the 1900s. In the second, the first cinematic film which tells a story, MGM's "How the West Was Won," I appear opposite Gregory Peck. It has become my favorite role—I just finished it—and I portray an eastern music hall entertainer who plays a part in the development of the West.

NEXT I'll appear opposite

Geraldine Page Gets Stage Roles in Films

By JAMES BACON

The star of two stage hits, she also plays the same roles in the movie versions. Within six months, moviegoers will see Miss Page in "Summer and Smoke" and "Sweet Bird of Youth," two Tennessee Williams' plays which she also did on the stage.

This is seldom done. Ethel Merman recently fired her agents when Warners cast Rosalind Russell in Ethel's "Gypsy" role. Often Hollywood will buy a Broadway hit such as "Summer and Smoke" in which the leading lady is supposed to be a love-lorn wallflower-type spinster, and then cast it with a Marilyn Monroe type.

Show Times

Here are starting times of features at Long Beach theaters as listed by theater managers:

By the time I've finished "Try, Try Again" and Las Vegas, I'll be ready to start other pictures for which I've signed. These will take me well into 1964.

After that, I'm thinking of retiring in five years. By then, again, if I'm still being asked, I may change my mind.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Lucille, Gary Explain 'Permanence' Formula

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Lucille Ball and Gary Norton have worked out a way to keep their marriage permanent—"For one thing, I won't be going to Gary's night-club openings," Lucille says.

"I'll frequently be busy, but even if I weren't busy I wouldn't go," she adds.

"Because if you go, people mistake the reason."

"They don't think you go because you want to be with somebody you like. They think you go to help business!"

Lucille will, therefore, never be doing the Elizabeth Taylor-Eddie Fisher opening night ritual. "It's strange," she says. "It's all right before you get married—but not afterward! I accept that fact and so I'll stay home."

This was one of the few serious moments when the new Mrs. Morton and her shirt-sleeved bridegroom talked it over at her big apartment in the Imperial House recently. The comedian in Gary kept coming out and he kept making jokes—and Lucille kept laughing.

"Lucy lives in Beverly Hills and we'll lead like a suburban life," Gary said. "And you can park your car out there!"

"Right darling, I'm glad you like that about it," Lucille said.

SOMETHING was said about Lucille's cooking. "She can cook, buddy!" a friend of Lucille's, who was there, spoke up.

"That's right . . . she cooks buddies, fried buddies. Delicious!" Gary said. "I kept thinking of the laughs we had the first time she cooked dinner for me. The steak tasted like hockey pucks. I kept smiling with the whole thing in my mouth. I couldn't get it out."

"I'm very good at cooking for 20 people," Lucille insisted. She was reclining in a pink terry-cloth robe after a hard day of rehearsing here for a TV show.

"Yeah, she's great for a restaurant, but for one person—forget it!" Gary waved his hand, and Lucille laughed again.

"HAVE YOU ever made any effort to coach him in his work?" I asked Lucille. "Yes, I'm guilty of that," she nodded. "I heard him do his act one night at the Concord. One word bothered me. I didn't say anything for weeks. Then he did it again and I said, 'Guess I'll tell him about the one word he's dropping.'"

"Criticism of that kind is like coming from the Queen," Gary said. "And it worked. I wasn't pronouncing one word clearly. When I corrected it what was a snicker became a scream."

"It was just a setup for a joke," Lucille said.

First Freeway Link to Open in Month

Opening of the first link of the San Diego Freeway in this area is scheduled in about a month, it was reported today.

The one-mile connecting link between the Long Beach Freeway at the interchange north of Wardlow Road and Alameda St. is the first of three projects which will join the Long Beach Freeway with the Harbor Freeway about next June.

According to a completion schedule of the various contracts compiled by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, the San Diego Freeway will tie the Long Beach Freeway to the Ventura Freeway (Highway 101) in March of 1963 and to the Golden State Freeway (Highway 99) before the end of the summer of 1963.

To the east of the Long Beach Freeway, the San Diego Freeway is expected to be completed to the Orange County line in February 1963.

More than $18,000,000 worth of interchanges and grade separations in that direction are being constructed at the present time. Additional projects overpasses and underpasses at Spring, Clark and Willow Sts.

A contract also has been let for $7,340,424 to construct interchanges at Long Beach Boulevard and Atlantic Avenue.

$4½ Million Building Set at College

A $4½ million building for the music, speech and drama departments of Orange County State College will be the college's next major construction project, it was learned today.

Dean Stuart F. McComb, in charge of the college's building program, said that it will be the second "permanent" structure. The $12 million science building, now under construction, is due for occupancy in September 1963.

McComb said that the music-speech-drama building would be ready for use a year later. It will be started in September 1962, he said, and will include a 500-seat Little Theatre, a 200-seat recital hall, two radio-TV studios for both open and closed-circuit broadcasting, and workshops for building and designing stage scenery.

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1961

Real Estate and BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

LBSC Aids Move Into New $528,000 Section

Long Beach State College's student services units have moved into a $528,000 addition to the college's administration.

The addition, with 20,800 square feet of office space, is occupied principally by the counseling, testing and activities advisers.

Dr. Francis J. Flynn, executive dean for development, said that three other projects are receiving their finishing touches and will be occupied next month.

Included is Science Building No. 3, the most expensive facility at LBSC which will cost $5.3 million when it is equipped. It has 112,000 square feet of floor space and a wing will connect it to Science Building No. 2.

$2.5 million engineering unit and the $2 million Fine Arts Building No. 4.

When these projects are completed the college will have 936,000 square feet of floor space—39 per cent more than at the start of the school year.

Posts Go to Pair

Two Long Beach general contractors, Robert Boyd of Guy F. Atkinson Co. and John L. Connolly of Connolly Pacific Co., have been elected members of the board of directors of the Southern California Chapter of Associated General Contractors for 1962.

PROPOSED BAY SHORE TOWER APARTMENTS would soar 11 stories overlooking Long Beach Marina district. Target for completion of 102-unit project, which would cost about $3 million, has been set for next October.

Boat, Copter Facilities in Project Plan

A $3,000,000 11-story resort-type apartment building has been proposed for construction on Applan Way adjacent to the new Alamitos Bay bridge and Marine Stadium Park in Long Beach.

An application for a special permit to construct the high-rise Bay Shore Tower Apartments in the area has been filed with the City Planning Commission, according to Hugh Gibbs, A.I.A., architect on the project.

Gibbs said that the building would include 102 apartment units, including six roof penthouse apartments with lanai areas. Plans call for the apartments to be both rental and own-your-own types.

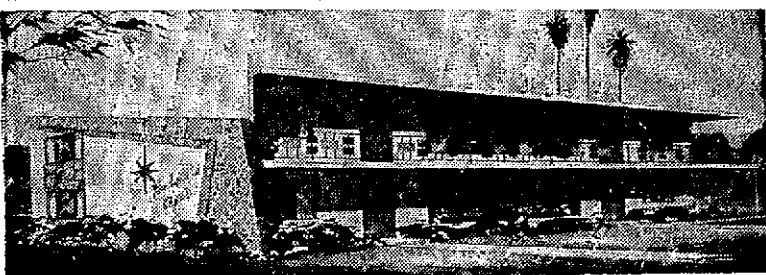

THE DEVELOPMENT provides for 164 tenant and guest automobile parking spaces, a ratio of more than 1½ park-

FASHION HOME IN GARDEN GROVE

Developed by Mervin Johnson, Fashion Homes in Garden Grove offer models like this priced from $17,950. Vets need no down payment. In three or four-bedroom styling, the homes may be seen by driving east on Seventh Street out of Long Beach to Brookhurst, turn right to Bolsa, then left to the homes.

Reserve Homes in Suburbia

Early reservations for Suburbia, Santa Ana, are being made by home buyers visiting the developments, reports Bart Allan, general sales manager of the Harry Tancredi Co.

"Normally," said Allan, "we do not staff our developments for sales this early in construction. However," he continued, "we feel many home buyers will appreciate the opportunity to see for themselves just what is going into the home they buy."

Suburbia homes feature many design and construction extras. In addition to Medallion kitchens by Hotpoint, the homes have vinyl asbestos and 100 per cent wool carpeting throughout, ceramic tile counters, lumi-lite bath ceilings, hardwood cabinetry, 18 different exterior designs, 6 new plans, and the Suburbia Premium Room.

TUNING UP FOR SHOW

Chairman Appointed for '62 Home-O-Rama

Planning for the third annual Long Beach Home-O-Rama is under way with the appointment of Phil Weidrich as general chairman of the event which is sponsored by the Long Beach Builders Exchange.

The appointment of Weidrich was announced by Norman Scott, Builders Exchange president, who said the Home-O-Rama will be held next Feb. 28 through March 4 in the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium.

George Colours will again be producer-manager of the event, Scott said.

Jack Horner, manager of the Builders Exchange, along with Weidrich, Scott and Colours, is a member of the key planning group which will direct over-all arrangements for the show.

THE HOME-O-RAMA will feature displays of the latest products of builders and al-

Quiz Program Slated by Club

Norm Woest, community relations director, and Hal Humphrey, customer relations representative for Title Insurance & Trust Co., Los Angeles, will present the silver dollar quiz at the Thursday meeting of the North Long Beach Real Estate Club, Mrs. Lela Starr, president, announced today.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 a.m. at Mayo's Restaurant, 5925 Cherry Ave. in North Long Beach, Mrs. Starr stated.

Quizmaster, Woest will award silver dollars to those who answer correctly his questions based on practical problems relating to real estate procedure as well as questions of a general nature.

Third Unit Now Half Sold at Walled Fullerton West

Fullerton West, popular new walled community by Park Village Homes, reports its sales volume reaching $1,250,000, with its third unit now half sold.

A full selection of luxurious three and four bedroom and family room plans is still available, according to Walker & Lee, sales agents. Homes are priced from $18,250, with no down payment required of veterans, except for costs and impounds. FHA terms are also available.

The master-planned development, strategically located in the western part of the City of Fullerton, is a couple of minutes from entry to the Santa Ana Freeway, and 25 minutes from Los Angeles Civic Center. It is similarly close to elementary and high schools of the unified school district, shopping centers, two colleges, and many major employment centers of the Fullerton-Anaheim complex.

Spacious living rooms "in the grand tradition" are highlighted by massive stone fireplaces, and sliding walls of glass to patio and garden areas. Many are of the step-down variety.

CONSTRUCTION features which have won favor include select oak hardwood floors over 2-inch by 6-inch tongue and grooved sub floors, wrought iron railings, hardwood paneling, decorator wall-paper and shake and shingle roofs.

Fullerton West's "balanced power" kitchens provide built-in deluxe gas ranges and ovens with rotisseries, built-in menu planner desks, tile drainboards, ash cabinets, and custom-styled hardware.

Homes are prepared for the installation of refrigerated air conditioning. There are oversized double garages with extra storage space, and separate laundry areas.

Las Lomas Sales Over 50 Per Cent

Many investors are taking advantage of the chance to trade a house, land, or other residential property for a high-income interest in Las Lomas Apartments in residential Long Beach, said a spokesman for the Mills Construction Co.

The apartments have been completely remodeled and refurnished by Mills Construction as part of a three-quarter-of-a-million-dollar improvement program. Well over 50 per cent of the apartments have been sold to date, the spokesman said.

Just across from Las Lomas Apartments is a beautiful recreational park and golf links. Close at hand are inviting beaches, the Long Beach Boating Marina, Long Beach State College, and complete shopping.

The Las Lomas furnished model apartment may be viewed at 5320 Anaheim Road, then right to model.

Seal Beach Luxury Home to Be Shown

Premiere showing is scheduled today for the Hilltop House at 1300 Crestview, Seal Beach, in the Marina Hills area, it was announced.

The luxury home, featuring three bedrooms and two baths, is priced at $37,000.

Location Big Factor in Sales

Garden Park Estates "No. 1 situated in the midst of fine other convenient financing Orange County location" on Knott Avenue at Garden Grove Freeway, just five minutes from Long Beach, rates among the top factors contributing to the community's over $10 million in home sales, according to sales director W. R. Effinger.

Current showing at this popular community introduces the exciting all-new "1962 Series" of luxuriously appointed, architect-designed residences.

Virtually a "city within a city," Garden Park Estates is close to excellent schools, fine shopping and recreational facilities and churches of many denominations. And Effinger pointed out, it is right in the heart of one of the nation's fastest growing areas.

FAVORABLE new veteran financing offers a "move-in" of just $97.97, Effinger said, with monthly payments from $97.97, including principal and interest. Full prices are from $17,450, and the three big two-car garage.

plans include Cal-Vet, good conventional and new 35-year FHA loans.

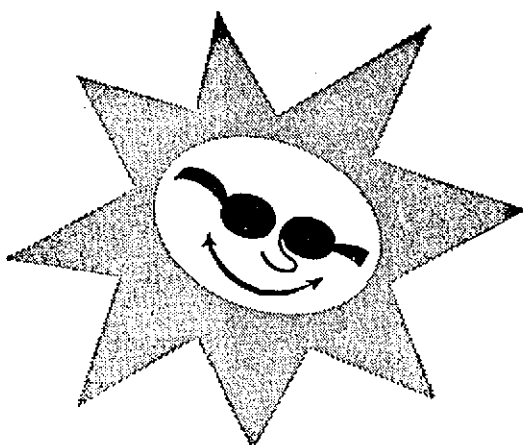

Garden Park Estates' "1962 Series" presents a distinctive selection of exteriors ranging from charming farmhouse and California ranch to exciting contemporary designs, many with subtle touches of Hawaii and the Far East as motifs.

SPACIOUS plans are designed with three and four bedrooms, two baths, dining area and family room and a

L.B. Manager Wins Award

N. G. Zink, national manager of Sure-Fit Stores, has announced that Mr. Nathan Lipton, owner of the Long Beach Sure-Fit Store, has been declared a winner of the Sure-Fit sales award for 1961.

The auto top and seat cover retailer, whose store is located at 538 Long Beach Blvd., has been presented with cash prizes and a plaque commemorating the event. The national manager described Lipton's accomplishment as outstanding because the sales contest was held among all nationwide Sure-Fit stores. It covered a period of two months and highlighted the organization's 44th anniversary.

Home Magazine Editor Purchases at Sol Vista

Elmer T. Peterson, editor of Better Homes and Gardens from 1927 to 1937, recently purchased a Sol Vista Luxury Series home.

In a letter sent to Al Solomons, builder, Peterson made the following statement: "Having been editor of a home and garden magazine for 10 years, from 1927 to 1937, I had special reason for watching home-building standards, safeguarding against jerry-building, etc. I formed the definite impression that your methods of building and of checking the component parts were calculated to insure sound construction and good architecture."

According to Solomon, this is the finest testimonial for quality construction and design that one could give.

The Sol Vista Luxury Series Homes, designed by Robert L. Barnett, A.I.A., architect of Beverly Hills, offer a selection of 23 exterior elevations and five floor plans. Strikingly individual in design, they range from provincial to modern and from picturesque shake shingle roofs to colorful large rock.

These homes are built upon "raised" foundations with gleaming hardwood floors supported with a 2-inch tongue and grooved sub-flooring. They include floor-to-ceiling fireplaces, with log lighter, forced air heat with thermostat control, colored bath fixtures by American Standard, stall showers with safety glass doors, insulation by Johns-Manville, large "walk-in" wardrobe closets and many other quality features.

Regardless of price range, the homes include the Medalion "all electric kitchen" featuring the Frigidaire oven, range and the all important Frigidaire dishwasher. Also included is color-coordinated range hood and light with electric fan, Whirlaway disposals and natural ash hardwood cabinets.

THE SOL VISTA HOMES are located in Huntington Beach, Westminster, Garden Grove and Santa Ana. The buyer may choose the Sol Vista home of his choice from one centrally located sales office. All these developments are in close proximity to the

Name Two to Board at Firm

The election of Allen H. Salvesen and Charles R. Abrams Jr. to the board of directors of Haggarty's was announced today by Edward H. Currier, chairman of the board. Abrams was also named vice president of the Southern California specialty chain.

Salvesen's appointment to the presidency of Haggarty's was announced last July. His background in the retail field includes various merchandising responsibilities at Carson Pirie Scott & Co. in Chicago and as vice president and general merchandise manager and member of the board of directors of Burdine's of Florida.

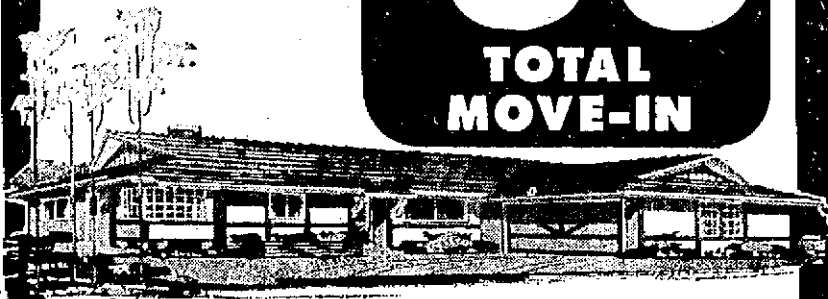

ABRAMS WAS associated for 11 years with major aircraft and electronics concerns, successively as controller, treasurer and vice president. Since April 1961, he has been engaged as consultant and financial adviser to a number of business firms and individuals primarily in Southern California.

Taxpayer Saving Seen in Fuller Use of Schools

By EDWIN S. CAPPS
SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Every time a high school system can absorb 100 new students without providing new classrooms, laboratories and other facilities for them, taxpayers in the district save a potential $200,000 in construction costs.

Hundreds of millions of dollars are being poured into new school construction every year, as well as expansion of existing ones. Some top state financial officials believe these expenditures could be reduced substantially through a fuller use of school facilities.

One method of increasing usage of school plants which has met with less objection than others is the lengthening of the school day. The average high school operates on a six-hour day. Teachers have classes for five of these hours and spend the sixth in preparing for the next day's work or correcting papers.

The proposal is to extend the day to eight hours. By proper arrangement of schedules, one group of students would begin school at 8 a. m., finishing at 2 p. m. Another group would begin at 10 a. m. and finish at 4 p. m.

The first two hours in the morning and the 2 to 4 period in the afternoon would be devoted entirely to academic courses. During the 10 to 2 period, when the number of students in school was the highest, some could be assigned for their free period, or study period; others could be assigned to physical education classes; still others would be on lunch hour; and others would be in laboratory work.

One state official said this practice has been used in some California school districts when they were hard-pressed for classroom space or in other financial difficulties. In other states where the system has been used, it produced less objection than to an all-year school operation.

"But the main objections still came from the parents," said one official. "For sometimes, they think it's very important that all their high school children arrive home at exactly the same time."

The elongated school day also permits a double use of buses, thus reducing the amount of original outlay for buses, as well as wages of drivers and upkeep on the rolling stock.

Among disadvantages of the longer school-use day, in addition to the irregularity of hours, is some interference with extra curricular activities, such as athletics. Also, in schools where laboratory sessions have run as late as 6 p. m., it's found that some students do not learn or retain so well that late in the day.

However, it's also been found that there are students who do better in the afternoon but are sleepy in the mornings.

The plan for better use of school facilities which has received the most attention and comment in California is that of the all-year, or four-quarter school.

STRIKING INTERIOR

Favorable veteran and nonveteran financing announced for the lovely "sea view" luxury homes at Huntington Hills in Huntington Beach, now offers veterans a total "move-in" of $99, officials state. Nonveterans have monthly payments as low as $125 on the new 35-year FHA loans.

Vet 'Move-in' Costs $99 at Huntington Hills

New and unusually favorable veteran terms which have been added to the excellent nonveteran financing, and convenience features, are now make the handsome "sea view" luxury homes at Huntington Hills in Huntington Beach available to veterans for a total "move-in" of just $99, according to W. D. McCaffrey of Sales Co.

For the nonveteran home buyer, McCaffrey said, the new 35-year FHA loans have monthly payments as low as $125, and there is also good

Joining the 3-year service group were Carl Ford, Edmond Fodor, Roberta Miles, John Rozboril, Gerald Osborne and Helen Avemaria.

Elderly Want to Stay Where They Are Now

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Where do older people want to live?

Right where they've lived all their lives, says a housing markets expert.

Alfred K. Eckersberg of Real Estate Research Corp. of Chicago, writing in the latest issue of Urban Land, asserted that "the biggest market" for housing older people "is in or near the communities where the elderly now live." (Urban Land is published monthly by Urban Land Institute, a non-profit study organization.)

According to Eckersberg, studies have shown that "four out of five older families want to stay in their home community or nearby. An estimate has been made that only one-half of 1 per cent of the elderly people move to distant states and only 2 per cent of such northern residents move south."

ECKERSBERG suggests elderly housing falls into two types: units for independent living and for group living. Houses, apartments, flats and trailers are the first kind. Hotels, rooming houses, clubs, Y's, nursing and convalescence homes provide for group living.

"Since around two-thirds of the elderly householders own their own homes, it would appear that independent housing would be more strongly in demand in the early part of the senior years," writes Eckersberg. "Then group housing could be provided for older people." Eckersberg makes these points about elderly housing:

—Conventional loan money "has been restricted" because lenders are afraid the borrower will die before the loan is paid off.

—Most institutional housing for the elderly has been for those who can afford to pay large sums for care and service or for persons of very low income.

—Projects should be near public transportation or within walking distance of stores, libraries, doctors' offices and other community facilities. Use of private cars decreases with age.

—Houses and apartments should have skid-proof floors, grab bars at bathtub and shower, flat thresholds, sit-down counter space in the kitchen.

—The 1960 census recorded nearly 16.6 million persons in the United States who were 65 or older. That was five times as many as in 1900. Since then, average life expectancy has risen by 22.2 years to 67 years for men and 73 years for women.

HOW THE CARLSONS BECAME INDEPENDENTLY WEALTHY

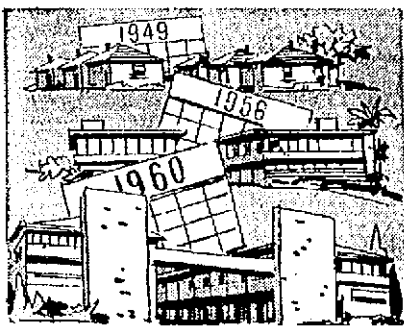

"There's really no secret to it," Mr. Carlson told us. "We just knew that while the number of people moving into California was increasing every year, the amount of land wasn't. This fact—more people, no more land—meant that more people would be looking for places to live and land prices would be increasing. Here's what we did."

"About 12 years ago, we used our savings as a down payment on a small apartment house. The rent money we got every month took care of the trust deed payments on the building and gave us a little extra besides. The 'extra' we saved."

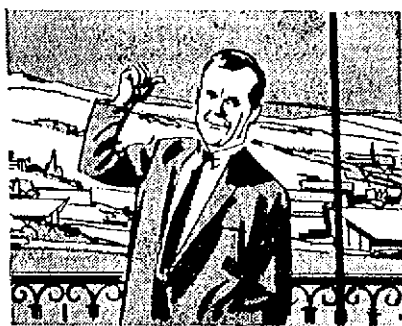

"When we'd built up a good equity in it, we sold—for a profit, too, for the property had increased in value since we bought it. We then used our savings, and the money we got from the sale, as a down payment on a bigger apartment."

"Over the years, we've continued to buy apartments, use the rent to pay off their trust deeds, and—thanks to rising land values—sell them for a profit. The building we own today is valuable enough to make us independently wealthy."

"Second, they should insist that their property has the full protection of a title policy issued by Title Insurance and Trust Company. This policy is their best assurance that they really own their property, that their ownership rights are insured."

"Many folks can do what we did," Mr. Carlson went on, "for the opportunity's still here. Every day, nearly 1000 people move into this state, and land values continue to rise. When they buy, though, they should protect themselves these two ways."

"First, they should deal only through a realtor. He'll save them time and money, for he knows land values and population trends, and can show them more good property in their price range in a day than they can find on their own in a week."

Take Mr. Carlson's advice and ask your escrow officer about Title Insurance and Trust Company. He'll tell you that of all title companies, T.I. has the best facilities for searching, examining, and insuring land in California. That's why a T.I. policy gives you the best possible protection of your ownership rights... why it's so safe, so sure, so low in cost. When you buy or sell, insist that your title policy is backed by T.I.—the company with America's largest staff of title specialists and up-to-date land records in every county it serves.

Area Big Factor in Home Buy

Location is one of the most important factors in the selection of a home, according to Walter Simmons, official of Westwood Gardens in Garden Grove.

Simmons attributes much of the picturesque residential community's wide acceptance to its unexcelled location, in the heart of one of the Southland's most rapidly expanding areas.

The development is adjacent to new, modern schools, just a few minutes walk. Model residences are on display in a home show that clearly demonstrates a high standard of living excellence and luxury and are priced within the budget of the average family. Terms are actually lower than rent, Simmons stated.

The builders have put three model homes up for sale at prices that are a saving of several thousands of dollars. The homes are complete with carpets and drapes, landscaped, trees, shrubs, lawns, sprinklers front and rear and fenced. Built-ins are a part of the luxury features of these homes and they are ready for immediate occupancy.

Fireplaces are real wood burning of brick, Palos Verdes rock and used brick according to the interior decorating and color coordinating.

QUALITY CONSTRUCTION

Both lath and plaster construction and a wide of ceramic tile are featured at Bolsa Park in Huntington Beach. Corner lots are still available.

Ceramic Tile Widely Used in Homes at Bolsa Park

Comments from large crowds of homebuyers express pleasure at finding both lath and plaster construction and a wide use of ceramic tile at Bolsa Park in Huntington Beach, said sales director Ernie Merrill.

Genuine lath and plaster construction is offered in Huntington Beach only at Bolsa Park, according to Merrill.

The Ceramic Tile Institute has extended congratulations to Bolsa Park for its imaginative use of ceramic tile, he said. Bolsa Park homes offer a ceramic tile kitchen with breakfast bar, full ceramic tile bath with shower over tub, and separate ceramic tile shower with special decorator tiles.

STILL AVAILABLE on a first-come, first-served basis are choice cul-de-sac and corner lots with pricing no higher than other lots, Merrill said. This chance for a preferred preselection is offered prior to formal opening of the new second unit.

Priced from $19,250, the Bolsa Park homes are offered with 3 or 4 bedrooms, 2 full baths, and a large family-dining room. Custom entry and loggia areas highlight four plans by William M. Bray, AIA, who designed the 1961 Research Home. The loggia areas give access to all rooms, cutting wear-and-tear on living areas.

Available are new 35-year.

MOVE IN BY CHRISTMAS!

INVITING LIVING ROOM

Sales of attractive Dutch Haven Unit No. 19 homes are continuing their upward swing despite usual Christmas slackening, sales agent Edward Boyd reports.

Dutch Haven Sales Rise Shows New Yule Trend

As the Christmas season approaches, traffic and sales at Dutch Haven's new Unit No. 19 in Huntington Beach are continuing their upward swing. Indicating in the opinion of Edward S. Boyd, exclusive sales agent for Dutch Haven, the start of a new trend in Christmas gift-giving.

It is usual, said Boyd, for home sales to slacken during the holiday period and it could logically be inferred, from recent increases in Dutch Haven sales, that many couples are foregoing the traditional "dress and suit gift exchange" this year in favor of the mutual gift of a beautiful new home.

Located on Edinger Avenue near Bolsa Chica, Unit No. 19 was first previewed early in November and since that time, has experienced record-breaking sales and traffic. It is the third Dutch Haven unit opened since May of this year. The other unit, No. 18 is located on Beach Boulevard.

"American Home Series" models are being featured exclusively at Unit No. 19 and

Bank Aid to Travel After Retiring Dec. 31

There aren't many places left for Gordon McGowan to see but he has every expectation of continuing his worldwide traveling after his retirement from the Long Beach branch of the Security First National Bank.

When he says "we've been most every place" he is not exaggerating in the least. He and his wife, Dorothy, spent three months in Europe last summer, visiting 14 countries during their stay. After a 45-day cruise across the Atlantic, the McGowans enplaned from London to see the rest of Europe.

Two years ago, the couple boarded another boat which took them on a cruise of the South Pacific. In addition, the McGowans have seen much of the United States and Canada in their travels.

McGOWAN WAS born in Sarnia, Ont., Canada, and

Time to Move Into New Home by Yule

Buyers can move in before the close of escrow and enjoy the holidays in their own new home at Golden West Estates in Huntington Beach, said George and Merlin Sant of Sant Construction Co., co-builders with McCarthy Co.

Golden West Estates now offers lower monthly payments as a result of their new 35-year, 5 1/2% FHA terms, the first such terms in Huntington Beach, the builders said. FHA down payments are from $800. Also offered are VA terms with no down payments, and conventional terms with down payments from $695.

Priced as low as $17,500, Golden West homes are available in 22 exterior stylings, including provincial, colonial, Spanish, Monterey ranch, contemporary and Hawaiian. The homes offer 3 or 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, large family rooms, and over-sized 2-car garage. The Pageant Realty Co., sales agents, administer an exceptional trade-in plan which allows buyers a cash refund or lower monthly payments when their equity in their present homes exceeds their down payment.

Big Tower Highlight of Seattle's Fair

SEATTLE (UPI)—Visitors won't have any trouble spotting the site of the 1962 Seattle World's Fair, whether they arrive by land, sea or air.

They can't miss the symbol of the space age show, a 600-foot steel structure mounted with a revolving, saucer-shaped restaurant and capped by a flaming gas torch. Fair officials have named the spectacular spire the Space Needle, and already it is the most talked about, photographed item of the fair's extensive array of futuristic showpieces.

The needle, shaped like a gigantic, modern sculpture of a full-grown lady of steel with an extremely narrow waist, rises from the 74-acre fairgrounds at the foot of Queen Anne hill to an elevation that will place viewers 150 feet higher than the hill crest.

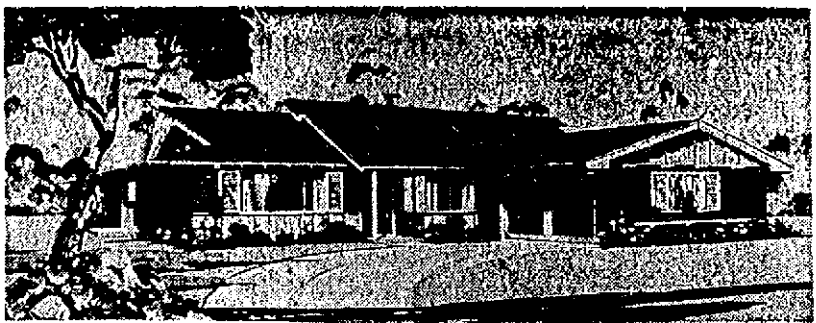

IN FACT, if there's anything in all of Seattle higher than a visitor atop the Space Needle, it's flying.

Fair officials expect more than 10 million visitors between the opening and closing dates of the show, April 21 to Oct. 21, and it's a good bet that practically all but those suffering acrophobia or heart trouble will take the trip to the top.

One of the jokes going the local rounds has another restaurant, called the Chicken Out Inn, planned for the bottom of the spire.

The trip to the Space Needle restaurant or observation platform will be made by high-speed elevators, traveling at an 800-feet-per-minute clip and designed with portholes.

THE RESTAURANT will revolve once an hour. Thus, in the time it takes to eat lunch or dinner, space diners will see the full sweep of the city's horizon. The view, in addition to the fairgrounds below and the city, will take in much of Puget Sound, the Cascade Mountains with 14,410-foot Mount Rainier to the east, the snow-capped Olympics to the west and Lake Washington which defines the city's eastern limits. The restaurant will seat 260 persons.

Pre-Crop Quotas Hit at State Group Meet

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly Interim Committee on Agriculture has been told a proposal to set marketing quotas before crops are grown would put California at a competitive disadvantage with other states.

The committee, headed by Leverette House, D-Brawley, held a two-day hearing into the proposal and another which would make the strict voting requirements of the California Marketing Act needed to approve an order.

Stephen D'Arrigo of D'Arrigo Brothers Co., Brawley, a lettuce grower, told the committee that when growers approve such provisions as pre-production quotas "we give up our rights to make our own individual decisions" on production and marketing.

D'Arrigo said Imperial Valley lettuce growers, who use a supply control marketing order, this season voluntarily cut 10,000 acres from production.

BUT HE SAID Arizona, Texas and Colorado growers, none of whom have marketing orders, quickly filled in the vacuum with significant increases in planting.

D'Arrigo said differences in the time of planting in different parts of the country would work to the disadvantage of California growers in competitive crops.

He said if marketing quotas were announced before planting and California growers planted accordingly, Texas growers in the lower Rio Grande Valley would still have time to increase their acreage to make up the difference.

Frederick Hawkins, representing the Canners League of California, said canners opposed both measures.

HAWKINS SAID if quotas had been in this year's processing tomato crop, canners said they could not have met the demand.

Tomato growers this year planted a record 150,000 acres, at record prices, but adverse weather cut crop expectations by about 15 per cent.

Support of the measures came in a telegram read into the record from John Kovacevich of Arvin, a member of the State Board of Agriculture.

Kovacevich said the bills "would improve the operation and administration of the California Marketing Act for the farmer-industry groups who find it practical to develop programs under the act."

Spending Soars

NEW YORK (UPI)—From 1956 to 1960 consumer spending for grooming items, education, foreign travel and medical care jumped by approximately 40 per cent each. Spending for such services as insurance, brokerage fees and investment counseling rose from $14.6 billion in 1956 to $20.6 billion last year.

Natural Blonde

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Laurie Mitchell, who was required to wear a black wig in "Some Like It Hot" because she too closely resembled Marilyn Monroe, reverts to her natural blonde hair for her role with Cary Grant in "Touch of Mink."

FHA Terms Spur Sales at Sunkist

New FHA terms at Sunkist Plaza have accounted for many sales, according to the Huntington Beach development group. The terms incorporate a 35-year loan with immediate occupancy.

Representing the first phase of a proposed 2200-unit development, which consists of more than 100 contemporary-designed homes, Sunkist Plaza was described as putting a premium on quality construction and the development of 4 floor plans along with 25 exteriors.

The plans include three or four bedrooms, family room, two baths, built-in gas range and oven, wall to wall carpeting, slump stone or brick fireplaces and forced air heat.

AMONG OTHER terms plans at Sunkist Plaza are the Cal-Vet, as well as VA terms of no down payment and $95 move-in cost.

Prices start at $17,450. Monthly payments start at $96.28, including principal and interest.

Shopping centers, schools, expanding local employment and recreation facilities are cited as nearby factors by Sy Bram, general manager.

50th Year Marked at Big Creek

FRESNO (UPI)—This week marks the 50th anniversary of Southern California Edison Co.'s Big Creek hydroelectric project.

Fifty years ago the $214,000,000 project was begun and since that time it has grown into a major power source for Central and Southern California.

The operations currently includes a chain of man-made lakes, dams and powerhouses which harness the melting snows from 1,200 square miles of the High Sierra. To date, it has generated an estimated 85 billion kilowatt-hours of electricity.

TODAY THE project's 6 lakes, 15 dams, and 8 powerhouses are capable of generating almost 700,000 kilowatts — enough to supply a city of almost a million population.

ing spaces for each apartment. Planned for the top of the parking structure is a recreation area with a swimming pool and cabanas.

Adjacent to the recreation and pool-deck area would be boat slips for the use and convenience of the tenants. A helicopter landing is provided for the roof top. Planned for the ground floor is a sheltered boat landing for water passenger service from downtown Long Beach and other points.

GIBBS SAID that the building would provide a unique view of all segments of the marina, the Alamitos Bay Channel, Naples and the Pacific Ocean.

Owners in the project are W. H. Campbell, C. M. Cooper, R. A. Lowe and L. E. Williams, all of Long Beach.

Gibbs said that construction could start on the building on April 1. It would take about seven months to complete.

MR. ROSS W. CORTESI, BUILDER OF ROSSMOOR LEISURE WORLD, COOPERATIVE GOLD MEDALLION APARTMENTS

Rossmoor Leisure World

1ST ALL-ELECTRIC CITY USHERS IN THE ALL-ELECTRIC FUTURE

6,750 Gold Medallion Home units featured in largest and most advanced senior-citizen community ever developed

Its name: Rossmoor Leisure World. Its location: Seal Beach, California, near Long Beach. Its single source of power: electricity.

Every one of the 6,750 cooperative apartments is a total-electric Gold Medallion Home unit.

Why? Because Mr. Ross W. Cortese, builder, and Mr. Lewis M. Letson, President of Golden Rain Foundation, sponsor of the multi-million dollar undertaking, wanted it to be the best-planned, most up-to-date project of its kind in the world. Above all, they wanted it built for the all-electric future. "Naturally this called for the cleanliness and ease of operation of Gold Medallion Home units," says Mr. Letson.

Senior-citizen residents will enjoy insured medical care and drugs—short of hospitalization—included in moderate monthly payments for apartments. Leisure World will be the first to provide housing, social, medical, recreational, religious and shopping facilities at one centralized location.

Among many unique electrical features are electrical outlets placed two feet above the floor to eliminate the need to bend; built-in safety night lights; individual room electric heat control, with radiant electric heat in ceilings.

Whenever you build or buy, use the same good judgment that guided Messrs. Letson and Cortese. Go all-electric.

Only one new home in five is able to qualify for the Medallion Home Award. The requirements: a flameless electric kitchen; full "Housepower" wiring; abundant lighting. A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these plus flameless electric space and water heating.

Computers to Cut Agriculture Department Costs—Freeman

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has announced an administrative improvement program for the agriculture department.

He said it would cut costs and increase efficiency of the department by putting electronic computers to work on routine record keeping and paper work.

"It will contribute to the productivity of administration," Freeman said. "It will give effective public management."

Freeman said the new system, designed entirely within the department and using existing equipment, is expected to:

- Eliminate more than 17,000 individual reports now required each year.

- Centralize into one office payroll preparation now done in 87 offices, and enable payroll checks to be issued automatically.

- Reduce administrative costs of payroll and maintaining records of employees by $15 per year per employee.

- Provide savings of as much as $1.5 million per year once the new system is in full operation.

- Give department management new tools for program evaluation which never before have been available to a government agency.

—Give professional and technical employees greater opportunity for advancement and service in their special field.

Freeman said the conversion to computer operation will reduce labor requirements by 241 man-years, the equivalent of 241 employees per year. No one is expected to lose his job because of the new system. Those who are displaced by the machines will be reassigned by the department.

THE COMPUTER work will be done on a machine which the department already owns and is using in the New Orleans commodity office, and on a presently rented machine in Dallas, Tex.

The administrative improvement program will be put into effect in two steps. The first, already under way, will combine payroll, personnel record keeping, and related budget and accounting work into an automatic data processing system. This will be put into operation early in 1963.

The second step will be put into operation by 1964. It will apply the information gathered from payroll, personnel, and related budget and accounting operations to new management techniques.

Freeman said the administration would have a substantial farm program to put before Congress next year.

He said he believed President Kennedy would deliver a special message to Congress on behalf of his plans although there was nothing firm on this as yet.

HE SAID the proposed farm program "hasn't jelled yet." Ever since the 1961 Farm Act was adopted the department has been considering ways and means of bettering the agricultural situation, he said.

The National Broiler Advisory Committee has set up an eight-member subcommittee to "draft a possible self-help program" for the broiler industry.

The full 30-member committee met here for two days with agriculture department officials to review the possibility of stabilizing broiler prices through some form of marketing regulation.

Marina Hills Bow Attracts Throng

Grand opening of Marina Hills in Seal Beach last weekend attracted a tremendous number of people. The prospective home buyers were enthusiastic about Marina Hills "homes that grow". These luxurious two story view homes are architecturally designed to grow—planned for future expanding, as needed.

The large double garage can easily and inexpensively be converted into a rumpus room or den. Some are completely plastered and each garage has a door into the house.

The porte cochere or carport can be used now for parking or boat storage and can easily be converted to an enclosed garage or another room.

More room to grow is provided by a spacious sun deck which will accommodate additional rooms. Also, every lot at Marina Hills allows ample room for a swimming pool.

MARINA HILLS homes each have three bedrooms, two baths and a den or formal dining room. Deluxe electric kitchen includes Kelvinator built-ins with range and rotisserie oven, Modernaire hood, automatic dishwasher and garbage disposer. Glamorous bathrooms feature built-in marbleite pullmans and ornamental fixtures. Several models have double lavatories.

More quality features in these Medallion homes are all-wool mohairproof carpeting, beautiful custom fireplaces, oversize closets (some walk-in), concealed TV antennas and forced-air heating systems. Kitchen and dining room (or den) are separated by a convenient serving bar.

BUYERS of Marina Hills homes may choose from a selection of several smart exterior designs and well-planned room arrangements.

Expert Sees 'Relatively Slow' '62 Home Building

CHICAGO (UPI) — The home building industry, hit by the 1960 recession, lagging through the first half of 1961, faces another relatively slow year in 1962, a housing economist has predicted.

Leon Kendall, of the U.S.

See Surge in Building Supplies

NEW YORK (AP)—Sales and earnings of most building supply companies are likely to make good recoveries next year, an investment advisory service says.

However, the Value Line Investment Survey is of the opinion that a keen competitive situation in most products will prevent a general return to the 1959 level of profits.

It bases its outlook for sales and earnings on an estimated 6 per cent increase in new construction spending in 1962 over 1961.

Other sources predict that new housing starts will rise to 1.35 or 1.4 million.

VALUE LINE agrees that residential activity, which has lagged until recently, is expected to provide much of the thrust for next year's advance.

It says building materials makers whose primary market is housing can expect the best demand for their products since 1959.

"But," it adds, "with the vacancy ratio at the highest level in many years, the increase in family formations expected to be modest, and the threat of tighter long-term money rates by next spring overhanging the mortgage market, a real boom in home building seems improbable."

Value Line points out that it is more difficult to make a profit in the building materials manufacturing business now than at any time in the past 10 years.

THIS IS because capacity for almost every type of product exceeds demand, imported products are cutting into some markets, and swollen fixed costs created by the capital investment programs of the past five years put pressure on managements to cut prices in attempt to obtain volume.

There are quite a few indications of a strong January for the stock market, says Joseph E. Granville of E. F. Hutton & Co.

Weakness in the electrical equipment issues — 22 companies were hit by price-fixing damage suits — has done nothing to upset the balance of strength, he feels.

Other strong indications for continuation of the rally include the new high in General Motors, the continued advance of Standard Oil of New Jersey and further mushrooming of strength in the steels," Granville says.

"When the market comes within sight of a peak which still may be weeks or months away, it is usually preceded by some groups topping out well ahead of the market. The savings and loan group appears to have topped out. Weakness in this group also had no disturbing effect on the market as a whole. The strength shows no signs of abatement."

Castro's Loss

MIAMI (UPI) — Florida farmers are increasing their plantings of sugar cane to cash in on the cut-off of Cuban sugar imports. The Sunshine State will produce 2.1 million tons of cane this year, compared with 1.6 million tons in 1960. Next year output is expected to climb to 7 million tons.

GOOD LOCATIONS mean better business. Check Classified "Business Property" for right spot for your organization. Look now.

savings and Loan League, made the prediction in an interview at the 18th annual convention-exposition of the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB).

Kendall estimated residential building starts in 1962 would total 1,350,000-1,400,000, only seven to eight per cent above the projected total of 1,275,000 for 1961.

He noted that town houses, apartment houses and other multifamily dwellings accounted for 27 per cent of new housing in 1961 and predicted this trend would continue. He foresaw little increase in the market for single homes until close to 1970 when this year's crop of newlows is in the market for a house.

"In the meantime," Kendall said, "single homes will have to come down in price to attract the young families who are the only potential buyers."

He foresaw wide discussion at the NAHB meeting of price-cutting building techniques, including increased use of panels, plastic materials and prefabricated construction.

"If building codes must be revised to permit these innovations, builders will agitate for the changes," Kendall said. "They have faced up to the fact that cutting $1,000 from the cost of a house may be the difference between selling it or not."

Kendall also anticipated considerable talk among the builders of the possibility of federally-ordered open occupancy before the close of 1962.

Winnie Cross, program chairman for the board, said that Roberts is a leading authority on the subject of real estate investment trusts.

Realtors to Hear Former IRS Head

Jack Roberts, formerly of the office of chief counsel, Internal Revenue Service, will address the Long Beach Board of Realtors at 7:15 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 19, at the Crown Cafeteria.

With the increased agitation for civil rights, the administration conceivably might take this step in the next year," he said. Such an order, regulating the use of mortgage money insured by FHA or the Veterans Administration, would, in effect, force builders to sell to any responsible buyer, regardless of race.

"Builders are running scared of any such order," Kendall said. "It could drastically curtail the sale of houses, at least temporarily."

Whip That List! Tote Those Gifts

By IOLA MASTERSON
I. P.T. Women's Editor

Well, Ho, ho, ho! Christmas is just a fortnight away. And ow, ow, ow! These next two weeks will test the soles of shoppers.

But to the rescue. Here are some just-barely timely tips to ease your shopping chores and keep your serenity and good looks. Basically, they are provided by Max Factor, the make-up man with a few notations of my own.

Ways to spare feet, temper, backbreak and illusions are, as follows:

Before you take the next shopping step, sit down and make a list and plan of operation. Beside every name, list size, color and other vital statistics. See how many gifts you can order from local stores by phone for delivery—it's too late for that good, old standby, the catalog, now. You can save miles by judicious use of your telephone and careful checking of I, P-T ads which call attention to the gift items our many fine stores are featuring.

REMBER, too, that many large department stores have personal shoppers. They'll round up all manner of things for you, send them through for gift wrapping and hold them at the Will Call Desk or send them, COD or charge, to your home. If you are REALLY the indecisive sort they will even make your selections for you if you will just give them the amount you want to spend and a few hints about the person—age, size, type, etc.

Plan to duplicate last year's successful gifts, pleasing new recipients with your thoughtful choices—already pre-tested.

YOU HAVE 12 shopping

days left until Christmas. Divide this number by the gifts you still must purchase—or by 10 if you want to be finished in plenty of time. (Ha!) Before you become dead-set on a specific item, check by phone to make certain it is still available and where. This is no time to wander aimlessly from shop to shop, parking lot to parking lot.

SHOP ALONE. No adage better speaks the truth than the one which says you know what about one who travels swiftly.

Wear comfortable clothes, especially shoes—the roomiest you own—and check the weatherman's forecast before you start out for the day. Wear something appropriate to the temperature expected. Don't sacrifice good grooming, says Factor. The shopper who looks like a slob gets treated like one.

DON'T GO all day like a steam roller. Break up the hours with a stop for lunch in a pleasant place; shorter stops for coffee, tea or Coke.

Between counter scrimmages, go to the powder room a time or two. Kick your shoes off (if it's a room that lends itself to such informality) or sit at the dressing table for a few moments while you re-do your make-up.

Never shop until you're overcome by exhaustion. This is the season to be merry. If you're too tired to be pleasant with your husband and children, you'll be defeating the spirit of Christmas.

Last but not least, repeat after me: "I will never again be caught so late in the season with so little accomplished, so help me!"

Ideas for Your Holiday House

Deck Your Home With Imagination

By ELISE EMERY
I. P.T. Staff Writer

You've waited until this last minute to dress your house for the holidays?

Borrow ideas from Mrs. Gerald V. Martin, professional florist and decorating consultant for some of Hollywood's most glamorous parties.

"From items readily bought at stationers, art supply stores, hobby shops or even variety stores, you can create arrangements vibrant with color, elegant in design," said the slender, silver-blond.

The Martin home is one of seven on the "Christmas in Rossmoor" homes tour, presented by Rossmoor Woman's Club today from noon to 6 p.m. Mrs. Martin has chosen "Angels of the Orient" as theme for her contemporary style home at 12372 Foster Road.

In her 25 years as a florist on both the East and West Coasts and in Hawaii, she has done decorating for such events as the wedding of Henry Ford II, the coming out party which introduced debutante Delphine Dodge to society ("we'll never again see such an era of elaborate private parties") and numerous charity balls.

AS SHE completed holiday plans for her home, Mrs. Martin described methods she used to create the angel display, set against a rich blue background.

Angels are made of heavy white cardboard, poster board weight. Decide first on proportions you want. For her arrangement, mounted on a 3 by 5 foot background, Mrs. Martin cut strips 2½ by 27 inches.

You will need two strips for the body and two for the arms, which are about half the size of the body pieces.

Round off the edges in form long, narrow ovals. Cut six body-size pieces of cardboard for the wings, but trim corners off on the diagonal. Wings also may be made from ribbon.

THE HEAD is a white, satin-finished Christmas ornament, with eyes and mouth (no nose) painted with enamel. Glue on a copper scouring pad for hair and add a gold doily at the back to form a halo.

Wrap the hanging or "neck" end of the ornament with adhesive tape, then with wire; staple the wire to one end of the first body piece.

Decorate the two smaller arm strips with braid, ribbon, rick rack or scraps of fabric to make sleeves. Use your imagination here, adding sequins, tiny jewels or any decoration you wish. Staple the arms just beneath the head, add wings sprayed with gold and glittered.

Dress the second body piece in similar fashion, then staple it to the top of the first strip, covering neck and arm joinings. Add a jeweled ornament or bow of narrow velvet tubing to cover staples.

NOW for the background. Use plastic glue—no other kind is satisfactory—to join sections of styrofoam, if you cannot find a piece as large as you need. Cover this base with organza, or a similar material, in the color of your choice. Fasten the fabric to the back of the styrofoam with dressmaker pins.

Cut styrofoam in an irregular shape to form a base for the cloud. With an apple-corer make holes through which you can push electric twinkle lights. Mount the cloud at the top of the background styrofoam with florists' fernpins or short pieces of wire bent in hairpin shape. Cover cloud and lights with puffed-out angel hair. Pin completed angel figures beneath the cloud.

BECAUSE the finished arrangement is lightweight, it may easily be hung over a fireplace, as Mrs. Martin will use it, or for dramatic effect on a wall.

Big Brims Get Straw Vote for Spring

... also given top billing are drape shapes, flower towers

By MARY ELLIS
I. P.T. Fashion Editor

Big brims are out to win the straw vote for spring.

Some are big enough to turn cartwheels. Others make a portrait, frame the face, shade the orbs, roll up around high crowns, slouch over one eye or push back to show the hairline.

They play ring around the rosie (also pansy, cysanthemum, daisy or just any posie) on chapeaux of maline, straw cloth, nylon braid, bali pan (a smooth straw; finer than bali buntle) and toyo.

Proving that spring millinery will be brimful of fashion, designing members of the California Millinery Guild have given top billing to "hatter hats."

But also in the running are chiffon wraps and drapes, tailored pillboxes, high-rising turbans and chic cloches.

Wisteria sets the pace for pastels in California-designed millinery. But every hue is represented—including blues and greens, rosy romance shades, blacks and whites (always popular), as well as flag-waving Americana combinations of red, white and blue.

And, democratic-like, there's a style for every woman.

Junior League Debs Are Impressive

Traditionally, debutantes are endowed with grace, good looks and social acumen; and statistics on the 1961 Junior League presentees reveal these qualities with some noteworthy additions.

Of the 13 young women who will be presented formally on Dec. 27 at Pacific Coast Club, 10 are active sportswomen — including a national champion sharpshooter, a scuba diving instructor, swim show soloist, dog trainer and another who gives trampoline exhibitions.

Indoors as well as out the girls are impressive. All attend college and share among them 10 different alma maters and 5 national sororities. Six of the debs won top state scholastic awards in high school, and six are artists of no mean talent — one is a ceramist of national recognition and another has exhibited water colors at the Los Angeles County Fair.

Their ages range from 17 to 20; their heights from 5'2" to 5'9"; and their career plans include law, foreign language, marine biology, business administration, music, psychology and education. Among them they have eight sisters and eight brothers; six have traveled or lived abroad; five are daughters of Junior Leaguers.

and her family lived in Salsburg, Germany. Linda Bock, a 90-pound 18-year-old, packs a 15-pound target gun. In 1959, with the Randal Team composed of 10 top women shooters in the U.S., she won an international trophy. Now at U of New Mexico, Linda majors in advanced Spanish, is an Alpha Chi Omega pledge, and a member of the National Rifle Association.

BLOND, blue-eyed Sharon Dach was Alpha Phi "pledge of the month" in October at LBSC. Joan Reinhalter, a Pi Beta Phi pledge at USC, has interests ranging from baseball and clothes designing to her English major.

Four of the debutantes are Californians of long standing background. Vicki Durham's maternal grandparents crossed the plains in 1851 and were active in the founding of San Bernardino. Vicki, who was a Kappa Kappa Gamma pledge at Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., currently studies at LBCC. Michelle Murphy's grandparents also traveled the covered wagon trail and helped in development of San Diego. Michelle is a Delta Gamma pledge at U of Arizona.

Lesley Pearsall, whose maternal grandparents were long-time Long Beach residents, is a Kappa Kappa Gamma pledge at U of Oregon and president of the freshman dormitory. Sue Buell's family name can be found in Buellton, Calif. Sue is the third generation of her family to attend Occidental College.

Blond, and poised, Marie-Louise de Bronac comes from a family whose service to France is a proudly cherished tradition. She is a Delta Gamma and an education major at UC, Santa Barbara.

CHARLSIE Huey has a national instruction certificate for scuba diving and studies marine biology at Oregon State where she has pledged Pi Beta Phi. While at Poly, she won the Exchange Club scholarship and national scholastic recognition.

Rebecca Jackson and Kathleen Sheeran both went from Poly to LBCC, both are 18. Rebecca, a blue-eyed brunette with naturally curly hair, likes dramatics; Kathleen enjoys sewing and water skiing.

All 13 of the girls have been meeting since August to share plans and parties in anticipation of their formal debut during the Christmas holidays.

Tristram R. Swan and Carolyn Dyer Are Wed

Carolyn Donita Dyer and Tristram Robert Swan exchanged nuptial vows at a recent double ring ceremony at First Brethren Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Dyer, 3849 Rose Ave., wore a gown of white peau de sole trimmed with Alencon lace and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and orchids.

Her attendants were Mrs. George Christian, matron of honor, and Questa Swan, the bridegroom's sister, Carol Abbey, Mrs. Lyle Marvin, the bride's sister, and Mrs. Roger McPheeters, bridesmaids.

Donnie Jean Marvin, the bride's niece, was flower girl. Others in the wedding party were Quentin B. Swan, the bridegroom's twin brother, best man, and Lyle Marvin Jr., Brian Avers, Glenn Harmonson and Duane Swanson, ushers.

BOTH THE bride and bridegroom, who is son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace R. Swan of Canoga Park, were graduated from Brethren High.

She attended Pasadena City College School of Nursing where she was secretary of the Student Nurse's Association and was graduated from Memorial Hospital's School of Nursing.

Mrs. Tristram R. Swan

The bridegroom was graduated from Cerritos College and now attends LBSC. He also was graduated from Los Angeles Sheriff's Academy.

The newlyweds are at home in Long Beach following a honeymoon in Palm Springs.

FROM HONORARY Phi Beta Kappa at Poly, where she won a Two-Jeweled L. Janie Fast continues activities at U of Oregon where she is a Delta Gamma pledge, freshman AWS secretary and a pursuant of skiing, sailing and psychology.

From kennels to cartooning, Eleanor Ann Boyle's interests are enthusiastic. She owns a beagle and has won several trophies for dog obedience training. Now a freshman at Scripps, she is taking advanced German, developing a skill acquired during the three years she

Beta Sigma Phi Sets Yule Fete

Long Beach Area Council of Beta Sigma Phi will have its annual Christmas party Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Tropical Room of Elks Lodge.

A champagne cocktail hour will precede dinner; following will be a brief business meeting and exchange of gifts. Mrs. Thomas Carter is in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. John Cordes

Cordes, Gurley Are Wed

Ruth Ann Gurley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Gurley, 167 E. 67th St., became the bride of John W. Cordes, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallace Cordes, 5451 El Jardin St., at a recent ceremony in North Long Beach Community Presbyterian Church.

The bride, attended by Mrs. Jean Jones, matron of honor, wore a gown of white satin and carried a cascade bouquet centered with a white orchid.

Both she and the bridegroom were graduated from Woodbury College. He attended Wilson High where he was a member of Lambda Sigma and LBCC where he was affiliated with Order of Tong.

She was secretary of Alpha Sigma Rho at Jordan.

INCLUDED in the wedding party were William Anderson, best man; Shelly Haven, flower girl; Marshall Bell, ring bearer; and Ronald Cordes, Michael Loegering and Russ Hill Jr., ushers.

Following a honeymoon in Northern California, the newlyweds will make their home in Downey.

Violet Society

African Violet Society will have its annual Christmas party and gift exchange at 1 p.m. Thursday in Linden Hall. Mrs. Dorothy Powell succeeded Mrs. Florence Mitchell as president during the group's November meeting.

ALL WE WANT . . .

For Christmas, a fur coat, diamond pin or new car would be fine—but first of all we want a dance, say Bachelorettes Club members (left) Pat Brinkerhoff and Lois Williams. And Santa's all for the idea—promises there will be dance, in fact, it's slated to take place this Saturday at Lafayette Hotel at 7 p.m.

Bachelorettes to Greet Holidays With Dance

Red and white Christmas decor will lend enchantment to the regal setting of Lafayette Hotel Red Velvet Room Saturday evening when Bachelorettes Club of Long Beach stages its annual holiday dinner dance.

Guests will be greeted by Patricia Brinkerhoff, president, and Lois Williams, vice president and dance chairman.

Invitations for the event, which opens with cocktails at 7 p.m. followed by dinner at 8 p.m., have been extended to inactive and honorary Bachelorettes as well as members of Auxiliary to Childrens Memorial Hospital.

Max Laurence and his orchestra will provide music for dancing until 1 a.m. Kay Cayley, with Connie Lu Berg as accompanist, will lead Christmas carolling during intermission.

DECORATIONS for the event will feature a 15-foot flocked white tree prominently displayed before a huge mirror. Table centerpieces will consist of feather trees gleaming with dainty ornaments.

The decorations will be sold at the close of the dance with proceeds to be donated to the Auxiliary to Childrens Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Harrison Moore, auxiliary president, will assist in the sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Ewens

Elderweds Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Ewens of 3440 Josie Ave., will be honored at a party celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary next Sunday.

The party will take place from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in El Dorado Park Clubhouse, 2800 Studebaker Rd.

Married in Hallsville, Mo., in 1911, the Ewens lived on a farm near Centralia, Mo., until 1920 and then moved to Belleville, Kan., where Ewens worked for a railroad company for 32 years. Upon his retirement the couple came to Long Beach where they now make their home.

THEY ARE members of the Christian Church, Eastern Star and Masons.

They have four children Mrs. Louis Leonard, Santa Monica; Mrs. Joe Vanous, Wilmington; James V. Ewens, Los Angeles; and Richard D. Ewens, Poway, and seven grandchildren.

Little Club--A Heritage of Service Then and Now

"Remember when" will be keystone words when members of Little Club celebrate their 30th anniversary Tuesday. The event will be a combined birthday and Christmas luncheon at 12:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. John W. Buol, 4251 Pacific Ave.

They will recall how they first happened to join together. It was in December of 1915, a year of confusion and deepening depression, that Mrs. Roland Swaffield invited a group of friends to her home for luncheon. It was not designed as a social function but as a serious working session to decide how they could best help the jobless through the Press-Telegram's Christmas Cheer Fund at the holidays.

On the spot it was decided help just at Christmas was not enough. They organized into a club to give year-round aid, deciding to make their main contribution by providing layettes for families without means of securing their own.

Later, Little Club branched out into various phases of community philanthropy.

FOR INSTANCE, they purchased this city's first infant respirator and presented it to Seaside Hospital; they bought orthopedic equipment for Tichenor Clinic and volunteered their services as receptionists and office workers.

In 1942 members assumed charge of the Municipal Service Men's Club canteen. With assistance of friends and neighbors they manned the canteen for 10 hours a day, 7 days a week, providing homelike food and friendship to a steady stream of men and women in uniform. For the 42 months that Little Club administered the canteen an average of 500 service men and women were served daily. With the generous support of patriotic organizations and citizens $45,000 was raised to cover this operation.

Members recall with satisfaction how the club was one of the first co-sponsors with Municipal Art Center for an art show and reception. They purchased three winning canvases to present to the center as a nucleus for a permanent collection. They remember presenting a $1,000 check to Exceptional Children's Foundation making it possible to begin construction of the school building . . . of supporting hospital clinics, day nurseries, the Salvation Army, and a variety of other causes.

AT TUESDAY'S celebration the talk will not all be of remembering but of the future, too. New officers will pick up the challenge of guiding the club in continued efforts for the good of Long Beach.

Mrs. Laurence B. Urdike will accept the president's gavel. Serving with her will be Mmes. Leslie E. Geary, Frances Singleton Able and Paul H. Dudley. Mrs. James G. Craig Sr., the outgoing president, will officiate.

Perfumes—for Beautiful Gifts

WILD WAVES SAY . . .

By Iola Masterson • I, P-T Women's Editor

FLYING high with happiness—like you know, man, out of this world—are a guy named Philip Ober and our own former localite Jane Westover. Reason for all this successful orbiting is that they'll be married Dec. 30 in Beverly Hills.

Phill is a well known motion picture and television actor. You may not recall his name from cast credit lists but you'd know his face.

Standing up with the couple will be Ralph and Alice Bellamy. Jane's daughter and son-in-law, Marj and Chet Smith, will be present—in fact Chet will give the bride away. Invited to attend the intimate ceremony are Virginia and "Ches" Braley of Long Beach and Bobby and Bob Gray, Rolling Hills.

Filmland guests will include Norma and Burt Lancaster, K. T. Stevens and her husband, Hugh Marlowe.

The newlyweds will spend a New Year's honeymoon weekend with the Bellamys and Jimmie and "Bill" Cagney at the Cagney's desert home near Twentynine Palms.

A SUSPENSEFUL day (there were so many gorgeous door prizes) a merry one (over 950 women present) a brilliant day (style show, decorations and tree display all terrific) at Downtown Opti-Mrs. annual Candy Cane Lane holiday party Tuesday at Lafayette Hotel.

In fetching bibs and tuckers spotted Arlene Lockyer, Lynn Powers, Mavis Calderella, Eileen Wetmore, Marian Magree, Ruth Grisham, Lei Smith, Georgia Nelson, Olga Springer and Vera Springer, Dottie Whitford, Bobbie Carlson, Ethel Case, and, as an educated guess, about 962 others.

SHORT OF being struck slightly loco or seriously out of town, no one on the guest list ever wants to miss Marvella and Bob McNulty's big, merry holiday cocktail buffet—an affair of next Sunday. The party is traditionally for Armed Services people and city officials since of Bobbo is Armed Services chairman for the City of Long Beach.

DISCOVERED that localities Artie and Al Stevenson and Ethel Severson were guests at a most fascinating, glamorous party. They were dinner guests of Queen Nazli, Queen Mother of Egypt (her son is King Farouk) and of her daughter, Princess Fathia with her husband, Riad Ghali, at their family home in Beverly Hills. It was an exceedingly continental affair.

RAIN OR fog, snow or sleet, even a touch of unseasonal heat, won't stay more than 100 from their rounds tonight. "Their rounds" meaning a round-trip trek to Gwen and Dean Jones home for holiday open house being co-hosted by Charlene and Jim Frutchey.

HERE IT IS! The oldest known local bridge club meeting consistently over the years.

Haven't checked m' crystal ball but can't imagine that we'll find one to beat it. Helen Curry headed my plea for information about the senior club.

The scoop is this. It started in 1919 when a group of former friends, all graduates of Poly High, served together in the Red Cross Tea Room and served as an RC auxiliary to make layettes for the Belgians during World War I.

From patriotism the gals went on to bridge and have never ceased either. The original gang included Mona (Hershey) Beck, Lillian (Lynds) Brunn, Helen (Deems) Curry, Dorothy (Funnell) De Coudres, Madeline (Lupher) Gardner, Louise (Stewart) Garner, Rena (Darling) Kennedy, Billie (Teepie) Smith, Dorothy (Swartz) Updike, Emily (Stewart) Mencke, Mayre (Schonemann) Hall — she now lives in Santa Cruz — and Etta (Jones-Wornder) Yates, who lives in Sierra Madre but still joins the card table cronies at every opportunity.

Sue (Richardson) Teepie is the only "newcomer". The members, who will celebrate their 43rd anniversary as a club in January, say that they haven't got a secret in the world from each other. How could they? They're all grandmothers now; in fact, Lillian is a great-grandmother.

"SIMPLY gorgeous" raved guests of Helen Hamman, Virginia Avery and Lois Fellowes of their Christmas tea at Virginia Country Club Thursday. Most spectacular part of their decor were the red and green bead leis the three made (all by hand, no less) for the assistants. They were wreathed with holly (they painstakingly cut all the prickles off so don't worry) and red baubles.

Simonds-Fota Vows Said

More than 400 guests attended the recent wedding ceremony at Saint Anthony's Catholic Church uniting Loretta Frances Fota and Robert Bruce Simonds.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Augustine Fota of 4317 Stanbridge Ave., was attended by Helen Gibbons, maid of honor, and Geraldine Smorol, Linda Smith, Lois Knoll, Marjorie Simonds and Mrs. Barbara Newton, bridesmaids.

For the ceremony the new Mrs. Simonds chose a gown of ivory silk taffeta and a crown of seed pearls with fly-away silk illusion veil of ivory.

Her bouquet was composed of two dozen white roses intermingled with stephanotis.

THE BRIDEGROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Adams Simonds of Los Alamitos, was attended by William Simonds III, his brother, as best man. Ushers were William Fota, James Starrich, Thomas Welch, William Perry and Richard Robbins.

Both the bride and bridegroom were outstanding high school students. She was awarded a scholarship to Immaculate Heart College for Women while at St. Anthony High, along with Bank of America, DAR and Good Citizenship awards. She was active in a number of clubs and was student body and junior class president and prom princess.

FOLLOWING STUDY at Immaculate Heart College, the bride enrolled at LBSC where she now is a senior. She is a member of Tri Delta and Little Sisters of Minerva.

Mrs. Robert Simonds and is included on the Dean's List.

The bridegroom, an alumnus of Wilson High School, was graduated from Long Beach City and State Colleges. At City he was Tilsman Council President and active in sports. At LBSC he was president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon's pledge class and a member of the varsity crew for one year.

The newlyweds departed for a honeymoon in San Francisco and Las Vegas following a reception in their honor at Long Beach Yacht Club. They will reside in Bellflower.

Sigma Kappa alumnae and members of the sorority's Gamma Theta Chapter at Long Beach State College will join today for an open house at the chapter house, 3400 E. First St.

Guests will be greeted at the door by Mrs. Harry Averill, special chapter advisor; Mrs. Fred Barnes, corporation board president; Mrs. Floyd Yates, alumnae president; Paula Capps, chapter president; and Mrs. Grace McNeal, house mother.

A tour of the house, under direction of Ellen Ransom, house manager, is scheduled and will include the display of chapter trophies. Particularly prominent will be the most recently acquired trophy for first place for stationary display on campus during homecoming activities.

NATIONAL officers expected are Mmes. A. F. Friebe and Ed Douglas, junior vice presidents; Mrs. Frank Jones, province president; and Mrs. Ralph Hickey, state recommendations chairman.

Chairmen for the day are Mmes. Robert Alcorn, Elliott Armstrong, Alex Hansen, Bert Seidenberg, Harry Averill, Fred Barnes, Misses Mary Kay Ryan and Ellen Ransom.

Harry Fulton Is Program Speaker

Harry Fulton of the city manager's staff will be speaker when members of the Retired City Employees Club meet Thursday at Veterans' Park Clubhouse, 28th Street and Pine Avenue.

His topic: "A City on the Move."

Potluck dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. Cards will conclude the evening's program.

Four DAR Chapters List Holiday Events

Gaviota Gifts for DAR schools and a program of American music will be the two features when Gaviota Chapter meets at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in Veterans Memorial Building. A 12:30 p.m. refreshment hour, hosted by Mrs. D. Leroy Leatart, will precede the business session. Executive board convenes at 11:30 a.m.

Dr. and Mrs. James H. Hughes will present the musical program and Mrs. Robert L. Freeman, chairman of DAR Schools, will have a Christmas tree with cash gifts for the schools. Visiting DARs and prospective members are welcome.

Los Cerritos Miss Caroline Shotwell will entertain members of Los Cerritos Chapter at their annual Christmas party in her home Tuesday. Following a business meeting, each member will relate a short story experience or thought of Christmas.

Western Shores "Give Us CHRISTMAS, not Xmas for America" will be topic of Chaplain Fred C. Crumb's talk to Western Shores Chapter when it meets Tuesday in Panorama Room of Lafayette Hotel. Executive board session at 10:30 a.m. precedes 11 o'clock general session and noon luncheon.

Miss Pat Rathmann, senior at Poly High School, has been chosen to receive the DAR Homemakers' Award in sewing sponsored by the chapter.

Long Beach Holiday music will be enjoyed during Long Beach Chapter's annual Christmas party and luncheon Friday in the home of Mrs. Robert N. Clingan. Mmes. Glenn Taylor, John S. Moffet, William Sandison, Thomas P. Rose and Miss Edith Holton will assist the hostess, Mrs. Robert McKechnie is chairman of the day.

Pi Phi Alumnae in Holiday Meet

The home of Mrs. Don Will, 3852 Myrtle Ave., will be scene of the Pi Beta Phi alumnae Christmas party at 7:30 p.m. Monday. The hostess will be assisted by Yvonne Shaw, Jean Pittblado, Louise Mangold and Del Ward.

Members will take food and clothing for the club's adopted family for Christmas. A "talent sale" also is planned, featuring items made by members.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zuber

Zubers, Wed 60 Years, Honored at Open House

A festive open house next Sunday, 2 to 5 p.m., will celebrate the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zuber, 3634 E. Fourth St.

It will be held in the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Simpson, 413 Ocean Ave., Seal Beach.

Co-hostesses will be the couple's other two daughters, Mmes. Peter Gaden and Albert Schaefer, both of Long Beach.

ASSISTING to greet the 100 hidden friends and relatives will be grandchildren of the honorees, Mrs. Lloyd Knott, Sue and Monty Gaden. Also present will be their great-grandchildren, Shelly and Nancy Knott and Kim Gaden.

Masses of yellow and gold chrysanthemums, as well as arrangements of yellow roses, will be used throughout the Simpson home to carry out a gold and white motif.

The Zubers said their wedding vows in 1901 in Gettysburg, S.D., with the bride's father, the Rev. M. E. Bacon, officiating.

John Simpson Wed in Santa Monica

A honeymoon trip to Yosemite and Monterey followed the recent marriage ceremony in First Methodist Church of Santa Monica uniting Anne Lenore Couchois and John Frederick Simpson.

The bridegroom is the son of long-time Long Beach residents Mr. and Mrs. Matthew C. Simpson, 4455 Myrtle Ave. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs.

Maxim Bryan Couchois of Malibu.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the new Mrs. Simpson wore a peau de soie and organza gown, fashioned with floral appliques on panel inserts. A pearl and lace crown held her fingertip length veil and she carried butterfly orchids with stephanotis.

Attending the bride were her sisters, Kathy, maid of honor, and Carol, bridesmaid. Both wore gowns of autumn haze peau de soie and carried yellow and bronze mums. Completing the wedding party were Richard W. Dickinson, best man, and Donald H. Witort and Daryl Uecker, ushers.

THE NEWLYWEDS now are at home in San Jose while the bride completes studies toward her February graduation from San Jose State College. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

The newlyweds then will return to Southern California while the bridegroom completes his studies in economics at U.C.L.A. A member of Beta Theta Pi at that school, he recently was released from six months national guard duty at Fort Ord.

Reflective Quality Is Desirable

A mature or older woman can be just as fashionable today as she was during her younger years, providing she practices the correct art of applying her make-up.

To keep from looking overly made-up, one beauty authority advises paying particular attention to choice of cosmetic colors.

Primarily, choose shades that have a high light reflective quality. These will help diffuse any lines or wrinkles, whereas darker colors tend to cause shadows which accentuate these conditions.

USE FACIAL make-up with an undertone of pink or rose to supplement any loss of skin color. Check rouge should be in pastel shades of pink or coral. For the eyes, the new powder eye shadow is an ideal light reflective requisite. Lips should be flattered with the attractive, soft shades of matte finish lipstick.

Holiday for Sote

Buffer supper, dancing and gift exchange will be on the party agenda Saturday when Sote Club members and guests gather for their annual holiday celebration in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kustura, 7139 Rosebay St.

"The First Lady of the World," Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, will visit Long Beach Tuesday.

Preceding her public lecture in Convention Hall of Municipal Auditorium at 8:30 p.m., she will be honored at an informal reception and banquet in the Red Velvet Room of Lafayette Hotel.

Both the banquet and lecture are sponsored by the Kahn-Guggenheim Forum of Temple Israel under the chairmanship of Irving Schneider and Dr. Julius Robbins.

Tickets for Mrs. Roosevelt's lecture, "Will America Live Up to her Role of World Leadership?" will be available Monday at the Trans American Agency, 143 W. Ocean Blvd., from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Reservations by phone will be held at the Auditorium box office until 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

THE LECTURE is being presented as a public service with no partisan or sectarian implications, states Irving Schneider, chairman of the sponsoring committee.

Banquet arrangements have been made under the direction of Mrs. Revan d'Komaroff assisted by Mmes. Gottlieb and Alexis Jacobowsky.

Mrs. Jacobowsky, president of Southern California State Council of American Association for the United Nations, a personal friend of the guest of honor, currently is serving on the National Board of Directors of AAUN. Mrs. Roosevelt is chairman.

Decorate for Holiday Program, Speech on Agenda for Christian Women's Club

PUSH a wooden dowel into a styrofoam ball about the size of a baseball and secure it with plastic glue. Set the dowel in a paper cup filled with plaster of paris mixed to a thick, creamy consistency. Allow plaster to harden, then place in any inexpensive container. The one pictured is ceramic vase from the dime store. Spray container and dowel with gold paint.

Make roses of tissue paper in harmonizing or contrasting colors. For each flower use a strip of tissue 6 by 20 inches. Place the paper horizontally. Fold over 2 1/2 inches. You will now have a strip 3 1/2 by 20 inches with a single thickness at the bottom.

WITH THIS single edge as a base, fold one end of the tissue around your left forefinger in a little funnel shape. Wind tissue around your finger, crushing and pinching it in at the bottom. When rose is completed, hold it firmly, slip it off your finger, then wrap the base with fine wire.

Next, use wire to fasten flower to a toothpick or florist's pick. When all roses are completed accent them lightly with glitter. You are now ready to assemble the tree.

Place the first blossom in the top center of the styrofoam ball. Add others symmetrically, designing as you proceed. Last, tuck gold leaves among the roses—but don't overdo this—use leaves sparingly for best effect.

For a wreath in your own color scheme, make roses from tissue paper but do not attach picks. You will need an 18-inch wire frame fashioned from a coathanger or bought at a florists' supply house.

THE FRILLY background is made of net in two colors.

Use a yard-and-a-half of each color. Cut net into 6-inch strips, join pieces together and gather to fit frame. Tack the two ruffles of net together, then sew the frill to the frame with overcast stitches. Wire a gold leaf to each rose, then pin flowers around wreath. Finish with a three-color velvet bow at the top.

You will find more holiday ideas beautifully expressed in traditional and modern fashion at other homes on the Rossmore tour, which will begin at the S. T. Lashbrooks, 11306 Loch Lomond Road.

Residences open today are those of Messrs. and Mmes. Alan Pollock, 11348 Wembley Road; Paul H. Hoffman, 3111 Donnie Ann Road; H. E. Stone, 11552 Donovan Road; Robert R. Gault, 2651 Piedmont Avenue; and William M. Couzens, 2702 Brimhall Drive.

Sylvia Andrew, professional florist-decorator, will demonstrate the making of Christmas decorations for the home at monthly meeting of the inter-denominational Christian Women's Club Wednesday.

Meeting will take place at noon in the Recreation Park Clubhouse, 4900 E. Seventh St.

Minetta Plescher, 430 Orlena Ave., is in charge of reservations which must be made before Tuesday noon.

Rev. Jackie Burris, First Baptist Church, Los Alamitos, will be honored speaker. A well known traveler and evangelist, Burris has been seen and heard on television and radio.

Mrs. Gladys Sorensen, soprano soloist, will furnish Christmas music.

Smith and Trower Names Are Linked

East Side Christian Church was setting for the recent marriage of Jennie Lee Trower and Richard Eugene Smith.

Mrs. Richard Smith

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Holton Trower, 833 Atlantic Ave., and the late Benjamin Rush Trower, wore a gown of white peau de soie and carried a bouquet of rosebuds, carnations, stephanotis and lilies of the valley.

She was attended by Diane Mary Wilson as maid of honor. The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Lincoln Thomas Smith, 321 Pomona Ave., and the late Mr. Smith, chose Dwayne Wetzstein as best man. Arnold Hess, the bridegroom's brother, was usher.

THE NEW Mrs. Smith was graduated from Poly High where she was a member of Tajma. She was affiliated with Delta Delta Delta at LBSC.

The bridegroom was graduated from Wilson High and LBCC where he played varsity golf.

She Has Designs On Confirmed Bachelor

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: I'm a single, attractive female, age 23. I have a good job and work hard. There is a certain single male, Dr. X, in his early thirties, who makes frequent calls where I work.

I have known him, shall we say casually, for the past year. I have become more and more interested in dating him, but while he seems interested in me, it's never to the point of asking me to go out with him.

He is quite well off financially, but, cross my heart, it's his charm that gets me.

His brother says Dr. X is a "confirmed bachelor." He can stay a bachelor, as far as I'm concerned, if he'll just date me, his admirer.—BAFFLED BELLE

DEAR BAFFLED BELLE: I'm not against seeing snags set for eligible males, bless their selfish little egos.

Soon, knowing ahead of time that you run the risk of being turned down, so no pride goeth before a fall, ask him to join a group for a dance, or dinner, or picnic, or movie party, or some such.

Remember, he can only say no, and there's a chance — yes, a chance — for a yes. Let me know!—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: I feel like crying. I love my husband very much, but I need help! You see, he's ashamed of me.

He doesn't like the way I look, the clothes I buy, the way I drive, bowl, or play cards. He has criticized me so much I'm beginning to feel like a lopsided piece of furniture instead of a wife.

Hardly a day passes I don't dissolve in tears because of his rudeness.

Oh, he's a good husband in many ways — doesn't drink or stay out nights, is generally good to me. But how am I supposed to feel when he keeps saying, "I wish you were like this, or like that?"

I'm beginning to feel like —MRS. MISFIT

DEAR MRS. MISFIT: Maybe you'd be more congenial if you made him feel slightly misfitted, too. Let him know he has a few faults, too. And let him understand you're willing to overlook the flaws in his perfection if he'll shut up about yours.

He sounds as though he doesn't fit into a happy marriage — and won't until he's whittled down to size. —M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: For the past two years I have heard, "My darling, when we're married I'll stop drinking, I promise you." He drinks a lot, Molly, but he claims that once we're married he'd have things to interest him, and care for, and wouldn't need the booze.

I have two children from

Newlyweds Residing in Washington

Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. James W. Knehans (nee Lynne Hall Lewis) are residing in Everett, Wash., following their recent wedding at Chapel of the Wedding Bells, Bellflower.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Lewis, 5312 Killdee St.; the bridegroom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Martel Field, 3320 E. Second St.

FOR THE ceremony the bride wore a white waltz length gown of Chantilly lace. She was preceded to the altar by Cynthia Hachmeister, maid of honor, and Mrs. Gary Lewis, bridesmaid.

Completing the wedding party were Gary Bell, best man, and Gary Lewis, usher.

The bride is a graduate of Millikan High School; the bridegroom, currently serving with the U. S. Air Force, is an alumnus of Poly High. Both attended LBCC.

Days of Forty-Niners 'CAPTAIN OF KOEPENICK' WRAPS UP FILM SERIES

Lots of things are happening at Long Beach State Monday, but first a brief reminder for tonight: "Captain of Koepenick," last program in the film series co-sponsored by Long Beach Film Society and LBSC Associated Students, has showings at 5 and 7:30 p. m. in the Little Theater. Short subject is a Dutch documentary, "Glass."

One of the events for Monday is the monthly meeting of ACE (Association for Childhood Education) at 4 p. m. in room FA-2-204. Miss Ann McFaddin, who staged a popular demonstration last year, is back by request to present a Christmas workshop in which all present will take part.

Then, in keeping with Bill of Rights Week, is a twin presentation of Phi Lambda Chi, pre-legal fraternity. At noon in LH 151, James C. Malone, assistant dean of the UCLA law school, speaks on "Bill of Rights, 1961." Immediately following in the Chart Room there is a PLC luncheon with Dean Malone again the speaker. This time he discusses various aspects of getting in, staying in, and graduating from law school.

Later in the day AWS stages the traditional Christmas Sing which signals the start of the Christmas season on campus. It's at 8:30 p. m. in the main dining hall. Santa Claus, candy canes, a reading by Dr. Ronald Foote of the speech faculty, and lots of Christmas caroling are on the program. Dr. Charles Neiswender leads the group singing.

INCIDENTALLY, any of our readers agree that the Zeta Tau Alpha quartet (the one with the little girl and the stool) got lost in the shuffle when it came time to pass out awards at last week's barber shop quartet contest? In our opinion, this foursome had some of the best harmony of the night. We don't mean to take anything away from the others (and congratulations to Delta Gamma which seems to have a strangle hold on sweepstakes trophies), but if barbershop singing advertises harmony and the ZTA's had it—just what do the gals have to do to catch the judges' eye?

Wesley Foundation built an enjoyable evening around three events last Wednesday . . . first, 65 WF members gathered in Los Altos Methodist Church for their regular dinner meeting; Dean F. Thomas Trotter of the Southern California School of Theology in Claremont was main speaker, "On Communicating the Gospel Through the Art" . . . then on to the LBSC campus to view the stained glass exhibit . . . from there to the Little Theater for T. S. Eliot's "The Cocktail Party" . . . and to round out the evening, a discussion group with the play's director Dr. Stanley Kahan explaining its meaning and importance.

Knows Sweet Smell of Success

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L. P. T. Food Editor

His college yearbook might have read—"The magnetism of his personality will always draw people to him."

We're speaking of H. Gregory Thomas, today's Chef of the Week, and president of Chanel, Inc., the company whose product is the dream of every woman. Though Thomas was born in New York, his education was cosmopolitan, encompassing Switzerland, France, Spain and England, as well as the United States. With an M.A. from Cambridge, England, and a doctorate of law from the Universities of Paris and Salamanca, he had his own office, practicing Public International Law in Paris, where he lived 14 years. At the close of this period in his life, he represented one of the South American countries at the League of Nations in Geneva.

In 1934, Thomas gave up his law practice to handle the affairs in America of one of the fine French perfume companies. He later participated in the founding of the Toilet Goods Association, became first director of its board of standards and today is a lifetime honorary director. It was in 1939, that he became associated with Chanel, Inc.

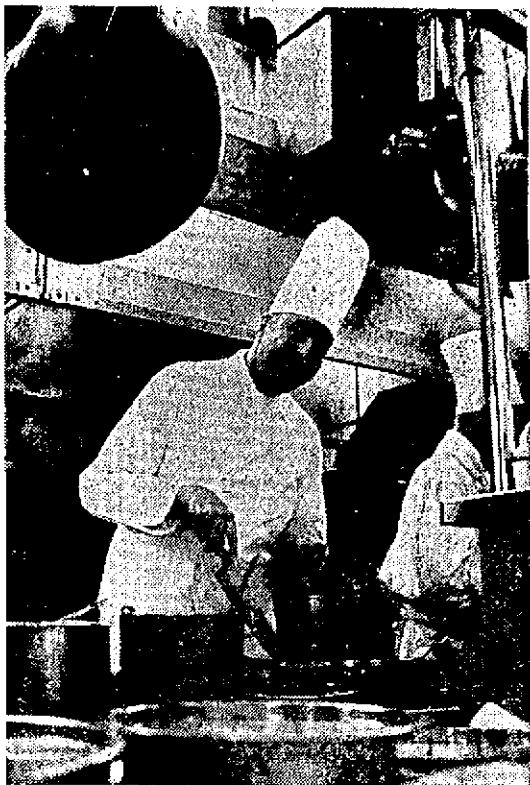

PROBABLY one of the most outstanding and adventurous feats, of his career, and one which made a real contribution to the perfume business in the United States, occurred in 1940, when Thomas brought many essential oils out of France to this country. It was during the crucial wartime period.

During World War II, after serving the Office of Strategic Services, Thomas became special assistant to the American Ambassadors to Spain and Portugal, serving in these countries from 1942 through 1945, when he returned to the perfume industry.

That Thomas has continued to display keen interest in the field of America's foreign affairs is evidenced by the fact that since 1948, he has been a director and member of the Free Europe Committee participating in the development of Radio Free Europe which broadcasts to satellite countries behind the Iron Curtain. Its activities are well known through the nationwide campaign of the Crusade for Freedom.

A CHEVALIER of the French Legion of Honor, he is a director and member of the Executive Committee of the Federation des Alliances Francaises.

A gourmet and a wine connoisseur, our "chef" is a member of several great

French wine societies: grand master of the Commanderie de Bordeaux and Grand Officer of the Chevaliers du Tastevin, the famous Burgundy wine group.

While Thomas is a big man, both in stature and accomplishments, we assure you all the big pots, 'n pans 'n kettles pictured are not necessarily a part of his cooking ventures. For instance, his Chicken Livers Granada. Here's his recipe:

CHICKEN LIVERS GRANADA

3 slices bacon, diced
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
3/4 pound chicken livers, cut in bite-sized pieces
2 tblsp. flour
1/2 cup chicken stock
1/2 cup dry red table wine
1/2 cup sliced ripe olives
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1 tblsp. dry or medium sherry

Salt and pepper to taste
Cook bacon, onion and green pepper together slowly in a large, heavy skillet until bacon begins to brown. Add chicken livers; saute over medium heat for about five minutes, turning livers often. Sprinkle with flour; add stock and red wine; cook, stirring gently until mixture boils and thickens. Add olives, parsley, sherry, salt and pepper. Serve piping hot, without delay. Serves 4.

Voice of the Vikings HOLIDAY IS HIGH POINT IN CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

Liberal Arts

Christmas vacation fever already has hit the Long Beach City College Carson Street campus, but students still have a week of classes (including tests and term paper due-dates) to look forward to, along with seasonal activities.

Preregistration for the spring term continues, with Priority II enrollment (for those with 17-34 units of college work) starting Monday.

Holiday events this week include a candy cane sale (Tuesday) and AWS coed snacktime (Wednesday), annual Faculty Club Christmas Tea (Wednesday afternoon) and annual "Red and Green Day" festivities Friday.

Associated Women Students are sponsoring all of the aforementioned events except, of course, the faculty party—which is being hosted by the physical education department.

Fashions from local shops will be modeled by LBCC students at the snacktime, set for 11 a.m. Kris Cunningham is the chairman in charge of the candy cane sale, proceeds from which go to the AWS scholarship fund.

Friday's "Red and Green Day" will include a Christmas sing at 11 a.m. in the student lounge, along with a college choir concert. Refreshments will be served in the quad after the program, according to committee chairman Shaulla Sauerbier. —DEL DANIEL

Business, Technology

Christmas programs also are predominant this week on the LBCC Business and Technology Division campus.

All ASB members are invited to the Inter-Club Council Christmas party at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the gymnasium. Assisting in various parts of the production are Norsemen (door committee), Sigma (decking the hall), Christian Fellowship (hosts, table arrangements), Paciolian Society (decorations for serving tables) and the Airframe and Powerplant Club (providing a 15-foot Christmas Sock).

The ASB Council has engaged the Chuck Hix Orchestra to play for dancing, and Bowling Club is in charge of entertainment. Club members will escort independents to the party as their guests.

In addition to seasonal community service projects already noted here, Voksens are making "sock dolls" for the children in hospital welfare wards. Sigma had a bake sale and is helping with the Leukemia Fund campaign. Members of Electrical Industrial Regents devoted many hours to decorating the tall pine tree in front of the T-Building on the Pacific Coast Highway

Casting Club

Christmas will be celebrated by Long Beach Women's Casting Club at a party, 12:30 p.m. Saturday, in the Compton home of Mrs. Earl Thomas, 14826 Williams Ave. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Jennie Bishop, 5017 E. Broadway.

campus. ASB president Bill Brundage has announced the following new Student Council appointments: Edwin Jenkins, Sue Arnold, Carolyn Blackford and Kathryn Altman.

(Editor's note: And with warmest season's greetings to all, "voice of the Vikings" hereby retires from the scene until January, 1962).

It's Human to Talk Too Much

CHICAGO (AP) — Women talk too much, admits a dis-taff researcher from Michigan State University. But it's just one more sign that they show more human concern than men do. "Communication is a quality that is distinctly human," Dr. Elizabeth M. Drews told Girl Scout leaders recently at a regional conference here. Garrulity is just one more quality ascribed by men as a weakness that could be turned into strength if given the proper guidance.

The Michigan educator suggested that women put their talents for human concern to helping the underprivileged in our own country, the underdeveloped abroad in such fields as education, social services, and the medical profession.

Major & Minor Notes LISA DELLA CASA WINS PLAUDITS IN SOUTHLAND

By RACHEL MORTON

I. P. Music Critic

There is a word in the German language which cannot be adequately translated because it combines too much. The word is "gemutlich" and it means homelike, kindly, cozy, genial and friendly. That was the atmosphere all about us recently when I interviewed the world-famous soprano, Lisa Della Casa, in a little bungalow right under the mountains in North Hollywood.

The "gemutlich" spirit was felt at once as her handsome husband, Dragans (which means "darling" in Yugoslavic), came to the car to greet us. Two years ago Lisa Della Casa made a great impression upon me when I heard her sing Mimi in "La Boheme" with the San Francisco Opera. So, when I knew she was to sing a recital in Pasadena a few weeks ago I was in the second row.

LISA gets "under one's skin." On the recital stage she combined her luscious singing with ingratiating wiles of charm and winning personality. You felt you had known her all your life. Then came "Die Meistersinger" at the Shrine Auditorium with the San Francisco and her Eva captivated me anew. No shy German fraulein was this Eva! She was impulsive, young and adorable. Her costumes were beautiful and she sang with golden liquid tone. Having sung Eva myself, I know the hazards of the difficult quintet. Miss Della Casa's voice vaulted the whole ensemble in purest vocalism. I sent her my rave review the next day, and the day after her husband called me, inviting me to come and see them. How avidly I accepted THAT invitation!

EUROPEAN hospitality at once made itself felt. The table was spread with "goodies" and Vesna (which means "spring" in Yugoslavic), their charming 10-year-old daughter brought in the coffee. I usually do not eat between meals, but who could resist such kindness?

Lisa Della Casa is a handsome woman; perhaps 5 feet 6 inches tall and very slender. Her brown eyes sometimes take on a grey-green shade when she warms to her subject. She has beautiful white teeth and, with no makeup but lipstick, her shock of black hair accentuates an olive complexion. Both husband and wife apologized for their informal attire, but under a mountain, what could be more appropriate?

BEING of Italian descent, Lisa loves gay colors. She wore blue-green capris with a jacket in a deeper shade. The silk tricote blouse was cerise. I imagine these two people like our California casual living. On Lake Constance in Switzerland where they have their fixed residence, their home is a palace of 30 rooms built of stone more than 700 years ago. It even has its own chapel.

"We are now planning to spend our summers there," Lisa informed us. "After all, we have to have some home life when the rest of the year is booked solid with singing engagements."

Farce Opens Friday at Off-Bdwy

A Don Juan character, killed while escaping from a situation arising from one of his amorous adventures and "returned to life" as the most beautiful woman in the world, is the subject of Off-Broadway's production opening Friday night.

Diane Weber will play Charlie in "Goodbye Charlie," the George Axelrod farce. Charlie's best friend, George, will be played by Milt Kogan and Rusty by Merrill Ann Haddan. Others in the cast are Carole MacLean, Bruce Roth and Larry MacLean. Fred Martin directs.

TRYOUTS for the forthcoming Off-Broadway Theater production of "The Immoralist," adapted from a novel by Andre Gide and A. Goetz, will be held at 2 p.m. today in the theater, 211 Lime Ave. Needed to complete the cast of the play, which John Williams will direct, are a young Arab boy, a confused young husband and several mature men.

TOYS OF THE WORLD

Bluebird Randi Gottlieb is captivated by display in Christmas toy exhibit at Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. She admires horse puppet from Burma, dancer puppet from Bali. A Balinese shadow puppet hangs on wall (right); jumping jack from West Germany is on front of pedestal. More than 200 colorful playthings will be on view through Dec. 29.—(Staff photo.)

Two Yule Programs at LBSC

Two free Christmas concerts will be performed at Long Beach State College this week.

Traditional carols, folk melodies and contemporary works are on the program to be sung by a 500-voice chorus Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. in the college gymnasium.

LBSC's a cappella choir, directed by Frank Pooler, and the women's chorus, directed by Miss Frankie Phillips, will be hosts to five schools in the area.

Participating music groups and their directors are the choirs of Anaheim Union High School, Carey L. Gibbs; Jordan High School, Carl Robertson; Inglewood High School, Leslie Van Dyke; Montebello High School, Kenneth L. Cook; and Leland Stanford High School, Frank Allen.

THURSDAY at noon the 200-voice 49er choir, directed by Charles Neiswender, will perform Saint-Saens' "Christmas Oratorio" in the college Little Theater. Special parking arrangements have been made for campus visitors.

Soloists will be Jean Hockney, Gavnor Trammer, Julie Overseth, Barney Spencer and Allen Spencer.

Singers will be accompanied by strings from the college orchestra, harpist Harriet Wood and organist Larry Whitson.

"who has everything." Long Beach galleries are bursting with varieties and prices for every taste.

The Art Association Gallery in the Villa Riviera has a collection of 142 works, pictures and sculptures, priced from $5 to $95 with pleasant concentration in the $15 to $35 range. Many are excellent, too numerous to cite, actually; among them are some lovely paintings of flowers and landscapes as well as abstract works. Several artists of recognized stature are represented.

ART RENTAL at the Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., offers gift certificates which enable your recipient to make his or her own selection of a distinguished 3-month visitor for home or office. These begin at $5, insurance included.

John Martin, an expressionist painter of note and deep dedication, is holding his own "backyard sale" today from 2 to 5 p.m. at 420 Los Altos Ave. His oil paintings and drawings are marked 50 per cent below gallery prices. Martin, a painting professor at LBSC, is taking this drastic step to raise funds for his forthcoming sabbatical in Europe with his family. Several of the oils are of golfers.

VELTMAN Gallery, 5608 E. Second St., has special collections for Christmas-gifting: ceramics range from $3.50 upwards; drawings from $7.50; original prints by contemporary German artists from $3; oil paintings begin at $35. The consistently high quality of the artists presented by Veltman is widely recognized.

Florence Ames Gallery, 25 39th Place, has a collection of contemporary Japanese wood block prints priced from $10 up, and a selection of 18th century European tinted engravings beginning at $5.

While there are many more fine offerings in the local area, any of these mentioned can be given with assurance of quality and a sense of saying "Merry Christmas" in a most meaningful and personal way.

Chamber Music

A program of chamber music will be played at Long Beach Museum of Art Friday by Lillian Steuber, pianist; Alexander Murray, violinist; and Wendell Hoss, hornist.

The free concert, which will begin at 8 p.m., will include music by Pierre and Faure.

LBCC Slates Mexican Show

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

A photographic exhibit circulated by the minister of foreign relations of Mexico, "4,000 Years of Mexican Architecture," will open Monday in Long Beach City College gallery, Faculty Avenue and Harvey Way.

The traveling show will be on view through Dec. 15 and, after Christmas vacation, from Jan. 2 to 17. Loaned through the consulate general of Mexico in Los Angeles, the exhibit was prepared in cooperation with the Society of Mexican Architects and the National School of Architects of Mexico.

Examples of contemporary Mexican folk art, loaned by Fred and Barbara Meiers, will augment the show.

Visiting hours in the gallery are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays; 9 a.m. to noon Fridays.

"SEATED GREEN TARA," a sculpture from Nepal cast in solid bronze, is master work of the month at the Museum of Art. John Weeks, educational curator, will discuss the work, which dates back to the 9th or 10th century, when the art appreciation section of AAUW meets Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. The lecture is open to the public.

To provide background information, Mrs. Gordon C. Thompson will review the history of Nepal. After the program, guides will conduct a tour of the museum where the "Arts of Nepal" are on display.

JACK RUTHERFORD, who recently opened the School of Fine Art at 1217 Atlantic Ave., will open a one-man show of his drawings and paintings with a reception today from 7 to 10 p.m.

Rutherford is a native of Long Beach and received his training from teachers in this area.

PAINTINGS by Loretta Ann and sculpture by Sam Michaels are on view at Academy Book Shop, 73 Atlantic Ave.

Two oils by Loretta Ann are in the Museum of Art's permanent collection; Michaels teaches painting and portraiture in the general adult division of Long Beach City College.

DICK SWIFT, assistant professor of art at Long Beach State College, will speak at a meeting of Orange County Art Association Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in Fullerton Public Library. A collection of his prints is on display at the library and will remain through Dec. 30, then will be taken to Orange library for a month's show.

PAUL BARTLETT of Los Gatos has an exhibit of drawings, "Haciendas of Mexico," in the art gallery at the University of Santa Clara. The artist is well-known in the Southland, especially in the Laguna area. He spent months sketching the old haciendas in this display, and is author of two novels, one dealing with Mexico.

FORTY paintings by some of Italy's foremost contemporary artists may be seen at the Alitalia Airlines office, 611 Wilshire Blvd. The collection is valued at more than $40,000. Included are works by such artists as De Chirico, Cagli, Guttuso, Marino Marini, Afro, Mirko, Santomaso, Clerici, Spazzapan, Campigli and Levi.

THE CALIFORNIA Water Color Show will continue through Dec. 30 at Pasadena Art Museum. Paintings by Lee Mullican, glass work by John Burton and drawings by Richard Diebenkorn and Frank Lobdell will remain through Jan. 17.

Schola Cantorum, Choir to Sing Christmas Concert

Schola Cantorum of Long Beach City College, assisted by the College Choir, will present its annual Christmas concert at 8:15 p.m. Friday in the college auditorium, under the direction of Wayne B. Gard.

Tickets will be available from choir members during the week or at the box office Friday night.

"The Magnificent" by J. S. Bach will be performed by the 145-voice Schola in the opening portion of the program. Soloists will be Ruth Lahr, mezzo soprano; Mary Jane Gadd, soprano; Milton Sager, bass; Iris Eshelman, contralto; and Topper Smith, tenor.

IN THE SECOND half of the concert, the Schola will be joined by the choir in a presentation of The Feast of Lights, adapted by director

Gard from an old English cathedral service.

Making use of tableaux, the two choirs will sing traditional hymns and carols against a narrative background of the Christmas story. Narrator will be Kenneth Porter. Soloists will include Sharon NeNobs, Mrs. Eshelman, Janette Dill, Mary Frazer, Paul Ewert and Bob Guyett.

Assisting in production will be technical director James White, stage manager Fred Kobus, tableau coordinator Marlene Silverstone, and members of the LBCC Community Orchestra, directed by Gaylord Browne.

Buoyant Music on Concert Bill

Long Beach Symphony Orchestra will play a program of buoyant music, filled with brilliant color, tonight at 8:30 p.m. in Long Beach City College Auditorium.

Bizet's "Symphony in C Major" which is the opening number, bubbles over with fresh, spontaneous melodies. The composer, best known for his popular opera, "Carmen," wrote the symphony in his 17th year with all the exuberance of youth. However the symphony had to wait 80 years for a performance, which finally took place in Switzerland in 1935. Since then it has become a favorite in symphonic literature.

In contrast to the pleasing but uncomplicated harmonies of the Bizet Symphony, Stravinsky's "Firebird Suite" is intensely exciting music which uses all the resources of the orchestra, including the piano. It is derived from the score for a ballet introduced in Paris by the Ballet Russe in 1910, and was the work with which Stravinsky first achieved prominence.

THE BALLET text is derived from an old Russian legend recounting the story of Ivan, son of the Czar. The suite has six sections describing his adventures as he captures, then frees the magic bird. The Introduction, eerie and somber, is followed by the undulating music of the Dance of the Firebird. The oboe and the harp then play together the graceful melody of the Dance of the Princesses. By contrast, the next movement, the Dance of the Kastchei, is demonic and savage. Next comes a gentle lullaby for the bassoon, then the Finale opens with a soft melody for horn solo.

From this point on, the music gains in intensity and excitement until a feverish section for strings brings the suite to a dramatic conclusion. This is important music, full of originality and charm, and exhibits a use of the orchestra that is both exquisite and brilliant.

LIKE BIZET when he wrote the symphony to be performed this evening, Mozart was only 17 years old when he composed the motet, "Exultate, Jubilate." Marie Gibson, soprano, will sing this work which consists of two arias, separated by a recitative, and concluded with a magnificent Alleluia.

Miss Gibson was a featured soloist in the Hollywood Bowl this season and has an impressive list of successful appearances in opera and concert. She also will sing a group of arias by Verdi, including two from "A Masked Ball" and one from "Ermani."

Lauris Jones will conduct the concert, second in the 1961-1962 series. Season tickets for the remaining five concerts are available at important savings from Mrs. Fred Ohlen-dorf of the Long Beach Symphony Association. Single seats also may be reserved. The box office at Long Beach City College will open at 7 p.m.

Dates Set for Operas

The 1962 Bayreuth Festival of Wagnerian opera will extend from July 24 to August 27. Eight operas will be presented, including two complete "Ring" cycles, consisting of "Das Rheingold," "Die Walkure," "Siegfried" and "Goetterdaemmerung."

Four conductors have been retained for the festival: Karl Boehm, Wolfgang Sawallisch, Hans Knappertsbusch and Rudolf Kempe.

Other operas on the program are "Tristan and Isolde," "Lohengrin," Tannhaeuser and Parsifal. Complete schedules may be obtained from the German Tourist Offices, in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Montreal.

Alice Taylor Takes New Post

Alice Taylor, former manager of Southern California Symphony Association, has joined the James A. Doolittle Productions in an executive capacity.

Miss Taylor was manager of the Symphony Association for 10 years and for the past two years has been executive assistant to the boards of directors of the Symphony Association and the Hollywood Bowl Association.

Needed to fill roles are several French men and women of all ages.

Dr. W. David Sievers, professor of drama at Long Beach State College, will direct.

Books Are Forever Gifts

By MARY NETH
L. P. T. Staff Writer

If you are a book-lover, you've undoubtedly selected a few for Christmas gifts already. But just as a reminder, books are always the nicest of presents to give—and receive.

They come in all sizes, shapes and topics and fit any purse—from the budget-bound to the extravagant. And, best of all, books last for years both on the bookshelf and in the memories of those who receive them.

For Art Minded
Book of the day—David Douglas Duncan's "Picasso's Picasso" is ultimate in this year's crop of over-sized art books. Picasso's personal collection of own works is presented for first time: 101 paintings never before shown are reproduced in full, brilliant color, plus 536 black-and-white photographs. Book also contains 10,000 words of commentary and 32-page word-and-color photo-profile of artist. Before Christmas $24.95; then $30.

For scope, "Horizon Book of Renaissance Art" can't be equaled. Covers whole period with pictures plus running commentary. Beautifully done, excellent color photographs. Before Christmas $14.95; then $17.50.

A treasure for collectors. "Japanese Netsuke," artistic work in itself, is inspiration for those interested in art, orient or decorative ideas. Photographs of little, thumb-size Netsuke carvings are masterpieces in color and placement. $5.15. Bound in Batic, "Exotic Art" is book that's—exotic.

Christmas Party

St. Matthews Catholic Church will have its annual Christmas party next Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in the church cafeteria, Seventh Street and Temple Avenue. There will be a gift exchange and covered dish luncheon. Edith Farmer is chairman.

MAGNOLIA THEATER, 2400 Magnolia Ave., "Lloyd in the Dark," 8:30 p.m., Thursday and Sunday; 8:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday. GPF BROADWAY THEATER, 211 Lime Ave., "Goodbye Charlie," 8:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday.

Features dramatic photographs of ancient artifacts and sculpture. Beautifully put-together; magnificent end-papers, $13.49.

"The Art of Color" by Johannes Itten is one of most comprehensive and authoritative books on color ever written; will be treasured by artists and laymen alike. Fantastic illustrations tell all about color, its mixing; blending and the why's of personal preference. $27.50 before Christmas.

For the Gourmet
"Larousse Gastronomique," encyclopedia of food, wine and cooking by Prosper Montagne is book not only fascinating to read—articles on table service, food values, diet, history of food—but practical, too. The 1,100 pages contain 8,500 recipes, the

Ensemble to Perform

The Ladies Ensemble, directed by Myranna Coon, will high light the program when Long Beach Woman's City Club has its Christmas open house Friday at 2 p.m. in the clubhouse.

The hour-long event of Christmas songs and carols will be preceded by a business session at 1:30 p.m. and 10:30 a.m. meeting.

Mrs. L. H. Jarnagin, forum chairman, will introduce Audrey Stevens, executive secretary of the YWCA, as the morning's speaker. She will talk on "The Work of Our YWCA." Mrs. R. J. Keating will present "Floral Arrangements."

Hostesses for the noon luncheon will be group 12, Mrs. E. T. Adams, chairman.

Luncheon for Holidays

For Children
Whimsy for small fry comes in large-size color books this Christmas. Especially delightful are such favorites as "Babar, the Colorful World of the Little Elephant," in French and English; "Peter Rabbit," Beatrix Potter illustrations and "Alice in Wonderland." Published in San Mateo—all are bound to please anyone from 6 to 60. $3 each.

For Everyone
Human engineering books for people who live in today's world of Millwons, A bombs and breakdowns are popular interest catchers.

Along such lines—"People in Quandries" by Wendell Johnson, $6; and "Our Language and Our World," S. I. Hayakawa, $5.

Other special interests: "American Needlework," an outline of New World embroidery and stitchery from 16th to 20th century, $5.95; "A Pageant of Hats," fascinating story of chapeaux through the ages, $4.

Fisher and Cohen Wed; Living Here

Following a honeymoon in Palm Springs and Las Vegas, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Michael Joel Fisher (nee Carolyn Sue Cohen of Long Beach) are residing at 1780 Park Ave.

Their vows were read before 200 guests in an evening ceremony at the Elks Club.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cohen, 292 Corona Ave.; the bridegroom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Fisher, Highland Park, N. J.

WEARING a French import gown of satin and Chantilly lace, the bride was preceded to the altar by Mrs. Dan Newman, matron of honor; Maxine Sheekman, Wendy Van Winkle, Wilma Zide and Lynn Baskin, bridesmaids.

Completing the wedding party were Robert Fisher, best man; Larry Cohen, Stephen Freedman, Dan Newman and Marvin Baskin, ushers.

The new Mrs. Fisher, a graduate of Wilson High School, attended UCLA, where she was a member of Phi Sigma Sigma sorority. Her bridegroom was a member of Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity, also the varsity football and track teams at his alma mater, Rutgers University.

Pauper In Tailor-Mades

DEAR ABBY: When should a man tell his wife all about his financial affairs? Before marriage or after? I am going with a wonderful man (he's a widower and I am a widow) and he has asked me to marry him. He is good to me in every way, but he has one fault. He has tried to convince me that he has no money. It is not possible for a man to live the way he lives on what little money he claims he has. He told me he bought his car second-hand when I know he bought it new. He also tried to tell me that his suits are inexpensive ready-mades, when I KNOW he has them tailor-made. I would not be extravagant if I married him, but I resent being deceived. What do you make of it?—RESENTFUL.

DEAR RESENTFUL: If your friend thought as much of you as his hankroll, he wouldn't be trying to kid you. Don't expect him to improve after marriage. His type usually gets worse.

DEAR ABBY: I have a sister who has been going with this guy for the last year. She told me this morning that they planned to get married eventually but no date has been set yet. Then she said she hoped it would be soon because she thinks she is expecting. What kind of a wedding should she have under the circumstances?—SISTER.

DEAR SISTER: A quick one!

DEAR ABBY: My boss has lost three secretaries

in the past eight months because his wife insists on letting their 3-year-old child call him on the telephone all day long.

I wouldn't mind it once in a while, but the wife dials the number and, without asking for her husband, she hands the phone to the child and goes off somewhere. All I hear is "da da, da-dee, da-deeee" until I am about to go crazy. How can a girl get her work done? And when there are people in the office waiting for the boss, it is a joke. If this keeps up Secretary Number Four will be looking for another job.—TELEPHONE NURSEMAID.

DEAR NURSEMAID: Tell your boss that the calls from home are interfering with your secretarial routine and suggest he shape up his home front. If he doesn't do it, follow the three wise women.

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the young girl correcting older people's English reminded me of something that happened years ago.

I was in the company of several older people and a young high school girl, who kept correcting their English. Finally, a sweet little elderly retired school teacher leaned over and whispered something into the young girl's ear. She was as quiet as a mouse after that. I later asked the girl what the elderly lady told her. It was: "My child, it is better to have good manners than good English." Respectfully, JOPLIN.

Everybody's got a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, in care of this paper.

ABBY

Sometimes a part score doesn't do a bit of good. Particularly if you are up against someone like Dave Carter of St. Louis, who, in addition to owning around 4,000 master points, is one of our best rubber bridge players.

Dave looked at his tremendous freak hand and decided in view of his opponents' part score that the proper thing was to bid it as slowly as possible.

Therefore, Dave started proceedings with a pass. After West's opening diamond and East's one heart response, Dave produced another pass.

Opening lead—♥8

His next step was to try two spades. West passed and, after East went to three diamonds, Dave went on to three spades.

NOW PUT yourself in West's position and remember that as West you don't get to see Dave's hand. Wouldn't you think that Dave was defending desperately? West did, and West doubled!

East thought of taking it out, but he also thought that Dave was desperate.

Double dummy defense could hold Dave to eight tricks and set him, but West opened the nine of hearts. Dave won the trick with his ace and returned the suit. East took the trick and led the king of clubs, whereupon the roof fell on him. Dave ruffed the club, ruffed a heart, ruffed another club, ruffed his last heart, then conceded one diamond and the ace of trumps.

Polynesian Christmas Show Set

Val Moore Dance Studio will present its annual Christmas pageant of Polynesia as the Community Program for Monday in Exhibit Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

The Recreation Department sponsored event opens at 7:30 p.m. with a half hour of community singing. Following the hour-long stage presentation there will be dancing until 11. Auditorium doors open at 7 p.m.

The stage program will begin with a Christmas luau scene in Hawaii. The show will then trace the seasonal celebration through Tahiti, Samoa and the Philippine Islands.

Hoaloa Club of dancing mothers will perform the traditional dances of Hawaii. Members include Betty Ayers, June Carter, Marge Cooney, Emma Gillis, Mildred Johnson, Katy Knaus, Ruth Leopold, Monna High, Micky Monroe, Jayne Powers, Pat Rebutisch, Ruth Smith, Dee Sward, Leray Bobinsky and Sally Williamson.

Younger members of the troupe will perform modern, comedy, interpretive and instrumental dances of the South Seas.

OUR COVER

Day's work for a quarter horse in racing season is a matter of slightly more than a quarter of a minute—that's how it seems to the better watching his choice among the sprinters flash down to the finish line. But there's far more than meets the eye here; there's a long and tedious period of training and conditioning, and every horse must meet the test of a fast getaway from the starting gate. Two-by-two they practice these starts until they qualify, or else they don't go to the post. They must learn to get away fast because every instant is precious in the short dashes they run. Two horses are shown breaking out of the gate on Southland's cover . . . and there's more about quarter horses on Page 7.

Getting kicked in the shins, his beard pulled or, worse yet, set afire, suffering no end of indignities and boredom . . . That's old Santa Claus coming down out of the safety and peace of the North Pole to listen to all sorts of yammering monsters who reel off lists of Christmas wants, or perhaps commit mayhem on the person of the kindly old gent. But he laughs "Ho-Ho-Ho" unendingly as he sits around department stores and rides in parades. "It Happens Every Christmas." . . . See next Sunday's Southland Magazine.

By Maymie R. Krythe

WHENEVER the Christmas holidays come around, the spirit of yuletide "gets" most of us, and we find it fun to decorate our homes with greenery and other items to lend a festive air.

Centuries ago, at this time of the year, the Romans adorned their temples, statues of the gods and goddesses, and their homes with boughs and garlands of flowers. Also in the northern part of Europe, the people went out to the forests and carried in branches and other greenery to hang on their homes to keep evil spirits away from them. This custom was especially popular in "Merrie England" where such plants as ivy, rosemary, mistletoe, holly and bay were hung up both in the great halls of manor houses, and in the humble cottages of the farm laborers.

Today moderns carry on this ancient custom, and enjoy using our ingenuity to concoct new ways of decorating our homes for the holiday season. There are numerous and clever methods and it is challenging to create original and distinctive touches, which not only intrigue the family but also delight guests.

A good idea, too, is to evolve a special Christmas tradition for your home, and family, and continue it each year. For example, some time ago I saw in a magazine an unusual Christmas that was formed on a wire clothes hanger shaped into a circle. To the wire I fastened candies wrapped in gold, silver, and gaily colored papers, and topped the wreath with an attractive bow of red satin ribbon.

A happy arrangement to brighten the home in the yule season, "Christmas Quartet" has appeal and novelty. With a bit of imagination, other scenes can be evolved.

On my annual holiday visit to my daughter's home, I gave this wreath to my small granddaughter, who was delighted with it. Now each year she sends her regular in-visitation for me to visit them, and with it a "command"—"And, Grammie, don't forget to bring my Christmas wreath." She hangs the wreath in her room, and is allowed to eat a few candies from it each day. So without really planning it, I started an annual custom for her.

Since I am a strong Christmas fan, I try to make my apartment look as "Christmasy" as possible. As soon as the five and ten cent stores display their holiday goods, I go early to see what new or unusual items I can find for different yule arrangements.

LAST YEAR, for example, I was intrigued by a tree ornament in the shape of a street lamp. So I fashioned a scene of my own, using angel hair as the base. I put the lamp ornament on top of a dark green candle (to simulate a street light). I placed under it four of my candle choir boys, and I can almost imagine that I can hear them singing old familiar carols. I find

Padua Hills: Hub of Goodwill

FOR 30 YEARS NOW, a handful of Norte Americanos and their south-of-the-border associates at the Padua Hills theatre near Claremont have been drumming up good Mexican-American relations in a quiet and entertaining way.

They are led by Herman Garner, an industrialist whose passion is the non-profit Padua Institute, its theater and its Mexican players.

Throughout the year, visitors from the world over join in Garner's experiment. They do it merely by making reservations for dinner and the play and then enjoying both.

The whole idea revolves around the Mexican Players who are musicians, actors, singers, dancers, clerks, tortilla-patters, waitresses and husbys rolled into one and done up as nicely as an enchilada for a tasty, tasteful soiree.

A HINT of the evening before him may come to the visitor in the gift shop when he casually asks if the play is a good one and the clerk-weaver-actress answers, "I wouldn't want to tell you one way or another, señor, because I am in it and you might be disappointed."

By Al Krieg

Or in another way: a guest threads past the orchestra in the lobby, is seated in the dining room, but must wait to order until tenor Rogelio Alfaro finishes the ranchera he's singing and steps over to describe the bill-of-fare.

Although he can have American dishes, the guest needn't fear the turkey molle or the cheese enchilada. They're not hot with chiles; one laces them with salsa picante, if he wishes—at his own risk. Throughout the meal one or more of the boys and girls leave their customers to join the orchestra for a song or dance. Now and then there is a "slap-a-pat, slap-a-pat" heard from a corner. It's one of the girls making tortillas from freshly ground masa. Naturally, the slap-a-pat falls into the rhythm of the dance. As soon as they've been griddled on the tiled comal, the tortillas are brought, hot, to the tables.

There's time enough while dining room uniforms are exchanged for stage costumes to visit the other two shops among the olive trees. One displays Mexican style pottery made from the red clay of this Sierra Madre foothill.

A customer may have to wait, though, while Maria del Rosario Montes adds a dab of glaze color on a piece of greenware preparatory to firing. At the Artcraft shop are contemporary ceramics and paintings, many by artists who've settled in studio homes on a lower spur of the hill.

The theater is an indoor one, cool, weatherproof. Appropriately, the fire curtain is an asbestos map of Mexico. For the plays are Mexican or Spanish Californian, either traditional folk plays or in that manner but written by the staff. One of the busiest of the players is Eligio Herrera, director-playwright-actor-singer-dancer. Another is Kathryn Dickinson who makes the costumes, authentic for each play's setting, from Mexican fabrics and trimmings.

With the exception of the annual Christmas play, "Las Posadas," and the spring play of San Ysidro's Fiesta, "En el Mes de Mayo," the presentations are newly written and changed every seven weeks.

THE PLAYS are simple, the characters understandable. The plots hang on such things as farmers' prayers for rain or the lives of Jalliscan sportsmen-cowboys. They offer a far more real picture of Mexican life than does any border town that may be seen on a Southern California visit.

These performances are half of the Garner process for Mexican-American solidarity. The audience leaves the theater feeling it has taken part in some bit of Mexican adventure, fiesta or romance; that as a dashing caballero it has helped a neighbor through hard times, married off a daughter or had a whee of a time at a fiesta.

The productions are in English or Spanish. But whether the Players deliver their lines in halting English or in perfect Spanish, no one fails to get the drift of things.

THE PERFORMERS are the other half of the plan. Of Mexican or Spanish Californian descent, they take the American story back with them whenever they return to Mexico. They have given many a gringo-distruster a favorable picture of what's going on north of the border.

Castanet-clacking hostess-actress-singer-dancer Casilda Amador is a charter member of the company. Some are second generation Players. Romances have flowered in rehearsal, and Garner expects that third generation players soon will be learning songs and dances of Mexican states other than their own.

A summer evening at Padua Hills is wound up with "Jamaica," a miniature fiesta in which all are invited to join the Players on the patio for refreshments, more dancing, songs and games.

And when it's all over, "Buenas noches," echoes on air that has an orange blossom tint as it drifts up from groves below.

Dawn has scarcely broken when quarter horses turn out at Los Alamitos Race Track to go through the training necessary to qualify them for future racing. Workhorses walk along as a calming influence.

Ed Burke, Los Alamitos racing secretary, also turns out to watch the qualifying.

Bangtail Bustout

Story and Photos

By Grant Macdonald

QUARTER HORSES racing at the Los Alamitos track had to go through their paces—qualify—before the meet opened to prove that they have what it takes on the swift, straightaway course.

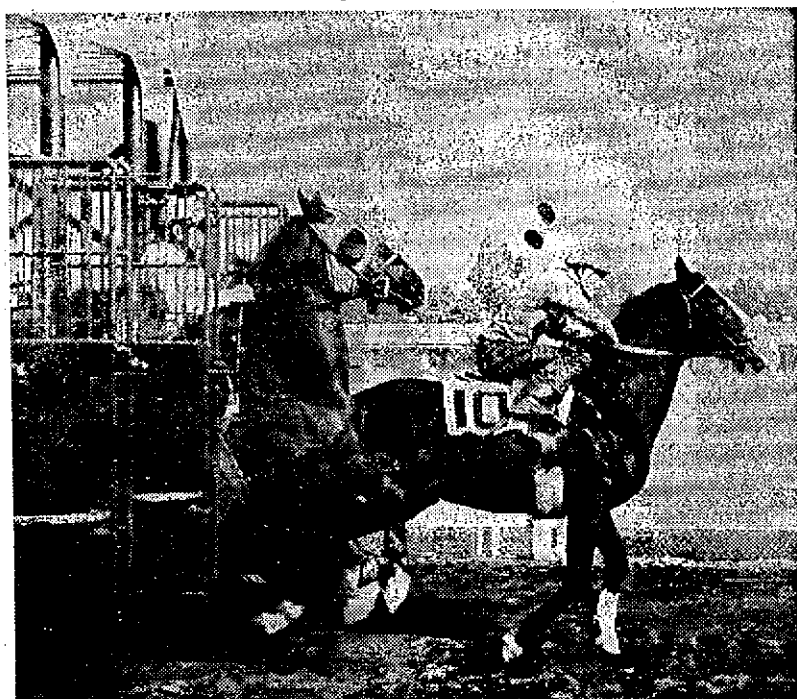

An interesting sidelight of the present meet which continues through Dec. 23, this activity begins shortly after sunup, when a nip is in the air and few bettors are even awake. In the crisp dawn the big electrical starting gate is wheeled onto the dirt track at the 350-yard pole. The high-spirited nags are "ponied" up and down the track for awhile by warm-up boys and apprentice jockeys.

Then the racers are put in the gate enclosures, usually two at a time, the bell rings, the gate clangs open and—they're off!

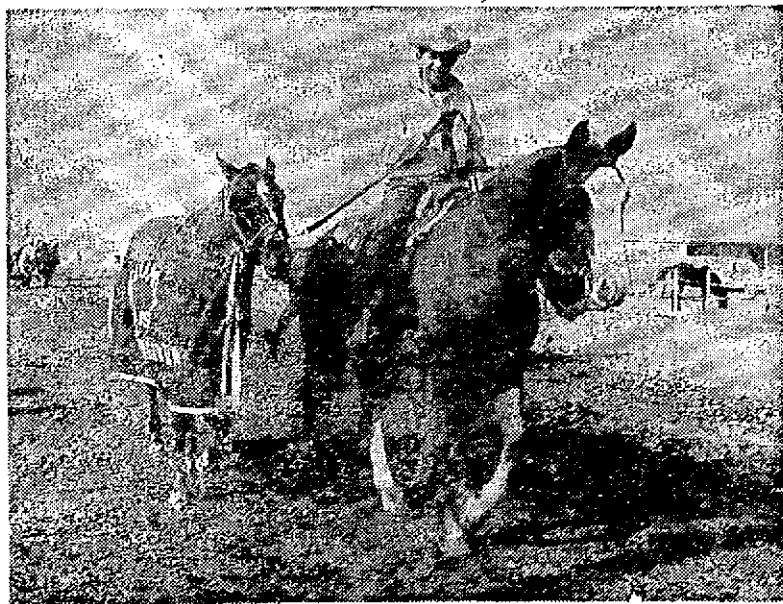

Most horses make the 350 yards in around 18 or 19 seconds.

After the workouts, the horses are walked around the "tow ring" and washed down. Then they leisurely munch their feed.

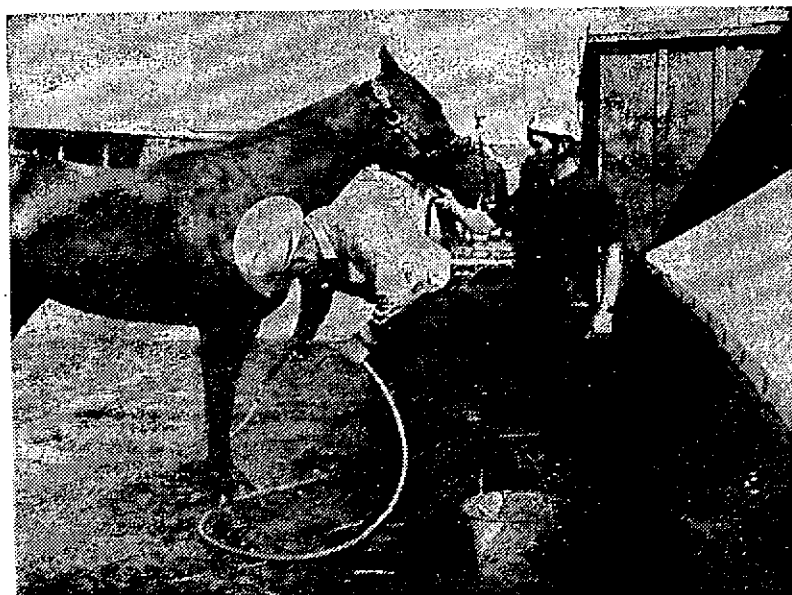

All this will be repeated just prior to the spring meet in 1962. At that time the "babies"—young horses who never have raced—will be broken to the initial terrors of the starting gate stalls.

Breaking from the starting gate is most important in the training of young horses. Every instant counts in the quarter horse speed events.

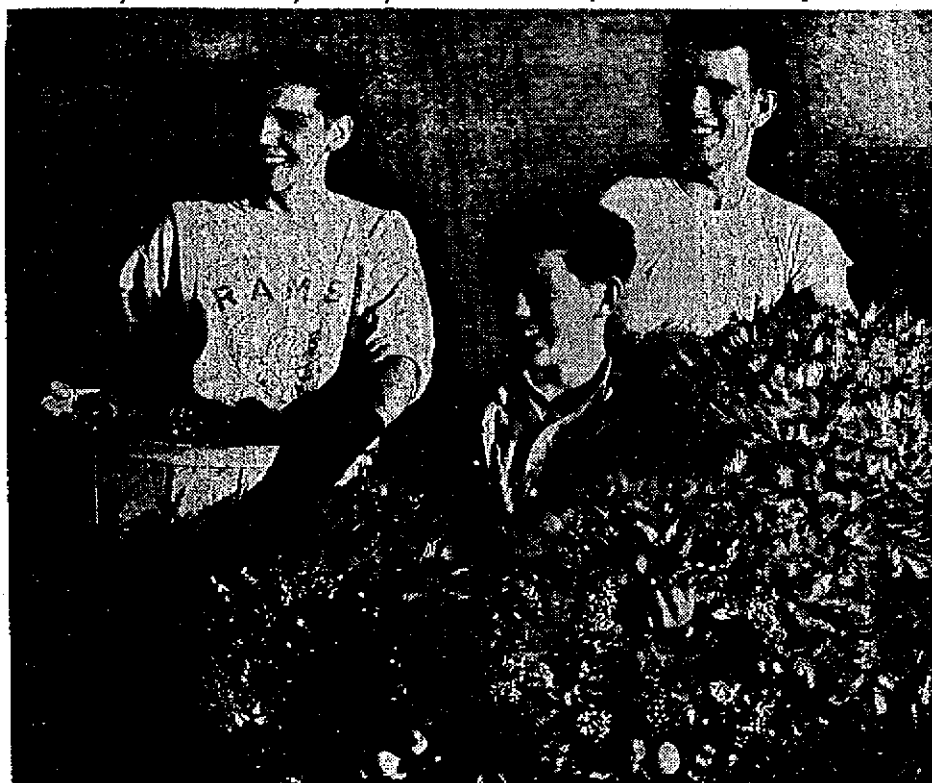

After a warmup and qualifying run, the racers are wrapped in blankets and walked around the "tow ring" by rider on "tow" pony to cool out.

Quarter horses are pampered in the stables after workouts. Mud is washed from their legs, hoofs are cleaned and some even get an alcohol rubdown.

Busy hands at Boys' Republic make famed Della Robbia wreaths. It's a year-around activity that teaches boys industry and love for beauty, as well as raising funds.

Some materials are gathered in each season, but the real work begins when foliage of redwood trees, basis of the wreaths, is brought to Boys' Republic about this time.

Many celebrities are listed as customers of the boys, among them Ozie and Harriett Nelson, posed here in a special wreath. A wreath is traditional at the White House.

Della Robbia wreaths are highly popular at Christmas. Into their make-up go different seed pods and cones.

Wreath of Inspiration

CALIFORNIA'S beauty and abundance is reflected in the famed Della Robbia wreaths which have won nationwide popularity at the Christmas season and which serve a double purpose—as decorative offerings to the spirit of yuletide and as an inspiration to the youths of Boys' Republic, near Pomona.

Boys' Republic is devoted to helping youths of high school age to productive, useful adulthood, and it has offered hope and encouragement to more than 5,600 deserving young men in its 54-year history.

In 1923, Margaret Fowler, world traveler, art lover, humanitarian and founder of Boys' Republic, developed a wreath in imitation of the ceramic wreaths of the Della Robbia family which she had seen in Florence, Italy. She made wreaths of natural materials and turned the scheme over to the school as a hobby project. A few years ago, the Republic turned to this hobby as a possible source of funds to allay a financial setback. Since that time, fame of the beautiful wreaths has spread and their sale has become an important source of school income.

WREATHS ARE MADE of leaves, cones, seed pods and fruit on a base of redwood foliage. With the exception of the redwood fronds, which arrive just before Dec. 1 and signal the start of the rush season for the boys, materials are assembled in every season of the year in all of the valleys of Southern California. Touches of bronze, gold and silver and a protective brightening spray are added to each wreath.

As the season progresses, a tent post office is set up on the Republic grounds and boxed wreaths are speeded on their way to fill the hundreds of orders. As the production tempo speeds up, residents of Chino and Pomona Valleys come in to lend a hand with the work.

Whatever the financial gain from the project, monetary considerations are far outweighed by what Republic officials term "plus values"—the incentive to industriousness and the advancement of love of beauty that are inherent in the program. The boys have pride in achievement, learn the dignity of labor and the rewards of work well done and gain appreciation of the beauty and bounty of the Southland—the latter gained on weekend seed pod and cone foraging trips.

THE BOYS ARE also proud of their "name" list of customers. Included are famous names of the national scene—finance, business, military, manufacturing, as well as the motion picture and television fields. They are just as proud of the tremendous list of lesser-known individuals, business and professional people who use their "gift within a gift" to solve their Christmas list problems.

Wreaths are of 20-inch ($8.50) and 30-inch ($15) sizes. Orders may be placed at Boys' Republic, five miles south of Pomona on Route 71, and will be filled by parcel post or may be picked up at the shipping point. A pick-up service has been opened there and at the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel, Pasadena.

Winking doll, 12 feet tall, will march under her own power in Disneyland fete.

Floats and figures of fantasy will abound in the forthcoming "Parade of the Toys," biggest Christmas package yet unwrapped for the edification of young and old alike in Disneyland's holiday celebration.

Confetti-shooting warships, Disney characters coming to Magic Kingdom

'Parade of the Toys'

FOR MANY YEARS, toys—of all descriptions, sizes and shapes—have been almost as synonymous with the Christmas season as holly wreaths and tinsel-covered trees.

But for all their ingenuity, the manufacturers of wind-up, battery-powered and hand-operated toys have still left the ultimate in toy creation not to the factories of mass production, but to the craftsmen of show business. And Walt Disney has taken up the challenge.

Next Sunday Disneyland will unwrap the biggest "Christmas package" it has ever presented for holiday season visitors. And out of that package will tumble two fun-filled weeks of entertainment—appropriately highlighted by Walt Disney's own "Parade of the Toys."

THE ENTIRE kaleidoscope of Disneyland's holiday season activities will be premiered for guests next Sunday, including two complete parades daily, the lighting each evening of a 24-foot Christmas Star atop 14-story-high Matterhorn Mountain, daily performances by the Disneyland

Carolers, and the opening of a new attraction on Main Street—the "Babes in Toyland Village."

Heading the Disneyland Christmas list is the "Parade of the Toys" itself. Scheduled for twice daily presentation Dec. 18-31, its inaugural will be part of the annual "Christmas in Many Lands" pageant at the Magic Kingdom—a "parade of all nations" that this year will bring forward 2,500 participants gaily attired in the costumes of 30 countries to march, dance and sing for onlookers along Main Street.

Beginning at 1:30 p. m., the international parade will spotlight 15 marching bands, floats depicting customs involving toys of many lands, song and dance groups, reindeer, camels, zebras, elephants, and other animals related to Christmas through fact or fable.

At 5 p. m., still another pageant will take place on Main Street—a candlelight procession with more than 600 participants singing traditional yuletide carols.

BUT THE BRIGHTEST star of each day will be the "Parade of the Toys." All "life-size or larger," 6 to 12 feet tall, and all "live" or animated, the toys are ingenious creations from the workshop of Disney artisans.

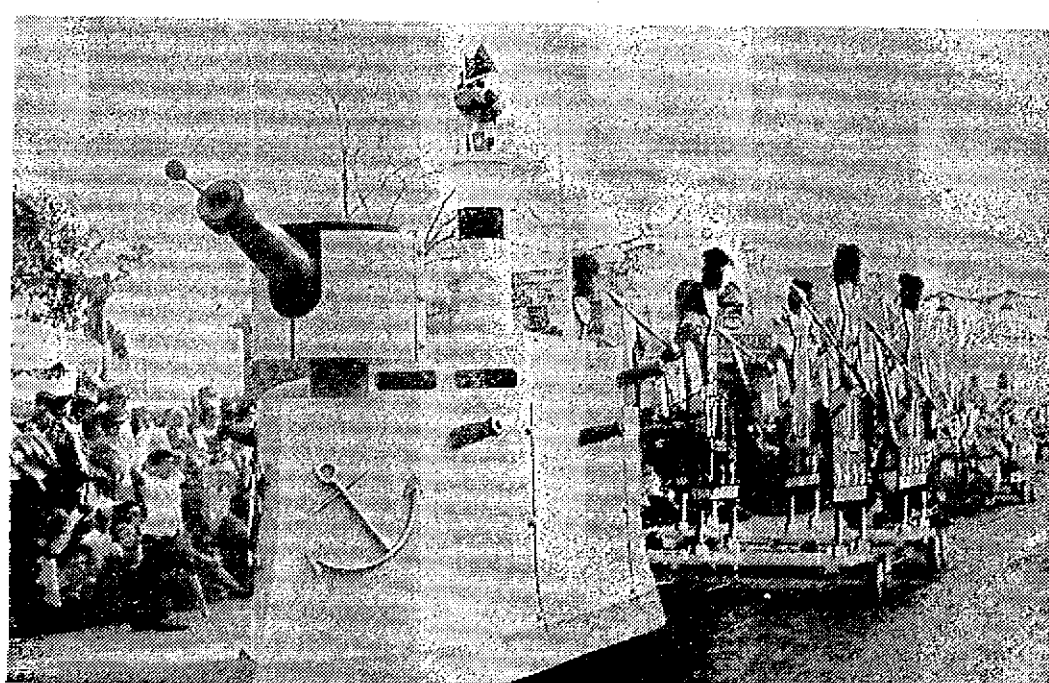

There will be a musical band of marching soldiers, towering dolls, clowns, knights on horseback and a whole array of costumed Disney characters. And floats—the "mousetrap band," confetti-shooting toy battleships, marionettes, trains, and many more. And of course, Santa Claus aboard his sleigh, with eight of the most comical reindeer that never saw the North Pole!

Both the "Parade of the Toys" and Disneyland's new attraction, the "Babes in Toyland Village," are based on Walt Disney's new motion picture, "Babes in Toyland," due for release during Christmas week.

The "Parade of the Toys" will be presented at Disneyland at 1:30 p. m. and 5:15 p. m. daily from Dec. 18 through 31. Following the 5:15 p. m. parade each day from Dec. 18 through Dec. 23 only, the exciting Candlelight Procession of massed choirs will take place on Main Street.

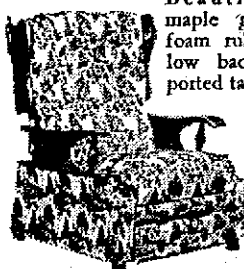

Wooden soldiers with their French balloons step along Disney's Main Street.

Massive wooden toy battleship pulls six wooden mounted knights in Disneyland's yule spectacle. These toys are in keeping with Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom. Many phases of the world of toys will be seen.

Starting a 49-day crossing of the United States, Calbraith P. Rodgers takes off from Sheepshead Bay Race Track in his Wright E-X biplane.

One day in Long Beach that made history

A Faraway First

By Enola Chamberlin

IF WE KNEW today that a peaceful airship from Mars was coming in for a landing we might be as excited as the people of Long Beach were on Dec. 11, 1911. An airplane had spanned the United States for the first time and would set down at the foot of Pine where it could be pushed until its wheels wet themselves in the Pacific Ocean.

There had been a lot of waiting for that day after the pilot, Calbraith Rodgers, had taken off from New York three months before. There had been more waiting—impatient this time—after he had landed in Pasadena on Nov. 5. He hadn't sat still at Pasadena, either. He had made several tries to get from there to Long Beach and had cracked up on each one. His plane, the Vin Fiz, even though it had been rebuilt many times, was too worn out to stay in the air.

Even at its best the plane was but a shell, as were all the planes of those days. The pilot sat out in the open with nothing to protect him from wind and rain. He braced his feet and held on. America's wings in those days were too weak structurally to carry men any distance. And, by and large, few persons had faith in them. That they have become strong is due to men who did have the faith and the courage to keep flying. And Calbraith Rodgers was one of those men.

BUT RODGERS was not the only one. When, in August of 1911, a New York newspaper put up a prize of $50,000 for the man who would span the continent by air and reach his destination by Oct. 10, three men, in addition to Rodgers, picked up the glove of challenge. And since the reason for their failure was not lack of desire, but weather and mechanical handicaps, their bravery deserves mention.

Robert Fowler, sitting out on the wing of his box-kite plane, his engine at his right shoulder, soared up over San Francisco on Sept. 11. With a rubber robe to protect his knees from rain, another to cover his magneto, he dared the High Sierra. But those mountains flung their powers against him and three times the winds crashed him into the trees, his propellers and bamboo stays snapping like matchwood. Three times he rebuilt his plane. Finally he shipped his plane to Los Angeles and tried again. He got as far as El Paso where his plane was wrecked in a crash. Fowler escaped injury.

Jimmy Ward clattered into the air from Governor's Island, New York Harbor, on Sept. 13. Trouble was not long in finding him. His motor came loose and he was burned by hot water from the cooling system. He crashed into a tree. He recovered and rebuilt his aircraft to try again. Less than 100 miles on his way, his engine died when he was 4,000 feet up. He walked away from the fallen plane but it would fly no more.

Earl Ovington crashed on his first take-off at Queens, New York, leaving only Calbraith Rodgers with his Wright E-X biplane to try.

RODGERS, as had the other flyers, made elaborate preparations for his trip. He had a special train to follow. It was painted white that he might not confuse it with other trains and be led off his route. His train carried mechanics, a doctor and the flier's family. It had sleeping and dining cars as well as cars loaded with extra parts for the entire plane. There was also an automobile to be used to reach the flyer when he landed.

Rodgers took off from Sheepshead Bay Race Track at 4 o'clock on Sept. 17. He flew 105 miles his first 104 minutes in the air.

But all was not to be clear sailing. On takeoff next morning he hit a tree, crashed into a chicken coop and cut a gash in his head. Patched up, he took off again. He got lost. He smashed a propeller, a wing, a landing wheel. Three days out and he was but 350 miles from his starting place.

For days then nothing much happened. Rodgers took off, he flew, he landed. Yet on Oct. 8, two days before the deadline for the prize money, he was but a few miles west of Chicago. Now it was but the challenge of the skies that led him on, a challenge that is still leading men into space.

MORE DAYS went by. Rodgers' engine died. Landing, he found it filled with water. A piston crystallized. A propeller chain broke. The mechanics worked on the fast-becoming one-hoss-shay machine while Rodgers grabbed some much-needed rest.

Then on Nov. 3, over the Salton Sea in California, a cylinder blew out and filled Rodgers' arm with steel splinters. Worn out as he was, suffering, Rodgers still managed to slip and slide the plane to a landing. A doctor took him over, the mechanic took over the plane.

But the little ship was fast coming to the end of its ability to stay in the air, fast coming to the end of its ability to stay in the air, fast coming to the end of its ability to stay in the air.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you genealogy on HOOK, HOOKS, HOOKER. — Mrs. B. H., J. H., Long Beach.

B. H., J. H.: HOOK and HOOKS are English surnames handed down from ancestors who owned a "hoke" or "corner of land." HOOKER, formerly Hokere, described "one who farmed a corner of land." Ancestors include Love del (of the) Hlok of Oxfordshire and Hugh Hoker of Norfolk, both in the late 1200s. The Hlok shield, granted in Yorkshire about 1199, has a gold stripe between three gold fleurs-de-lis on a blue background. One of several Hooker shields has a silver stripe between three silver roses on a red backing. John Hook arrived at Massachusetts on the Mayflower in 1620, but died soon afterward. A Massachusetts will of 1646 mentions a "Mr. Hoocker" as an administrator.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze CLINTON. — J. M., F. C., Long Beach.

J. M., F. C.: CLINTON was originally "Klint-tun" in early Britain, a geographical phrase for "Headland farmstead." Yorkshire records of the 1200s list Henry de Clinton. Descendants were famed in American history. James Clinton was a Revolutionary War general; his brother George was vice president of the United States 1805-1812; James' son, De Witt Clinton, a statesman, is familiar to many, since his picture was on the Internal Revenue stamps affixed to cigarette packages for many years.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on GIELISH—C. G., Los Angeles.

C. G.: GIELISH traces back eight centuries to the German warrior named Gisel-wolf, interpreted as "Staff-wolf," referring to the progenitor's dexterity in using a staff as a weapon of warfare. Gisel-wolf was contracted to Gisulf, then changed to Giel-isch and Gielish. No coat-of-arms is recorded for this lineage.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain GUIGNON. — W. G., Long Beach.

W. G.: GUIGNON has two sources. One was a soldier name in the early Middle Ages, "Win-berht," deciphered as "Brilliant friend or protector." Winberht was changed to Guinebert, then reduced to Guign and expanded to Guignon. Guignon was also a term for "eye winker," a most unusual old nickname. The Guignon coat-of-arms was granted in the medieval French province of Forez, a silver lion placed below three silver crescents on a red band across a blue shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like data on FLEMING. — A. F., Mrs. B., Long Beach.

A. F., B.: FLEMING is from a forebear who migrated from Belgian Flanders to Britain in the 12th century. "Fleming" is an English reformation of the Flemish word "Vlaming," for a native of Flanders. The Fleming shield from Essex, England, has a chevron between three silver owls on a red background. Early Boston, Mass., records list Sarah, daughter of John and Anne Flemming, born in 1639.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on GOODHUE — E. G., Westminster.
E. G.: GOODHUE is from the early English phrase "Good-Hugh," a complimentary village-endowed nickname for this family's founder. Hugh, a famous old baptismal cognomen, means "intellectual one." The Good-hugh coat-of-arms has a fur-covered chevron placed between three silver racing dogs on a red shield. Bertram C. Goodhue (1864-1924) was among the most noted American architects of the past century.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give the background of COUNTS. — Mrs. P. S., La Puente.

P. S.: COUNTS is an English respelling of the German surname Kounts. The remote source eight centuries ago was the warrior title Kuonrad, translated as "Bold counsellor." Kuonrad was altered to Kuntrad, then to the nickname Kounts. No coat-of-arms is recorded for Counts or Kounts.

House That's Growing With a Family

In the expanding home of the Stan Cephus family, more space has been won by an expertly executed extension of the living room, blending the areas into a whole.

By Stella George

YOUNG parents of a growing family, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Cephus, 11671 Puryear St., Garden Grove, sought a home that would adapt itself to the needs and pleasures of the youngsters a small boy and a baby girl, as well as their own.

With still more remodeling plans in mind for the future, they have already started to custom their home in a professional and expert manner. They have doubled the size of the former living room, added a patio beyond the living room and kitchen, and landscaped the sizeable yard in an artistic way.

The front door formerly opened to an average-sized living room with a partially open kitchen in the rear. Champagne carpeting, which is long wearing as well as good looking, has been laid on the floor of this expanded room, and extends down the hall to the bedrooms. Black slate is at the entry directly in front of the door.

THE WALL behind and around the fireplace which is at the left from the entrance is of red brick which was carried down beyond the living room into what was formerly the patio, and is now the wall of the new addition. Because of the unity of the wall, the carpeting and the furnishings, there is no evidence that a new section has been added.

House that is still growing: This is an exterior view of the Cephus home where additions are still to come.

At the far end of the room a semi-circular brown couch faces a coffee table. A gold occasional chair is nearby. The far wall is lined with windows which command a picture view of an attractive garden and trees.

A dark turquoise sectional couch is near the front door, facing a marble coffee table and flanking a white tile end table. The ceiling is white beamed. Furnishings and carpeting were purchased with easy maintenance in mind.

The TV is near the fireplace. A very interesting wall decoration was designed and made by Ceplus, is placed above the fireplace. On a free-form, white background rests a black violin flanked by theatrical masks in black.

THE MASTER bedroom is done in maple. Walls are blue, curtains gold-beige. Carpeting is neutral. In the other two bedrooms and the bath, the carpeting is Colonial candy-striped.

The kitchen has access to the living room with a low, sit-down bar which can be closed off when desired. The room is U-shaped and quite functional for a small kitchen. Future plans call for adding built-in appliances as well as opening up the window area above the sink to accommodate a service bar to what will be the new dining room.

The future dining room area is now a cement patio with a roof. The latter is particularly attractive, and provides a very flattering light to the area: fibreglass strips in shades of orange, yellow and turquoise are laid in the center section of the otherwise solid roof.

The yard is artistically landscaped, centered around three good-sized trees in a large, round, individual area, and shrubs and plants are in abundance.

Neat as a pin on the outside, this three-bedroom ranch style house has an efficiency on the inside that is uncommon in a dwelling of only 1,129 square feet.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Place With Personality Plus

By David L. Bowen

IN A LOT of ways, houses are like people.

Some are haphazard and hard to keep on an even keel. Some have a forbidding look on the outside and a complete lack of character inside.

Others have the kind of personality that makes friends at once, and the knack for organization that keeps things operating smoothly under any circumstances.

The proud claim of House of the Week B-58 is that it has solid character, pleasing personality and good organization. It was designed carefully by Architect Lester Cohen to provide large ranch luxury in the modest confines of 1,129 sq. ft.

1. A front-to-rear living room completely set off from the main traffic route and illuminated by large windows at both ends.

2. A compact reception foyer solving circulation problems.

3. A portico porch at the front, attractive from the street and serving an important practical function by providing a cover for the route from house to garage.

4. A well isolated bedroom section served by an impressively long bedroom hallway.

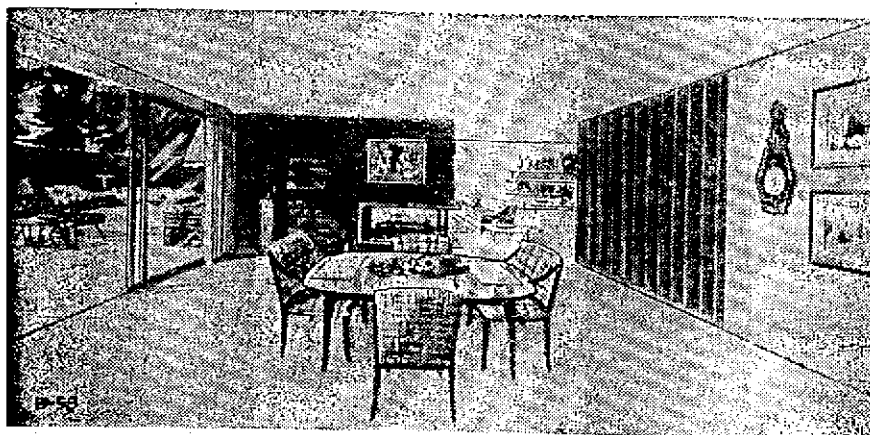

The attractive exterior lines are enhanced by the warm combination of fieldstone, vertical siding and wooden shingles. Dimensions are 58 feet 6 inches in width, including one-car garage, by 26 feet in depth.

A modern free-standing fireplace separates the living room from the dining room, which joins it in a rough L-shape. A louvered partition extends out from the kitchen to separate dining room and foyer. A window wall of sliding glass doors leads to the rear terrace.

An indoor casual room could be made of the third bedroom in a two-bedroom family. Plenty of space for a future playroom is available in the basement.

KITCHEN utilities are laid out in a practical L-shape, leaving room for a dinette next to the window overlooking the terrace. While it is completely out of sight from the front door, the kitchen actually is only a few steps away from the main entrance.

Looking from kitchen well across dining room to living room in background, this artist's sketch shows modern and expansive styling. Note the glass wall at left.

Each of the three bedrooms has cross ventilation and good wall space for furniture placement. There is a large family bathroom with a vanity washbasin and a linen closet just outside the door.

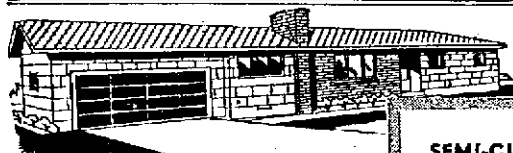

Counting the front coat closet and the linen closet, there are six big storage compartments in B-58. A scuttle in the bedroom hall gives access to attic storage. The stairway to the basement is conveniently located in the hall near the kitchen and bedrooms and is easy to get to from the front door without tramping through any living area.

AN UNUSUAL optional should appeal to the gardening hobbyist in every family: behind the garage, with entry from garage and rear yard, Architect Cohen suggests a small greenhouse. Tender outdoor plants can winter here, or seeds germinate for spring planting.

For those not inclined to garden on that scale, the space would be ideal for an outdoor tool and toy shed.

Stained Glass, Budget Styled

By Lorena Fleissig

STAINED glass windows are an object of art and not available to the average person because of the expense. However, one might experiment with cellophane which is produced in beautiful colors and with which one can obtain unusual effects.

This will be a fascinating occupation for colorful results are quickly achieved. In cutting the cellophane into patterns, first fold the material four or more times so that all your repeat patterns will be the same size.

By placing the cutouts of differing colors over others, new colors or gradations of color are produced. The colors used on these small paned windows are green, blue, orchid, pink and yellow. Orchid angels wear pink halos among blue stars. The holly is done with green leaves and blue berries.

IN ARRANGING diamonds, squares and circles, it is not necessary to have them placed geometrically perfectly, only try for the rhythm of color. For the light coming through will diffuse the colors with pleasing softness and any irregularity will be unnoticed.

When enough material is cut, place it in a box for it has a tendency to float away. Wipe the pane of glass with a damp sponge. Place the patterns evenly, occasionally spotting with the sponge and press firmly with a cloth. When the design is completed cover it with a sheet of clear cellophane wrap. For more delicate effect, use clear wax paper, taping it at the corners.

The cellophane pieces will hold for a time without the added covering sheet but eventually will peel off. If a permanent effect is desired, try giving the window pane a light treatment of spray glue before placing the design. Then you will have the nearest thing to an original design, stained glass window, done budget style.

Colored cellophane was used here for stained glass idea.

Dental authorities agree:
You can lose more teeth from gum troubles
than from tooth decay

How brushing with new Ipana® helps you
protect your gums as you protect your teeth

Don't just do half the job! Gum troubles are often caused by tartar that forms on teeth when soft film is not properly cleansed away. Dental statistics prove that it is gum troubles, not tooth decay, that cause most loss of teeth after age 14. So don't do just half the job. Protect your gums as you protect your teeth. If you brush properly with new Ipana with hexachlorophene, you can help prevent gum trouble due to tartar before it starts. Ipana's film-removing agents help you brush away the soft film that naturally forms on teeth before it hardens, into tartar that irritates and inflames gums.

Only your dentist or dental hygienist can remove tartar once it hardens. But proper brushing, according to Ipana directions, can help prevent tartar before it attacks gums.

A superior decay fighter, too! Laboratory tests prove that new Ipana kills more decay germs than any other leading tooth paste—even the leading fluoride tooth paste!

Every time you brush your teeth with new Ipana with hexachlorophene, you destroy decay germs by the millions. Laboratory tests have shown that other tooth pastes leave behind many more decay germs because they don't have Ipana's superior germ-killing power.

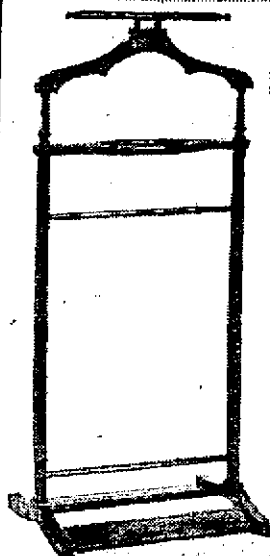

Proper cleansing of teeth with Ipana helps protect your gums as you protect your teeth. Get new Ipana!

Sketchbook

Years of fun for a weekend of work. That's a good description of this easily made child's playhouse.

TODAY'S PROJECT is a playhouse designed for use in winter and summer — and to delight the hearts of little girls for years.

As William Meyerriecks, Huntington, N.Y., designer says, nothing gives a little girl more hours of pleasure than pretending she's grown up. If she can act out her "big folks" games in a house of her own, her make-believe gains a satisfying third dimension. Happy memories of her childhood fun will endure a lifetime.

And it really isn't very hard to provide a realistic setting for youthful imaginations. The playhouse shown in the illustration is cut from 1/2-inch plywood, attached to four corner posts. The house can be used all year round — set up in the basement or garage during winter months and out in the back yard during the summer.

The secret of its mobility is the way the walls and roof are fastened into place with machine screws. Fifteen minutes work with a screwdriver will dismantle the entire home into six easily handled parts.

The house is 6 feet wide, 4 feet deep and 6 feet high at the peak of the roof. Shutters and the door are simple cutouts, trimmed with molding.

it is interesting to start with one object and then work out an arrangement with a central idea.

Even though one may tire of the old ditty: "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town," there is still the idea that Old St. Nick brings youngsters their presents on Christmas Eve.

After wondering just what to do with a miscellaneous collection of Christmas items, I decided to create a scene, illustrating this song, and depicting Santa Claus on his annual journey of love.

I covered the top of my radio and player with cotton batting; used a mirror for a pond, with a snowman and igloo nearby. Then I arranged some churches, houses, and trees of different sizes in the little village. At one side St. Nicholas is driving his reindeer toward town, while two deer seem to be interested in watching his yearly run.

A Faraway First

ing to where it fell apart faster than it could be rebuilt. However, his right arm almost useless, Rodgers took off again the next day. Fierce winds were learing through the San Geronio Pass. They ripped at the frail kite of a plane. The radiator sprung a leak. The magneto came loose from its fastenings. Rodgers held it from falling and slipped down to a landing in a stubble field.

Once more the mechanics worked far into the night on the damaged plane. Once more the people, as they had all along the route—as they would today with a plane from Mars—milled around the guarded and roped-off craft. Once more, with a new day, Rodgers stiff and sore, climbed into the plane and took off. And that day, at 4 o'clock on Nov. 5, he landed in Tournament Park, Pasadena. There, the cheering of thousands drowned out the coughing of the motor. History had been made. The continent had been crossed by air. The continent had been crossed by air. But Rodgers was not satisfied until, more than a month later, amid cheering throngs, he dipped the wheels of his fragile shell in the ocean at Long Beach.

IN THE light of today the history of that 49 day crossing sounds like ancient lore. Rodgers landed 69 times. He made 30 stopovers. He never stayed in the air for as long as two hours at a time. His average flying time was 51 miles an hour. He rebuilt the entire plane four times. Many parts were replaced even more times.

And Rodgers, characteristically, pronounced his faith in the future of flying.

"Some day," he said, "we will do 100 miles an hour if we can box people in against wind and storm. I expect to see the day when one coast will be no more than three days from the other."

But Rodgers did not live to see the day. A short time after his historic flight, while flying a borrowed plane over the ocean not far from where he had dipped the wheels of his own plane, he plunged into the surf. His engine fell on him, crushing out his life. But his prophecy has come true and more. And who can say but what he helped to bring it about?

Dorothy Digs

Some people, when they see toadstools appearing in their lawn or garden, do not realize that this is an evidence of fungus of some sort in the soil. There are two things you should do to correct this fungus condition.

Use agricultural sulphur in the proportions of 2 pounds to 100 square feet. If the toadstools are in a lawn, just broadcast the soil sulphur over the lawn, selecting a cool day for the application. When you are applying it in other parts of your garden, scatter the soil sulphur in the same proportions and then dig it into the ground so that it becomes part of the soil.

Second, spray the soil with a good, safe fungicide. I personally like products containing copper when using them in the soil, and I would never recommend products containing mercury. The number of times you have to spray depends on the severity of the infection but you can judge whether you are having results by the rapidity with which the toadstools disappear.

When War Came to the Pacific

By Vera Williams

Independent, Press-Telcom Book Editor

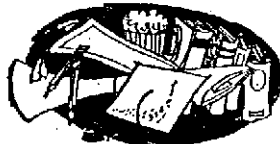

"WITH broken heart and head bowed in sadness but not in shame I report to your Excellency that today I must arrange terms for the surrender of the fortified islands of Manila Bay—"

From Gen. Jonathan Wainwright's message to President Roosevelt reporting his surrender of the Philippines, John Toland derived the title of "BUT NOT IN SHAME" (Random House, $6.50).

Subtitled, "The Six Months After Pearl Harbor," the book is a dramatic account of one of the most crucial, controversial periods in world history.

Toland spent months in the Pacific battle area, traveling 90,000 miles in eight countries. He interviewed 800 persons, ranging from Admirals Chester W. Nimitz and Kichisaburo Nomura to non-coms and civilians.

The volume is dedicated to Toland's wife, the former Toshiko Matsamura, whom he met when she was assigned as his chief interpreter for the Japanese interviews preparatory to the book.

IN MOVING autobiographical terms, Catherine Marshall, author of "A Man Called Peter" and "To Live Again," has written "BEYOND OURSELVES" (McGraw-Hill, $4.50). She tells what she has learned about God and man, love and sorrow. She writes of prayer, healing, guidance, faith and forgiveness, and the need of mankind for spiritual life.

AUTHOR Richard Armour, who spoofs history in "IT ALL STARTED WITH COLUMBUS" (McGraw-Hill, $3.50), has out an updated edition which pokes some fun at Sputnik, President Kennedy and current events.

Of the famous Kennedy-

Nixon debate, Armour says:

"Unfortunately, however, in preparation for Nixon's first debate with Kennedy he had his face made up by a retired mortician."

"OVER $200 MILLION was spent by the United States during the participation in the International Geophysical Year of 1957-58, much of it wasted," claims Capt. Finn Ronne in "ANTARCTIC COMMAND" (Bobbs-Merrill, $5).

Capt. Ronne, who has spent more time in the Antarctic than any other man, commanded Ellsworth Station, our largest base on the continent. This is the story of his command.

"It cost $1 million to put each individual scientist or technician on the Antarctic continent for a year," he says. "Less affluent countries, such as England, Norway, France and Australia showed greater results per dollar invested."

APPARENTLY European and American imperialists weren't the only ones who launched slaving ventures in

THE WORLD IS HER PLAYTHING. Ilka Chase, actress, TV personality, lecturer, recounts her varied adventures as a world traveler in "THE CARTHAGINIAN ROSE" (Doubleday, $5.95). Mircea Vasiliu did the light-hearted drawings.

Africa several hundred years ago.

"BLACK MOTHER" by Basil Davidson (Atlantic-Little Brown, $8.50) tells how some coastal African cities and provinces made money by selling the inhabitants of the interior into slavery.

The book probes how the slaving trade operated, and makes it clear that slavery receipts at one time were the cornerstone of Africa's economy.

ALTHOUGH 25 YEARS have passed since his death, the stories of Rudyard Kipling have not lost their luster. "THE BEST SHORT STORIES OF RUDYARD KIPLING" edited by Randall Jarrell (Harcourt, $6.95) brings Kipling to a new generation of young readers.

As Ziegfeld Follies comeback shapes up, show biz wonders what kind of show Ziegfeld would do today if he lived. It's certain there would be plenty of beautiful girls.

SIGH a nostalgic sigh, Father! The Ziegfeld Follies is being rejuvenated.

The deal has been set by oldtime comedienne Billie Burke, widow of the great showman Florenz Ziegfeld, and English-born producer Barry Ashton, 34. The Shubert Theater family, which

By Rick DuBrow
UPI Hollywood Writer

also owns a piece of the title, has agreed, too.

Ashton plans to open the Follies next fall in Las Vegas, Nev., then expand it into a full-scale revue and tour it east to Broadway.

And Miss Burke, once a movie headliner with her flattery, high-pitched voice and scatterbrain manner, says she's planning to be in Las Vegas for the opening even though she's 76.

"I wouldn't miss it," she said. "I've never been there. Maybe I should have made the rounds more with Mr. Ziegfeld when he was alive. But if I listened to all the stories about him, I would have committed suicide or gone crazy."

MISS BURKE, keen and witty, sat in the living room of her daughter's home in Hollywood, wearing a gray dress and yellow shawl below her grayish-white hair. Her voice was as fluttery, high-pitched and charming as ever.

"People have tried to re-do the Follies before," she said. "But they all seemed to have missed—even the movie of his life. What Mr. Ziegfeld had above all was exquisite taste in everything."

Miss Burke almost always refers to her late husband as "Mr. Ziegfeld." Did she ever take part in the shows or behind the scenes—or try to be a "Ziegfeld girl" in the chorus?

"Heavens, no!" she said. "I never qualified. My legs were Billie Burke, widow of famed Follies producer, in motion picture heyday. Now 72, she is eager to see Follies return.

fat, and I was short. I used to die, looking at those beautiful girls, biting my nails, wondering, 'Which one? Which one?' And Mr. Ziegfeld always teased me, saying, 'You've guessed thhe wrong one!'"

HOW DID the present deal come about?

"It started the way all such things do," said Miss Burke, who was born in Washington, D.C., the daughter of a circus clown. "We went to lunch and talked about everything except business—until next time. I decided Mr. Ashton has a good reputation for taste."

Said Ashton: "The two big shows in Vegas are the Lido Revue and the Follies Bergere. But America has its own great name—Ziegfeld. The Ziegfeld Follies are to this country what the Follies Bergere is to France. Why not put it on?"

Miss Burke, who has made such movies as "Dinner at Eight," "Becky Sharp," "The Wizard of Oz," and "The Man Who Came to Dinner," said she met Ziegfeld at a dance.

"I didn't know who he was," she said. "It was one of those dances where they blew a whistle and you stopped. Three times I wound up with him as my partner, but I didn't care—he was such a good dancer. When I returned to my party, they kidded me, 'Don't tell us you've fallen for Ziegfeld.' I was horrified, not knowing who he was."

THEIR COURTSHIP consisted mainly of clandestine meetings in places such as Grant's Tomb because her producer had forbidden her to see Ziegfeld and even made her sign a contract with a no-marrying clause.

Happy Idea: A Flaming Dessert

Flaming plum pudding, fruit cake, cherries jubilee and oranges—all are dramatic desserts for holidays.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

THIS YEAR, there are new and easy versions of the traditional desserts that bring Christmas dinner to an end in a blaze of glory and a "blaze" in flavor!

Flaming desserts make a spectacular, fitting climax to the most festive day of the year; now modern, specially devised short-cut methods produce authentic, delectable plum pudding made from a mix.

The secret of successful flaming is to warm the flaming spoon (a stainless steel or silver soup ladle does nicely) before you pour the spirit into it; then warm the spirit by holding the spoon in the chafing dish flame. Tip the spoon slightly and the spirit will blaze up. In the kitchen, simply warm the liquor in a small pan on the stove, and fire it with a lighted kitchen match; then pour it blazing over the plum pudding and bring the dessert triumphantly to table.

Easy Plum Pudding

- 1 box oatmeal bread mix
- 2 eggs, lightly beaten
- 1 1/4 cups applesauce
- 2 teaspoons orange rind
- 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 3/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 1 1/2 cups chopped dried prunes
- 1 cup raisins
- 3/4 cup chopped walnuts
- Candied pineapple for decorations

Combine oatmeal bread mix, eggs, applesauce, 1/4 cup liquor or brandy. Mix well. Blend remaining ingredients. Pour into a well greased mold or coffee can. Cover container tightly with lid, aluminum foil, or double thickness of waxed paper, tied securely with string. Place on a rack in a deep kettle. Pour in boiling water to about 1/2 depth of mold; cover kettle tightly. Steam a 1 1/2 quart mold about an hour or 2 hours, coffee cans 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Keep water boiling briskly. Pudding is done when it is firm to the touch. To Flame: warm liquor or brandy about 1/4 cup—in a ladle; ignite, pour flaming over pudding. Invert on serving plate. Decorate base with candied pineapple halves.

Cherries Jubilee

- 1 can Bing cherries, 1 lb. 14 oz.
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 to 1/2 cup brandy or cognac

Pour juice from cherries into top pan or blazer of chafing dish, heat to boiling and boil rapidly until the liquid is reduced by about one half. Stir; in cinnamon. Add cherries; heat. Heat brandy or cognac in a ladle or warming pan. Ignite; pour over cherries. Spoon the flaming sauce over the cherries and serve still flaming over vanilla or eggnog ice cream. Serves 6 to 8.

- 6 to 8 large seedless oranges
- 6 to 8 maraschino cherries
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 cup orange juice
- 1 cup water
- 1 teaspoon lemon rind
- 1/2 cup gin

Peel whole oranges, removing all of the white membrane. Arrange oranges in a chafing dish and top each with a maraschino cherry; secure with a toothpick. Mix cornstarch with sugar; add juice, water, and lemon rind. Bring to boil; simmer 10 minutes, stirring frequently, until sauce is thick and clear. Spoon over oranges. Heat gin in a ladle; ignite; pour flaming over oranges. Serves 6 to 8.

$5 for Your Recipe

HOLIDAY CANDY tops the list as best recipe of the week and wins Southland's $5 prize for Mrs. E. Cahill, 6301 Eliot St., Long Beach 4.

Mrs. Cahill's recipe:

CHRISTMAS YULE LOGS

- 2 tblsp. evaporated milk, combined with
- 1/2 tsp. rum flavoring
- 3 tblsp. more of evaporated milk
- 2 1/2 cups white sugar
- 1 cup chopped candied red cherries
- 16 caramels
- 1 1/2 cups chopped pecans

Base: Combine two tablespoons of the evaporated milk and rum flavoring in a bowl. Stir in sugar until blended; knead until smooth and shiny.

To Form Logs: Knead in cherries, adding more sugar if necessary. Shape into two 6-inch logs, roll in waxed paper. Chill until firm. Combine caramels and remaining three tablespoons of evaporated milk. Heat over boiling water until melted, making certain to stir often. Turn caramel mixture into pie pan. Quickly roll logs in caramel mixture, then in outer covering of pecans. Roll into waxed paper, chill until firm. Slice and serve.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Each recipe must be on a separate sheet of paper, written only on one side of the sheet. No recipes will be returned, and selections of the judges is final. ## GRADE CARD

Tips on Reading

By Harry Karns

YOUR CHILD may know how to read words, sentences, paragraphs—but does he actually know how to read a book?

Does he know how to START reading a book?

Reading a book of non-fiction to satisfy an assignment is like taking a trip to a specific place. It makes sense to study the route ahead of time.

The preliminary study of a book should answer these questions:

"Where does this book take me?"

"What am I supposed to get from it?"

"Which parts contain the answers to my assignment?"

HERE IS A list of suggestions which many good students find helpful as they advance in school and bring home more and more textbooks and reading assignments:

1. Give the book a quick general survey. Flip through it rapidly from beginning to end to get the "feel" of its length, printing, and general makeup.

2. Look at the very first pages to see when it was printed. Is it a new book on your subject or one which has been in print for some time?

3. Consider the title. What does it mean? Where does it come from?

4. Get acquainted with the author. Is there a biography in the front of the book? What other books has he written?

5. Read introductory materials. Is there a preface, an author's note, an introduction? These will help you understand the purpose and method of the book.

6. Now read the table of contents. Keep asking yourself: "How are the chapters related to one another and to the title?"

7. Glance through the index to see the sort of details which the book furnishes on the subject.

8. Examine the book from beginning to end a second time, more slowly than before. Look at the chapter headings, at the first sentences and first paragraphs of chapters, at the subheadings within the chapters. Pause to examine pictures, charts, and diagrams; these indicate points which will be stressed in the text.

AFTER DOING these things, the student knows generally what the book covers, how the writer is going to talk about the subject, and some of the specific kinds of information provided.

He is prepared to read the book more intensively, in part or in whole—depending on the ability of the book to provide what he needs.

Like a traveler, a student has the choice of heading blindly down the road or first looking at a map to see where it leads, what to expect along the way, and where the best places are to spend some time.

You Ask We Answer

By Haskin

Q. Please give a recipe for a paste that can be used for cloth.

A. A flexible paste suitable for use with either cloth or paper may be made as follows:

Stir four ounces of common starch and two ounces of white dextrine in one-half pint of cold water, making a smooth paste. Dissolve one ounce of borax in two quarts of boiling water and to this add one-quarter pint of glycerine. Pour the starch-dextrine mixture into the hot solution and stir until the paste reaches the desired consistency.

Q. When did U. S. life insurance companies first employ agents to sell insurance?
P. C.

A. The Institute of Life Insurance says that the first American company to do so was the New York Life Insurance and Trust Co., established in 1830. This company later discontinued its life insurance business and was subsequently merged with the Bank of New York. The first American agent for fixed premium life insurance is believed to have been Israel Whelen of Philadelphia, who was in 1807 appointed agent for the Pelican Life Insurance Co. of London.

Q. How many windows are there in the U. N. building?
N. H.

A. The United Nations Secretariat Building in New York has 5,400 aluminum-framed windows on its north and south fronts.

Q. How old was Shirley Temple when she started her acting career?

A. She was three and one-half years old when she made her first movie, with no dramatic training, playing leading roles from the beginning. She was born on April 23, 1928.

"On a trip overseas, is it now $100 each we can bring in duty-free?"

THAT'S THE new rule, $100 each once a month.

"... and if we ship back some clothing made in Hong Kong and Japanese china and other things, which should be declared as duty-free so that we pay on the items on which there is least duty?"

One good thing about this: U.S. Customs chooses the things on which you pay the least duty and charges on that.

That is, if you go over the $100 and there is a choice between paying for clothing (33 per cent) and some item at 10 per cent.

You can send gifts under $10 as often as you like — one per person per day — and this is NOT charged against your $100. So it is a good idea to send such things rather than carry them in. Carry them back with you and they are charged against your $100 exemption.

"... if you would suggest a few restaurants you like in London."

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

HONG KONG
AFTER World War II, this community was a badly disorganized city of over a million. In the past decade twice as many more souls have streamed here. They came from Red China's legal emigration quota of 50 a day, by junk and sampan in illegal hundreds of thousands, and by handfals swimming across the Samshun River. More than a million of them were destitute.

Not only didn't Hong Kong collapse under the burden, but it bloomed. By some miracle money was raised for smart, clean apartment developments to house the millions who at first camped in squalid huts on the hillsides. Today only 300,000 of more than two million refugees remain in the shack towns. They too will be absorbed within three years.

ATTRACTED by the plentiful labor, small industry came and put nearly everybody to work, many as independent contractors in textiles. The rest went to work in construction or at what Chinese do well—setting up small shops to sell necessities to each other.

Attracted by the bargains available from all this cheap labor, as well as by the awesome proximity to China—a place most will never see—the tourists showed up. They were not disappointed.

Hong Kong has one of the most startlingly beautiful settings in the world. It curls around a lovely deep harbor that winds far inland like a Norwegian fjord. It is blessed with a tropical sunlight that bathes it in morning and evening with breath-catching oranges and mauves. Butterfly sails of fishing junks punctuate the waters as if placed there for scenery.

MOST OF ALL, there are the 3,000,000 people that somehow have been jammed neatly into these 399 square miles. They swarm in the streets below the towering tenements—Cantonese women in Chinese pajamas with babies strapped to their backs, Shanghaiese girls in Suzy Wong dresses slit up to here, men staggering gingerly under yoke burdens of who-knows-what, screeching children playing soccer in the playgrounds and countless school yards... everyone busy, working, going somewhere and forever buying and selling whatever humans need, in the thousands upon thousands of shop stalls.

The electrifying commerce goes on everywhere, all the time—among the neon-lit restaurants and blazing jewelry stores of Nathan Road at night; down the teeming alleys, side streets and canyons off Shanghai Street and Hollywood Road, where you won't see a word of English among thousands of signs; over the bolts of wool in the air-conditioned tailor shops of Cameroon Road; in the banking houses and department stores of Victoria, indistinguishable from the financial district of any American or European city.

THE THREADS of Hong Kong's many fabrics unravel block by block, mile by mile. The Chinatown of Wanchai or Hollywood Road gives out onto the climbing streets and colonial architecture of Albert Road and its palm-shaded government buildings or, from another direction, towards the Victorian homes and European look of Kennedy Town. The stalls of Shanghai Street end abruptly at an apartment development. A foliage-shaded residential section plunges suddenly into a tenement district where television antennae pierce the sky alongside washing hanging from bamboo poles.

And always there are the dinning throngs of people, content with a basic of life that scarcely crosses the visitor's mind—the chance to weave blankets and sell Coca-Cola in a free society.

Weekend in Caracas

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent Press-Telegram Travel Editor

EXCURSIONS to the moon aren't being offered—yet—but you CAN spend a weekend in this flossy Venezuelan capital.

It's done via Delta Air Lines' newly inaugurated 880 Convair jet service, the only direct route from the West Coast without delaying stopovers en route.

I know, because I am on the inaugural flight, touching the Caracas airstrip exactly 11 hours and 29 minutes after takeoff from Los Angeles International, and after brief stops in Dallas, New Orleans, and Jamaica, British West Indies. The distance is 4,939 miles, and our actual flying time was 8 hours, 54 minutes.

If you don't think that's jetting, give it a try!

Caracas is many things to many people.

To the seasoned traveler, it is one of the most glamorous cities in South America, a gleaming, teeming metropolis of 1.3 million. And it has everything.

AFTER DEBARKING from your Delta jet, you go by limousine over Pica Avila mountain into Caracas. Well, you don't go all the way over; at one point you drive through a three-mile tunnel, at the end of which you see Caracas glistening in the sunlight.

Caracas was built at an altitude of 3,036 feet, boasts a year-around temperature of 68 degrees, Venezuelans (don't call them natives) declare that the temperature varies no more than 4 degrees the year around. A just dandy place to linger on if you wish to extend that weekend.

Skyscrapers are everywhere. Now rising on a hillside overlooking the downtown business section is an unusual one, the 15-story Helioid building. This one is built like a pyramid, wide at the bottom and much smaller at the top. When completed, it will have an auto ramp—an avenida—all the way to the top, making it possible to pass the doors of a veritable city of shops and restaurants and night clubs along the way.

Caracas is blessed with more hotels than you can count. Ours is the Tamaraco, of the Intercontinental chain. It was named for an Indian chief who once roamed these verdant hills, but to guests it means living at its best. Its architecture is Aztec.

ON TOP OF Pico Avila Mountain, facing the blue, blue Caribbean on one side and Caracas on the other, is the $5 million, 15-story Hotel Humboldt. You reach it by cable car, and its climb at some stages appears almost vertical.

Scheduled to open in mid-May is the Macuto Sheraton, on the coast above Caracas airport. It has 450 rooms, a private beach, a private yacht harbor and 16 types of the most expensive Italian marble. Government built by ex-Dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez, it is the most expensive hotel ever built anywhere, actually costing $47 million without furnishings. It is often referred to as "the disgrace of Venezuela," with the explanation that the cost included such items as graft.

(Caracas' tap water does have microbes, but it is not the liquid death you encounter in Mexico. All the best hotels strive to protect their guests with filtered water.)

CARACAS is the San Francisco of South America in many ways, but its flora is Hawaiian—no, Caribbean, which is similar. Nowhere will you see more vivid—and gigantic—poinsettias (here we saw our first white ones), bougainvilleas, hibiscus and oleanders, which set a flamboyant color pattern for all manner of smaller blooms and greenery. The national flower is the orchid, of which 50 species grow within a few miles of the capital.

Brown-uniformed officers are conspicuous on every hand. You see them coming into Caracas, at both entrances of the great tunnel, with machine guns ready for any emergency. You see them in the jungle of downtown traffic. We are told that extra precautions are being taken since the diplomatic break with Castro. Only about one-half of one per cent of the people are Castro sympathizers, but they have made themselves known with various harassments.

Prices certainly aren't on the giveaway level, but Venezuelans point out that they have slid downward 40 per cent since the government devalued its currency a year ago. Dinner prices equal San Francisco's, or possibly a little higher; a good hotel room, for two, costs anywhere from $8 to $40 a night. You must remember that Venezuela's economy is based on oil.

ENTERTAINMENT—music, principally—is calypso. And the way they do it down here, you can sit for hours and watch and listen. Visitors do just that, too. If you turn in before 3 a.m., you're a piker.

Sports? You bet! There's horseracing every Saturday and Sunday. Venezuelans turn out for bullfighting in a big way, too, but the national pastime is baseball. You see the kids playing it on every vacant lot. Off the coast, in 78-degree water, is some of the finest sail fishing in the world.

The short-skirted señoritas are dark-eyed, but not all are dark-skinned. Eighty per cent of the Venezuelans are mestizos—Indians with a mixture of Spanish blood. Indian girls have no hair on their legs; the Spanish girls do have. So, all the women let the hair grow on their legs to prove their heritage of Spanish blood.

Gobierno: Revolutions come and go in the Latin countries, often with the seasons, but Venezuelans with whom we talked feel that President Romulo Betancourt's government represents the best interests of the United States and that he is South America's hope against communism. Since taking office, he has purchased idle lands and redistributed them among the poor, and has introduced other notable reforms. He has closed all Communist offices and jailed some 250 Red leaders. Thus, he didn't ban the Communist party; he simply put it out of business.

PASSPORTS are not required of visitors from the United States. A birth certificate, driver's license or Social Security card will do in its stead, plus four photos to be attached to visas.

While Caracas already is a "must" stop for travelers, Venezuelans see a tremendous surge of tourist business in the next two years. The direct Delta Air Lines' jet route from California, they feel, will be a very noticeable contributing factor.

(Next week: Visit to Jamaica, British West Indies.)

SPACE doesn't permit listing all the fine large breeds of dogs, but not long ago in a poll taken of large breeds favored by men, the top six were German shepherd, boxer, great Dane, collie, standard poodle and Irish setter, which is a wide variation from the popularity rank of the American Kennel Club. No poll has been taken to indicate breeds of any size favored by women, but if one were taken, mostly small breeds would be at the top. However, it is a safe bet to say that among a combined poll of men and women on large dogs preferred, the German shepherd would win first place by a landslide.

And they would want him to be as gentle, intelligent and beautiful as the German shepherd pictured with this article, a dog especially selected to appear here by this columnist because of these qualities which are combined in perfect balance. He is Philberlyn's Bravado owned by Philip and Bertie Freidberg, 1205 Kenneydale Ave., South San Gabriel.

herd dog that could work well under any condition.

Toward the end of 1889, Rittmeister (Calvary Captain) Max Emil Friedrich von Stephanitz set about in earnest to standardize the German shepherd. Realizing that the pastoral era was over, he wanted a strong, sound, dependable dog to serve in other roles such as the government or police agents might offer. With Artur Meyer, Stephanitz founded the first German shepherd club, the Verein für Deutsche Schäferhunde, a club that eventually drew 30,000 members, making it the largest club devoted to one breed ever created. The standard drawn up for the breed stressed utility and intelligence. That the dog proved beautiful as well was incidental.

AS MAN pulled up out of the muck of ignorance, he stopped being a wanderer and began to settle down, and this required capturing animals to keep his family in food. So began the pastoral age and with it a real use for specialized dogs. Several types of sheepherding dogs gradually evolved in Germany, each fashioned according to its environment. With the march of civilization, herders gathered together to brag about their dogs, and eventually the breeds were combined into a single shep-

However, his beauty plus his records in World War I and the heroic acts of Rintin-Tin and Strongheart on the movie screen catapulted the breed into such popularity that by the mid-20s every third dog registered in the United States was a German shepherd. The resultant "puppy factories" as rapidly plummeted the breed almost into the discard. Dedicated fanciers, however, stood by their beloved dog and re-established the German shepherd as a breed without a peer, servant of all mankind. His acts of courage, his mercy missions, his members devoted to patiently guiding the blind cannot be calculated numbers.

How Sightless Can Tell Color

By Ben Zinser and George X. Trimble, M. D.

HOW CAN A blind person tell the color of the clothing he's about to put on?

It's easy if he has a selection of the tiny aluminum discs distributed by the American Federation for the Blind. Each disc is stamped with a two-letter Braille abbreviation for any one of 10 colors. The disc is sewn into the garment.

The discs are sent without charge to the blind. Write: American Federation for the Blind, 15 W. 16th St., New York City.

BECAUSE WOMEN are marrying younger, fewer twins can be expected in the U. S., predict two researchers, Amram Scheinfeld of Columbia University and Joseph Schechter of the U. S. Office of Vital Statistics.

A woman is four times as apt to have twins at 35 as at 20, they say in a report published by Medical World News, a physicians' news magazine.

A NATIONAL Dental Health Center, first of its kind, has been opened in San Francisco. The center, located on the grounds of the Public Health Service Hospital, provides facilities for applied research in the prevention and control of dental diseases. Dental public health workers also will be trained there.

INTELLIGENCE doesn't decline with age, says Dr. Robert W. Kleemeier, Washington University psychologist. He gave intelligence tests at intervals over a 12-year period to persons aged 65 to 90. Finding: No evidence of intellectual decline. However, in those about to die, regardless of age, there was a sharp drop in intellectual function.

TEN THOUSAND persons will be injured on the golf course this year, predicts the National Golf Foundation in a report in GP, a journal for family physicians.

Ninety-three per cent of the injuries will be caused by rocketing balls and swinging clubs, according to the estimate. The other 7 per cent will result from heat prostration and lightning.

NERVE IMPULSES speed along a human nerve fiber at a speed of about 200 miles an hour in a healthy human, says "The Wonderful Human Machine," a publication of the American Medical Association. Nerve messages are somewhat slower in newborn infants. Certain nerve ailments affecting muscular coordination can slow down the velocity.

COMING SOON: a new kind of DEW line—a Japanese-made diaper cover with a built-in alert system. At the first sign of dampness a buzzer sounds.

for those most intimate marriage problems

What a blessing to be able to trust in the wonderful germicidal protection Norforms can give you. Norforms have a highly perfected new formula that releases anti-septic and germicidal ingredients with long-lasting action. The exclusive new base melts at body temperature, forming a powerful protective film that guards (but will not harm) the delicate tissues.

And Norforms' deodorant protection has been tested in a hospital clinic and found to be more effective than anything it had ever tried. Norforms eliminates (rather than cover up) embarrassing odors, yet have no "medicine" or "disinfectant" odor themselves.

And what convenience! These small feminine suppositories are so easy and convenient to use. Just insert—no apparatus, mixing or measuring. They're greaseless and they keep in any climate.

Now available in new packages of 6, as well as 12 and 24. Also available in Canada.

Unlike most dark red roses, John S. Armstrong retains color in every stage and will not burn or turn bluish.

Rose That's Constant

By Joe Littlefield

OF SEVERAL new roses planted in our garden last winter, John S. Armstrong, one of the four All America Rose Selections for 1962, was the first to bloom. The rich red colors didn't turn bluish as do some red roses that fade in hot weather.

We cut off the flowers and faded blooms stingily, just below the flower heads above the first bud or leaf. Flowers on new roses cut thus encourage good body and branch growth. Cut them greedily with long stems and you're likely to have short stunted bushes. New roses are cut with long stems after the first year.

To prepare soil for rose planting, work some organic matter in the soil before planting, and you'll do the roots a favor. The roses will start better and you'll have good rose bushes, provided you buy top grade roses to begin with.

Dig the holes about 18 inches to 2 feet deep and 18 inches wide. Mix about two parts of organic matter with three parts soil taken from planting hole. Organic matter may be manure, compost soil or prepared material containing peat moss and leaf mold. Soak down well. In a week or 10 days later dig the soil over and soak again. A week or two later, set out your bare-root roses.

OLD CHRYSANTHEMUM stalks from which flowers have been removed should not be cut back until new growth at base of stalks has grown out at least an inch. Cut the old stalks too early before new growth for the next year has begun and you may have only a few or no new growths. The old stalks with several live leaves on them, do their bit in helping the plants develop the new growths for next year.

A MAN WITH a marked foreign accent phoned Francois' Manhattan Restaurant, 1909 E. 4th St., the other evening. Owner-host Bob Boyle had difficulty understanding what the caller wanted, but finally determined that he was asking for reservations for a party of eight.

When the group arrived, Boyle realized they were French. With many gestures, they explained in halting English that they were visiting California from France, had heard about Francois' Manhattan Restaurant from friends in Paris and had decided to give it a try.

Incidents similar to that occur at the Manhattan all the time.

The Manhattan's luncheons are masterpieces of culinary art created by Chef John Rossi. Among the unusual entrees are steamed finnan haddie ($1.65), which is a smoked haddock dish rarely served in other restaurants; spaghetti Tetrazzini ($1.80), which includes an unusual white sauce with bits of chicken, and fresh large mushrooms saute ($1.85), with rice and new peas. Often served throughout the week are tenderloin tips with mushrooms au vin rouge (cooked in red wine) and Swiss steak, both $1.50. All the entrees include large salad bowl or soup du jour, bread basket and coffee.

Luncheons are served from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The big table d'hote dinners (priced from $2.75) are served from 5 to 11:30 p.m. Both luncheons and dinners are available in the handsome banquet room, which has seating for parties of from 20 to 40 persons.

NO. 1 VILLAIN HAS PROBLEM

Son of Bruce 'Frank Nitti' Gordon Asks for Tommy-Gun

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Television's public villain No. 1 is worried: his 13-year-old son wants a tommy-gun.

The TV villain is Bruce Gordon. But you probably know him better as Frank Nitti, Robert Stack's gruff adversary on ABC's "The Untouchables."

Nitti always is outwitted by Stack. But Gordon is a winner in the money department. As Gordon, even playing opposite Helen Hayes and Judith Anderson, he always wondered where his next job was coming from.

But as Nitti, he's become a personality. And you never met a bigger softie.

"I gave up smoking and whisky six months ago," the TV gangster said in a filmtown restaurant. Turning to a waiter, he said:

"Give me a glass of burgundy—on a single rock."

Gordon, a native of Fitchburg, Mass., and former New York actor, said he's happy with the Nitti part—even if he is a gangster.

"Sure, I'm glad to be doing it," he said. "I don't know why actors bellyache if they play a part more than a few times. It's success, isn't it? And that's what they want, isn't it?"

"I USED TO RUN into those complainers in New York all the time.

And I'd ask them what they were doing six months before, and they'd recall—nothing.

"The only thing I don't like about the part is that the kids tend to idolize us. My 13-year-old boy wants a tommy-gun. I ain't kidding. It's murder.

"I think he's got a deal on with the other kids—I think he sells them my old scripts. He asks if he can borrow them 'to show Richie across the street.' I say sure, and I never see them again."

Gordon, known on TV for his Nitti costume of pin-stripe suit and buttonhole flower, also has an 8-year-old son.

"But he doesn't watch the show," he said. "He's asleep. But, as for the 13-year-old, I feel like asking him, 'Wouldn't you rather idolize an Albert Schweitzer?'"

"The only thing I'm afraid of is that he'll say, 'Who?'"

GORDON, A NAVY VETERAN of World War II, paid his way through New York's Geiger School of Dramatics by ushering at the Roxy and Palace theaters. His first acting job came as a spear-carrier in Max Reinhardt's production of "The Eternal Road" at the Manhattan Opera House in 1937.

The actor, who now has a home in the nearby San Fernando Valley with his family, lived and worked out of New York for 20 years.

"I came here in 1957," he said. "I could see where TV was going—to the coast. So I just turned the key in my apartment one day and left."

Despite his villainous TV face, he is no mug. He toured the world with Miss Anderson in "Medea." But his real recognition as a stage actor came after he did a small part in "The Lark"—a tale of Joan of Arc—with Julie Harris. He didn't want to do the part, but his friend Boris Karloff, also in the cast, convinced him to take it.

"Ever since then," said Gordon, "I advise actors never to turn down parts.

"But what gets me in Hollywood is that agents don't understand you when you say, 'I'm an actor.' Everything is types. They don't say, 'We need an actor for this part.' They say, 'We need a heavy.' I argued for a while, then I gave up. Today I just say, 'How much and where?'"

"They even have money categories. If the budget calls for a $10,000 actor—that is, if the part is budgeted for so much—they don't want anybody for less. The budget says $10,000. So the actor's gotta be too."

BRUCE GORDON . . . Successful Loser

BARBARA RUSH stars as an American secret service agent during the "Theater '62" presentation of "Notorious" at 10 p.m. Sunday, channel 4. She is forced into marriage with a Nazi boss in order to gain information. Joseph Cotton co-stars in the COLOR presentation.

IKE INTERVIEW RATES THIRD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Eisenhower ran third to "The Untouchables" and "Sing Along With Mitch" in his last TV appearance.

Howard Bell, a vice president of the National Association of Broadcasters, said that an hour-long filmed interview with Eisenhower shown Thanksgiving evening drew a rating of 6.8, meaning that 4.1 million TV sets were tuned to him.

Bell said "The Untouchables" posted a rating of 19.4 and song leader Mitch Miller's program led all three networks with a 24.6 rating.

Silent Screen Star

Esther Ralston, veteran actress of the silent screen, heads the cast of a new NBC-TV daytime serial, "Our Five Daughters." In addition to winning acclaim during the silent film era, Miss Ralston appeared in numerous talkies and on various television programs. The serial starts on Jan. 2.

SPECIAL

WIZARD OF OZ—Two-hour special, making its fourth Yuletide appearance, with Dick Van Dyke, his three older children, and the family dog, "Alice," serving as hosts, at 6 p.m. on channel 2. The 1939 M-G-M movie stars Judy Garland with Frank Morgan, Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr, Jack Haley, Billie Burke and Margaret Hamilton.

ED SULLIVAN—Gary Morton, Lucille Ball's new husband, presents a comedy routine at 8 p.m. on channel 2. Also headlining are Vic Damone, Al Hirt, Sarah Vaughan and Edgar Bergen, along with Rip Taylor, Andrew's poodles and Nina and Frederick.

THEATRE 62—A TV version of the 1946 movie, "Notorious," with Barbara Rush and George Grizzard in the Bergman-Grant roles as Secret Service agents sent to Rio to rout out a spy ring headed by Joseph Cotten in the Claude Rains role. Cathleen Nesbitt, Fred Scollay and Edward Andrews are featured, at 10 p.m., in color, on channel 4.

CLOSE-UP!—"The Remarkable Comrades," 10 p.m. on channel 7, views the paradox of Communists who flourish in Italy, homeground of the Roman Catholic Church. Strongest Communist party in the Western world, it thrives in the wealthy north rather than the poorer areas. Parly leaders are interviewed as well as non-Communists.

CARA TALKS 'MILE-A-MINUTE'

Drops Housewife TV 'Image' to Disclose Financial Wizard

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cara Williams is an actress who talks a mile a minute, usually about things she isn't supposed to talk about.

Cara is the ever-loving Gladys of the CBS-TV show, "Pete and Gladys." As co-star of a million-dollar enterprise, she is not supposed to discuss things publicly that might destroy illusions and endanger the investment. So they keep telling her.

"About your real estate—" I began. "It's going great," she said, grabbing the ball and running. "Don't let any actor tell you TV is for the birds—it's great. Because of TV, I've been able to make investments for the first time in my life."

"Got four houses now. Two of them are rented, I live in one and I'm fixing the other one up. That's my hobby—interior decorating. I buy these old houses, get them looking good and the value goes up."

"I'VE ALWAYS been interested in real estate, but I never had any money to do anything about it before. I guess it goes back to my childhood. We were pretty hungry in those days and mother used to make a date with a real estate man to see some property in Inglewood or something. He'd always take us to lunch—that's what we were after.

"But gee, real estate is one of the things CBS doesn't want me to talk about."

What about stocks?

"Doing fine there," she said. "Bought 600 shares of one stock at $1 and it went up to $19. My broker wanted me to sell, but I told him all I could lose was $600. Now it's down to $4, but I'm still ahead."

"ALSO BOUGHT some cattle in Kansas. Mother asked what I wanted cattle for and I told her even if we were broke again we'd be able to eat. She said you couldn't eat anything you owned."

"I guess I'm just a gambler at heart. But I've given up those poker games I used to play every week. Some of the boys were newspapermen, and I quit after I won $647 one night. Even if they were friends, they were still newspapermen and it might get printed."

"Now I play with the film crew on the set at lunch time—25-50 cents, that sort of thing. Can't get hurt and it's good to be friends with those boys."

"NO, NO, NO! I'm really not supposed to talk about gambling."

But she was permitted to talk about "Pete and Gladys," which she likes. Cara is making a name for herself as a comedienne, despite occasional comparison to Lucille Ball.

"That I can't figure," she said. "We're both redheads, but otherwise we're not a bit alike. 'I Love Lucy' was a three-camera live show in which Lucille played to both the studio and the home audience. The comedy had to be broad. Ours is a one-camera filmed show, which allows more subtlety."

"But I suppose everybody in show business has to be compared to someone else. Look at all the girls who are 'second Marilyn Monroes.' Look at all the actors who were 'second John Barrymores.'"

"Oh dear, I'm not supposed to say that name, either."

The reference was to her ex-husband.

"But at least I meant senior, not junior," she added apologetically.

KBIG Moves to New Avalon Studios

Radio station KBIG (740) has completed transfer of the bulk of its programming operation to its new, two-story studio building in downtown Avalon, Catalina Island.

The move was made from facilities at the Renton Pass transmitter, a five-mile, uphill journey from downtown Avalon. The transmitter now is being operated by remote control.

The new 4,000-square-foot building includes KBIG's main studios, control room, offices, carport, a sponsor entertainment center and a fully equipped repair shop.

THE BUILDING'S record library includes 550 lineal feet of shelves which, when filled, will contain 15 tons of records.

Batt-type insulation, acoustical-felt soundproof doors and double-thick glass windows were employed in the construction to minimize speedboat and airplane noises.

The station, operated by the John Poole Broadcasting Co.,

also has Los Angeles studios for the origination of special features.

Mort Sahl Signs for 'Good Years'

Comedian Mort Sahl has signed to join host-narrator Henry Fonda in producer Leland Hayward's "The Good Years."

The 90-minute special will be presented Jan. 12 on CBS-TV.

Adapted from a book by Walter Lord, the television program will concentrate on the period from 1900 until the beginning of World War I.

It will trace, in song, dance, comedy skits and dramatic vignettes, the American pattern of life during this period.

Sahl, in addition to participating in several skits, will present especially written comedy monologues.

GLORIA SWANSON COMBS HAIR FOR TV ROLE
Guest Stars Friday on "Straightaway"

Gloria Swanson Wants More TV Drama Roles

Give the lady a chance and she'll say "yes." That is providing you're a television producer and you're asking her to appear on your dramatic program.

At 61, glamorous Gloria Swanson—yes, Myrtle, you can still be glamorous at 61—is anxiously looking for opportunities to do more acting on television.

She finds one such opportunity Friday when she appears on "Straightaway" at 7:30 p.m., channel 7.

Miss Swanson plays a silent film queen living with yesterday's memories. Any resemblance to her role in the 1950 movie "Sunset Boulevard" is probably purely intentional.

The TV dramatic assignment is the first for her in 13 years, although she has video-guested on variety shows in the interim.

HER LAST DRAMATIC appearance was on "Gloria Swanson's Hour," a program TV airing in 1948 only in New York.

"I think TV producers believe that I don't want to appear on their shows," said Miss Swanson.

"I want to do television if they'd only present me with some scripts. If I like the script and the part, I'll do it. It's as simple as that."

She recently returned from a three months' tour in Europe where she promoted two of her businesses dealing with hosiery and fashions.

She also has major financial interests in a button factory, a travel agency and a cutting-tool patent.

But she'd rather button down a good television role than cut stock dividend certificates.

THE ACTRESS STARTED her show-business career when she was 14 years old in 1913. At that time, she was a bit player with the Essanay Co. in Chicago.

Three years later, she left for Hollywood to begin a screen career that was as sensationally successful in the era of silent films as it was when the "talkies" took over.

It would make her extremely happy if she could triplicate that success on the video screen.

"I have to keep busy," she explained. "I'm no vegetable and if I have nothing to do, I'm not happy."

"Right now television is the dominant entertainment medium and all I need to get into it is some scripts."

Sign Five Stars for Special

Five stars, all of whom have appeared in musical comedies, have been signed to appear on "The Broadway of Lerner and Loewe," a COLOR special set for NBC-TV airing Feb. 11.

The stars are Julie Andrews, Richard Burton, Maurice Chevalier, Robert Goulet and Stanley Holloway.

They will reenact production numbers from musicals they appeared in where the composers were the team of Alan Jay Lerner and Fredrick Loewe.

The team's musical compositions include "Brigadoon," "Paint Your Wagon," "My Fair Lady," "Camelot" and "Gigi."

Pan and Fan Mail

Please print this reply to Mr. Asten, who wrote a letter about Mitch Miller.

"Dear Mr. Asten:

"I think you are very stupid and something must be wrong with your mind if you like a gangster movie about killing and things like that instead of a nice sensible program like 'Sing Along With Mitch.'

"And just because they might have pot-bellies doesn't mean there's anything wrong with them.

"Probably you have a pot-belly, too.

"Just because he has a beard, it doesn't mean he's a beatnik. I think his beard is cute and he is probably nicer than you because if you were nice, you wouldn't write such an awful thing about him."

Sixth-Grader Linda Hill,
Long Beach

"P.S. Santa Claus has a pot belly."

True, Linda, but can he carry a tune?

Will you please publish in your column sometime what the flowing liquid is that appears on the introduction to the "Checkmate" program?

Mrs. C. Everett, Lakewood

It's a not-so-liquid liquid, Mrs. Everett, namely, paint. A number of different color paints were poured into a huge bucket, then gently set into motion to give the swirling effect captured by the camera.

I wonder why they hold such fine programs as "Highways of Melody" so late.

My husband and I have two favorite singers. His is Dorothy Kirsten and mine is Eddy Arnold, both of whom appeared on the program last Sunday.

My husband, as well as other shut-ins, cannot sit up so late.

It would be great if they could put a show like this on early. Who wants to listen to a talking horse with this type of entertainment in comparison?

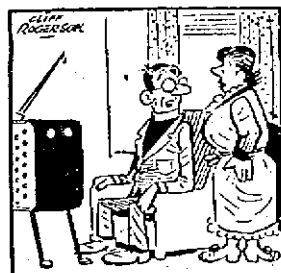

Mrs. H. E. King,
Long Beach

Other talking horses.

We are adults but we enjoy the "Soupy Sales Show." In these days a person who can make someone laugh is worth his weight in gold.

I bet some of his (ancient) jokes go over the kids' heads. We love them.

Mrs. Brown, Long Beach
KABC-TV officials aren't

"IT'S MY DUTY TO WATCH THE LATE MOVIE TO MAKE SURE I WON'T MISS THE EVENING GERMAN."

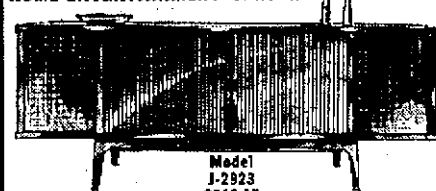

quite as generous as you, Mrs. Brown. But they do think Soupy is worth his weight in pies.

AMANDA BLAKE, who is regularly seen as Kitty on "Gunsmoke," gets a change-of-pace role and costume when she performs as a Hawaiian girl on "The Red Skelton Show" at 9 p.m. Tuesday, channel 2.

SPECIAL

RED SKELTON — Amanda (Gunsmoke's Kitty) Blake, Maurice (Bilko's Doberman) Gosfield and Arthur (Hawaii) Lyman get involved with San Fernando Red's shady real estate dealings at 9 p.m. on channel 2. The Kaaki Maani Island company sells underwater islands to suckers, then gets conned by another con outfit. Arthur Lyman, incidentally, has signed to appear with his group in ABC's "Hawaiian Eye" series.

ERNIE KOVACS — Fourth special of the season explores the western scene from early movies to adult TV westerns. The Kovacsian vignettes are at 10:30 p.m. on channel 7.

NO MATTER WHAT THE YEAR MAY BE, 1890 or 1962, Buster Keaton can't keep out of trouble with the police. The officers are Gil Lamb (at left) and James Flavin, who appear with the comedian in "The Twilight Zone" at 10 p.m. Friday, channel 2. The story is about a janitor who puts on a space helmet and is time transported.

FCC CHAIRMAN SOUNDS OFF

Urges Viewers 'Organize'

By RONALD H. NESSEN

Federal Communications Commission Chairman Newton Minow.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Television viewers probably will get "just what they deserve" unless they organize to complain loudly about poor programs, according to

Minow said television stations do not deliberately put on bad programs, but he said broadcasters tend to under-rate the taste, knowledge and understanding of the public.

He made the remarks to an audience of about 200 at a panel discussion on television programming. Minow, who stung the industry earlier this year when he called television a "vast wasteland," was particularly critical of children's programs.

TELEVISION'S opportunity to broaden children's knowledge is "so often frittered away," Minow said.

"Too often television is used as a baby sitter and that's all," he said.

The government's role in improving television is a delicate one, he said, because it borders on censorship. He said he would rather have bad television than infringe upon free speech.

However, Minow said the FCC would make television stations live up to the promises of public service they made when they applied for licenses.

IN REITERATING the FCC's proposal that networks be brought under federal regulation, Minow said it was nearly impossible to fix responsibility for bad programs between local stations, networks, advertising agencies and sponsors.

Howard Bell, a vice president of the National Association of Broadcasters, presenting the industry's view, said television should aim for "high rather than low denominators" and broadcasters know that.

He said there were some programs that he wouldn't want his children to watch, but he declined to name them.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

A recent fall TV rating survey by the American Research Bureau put KHJ-TV (channel 9) in first place as the independent station with the most viewers during prime time hours. In addition, the survey noted that "The Movie Station of Los Angeles," with its Sunday evening "Theater Nine," out-rated the three major networks as well as the competing independents.

The survey results made Wally Sherwin, KHJ-TV programming director, happy, but not contented. "A top entertainer," he said, "entertains everyone." Sherwin wants KHJ-TV to entertain everyone and, along those lines, has scheduled three major program series to begin after the first of the year. He frankly admits they are rating risks.

The first is "Perspective on Greatness," a series of one-hour programs on some of the world's greatest personalities.

INCLUDED ARE SUCH individuals as Dwight D. Eisenhower, Dag Hammarskjöld, Harry Truman, Sophie Tucker, Albert Schweitzer, the Windsors, Will Rogers, Helen Keller, Dr. Jonas Salk, Louis Armstrong, Douglas MacArthur, Casey Stengel, Charles Lindbergh and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Each one of these programs actually tells a story and is not merely a bunch of old film clips strung together," said Sherwin.

The second major series is "International Feature Films," including 50 foreign movies. Sherwin emphasizes they are not "furniture" films.

"By 'furniture films,' I mean old English or early American," said Sherwin. "Our package includes the 'greats' of foreign films, 40 of which were made since 1955."

Typical of the "greats" are "Gate of Hell," a 1954 Japanese movie which won the "best Foreign Film" award; "The Path of Hope," a 1952 Italian triple-award-winning feature; and "The World of Apu," a 1960 India-produced winner. All are dubbed in English.

THE THIRD MAJOR program is "The Golden World of Opera," a series of 20 color films made all over the world.

Some are films made of actual operas while they were being performed on the stage in La Scala, Italy.

Typical productions to be aired include Rossini's "Figaro, the Barber of Seville"; Puccini's "Tosca" and Verdi's "Rigoletto." Sherwin frankly admits the operas may not draw a large following.

"But we're out to attract that element we haven't reached yet," he said. "Important people will watch and talk about it. A top entertainer entertains everyone."

"Besides," he added, "a lot of people who have never seen an opera before just might learn they really like them."

"Now myself, I'm a 'Shirley Temple' viewer. I'm also a 'Bonanza' fan. I'd also watch a good opera, although I may not watch all of them."

Sherwin candidly admits he hopes to create an "image" for channel 9 and have it become something of a "legend" in the industry.

THE BUSINESS of "image-creating," according to Sherwin, takes three major ingredients, distinction, taste and the courage of your convictions.

Sherwin has been "image-creating" since he started in the broadcasting field with radio station WBBM in Chicago in 1939. He was associated with such television shows as "Stairway to Stardom," "Mister Whistle" and "Two of a Kind."

In 1955 he was signed as general manager of television station KVTG in Tulare. He was a general manager who wrote the scripts and served as master of ceremonies for the locally originated shows.

When he arrived, there were five radio engineers trying to figure how to focus a camera. Sherwin showed them.

When he arrived, the station was doing $1,500 worth of business a month. When he left to join Riviera Sofa Bed Co. as the director of that firm's advertising campaigns, the Tulare television station was grossing $18,000 a month.

And an image had been created.

The station had become known as "The Voice of the San Joaquin Valley."

Sherwin joined KHJ-TV last June. The last two months have been the biggest financial months in the history of KHJ-TV.

Which could serve to prove that "image-creating," when done with distinction, taste and the courage of your convictions, can prove to be a highly profitable business.

WEEK'S TOP SHOWS

Sunday—"Close-Up!" at 10 p.m. on channel 7 presents "The Remarkable Comrades," a study of Communists in Italy. Outside of the iron curtain, the largest Communist vote is cast in Italy.

Monday—"The Bing Crosby Show" at 9 p.m. on channel 7 is a one-hour variety special taped in London. Guests include comedians Terry Thomas and Dave King, singers Shirley Bassey and Marion Ryan.

BING CROSBY
'Special' on Monday

Tuesday—Ernie Kovacs' fourth special of the season whimsically follows the changes occurring from the time of early western movies to present-day TV westerns. It's on channel 7 at 10:30 p.m.

Wednesday—"The Bob Hope Show" at 9 p.m. on channel 4 features guests Nancy Kwan, Danny Thomas and James Garner. In one skit, Bob portrays the chairman of a committee investigating TV medical shows.

Thursday—The New York Philharmonic, conducted by Leonard Bernstein, presents an hour of music for the Christmas season at 7:30 p.m. on channel 2. The Choral Art Society and the boys' choir of St. Thomas Episcopal Church also musically participate.

Friday—"The Peace Corps in Tanganyika" at 9:30 p.m. on channel 4 follows a group of volunteers as they ready themselves for service in the East African nation. It also shows them at work and reporter Ray Scherer asks them how they feel about their first assignment.

Saturday—"The World's Twist Championship Contest"

is conducted at Hollywood's "Le Crazy Horse" and channel 11 catches the dance action for telecasting at 8:30 p.m. In addition to the contestants, featured artists will include Louis Prima, Sam Butera and The Witnesses, Donnie Brooks and His Twist Music. Master of ceremonies for the occasion will be Del Moore.

ROBINSON CRUSOE — Sunday, 5 p.m., channel 9, in COLOR. Dan O'Herlihy, James Fernandez, Daniel De-foe's classic of man marooned on a desert island.

THE WIZARD OF OZ — Sunday, 6 p.m., channel 2. Judy Garland, Frank Morgan, Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr, Jack Haley, Billie Burke, Margaret Hamilton (1939). Dick Van Dyke and his three older children are hosts for fourth Yuletide showing of this classic which launched Judy to stardom and made the song "Over the Rainbow" her trademark.

THE LAST BRIDGE — Sunday, 11:30 p.m., channel 4. Maria Schell (German-1954). Stirring anti-war argument of nurse who has loyalties on both German and Yugoslav sides. Filmed in Yugoslavia. Winner of Cannes award for best actress.

STARLIFT — Monday through Friday, 9 p.m., channel 9. Doris Day, Gordon MacRae, Virginia Mayo, Gene Nelson, Janice Rule, Ruth Roman (1951). USO tour, and romance between starlet and G.I.

THE WALKING HILLS — Tuesday, 11:15 p.m., channel 2. Randolph Scott, Ella Raines, John Ireland, Arthur Kennedy (1949). Assorted group of adventurers seek a lost gold mine.

HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY — Thursday, 11:15 p.m., channel 2. Walter Pidgeon, Maureen O'Hara, Donald Crisp, Roddy McDowall coal mining family in Wales. Oscar winner.

ANCHORS AWEIGH — Friday, 11:30 p.m., channel 11. Gene Kelly, Frank Sinatra, Kathryn Grayson (1944). Lively musical about two sailors on leave in Hollywood.

DESTINATION GOBI — Saturday, 9 p.m., channel 4, in COLOR. Richard Widmark, Don Taylor, Darryl Hickman, Martin Milner, Earl Holliman (1953). First run. True adventure story of a group of U.S. Navy weather men who fought their way out of Mongolia through 800 miles of Japanese-held territory during World War II. Following the movie, a member of the real-life expedition shows his own color documentary footage.

ROAD TO RIO — Saturday, 11 p.m., channel 2. Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour (1948). First run.

New From Acme Mattress . . .
Convert Regular Bed to Contour

THE ABOVE illustration is the Select-A-Rest bed by Dura, which is sold and distributed by ACME MATTRESS FACTORY, 3425 E. Anaheim St., Long Beach.

The Select-A-Rest bed is available in various widths, i.e., twin bed—39", three-quarter bed—48", double bed—54", Queen size beds—60". Extra long (80") are available in all sizes. This unit is also available for hospital convalescent use, on rental or sales basis.

In just 3 minutes you can convert your twin or Hollywood bed into a relaxing contour bed without changing the decor of your bedroom. And if you have been having trouble relaxing, a new Select-A-Rest contour unit may be just the answer to relieve muscle fatigue and tension.

Ask your doctor about the benefits derived from proper positioning while relaxing. Many units have been sold to people suffering from heart disease, asthma, varicose veins, respiratory problems and orthopedic ailments.

The electrically controlled and hydraulically operated unit replaces the old box spring and requires no special installation.

Remove the mattress and box spring, place the Select-A-Rest unit where the box spring was, place the mattress back on top and the conversion is complete.

After assembly, plug the unit into any standard, 110-to-125-volt AC outlet for immediate use.

The unit operates as smoothly as a convertible top. No wonder! It was developed by Dura-Corporation of Oak Park, Michigan, the exclusive supplier of hydraulically operated convertible tops to the automotive industry.

A palm-size four-button control unit that can be held in your hand lets you adjust your new contour bed to any of the more than 100 possible relaxing positions. If you want to sit up and watch television or catch up on your reading, just press the "head-up" button and the head of the bed will rise from a reclining position to a 70-degree sitting position. You can stop it at any comfortable place on the way up—or down. Say goodbye to "pillow-packing."

If you have been on your feet all day, lie down and touch the "foot-up" position. You can raise your feet to a 45-degree angle.

When you feel like going to sleep, Select-A-Rest will put you quietly back to a horizontal position.

The compact contour units can be used in almost every room in the house. Built into lounges they can make patios, dens, living rooms and television rooms more comfortable.

PERSONALITY PARADE

If you have a question on a personality, send it to Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Names will be used unless otherwise requested. PARADE cannot reply to inquiries.

Q. When President and Mrs. Kennedy go anywhere they are always protected by the Secret Service. Who protects the Queen of England and Prince Philip?—Diana Rawlinson, New Orleans, La.

A. The Queen and Prince Philip are accompanied on trips by their personal detective-bodyguards, Albert Perkins, 53, who guards the Queen, and Frank Kelley, 45, who guards the Prince.

Q. Would greatly appreciate information about Jennifer Jones, one of the world's best actresses. Is she married and does she have any children? Where does she live?—Janice Ohanian, Paterson, N.J.

A. Miss Jones lives in Los Angeles, has been married to producer David O. Selznick since 1949. They have a daughter, 7, and Mrs. Selznick has two sons, 20 and 21, by her previous marriage to the late Robert Walker.

Q. What is comedian Joey Bishop's real name and where is he from?—E.S., Chicago, Ill.

A. Joseph Gottlieb from Philadelphia.

Q. Who said: "Some movie stars wear their sunglasses even in church; they're afraid God might recognize them and ask for autographs."—Robert H., Asheville, N.C.

A. The late Fred Allen.

Q. Did any U.S. President ever reach the age of 90 in or out of office?—David Bass, Pittsburgh, Pa.

A. John Adams, out of office, died at 90.

Q. Was Audrey Hepburn ever a chorus girl?—Jonathan Stone, Sherman, N.Y.

A. Yes, that's how she started in show business. She worked as a chorus girl in Ciro's cabaret in London, then as a chorine in musicals.

Q. How old is Jolie Gabor, mother of the Gabor sisters? How old is their father?—Mrs. T. Smith, Sunnymead, Calif.

A. Papa Gabor is 80, Mamma Jolie Gabor 71.

Q. How about that Jack Lemmon-Joan Collins romance? Anything there?—Della M., Rainier, Ore.

A. Mr. Lemmon and Miss Collins entertained each other while Mr. Lemmon was in Europe filming. Each denies a romantic interest in the other.

Q. I would like to find out if Ingrid Bergman's mother was German or Swedish, her maiden name, and where she came from.—M. McGovern, New Haven, Conn.

A. Ingrid Bergman's mother, the former Friedel Adler of Hamburg, Germany, died in 1929 when Ingrid was 12.

Q. Of all sports, which is considered the most dangerous?—Ellis Gilbert, Newark, N.J.

A. Auto racing. For example, of the 16 drivers who raced in the 1958 Grand Prix, six today are dead, a seventh so badly injured he will never race again.

Q. Does anyone know why the electronics industry in this country has been concentrated in Massachusetts and California?—A. Wheeler, Calais, Me.

A. Scientists prefer a cultural, scientific, and educational environment. In Massachusetts this is provided by Boston and its great nearby universities, Harvard and MIT. In California, this is provided by the institutions near San Francisco and Los Angeles, such as Stanford, University of California, UCLA, and the California Institute of Technology.

Q. Whatever happened to a young actor named Farley Granger who ten years ago was the teenagers' idol?—Louella Webster, Urbana, Ohio.

A. Granger decided to leave Hollywood and learn acting. He is currently in the road company of the stage play, Advise and Consent.

Q. I love the music of Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians. How old is he, and how long has he been leading this group?—Edna Mueller, Brookville, Ohio.

A. Waring, 61, put together his original foursome, called "The Banjassatra," in Tyrone, Pa., at age 18. The group grew in size, was known briefly as "Waring's Collegians," then expanded to approximately its present size and became known as Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians.

Q. Why don't the British have a draft or compulsory military service as we do?—Sanford Wheeler, Rocky Mount, N.C.

A. The British say they cannot afford it. They also do not believe a conventional war is possible in Europe. They maintain that if hostilities occur on the continent they will rapidly be "escalated" into a nuclear war.

Tiny they are . . . these tasty new potato bites from Birds Eye. But when it comes to menu artistry, they are very big indeed. First of all, the flavor of Tiny Taters is zipped up with a bit of onion and fine seasonings, adding new taste appeal to the simplest meal. Then, the dainty size suggests all kinds of new eye appeal. Try chicken and Tiny Taters in a tempting basket like this. Put a ring of them around a hamburger. Or you can even dip them at hors d'oeuvre time. Tiny Taters are big any time of day. Oh, and the package is big, too . . . six to eight servings. With all Birds Eye products, the idea is new food pleasure for you. That's why—Better Buy Birds Eye.

For the pains and fever

DOCTORS RECOMMEND ASPIRIN

BAYER®
BRINGS FASTEST RELIEF!

...the fastest, most gentle to the stomach relief you can get from the aches, pains and fever of a cold or flu!

This is a simple fact: in private conversations, in magazine articles, in newspapers and medical journals, doctors and public health officials have repeatedly recommended one thing for painful discomforts and fever of colds and flu. That one thing is aspirin. Specifically, aspirin.

In fact, when we asked thousands of doctors if they themselves took aspirin, better than nine out of ten said, "Yes."

So when any member of your family suffers the painful discomforts and fever of a cold or flu, help him to feel better fast with Bayer Aspirin, preferred by more millions of people than any other brand of pain reliever.

Now children, as well as adults, can feel better fast with Bayer Aspirin. You can give Flavored Bayer Aspirin for Children with your doctor's blessing; it's the 1/4-grain dosage doctors recommend.

Yuri Gagarin

The true facts about

RUSSIA'S ASTRONAUTS

by OPAL GINN

WASHINGTON, D.C.
BEFORE Russia's first space explorers take their place in history alongside the pioneers of the past, they must clear up a few questions for historians. For their blast-off into orbit has also launched some rumors and mysteries as disquieting as have ever beset a scientific conquest.

Is it true, for instance, that Yuri Gagarin actually was the first man to leave the earth's atmosphere and return again after a fast whirl around the world? This question has been raised by no less than Lt. Col. John Powers, spokesman for America's astronauts. He suggested: "There have been so many inconsistencies in the report by Gagarin in connection with program details as to lend doubt as to whether he was the guy who went into orbit."

Quick-Change Act

And what about Gherman Titov, the second Soviet spaceman? One eyewitness reported Titov took off in an orange-colored space suit; but another witness who saw him land 25 hours later claimed he was wearing blue coveralls. Did he change suits in flight?

The doubts about his feat have been whispered even behind the Iron Curtain. In the satellite countries, for instance, Titov was the butt of recent jokes. Sample: In the privacy of his home after his triumphant return from space, Titov was confronted by his wife who asked: "Now that we're alone, honey, where did you spend that night?"

To add to the mystery, the Soviet Embassy here abruptly withdrew a movie of Titov in orbit ten minutes before it was scheduled to be shown to the Maryland Academy of Sciences. What was it that the Russians didn't want American scientists to see?

Snores in Space

Some medics are also mystified by Titov's announced ability to sleep and wake up by self-command. And what about the minor illnesses and accidents which reportedly have plagued both Gagarin and Titov since their historic flights?

Obviously, such questions cast a cloud over one of man's greatest achievements. Was it a true achievement? To get the answer, PARADE has gone to the experts, the American scientists and military men who have closely analyzed the Gagarin-Titov flights. Here is what they say:

Beyond any doubt, men were aboard both space capsules. Their heartbeats and respiration were actually picked up by our sensitive tracking equipment.

Gherman Titov

The intercepted information agreed completely with the announcement put out by Moscow. In the case of Titov's flight, we confirmed that television cameras were operating inside the capsule but couldn't intercept the pictures.

True, there were inconsistencies in the Russian reports of Gagarin's landing. But our experts suspect that the Russians deliberately scrambled the facts to disguise the landing technique.

As for Titov's suit of alternating colors, the available evidence indicates he wore an orange-colored space suit but carried blue coveralls which he pulled on later.

What about the case of the canceled movie? Westerners who saw it in Moscow claimed the photography was poor and the propaganda thick. Probably the Soviet Embassy here simply decided at the last minute that it would make a poor impression.

To explain Titov's ability to control his sleep, newspapers have speculated that he may have been hypnotized or may have used drugs. But our experts believe he simply had been trained to sleep and awaken without regard for night and day. They point out that Soviet scientists have been studying how to counteract the psychological effect of not having a day-night cycle.

Still in Good Health

Although both Gagarin and Titov have canceled public appearances because of minor injuries and illnesses, our space medics don't think the flights were damaging to their health. It isn't likely that they would have been healthy one day, sick the next, then healthy the next as Gagarin and Titov have been.

Our experts concede that the Gagarin-Titov flights will go down in history in red letters—unhappily, with a capital "R". But our astronauts, not far behind, may yet win the race to the moon.

MASS MURDERER EICHMANN'S LAST LETTERS TO HIS FAMILY

A PARADE EXCLUSIVE by JACK ANDERSON Parade Washington correspondent

EDITOR'S NOTE: PARADE sent Jack Anderson to South America last year to search for war criminals still in hiding. He made contacts inside the Nazi underground and exposed its operation in three PARADE articles. He also became the first American newsmen to make direct contact with Adolf Eichmann's secretive family. From the family, Anderson has now obtained the letters which the mass slayer has written from his Israeli prison. These letters are presented to PARADE readers to help complete the record of one of the most dramatic episodes of modern times.

Neatly-written letters show Eichmann's passion for order. He wrote only at irregular intervals.

WHAT DOES THE MURDERER of six million Jews, after 18 months alone in a cell with only his memories for company, write home to his family? What are Adolf Eichmann's last words to the wife who had kept his terrible secret? To his sons who had thought him their uncle?

Since his dramatic capture by Israeli commandos, Eichmann has written only rarely to his family in Buenos Aires. These personal letters, which the overlord of the Nazi gas chambers signed simply "Your Papa," have been given exclusively to PARADE.

What advice does he have for the sons who carry on the name he has made infamous? Does he feel any twinge of conscience? Now that he is at the mercy of those to whom he showed no mercy, does he complain about his treatment? What is his philosophy as he awaits his fate?

Here are the answers in Eichmann's own words to his family.

He calls upon his boys to "be brave and stick together like cement."

He admonishes his wife, Vera, to keep out of debt: "I had a further thought that you might be forced one day to borrow money. I warn you not to do that, never lend money and never borrow money."

He reminisces about his last Easter at home: "I think in silent joy of our Easter celebration when Hasi [his pet name for his 5-year-old Argentina-born son, Ricardo] again and again busily looked for Easter eggs and then gave them to his mama. Little Hasi laughed and laughed and was excited over such a good Easter rabbit. In this way, a human being lives in joys of the past, like drinking from a spring which never runs dry."

'I Never Have Killed'

Ironically, the man who callously marked six million Jews for death now rails against the unfairness of his own accusers.

He declares his innocence to his loved ones: "On the eve of my monster trial, I will repeat once again: I assure you by the eternal peace of my dead parents and of my late father-in-law, their fathers as well as our brothers killed in the war, that I: (a) never have killed; (b) never have given a command for killing."

He whines about the accusations: "I cannot defend myself against lies and falsifications, against discrimination and meanness." He complains that prison authorities won't let him wear clothes from home.

He claims to be unconcerned about his fate, at peace with himself: "Rarely was there an accused man who regarded his immediate fate with as little concern as I do. Rarely was there an accused man who has had to take as little refuge in lying and betrayal as I have. I really praise the quietness of my imprisonment. This has to me the value of gold."

As the world now knows, after World War II Adolf Eichmann escaped from Germany to Argentina where his neighbors knew him as meek Ricardo Klement. His family followed in July 1952. Sons Klaus, Horst and Dieter, who had seen little of him as children, accepted their mother's explanation that he was their uncle.

The flop-eared, long-nosed German fugitive worked at mediocre jobs, built a modest home and occupied himself working around the house, reading quasi-scientific articles, painting landscape scenes, and playing the violin.

Occasionally, he would sing Nazi marching songs, boast that he had never gone back on his Nazi oath. But he was careful to say nothing that would give away his true identity even to his boys.

Writing from his cell, he still boasts of his loyalty to the SS. "Several persons asked me in Israel, and especially the interrogating captain of the Israeli police," he relates, "whether I have been a good SS officer. I answered this question: 'I have done my duty, and I was obedient to the orders of my superior SS generals. I was always conscious of my vow which I have sworn to the flag. As an SS lieutenant-colonel, my honor called for as much loyalty as that of every last SS man.'

"I Will Not Bargain"

"I have kept this vow until exactly May 8, 1945, and not one day less," the letter continues. "If that which I have done according to my vow to the flag during the war and which I was obligated to do is punishable today, then I will not bargain. Then I have to take the consequences as a former SS officer."

On his last birthday, March 19, Eichmann used his attorney, Dr. Robert Servatius, to relay a message to his family. He dictated the words to Dr. Servatius who typed them. This letter complained about clothes.

"I thank you very sincerely, for sending me a suit, shoes, etc. I am sorry to report that these great expenses were completely for nothing because the authorities here have not given permission for me to wear your things. I have received all the necessary clothing here for the trial from official authorities."

He also refers to an article which his eldest son, Klaus, wrote for PARADE (My Father, Adolf Eichmann, March 19, 1961). The son simply told what life was like in the Eichmann home. But he also wrote: "I bear one of the most despised names in the world today. Yet I still love the man who gave me life. My father, Adolf Eichmann, is about to stand trial in faraway Israel for the murder of six million Jews in Hitler's gas chambers . . . It is not easy, for a son to believe such things of his father."

On April 17, as Eichmann was about to face the angry accusations against him, he wrote his family:

"On the eve of the beginning of my trial, I wish to speak once more to all my loved ones. First I thank all of you for your sincere greetings which have really given me much joy. If I had needed reinforcement, they would have done it."

He writes about Easter, then continues: "I send my thanks for the greetings and kisses to Horst, to Klaus, Dieter, Hasi, to my dear Monica (Klaus' daughter), to my dear Elvira (then Horst's fiancée, now his wife) and to my beloved Mama. I also send my thanks for their greetings and for their thinking of me to my dear brothers and sisters."

Of his trial, he writes bitterly: "I think that the sensations and lying propaganda around my person will suffer a defeat in this trial independent of how the trial might end. One certainly does not know how far certain notorious twistings of the truth will be able to twist my own words right from my mouth."

Bland Attitude

As Eichmann listened to the sickening evidence against him, his bland attitude was reflected in a letter he wrote his family on June 10. "Seldom has there been an accused man," he prates, "who could say that the court as well as the accusations were the very opposite of distasteful to him."

This letter contains a personal paragraph for his eldest son: "Dear Klaus, Martita expects a baby, and I think much of all of you and hope that everything will come out well. Maybe you could arrange it in such a way that you and Martita would move into the apartment at San Fernando during the absence of Mama in order that the house may not stay empty. I send you greetings and kisses and think of you."

Then the condemned man pens a postscript in Spanish to Klaus' pregnant wife. "My dear little Martita," he writes, "many kisses for you and for Monica. I hope in the next few days there will be hearty congratulations and a second little girl." Instead the grandchild, born July 30, was a boy, Marcelo.

What insight do these letters give into the mind of a monster?

Eichmann's letters reveal that there is something human in even the most inhuman of us. They show that even a monster is wrapped up in familiar, everyday concerns. They also show that this former SS officer and mass murderer remains an unrepentant criminal, a stiff-necked Nazi who believes to this day that allegiance to the Fuehrer was more important than six million innocent lives.

THE FAMILY WRITES BACK

WHAT KIND OF LETTERS did Adolf Eichmann receive from his family? For the most part, they are letters any family might write to a father away on a business trip. They report family news, say little of the trial.

Typical is a letter, dated September 17, from Klaus or Nicolas. "Monica is now a big girl. She is very clever and speaks a decent Spanish, also some German words," he writes. "Mama is completely taken by Monica's cleverness. We are all healthy. If Martita permits, then we will send you some photos of Monica."

Horst, who is now married to Elvira, had to work hard. Dieter became quite an efficient factory boss—as nobody could have predicted. Aren't you surprised? You know we bought a very pretty piece of land last year. We hope to build on it one day. We are very careful about entertaining. Would you like a photo of the whole family? Do you get black cigarettes to smoke or could we send you a few cartons?

The little trees are growing. Recently I bought Mama a rooster, and in addition we will give her a few chickens. Also a duckling which Dieter bought yesterday. Some of the chickens were killed by the dogs, so we had to put some in the oven right away.

We understand that you are well. Please write more. Maybe you have some special orders as in the past. I mean things we should do in the house for Mama. Yes, we have planted uvas [grapes]. The fence is in good order, and the roof has been tarred. You would not recognize our house anymore.

How much is a husband worth?

by LLOYD SHEARER

Take a good look at your husband today. Sure, he's a dream and a darling. But ask yourself this question: How much is he really worth to you? Is he worth, say, $1,150 a week?

This is the type of perplexing problem that recently confronted attractive Marjorie Steele, 31, ex-cigarette girl, ex-actress, ex-wife of Huntington Hartford, 48, inheritor of an A&P grocery fortune estimated at $50,000,000.

This past June, after 11 years of marriage and two children, Marjorie was divorced from Hartford. She asked for $25,000,000, the largest divorce-claim ever filed in an American court, but eventually settled for a lump sum of approximately $400,000, plus an alimony of $60,000 a year until she remarried.

After receiving all this loot, Marjorie fell in love with—and married—a dimple-cheeked, curly-haired young British actor, Dudley Sutton, 28, now starring in a London play, A Whistle in the Dark.

After their surprise London wedding last month, Marjorie kissed off the money as "an embarrassment. Put it this way," she added, "—we had yachts. The yachts sailed away. So what?"

"What I want more than anything in the wide world," Marjorie declared, "is to build a solid, happy marriage. I want to make Dudley happy, and by making him happy I'll be happy."

"While I can't say that I like housework, so help me, I'm going to try."

Of this romance, Marjorie's first husband Huntington Hartford commented, "After all, for her to give up $1,150 a week for the rest of her life—well it really must be love."

Money versus marriage—this is the dilemma encountered by all divorcees once married to wealthy men and now enjoying financial security via alimony.

Take Frank Sinatra's first wife, Nancy. By terms of her divorce settlement she receives $50,000 a year plus 10 per cent of Sinatra's income over $150,000 a year. Or take Gregory Peck's first wife, Greta, to whom he pays $65,000 a year, or Marlon Brando's first bride, Anna Kashfi, who wound up with $50,000 a year after only one year of marriage. Should these women jeopardize their financial security by falling in love and marrying again?

"Falling in love is fine," according to one cynical ex-wife, "but marriage is out unless the man I marry can give me more than the alimony I'm getting."

Debbie Bounces Back

Only rarely does that situation obtain. It happened most recently in the case of Debbie Reynolds, the Hollywood star. When her husband Eddie Fisher fell in love with Elizabeth Taylor and asked for a divorce, Debbie made him pay through the nose: an alimony of $1,250 a month plus a percentage of his earnings, their $125,000 home, support payments for the two children of $4,500 a month—all this despite the fact that she was earning more money than he. But then on-scene entered Harry Karl, a millionaire, the inheritor of a nationwide chain of shoe stores, a former husband of actress Marie MacDonald, a philanthropist who has both gambled and given away money as if it were going out of style in the morning.

Addicted to life in the movie colony, Karl proposed marriage to Debbie, who miraculously recovered from a broken heart, quickly gave up her alimony from Fisher, and said, "Yes."

Not too long ago Karl bought a beautiful home in Beverly Hills for $110,000, had it razed to the ground so that he and Debbie could build on the same lot another structure more suited to their cultured taste. This will give you a small idea of how much money Karl has.

Catches like Karl, however, are rare for divorcees, most of whom are in their forties or fifties. In many cases these women are victims of their alimony in that these sizable payments deter them from making a fresh start in life.

For example, there is the former wife of a Hollywood movie star who receives each month an alimony check of $2,500. She has no pleasant memories of her first marriage, hates, in fact, to think about it. When she does, it is with recrimination. Having lost her husband to another woman, she has little faith in her ability to make a successful second marriage.

'I can always find a man

Fearful of risking her financial security, she goes from one love affair to another, backing away at the first serious suggestion of matrimony.

She has learned no new skill, spends most of her spare time shopping and gossiping. Her hefty and persistent alimony has prevented her from making or finding a new life for herself.

"I simply can't find a husband," she once told me, "who's worth $2,500 a month for life."

Eleanor Holm, ex-Olympic swimming star and former wife of showman Billy Rose, is frequently pointed out as a divorcee to whom large alimony payments have brought problems.

When Eleanor sued Rose for divorce, she figuratively had him over a barrel because of his friendship with blonde actress Joyce Matthews, who was found in his apartment, her wrists slashed. Rose agreed to pay Eleanor $600 a week until she remarried, together with a lump sum payment of $200,000.

Eleanor Holm's Dilemma

For years now Eleanor has been receiving her $600 each and every week, but this did not prevent her last year from taking an overdose of sleeping pills in the North Bay, Fla., home of Tom Whalen, a warm friend and escort who used to operate a Las Vegas gambling casino.

Is it possible that Eleanor is unhappy because she wants both a husband and $600 a week and can have only one?

Debbie Reynolds gave up sizable alimony checks from former husband Eddie Fisher when she re-

who's willing to help me spend my money'

One divorcee, ex-wife of a tobacco magnate, told me in Palm Springs recently, "It's hell for a woman like me whose alimony has been highly publicized. I can always find a man who's willing to help me spend my money. But when it comes to marriage, no guy wants to be responsible for my giving up the dough which made me attractive to him in the first place. You men are really such lice."

Gay Divorcee

Jack Douglas, who used to write jokes for Jack Paar, Jack Benny, and many other comedians until he decided to become one himself, went steadily with a divorcee for years. Countless times he proposed marriage only to be turned down because his girl preferred not to give up her alimony payments.

Eventually Douglas met a Japanese singer and married her. The divorcee fumed. "That miserable ingrate," she told a relative. "After all I did for him."

The culprit in all of this, according to the social psychologists, is alimony. Originally, alimony was a device of English ecclesiastical courts, intended to provide for wives separated from their husbands. This was in the days when there was no absolute divorce, and a husband could not abandon a wife without providing for her. "Alimony" is coined from a

Latin word meaning "to nourish."

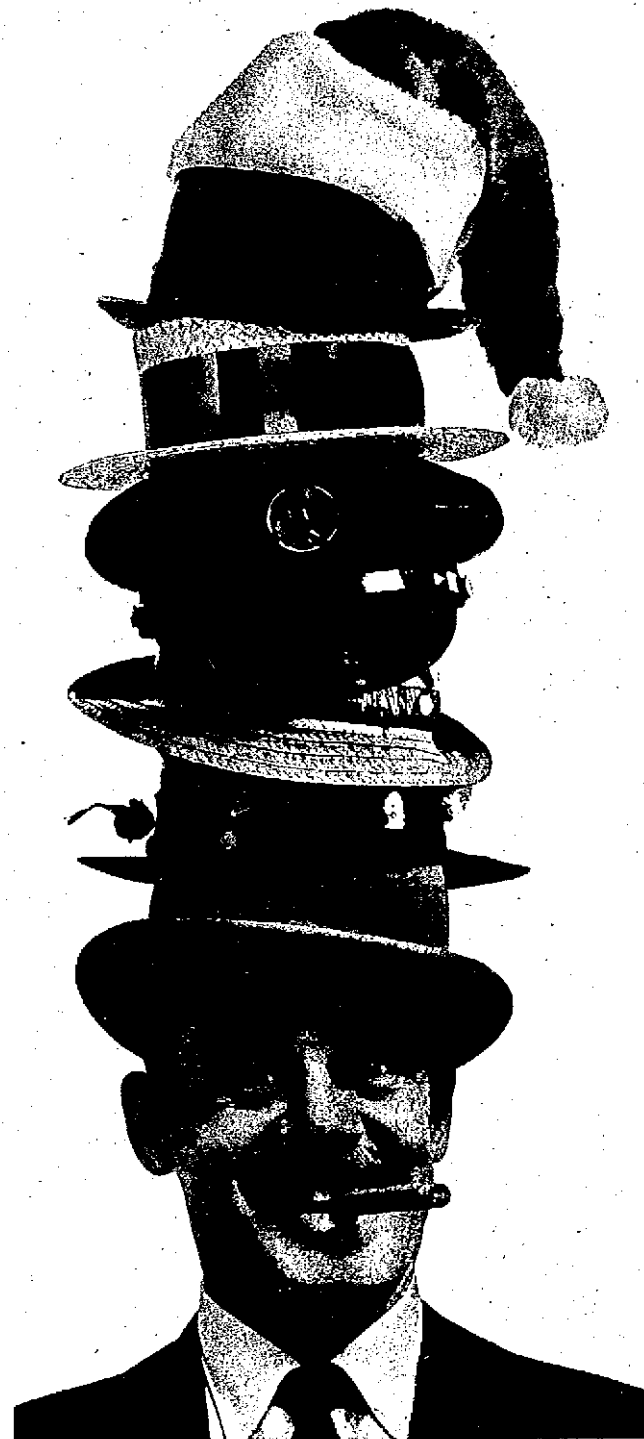

Nowadays, say the social scientists, there should be another form of nourishment for divorcees. They should not demand that alimony be paid them until they remarry since this invokes a financial penalty upon their future marriages and raises in their own minds the question of whether their future husband is worth the sacrifice.

Many divorcees insist upon having their cake and eating it, too. They prefer to live in sin rather than relinquish their alimony. I asked one such divorcee if she didn't find that particular modus vivendi incompatible with her childhood teachings and the morals of society.

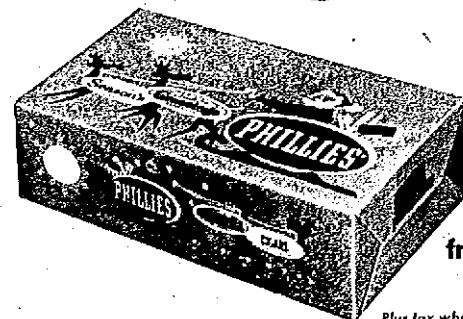

"I have yet to find a man," she declared, "who insisted upon marriage. When I do I'll gladly give up my alimony."

All of which brings us back to the case of Marjorie Steele and Dudley Sutton. At 31, Marjorie has a normal life expectancy of another 40 years. If she had remained single, she would have received from Hartford or his estate roughly $60,000 a year. Her marriage to Sutton meant she lost the money—but gained in return love, companionship, possibly more children.

If you were Marjorie Steele, which would you have chosen: Dudley or the dough? ■

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

PAAR SUIT. Jack Paar, vociferous critic of the nation's press, was recently ordered to pay $15,000 in damages, the result of a libel suit brought against him by Pupi Campo, his former band-leader. Campo claimed that he was dropped from the Paar show in 1955 because he fell in love with fellow-performer Betty Clooney, now Mrs. Campo. He contended in his suit that Paar libeled him when he (Paar) gave his version on a CBS-TV morning show as to why he fired Campo. Paar, of course, through his attorney has moved to set aside the award.

BLACKMAIL. Ten years ago South Africa passed its tough Immorality Act. To date, more than 4,000 people, most of them white, have been convicted for its violation. The Immorality Act, which makes it an offense "to conspire to commit" relations between a white and a non-white, has now become a potential instrument of blackmail in every South African white home with a father or a grown son and a non-white female domestic. Many of these domestics are threatening to report their white male employers to the government for alleged immoral suggestions unless the men pay off. The Immorality Act has become a law of terror and a boon to blackmailers.

GERMAN GENERAL. New commander of the West German armed forces, General Friedrich Foertsch, was held five years before trial, then served five more in a Soviet prison for war crimes before he was sent to West Germany. Here, according to the Soviets, he was supposed to continue his sentence. Instead he was released and quickly joined the Bundeswehr, which he now heads.

LONGEST WORD. Longest word in the dictionary (28 letters) used to be -- antidisestablishmentarianism. No more. Third edition of Webster's New International Dictionary contains a 45-letter blockbuster: pneumonoultramicroscopicsilicovolcano-koniosis. It's a miner's lung disease.

TRADE PARTNERSHIP. In the next few weeks, the Kennedy administration will begin to prepare the American public for the effects of the European Common Market on the American economy. These effects will be considerable, since the United States in export markets will be undercut by expanding foreign economies based on lower standards of living. Sooner or later, the Kennedy administration believes, we will have to abandon any remnants of a protectionist policy and negotiate a free-trade area with the French, British, West German and Benelux countries. Undoubtedly there will be objections.

NATIONAL CRIME SYNDICATE. One reason Las Vegas, Nevada, is being considered as a possible secret headquarters for the national crime syndicate is that sooner or later most powerful underworld bosses turn up there. For example, when Peter Licavoli was recently released from the federal prison in Atlanta, Ga., the reputed secret boss of the Detroit and Cleveland mobs journeyed to Las Vegas. Like many other underworld kingpins, Licavoli has established business interests in the west, particularly in Arizona.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by RUSTY WARREN

EDITOR'S NOTE: Rusty Warren, reared in Milton, Mass., is a graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music. She first studied piano for the concert stage, later turned to popular music and began to play in supper clubs. After a few years of only moderate success, she broadened her act by adding comedy routines and soon became one of the leading night club comedienne in the country. She has played record-breaking engagements at New York's Roundtable, Detroit's Club Alamo, Pittsburgh's Horizon Room and Houston's Orbit Room. Her comic albums have sold more than two million copies and are consistently on the best-seller charts. Here are some of her favorite stories:

A TIGHTWAD visited a dentist to have his tooth pulled but hesitated when he heard the cost. "Ten dollars is an awful lot of money for about five minutes' work," he said. "Well, if you'd like," said the dentist, "I can pull the tooth slowly."

AN IRISHMAN met an American in London and asked: "And what country do you belong to?" "The greatest country in the world," replied the American. "So do I," replied the Irishman. "But where's your brogue?"

A SELF-MADE millionaire told a friend, "I've always had the theory that salary is the least important part of any job. Doing things wholeheartedly to the peak of your ability brings far greater satisfaction than money." The friend asked: "And you became rich after you convinced yourself that this was true?" "No," corrected the millionaire, "after I convinced the people who worked for me."

THERE'S A TEXAS Cadillac dealer who has a pile of small foreign cars in the corner of his showroom with a sign: TAKE ONE.

A SIGN on a gift shop door: PLEASE OPEN BEFORE CHRISTMAS . . .

TWO EMPLOYEES were discussing their bosses. One said, "Did you know that my boss talks to himself?" The other said, "So does mine, but he doesn't know it. He thinks everyone in the office is listening."

A RUSSIAN FATHER was discussing his three sons: "I'm very proud of them. One is a people's lawyer and one's a people's doctor. But I'm proudest of all of my son who's in America. He's unemployed and gets money from the government . . . and if it weren't for the few dollars he sends home, we'd all starve."

A MAN VISITED a psychiatrist because he thought he was a canary. A few months later, the guy's wife phoned the psychiatrist and asked how her husband was progressing. "Fine," came the reply. "Lately, I haven't heard a peep out of him!"

TWO MEN were discussing women. "They say brunettes have sweeter dispositions than blondes," said one. The other replied, "I can't see any difference and my wife has been both."

AN UNEMPLOYED COMIC visited his agent daily. Each day the agent told him, "Sorry, nothing for you." This went on for days, then weeks, then years. Then one day, the comic entered the office and said, "I just wanted to tell you not to book me for anything during the next two weeks. I'm going on vacation."

A MINK WALKED into a bar and ordered a double martini. He drank it in one gulp and then explained to the bartender, "I want to taste it before I become a coat and get it spilled on me!"

A MAN WEARING a beret, smock and a long, flowing beard consulted a psychiatrist. "Are you an artist?" asked the psychiatrist. "No," said the man. "Then why the beret, smock and beard?" asked the psychiatrist. "That," said the man, "is what I'm here to find out."

AN UNEMPLOYED WRITER was asked if a college education had helped him. "Certainly," he replied. "I'm probably the only person who can fill out an unemployment form in Latin."

RUSSIAN WOMEN don't think as much of Nina Khrushchev as ours do of Jackie Kennedy. I've never read or heard anything about a "Nina Khrushchev Hairdo."

To make the BASIC BAVARIAN DESSERT (being held by your friend up there, on the right), dissolve a 3-oz. package Jell-O Gelatin with  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup of sugar in 1 cup boiling water. Add  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup cold water. Chill until slightly thickened. Prepare Dream Whip as directed on package. Stir  $1\frac{1}{2}$  cups Dream Whip into Jell-O until blended. Pour into 1-qt. mold or 6 to 8 individual molds. Chill about 3 hours for large mold or 2 hours for small molds. Garnish with remaining Dream Whip. Serves 6 to 8 (impressed) people.

diced candied fruits,  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup toasted chopped almonds, 1 tsp. rum extract into Bavarian; then pour into baked 9-inch pie shell. Chill about 3 hours. While pie chills, prepare for heroine worship.

CROWN LIME BAVARIAN (left rear) Prepare Basic Bavarian, using Jell-O Lime Gelatin. Prepare second (3-oz.) package Lime Jell-O as directed on package, using only  $1\frac{1}{4}$  cups water. Pour  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup of this Jell-O into  $1\frac{1}{2}$  qt. mold. Chill remainder in 8- x 4-inch loaf pan until firm. Then cut into cubes and fold into Bavarian. Fill remaining space in mold with this mixture. Chill about 3 hours. Makes 10 to 12 unbelievable servings. Not a speck will be left. We hope you have a very good holiday season.

LOW DOWN HEELS

women really love them?

by ROSALIND MASSOW

A MERICAN WOMEN will be down at the heels this year, but it means nothing more than another phase of fashion.

Shoes with three-inch heels and needle-pointed toes, in vogue for five years, have gently but firmly been booted out of the fashion picture, and in their stead there's the sensible look—low, stacked heels that hardly leave the ground and a sawed-off look at the toe.

One-inch heels, long regarded as the orthopedic or "old lady" style, may now be seen on such chic feet as those of Jacqueline Kennedy, Gloria Vanderbilt, Rosalind Russell, Princess Grace of Monaco and the Duchess of Windsor.

The walking shoe dressed up for big Saturday nights comes in gold alligator, sleek satins and patent leathers.

The new style is the first break women with bad feet have had since World War II, when the fashion was the low-heeled "Shank's Mare." Since then heels have been growing higher and higher until women have been virtually standing on their toes.

Was it consideration of health and welfare that prompted shoe designers to come up with a comfortable shoe, or just fashion business?

Roger Vivier, shoe designer for Dior, is reported to have started the new trend when he saw pointed toes in the Paris subway.

"As soon as a look becomes so popular that you see it in the streets and subways, it's no longer fashion," says Kenneth Lane, Vivier's associate.

The 'Platypus Look'

Vivier introduced the new style as a broad, blunt "platypus look," but this was only for shock value. The shoe has now been modified to an elongated snub-toe effect. In addition, it comes in 2 to 2½-inch heel heights and a slightly oval toe for those who don't like extreme fashions.

Delman's, Evans Inc., Sandler of Boston, I. Miller, Capozio and every other shoe manufacturer from Maine to Honolulu, no matter how large their inventories of pointed toes, are making the new shoes and reporting wide acceptance of the style.

David Evins, who introduced the new lower heel shoe and soft square toe last season, disclosed that only now are women beginning to regard the fashion seriously.

"We don't expect everybody to go out and buy low-heeled shoes for day and evening," Evins said. "Some short girls look terrible in them. I don't believe in one shape for every person, so we have modified the styles for different tastes."

• High in the Evins fashion look is the female version of the gentleman's dancing slipper. It's a strictly little-girl look, comes in a boxy low heel and has a sailor bow of grosgrain. The five-year reign of the spike heel and pointed toe has caused considerable pock-mark damage to linoleum and soft-wood floors. Looped carpets will never be the same. As for the heel itself, it's been scuffed and endangered by sidewalk gratings, escalators and cracked sidewalks. The upkeep on lifts has been a staggering budget item.

As for the ladies themselves, the shoe has not dealt kindly with their feet. Dr. Louis Lewy, secretary of the New York Academy of Podiatrists, is one who personally hails the new footgear. He says:

"The new shoe conforms more nearly to the contour of the foot. Women who wore three-inch heels and pointed toes almost exclusively have suffered from bunions, cramped toes, ingrown toe nails and poor balance and posture."

Chance to Use Muscles

"Functionally the new shoe will benefit the body by offering proper balance, better locomotion and the opportunity to use muscles that have not been used in a long time," Dr. Lewy predicts.

While ladies are now blissful about their freedom to move their toes, it's not comfort but elegance that is directing them toward the shoe stores.

There are also those die-hards who like high heels no matter what the high fashion girls are wearing.

One young lady in a shoe store said, "I think the low heel is wonderful, but that's because I'm expecting a baby. I don't care for the style otherwise. It's clumsy-looking."

Another girl remarked, "I have long skinny feet, which sales people say is aristocratic. What they really mean is that they can't fit me. These new shoes make my feet look shorter and while I don't like low heels, I'm going to buy them anyway. I like to be in style."

A fellow we know who appreciates a nice ankle won't let his wife buy the new fashion. "I like women in high heels. It makes their legs more graceful. If my wife wants to wear those low-heel shoes, she can—when I'm not around." (She does, totting them to work with her in a bag.)

For tall girls who don't want to be taller than he is, for heavy women who are footsore from cramming their C's into triple-needle toes, and for gals who like to be in style, the low heel and blunt toe are the sharpest things in town.

Walking the beam is hard enough, but 9-year-old Chris Herold adds a thrill for himself and teachers by doing a leg balance too.

"Here I come, ready or not"—and all hands get set for Judy Brightwell's fall from rope.

kids with courage

by SID ROSS

Passing the medicine ball is great fun, and it is also good for coordination and muscle tone.

Kim Winter gets big hug from teacher Lawrence Frankel for balancing on the beam without falling.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.

SATURDAY AFTERNOONS, when most youngsters are happily away from school, 11 little children, aged 6 to 11, can't get to their classes fast enough.

The youngsters, most of them blind since birth, hurry to the gymnasium of the Lawrence Frankel Institute here for the kind of exercise few have ever dared give a sightless child.

Under the eagle-eye supervision of Lawrence Frankel, they are taught to climb 20-foot ropes, walk balancing beams, pass medicine balls and participate in games just as if they had normal vision.

Such exercise classes for the blind, one of a number of physical-fitness programs for the handicapped, were originated by Frankel, a former clothier with a life-long interest in athletics and children.

Before Frankel started his program there was no provision for this type of gymnastics for sightless children in West Virginia. Blind youngsters went to regular classes with sighted children in Charleston, but they were permitted little play. They were timid and helpless; they walked and played scared.

"I thought it would be a great challenge to work with the kids," Frankel said. "I wanted them as young and as helpless as possible. I wanted to see whether gymnastics could rehabilitate them not only physically but psychologically as well."

The results have been spectacular. These 11 blind children, selected from the Glenwood grade school on the basis of their ability to follow instruction, now run, jump and even climb trees. Their parents and teachers report they have changed from introverted, shy children to confident self-sufficient young people.

One little girl, 8-year-old Angie Cavender, blind soon after birth, became so confident as a result of these classes that one day while climbing the rope she called down: "Are you there, Mr. Frankel?" When he answered yes, she let go the rope and plummeted fearlessly 15 feet into his waiting arms.

Angie, according to her mother, Mrs. Nell J. Cavender, used to be afraid to walk. "She'd slide along, afraid of bumping things. Now she's a new person. She gets along better with other children."

While parents, teachers and community leaders are enthusiastic over results of the Frankel program, the youngsters themselves are its happiest boosters.

Eight-year-old George Arthur is thrilled over what he can do. "I'm afraid to get up on that beam, because it's real high above my head, but I like to climb the rope and swing and do handstands and somersaults. My younger brother Mike used to know more stunts than I did, but now I know as much as he does."

Dr. Willard Pushkin, one of the local physicians active in promoting the Institute's physical-fitness program, states: "These children will grow up to do more than sell candy or magazines at stands for the blind." They have learned to conquer fear. ■

If she stays, will he follow?

by KENYON LEE

LAS VEGAS, NEV.

SUPPOSE YOU WERE a girl married to a top movie star in the Philippine Islands, the teen-agers' idol, a tall, dark, handsome wealthy young man named Zaldy Zshornack. Suppose you had an adorable 3-year-old son, a lovely house in the suburbs of Manila, four maids and two gardeners, two cars, and a burgeoning screen career of your own.

With this near-perfect setup, why would you leave your husband and child, work in Las Vegas, Nevada, 7,000 miles from home, for $250 a week?

This is the question I recently put to Shirley Gorospe, one of the stars of Philippine Festival, a show currently playing here which is destined to tour the country and then become a TV spectacular.

Leggy and tall (5 feet 8), with large, luminous black eyes, a skin of porcelain white, and a figure that measures 37-23-36 in the curves department, Shirley is recognized as the Marilyn Monroe of the Far East. She is in constant demand by movie-makers there, and yet several months ago when producer Steve Parker, husband of film star Shirley MacLaine, asked her if she'd like to work in Las Vegas with other top Philippine talent, Shirley quickly said yes.

Average American Girl

The reason: the most beautiful girl in the Philippines is American.

"I was born 23 years ago," Shirley readily admits, "in Maui in the Hawaiian Islands. When I was nine, my father, who's Filipino — my mother is French and Portuguese — moved us all to Los Angeles where he opened a travel bureau. I went to school in Los Angeles, took dancing lessons there at Nicu Charisse's studio—he was once married to Cyd Charisse—and lived the life of an average American girl. So when I got this opportunity to work in Vegas, only 300 miles from my home town, I grabbed it.

"The Philippines have been very kind to me; the people have adopted me as one of their own. Many regard me as a Filipina. But the truth is I'm American right down to my fingertips, and I can't get the California way of life out of my mind or blood.

"I took the Vegas job," Shirley confesses, "hoping that some Hollywood film or TV producer would catch my dance act and offer me work in the States. So far I've had several television offers. I think the show is going on the road, and perhaps there's a chance of my staying here. After all, I am an American citizen."

How about Shirley's husband and child? Would she give both of them up to remain in America?

"Of course not," she says. "But maybe I and Zaldy (her husband, who is half-Filipino, half-Polish) can make films in Hollywood together. We've made about six in Manila. I know Zaldy's not established here as a film star, but perhaps we could make films in Hollywood for Philippine consumption?"

I explained to Shirley that such films

would cost 10 times more to make in Hollywood than in Manila and that no producer would take the risk. Besides, I asked, would Zaldy consent to start over in Hollywood from scratch, particularly when there weren't many parts for Oriental leading men?

"Sometimes," Shirley confesses, "I wish I had never won that Miss Philippines beauty contest. There was a neighborhood beauty contest in Los Angeles in 1956. I won it, and first prize was a trip to Manila. When I got there I met a local film producer, Cirio Santiago, who asked me if I'd like to star in a movie. I thought he was kidding, so I said, 'Only if you shoot it in Hollywood.' It sounds impossible, but he agreed, and that's how I got into films. Only we had to finish the movie in Manila. I traveled back and forth.

"One afternoon in Manila," Shirley continues, "I watched Zaldy play basketball at Malacanayan Palace—he was a basketball star before he became a screen star—we got to talking and gradually we fell in love. In 1958 we eloped and got married. Friends said it would kill Zaldy's screen career. He was then regarded as the James Dean of the Philippines. But the marriage had no effect on his career. In fact three months later we got married again, this time in a church. Then we started making films together.

International Name

"Zaldy gets $10,000 a film, and I get $5,000. In the Philippines it takes two, three weeks to make a film. Zaldy's already made more than 60. We stopped filming together when our son was born. Zaldy wanted to call him Rizaldy which is his full first name, and I wanted Gary, so we've combined both names, and our son is Garysaldy Zshornack. How's that for an international name?"

While Shirley was dancing here, her husband flew in from the Philippines, suggested she fly back to Manila with him via Paris.

Said Shirley petulantly, "I know I should follow Zaldy, but I'm so homesick for America that I'm going to stay here as long as I can. Then I'm going to work on him. I know I can wear him down. The Philippines are wonderful, but honestly there's no place like the good old U.S.A. We're 75 in the troupe and practically all of us want to remain in this country."

A FESTIVE CHRISTMAS MENU

by BETH MERRIMAN

Parade food editor

How many will gather around your table on Christmas Day? This festive dinner will adapt itself to any number from 2 to 8, with a bit of simple arithmetic.

Elegant little Rock Cornish game hens make this possible; everyone gets a plump, pretty bird all for himself and does his own carving! No problem with drumstick fanciers, wing worshippers or light and dark meat devotees.

Rock Cornish Hens Grenadine

4 Rock Cornish	1/4 cup lemon juice
Game Hens	1/2 cup honey
Pineapple Walnut	1/4 cup Grenadine syrup
Stuffing	1/2 cup butter or margarine

Wash hens; pat dry. Stuff. Combine lemon juice, honey and Grenadine syrup. Set aside 1/2 cup for basting; add remainder to softened butter. Spread over surface of birds. Roast in moderate oven, 350°, about 1 hour or until done, brushing occasionally with honey mixture. Makes 4 servings.

Pineapple Walnut Stuffing

1/2 cup water	1 egg, slightly beaten
1/4 cup butter or margarine	1/2 cup crushed pineapple
1/2 package stuffing mix (4 oz.)	1/4 cup finely chopped walnuts

Heat water; add butter; heat until melted. Stir in remaining ingredients. Makes enough to stuff 4 hens.

Orange Potato Puffs

1 envelope instant mashed potatoes	1 tablespoon grated orange peel
2 eggs, unbeaten	2 tablespoons orange juice
1/2 teaspoon salt	2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, divided
1/2 teaspoon mace

Prepare potatoes as directed on package, except reduce water by 1/2 cup. Add eggs to potatoes, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in salt, mace, orange peel and juice; beat. Chill. Shape into mounds on well-greased baking sheet. Brush 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine over mounds. Bake in hot oven, 400°, until heated and tipped with brown, 18-20 minutes. Brush with remaining butter or margarine. Makes 4 servings.

TOYS in ORBIT

Science kits move into lead with small fry

THE BIG NEWS in Santa's $2 billion toy bag this Christmas is the great number of toys with the accent on science (see cover). The trend to space-age playthings that started with Sputnik has snowballed to the point where they now account for five to ten per cent of the market.

The upsurge is so strong that this year, for the first time, industrial companies like General Electric and Infrared Industries are using their engineering know-how to produce toys. And established titans in the children's field like A. C. Gilbert, Lionel and Ideal, not to be caught short, are on the bandwagon with extensive new science lines.

Although many of the new gadgets may confuse the grown-ups, youngsters of all ages are showing a surprising grasp of everything from chemistry to advanced electronics, according to the Toy Guidance Council.

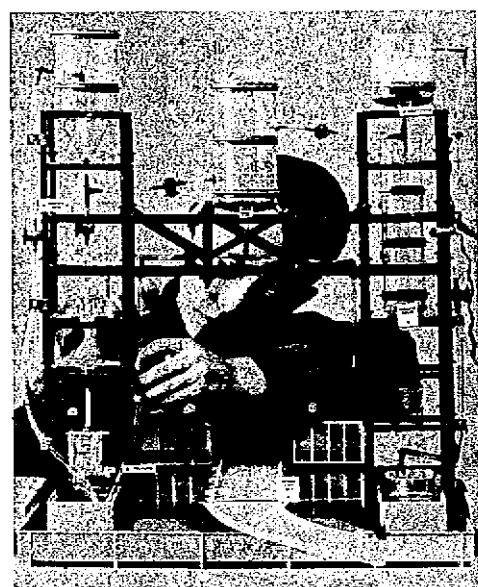

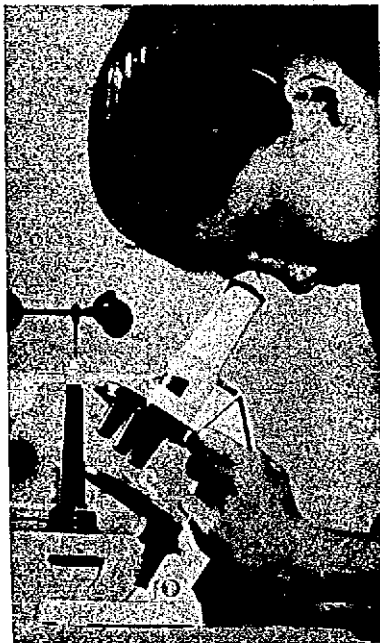

Pictured on these pages are just a few of the wonders our future scientists will be playing with on Christmas Day.

—BOB DRISCOLL

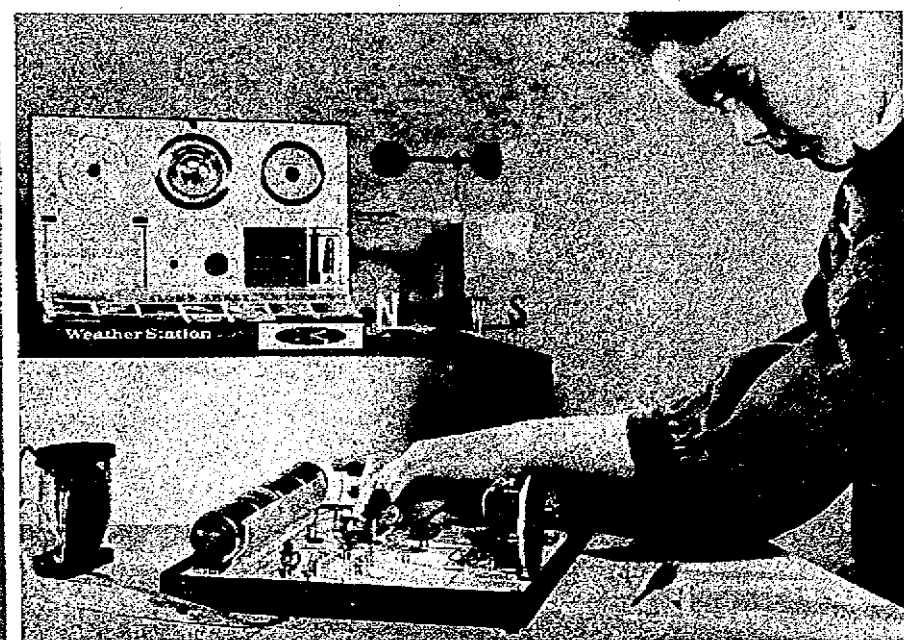

A future space scientist transmits his voice on a beam of invisible light via his "Astro-Phone." The toy utilizes principles of missile communication. The G.E. Analog Computer (foreground) is one of 7 transistor-electronic kits that are simplified offshoots of more advanced commercial systems from G.E. labs.

Gutenberg Printing Press (upper left) is one of 6 "Famous Inventor" assembly kits offered by Lionel in addition to lines of "build-it-yourself" electronics engineering and plastics engineering kits. Lab Technician's Kit (upper right) by Gilbert is but one of many science toys with proven appeal for girls as well as boys. One of several Hydro-Dynamic Building Sets (left) rates among the most versatile and popular toys with the younger scientist. The young miss (below) is building an Intercom by General Electric. When she's finished, her "toy" will have a range limited only by the length of connecting wire. Behind her, ready for assembly, is a Lionel Weather Station with which she'll be able to make her own forecasts. Biology and chemistry sets are also proving popular with distaff scientists who surprisingly aren't taking a back seat to their brothers. Nor is the junior scientist forgotten; kits that sell for as little as 59 cents keep him busy with basic experiments in most of the sciences.

Our chips are great, if you can stand the noise.

We have received several letters of complaint recently about the loudness of our chips. In reply we say: A noisy potato chip is a crispy potato chip. And conversely, a quiet potato chip is a soggy potato chip. That's life. If you want crisp, fresh, crunchy, delectable potato chips, you must accept the noise. Otherwise, be doomed to a potato chip-less life. (Horrible fate.) In all fairness to ourselves, we did conduct a little scientific experiment to turn down the noise level of our chips. We tried a quieter potato, a quieter cooking oil, a quieter salt, a quieter secret ingredient, a quieter cooking method, a quieter wrapping, even quieter salesmen. But when the noise went, the crispness went. So we've given up—unless you have any suggestions. Until further notice, then, Laura Scudder's potato chips will remain the noisiest chips in the world. Therefore we make just one request. If you eat Laura Scudder's potato chips, chips for dips or barbecue chips after 11 o'clock at night, please try to chew softly. LAURA SCUDDER'S

Look for our barbecue chips, potato chips and chips for dips in their bright new bags.

DAVID CHORLEY... "Plumb Wore Me Out"

AN OINK-OINK DRAMA

'Ol' Man' Chorley Had a Pig, E-Ai-O

By GEORGE ERES

Anybody lost a little grunter?
This little porker suddenly showed up at 637 E. Eighth St. Saturday afternoon and began rootin' round the shrubbery.
Mrs. David Chorley saw it and didn't believe it.
"I had to look three times," she admitted. "Now I've got something to write home about."
Mrs. Chorley called her husband, Dave, 24, who gave chase.
"I GAVE OUT with a few 'pig-pig-pigs' but she didn't pay any attention—just took off down Eighth Street, crossed Lime Avenue went down Ninth Street and back up Lime Avenue."
Passing Long Beach motorists didn't even stop. Youngsters in the area looked up and wondered: "What is it?"
Dave finally cornered and captured the shoat and brought it home where he hog-tied it (fastened a length of rope to a hind leg).
"I tell you this little pig plumb wore me out," he said.
The black and white, 10-inch-high porker never had it so good for a while. She was fed, petted and pampered. Occasionally her short tail took on the semblance of a curl.
THERE ARE NO MARKS of ownership on the animal. Mrs. Chorley called the Humane Society.
"Do you live in Bellflower?" she was asked. "They lose pigs quite often in Bellflower."
"No," said Mrs. Chorley who next called the Long Beach Animal Shelter.
Animal Inspector George Wilderman came out in his truck, identified the animal as a Poland China and said the shelter would hold it for five days.
The little critter went squealing all the way to her new home.

JFK, Rusk Plan for Paris Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy met with Secretary of State Dean Rusk late Saturday to round out U.S. plans for the Western ministerial meeting to be held in Paris this week.
Kennedy and Rusk were reported anxious to win full Allied agreement on a strategy of negotiation with the Soviets for a Berlin settlement.
The assistant presidential press secretary, Andrew Hatcher, said Kennedy conferred with Rusk at the White House for about an hour immediately after the President's return from a trip to Florida. Rusk arranged to leave for Paris by midnight by jet plane.
French President Charles de Gaulle, who met during the day with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, holds the key to Allied agreement on negotiating strategy over Berlin.
2 Women Killed
Two women were killed and four persons injured Saturday night in a two-car collision on Sepulveda Boulevard one mile south of Mulholland Drive in West Los Angeles. Police tentatively identified the dead women as Zineta Hubbard, 38, La Canada, and Ann Hughes, 40, Sherman Oaks.

AEC Says Russ H-Bomb Gains, U.S. Still Ahead

Katangese Launch All-Out Offensive on U.N. Positions

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Katangese troops Saturday night launched an all-out attack against the United Nations in Elisabethville, placing its headquarters "under heavy fire," according to reports received by U.N. officials in Leopoldville.
In New York a U.N. spokesman charged Katanga with "misusing the Red Cross flag and its symbols to protect their military operations," and directing attacks on U.N. positions from cars marked with the Red Cross. International Red Cross officials in Elisabethville have confirmed this misuse, the spokesman said.

De Gaulle Balks Over Soviet Talks

PARIS (UPI)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer failed Saturday night in a last-ditch attempt to get President Charles de Gaulle to the Berlin conference table with the Russians.
The two leaders conferred for 4½ hours at the Elysee Palace and a French Foreign Office spokesman said later there was no change in De Gaulle's opposition to Berlin talks.
The French spokesman said it now would be up to the Western Big Four foreign ministers who meet here Monday and Tuesday to try to work out a joint Western policy.

DE GAULLE has refused to negotiate with the Russians "under pressure." It was understood Adenauer came here at urging of President Kennedy to try to get De Gaulle to change his mind.
A communique issued after their talks said only that Adenauer and De Gaulle had reached agreement on the need to maintain Allied solidarity.
Russian sources have hinted that President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev might work out something in talks in Moscow but there was no indication either Britain or the United States was ready to adopt a go-it-alone policy.

SATURDAY'S failure meant the United States and Britain faced an agonizing decision on whether to proceed without France.

A crowd of about 200 cheered Adenauer as he left the Elysee Palace to drive to Orly Airport on his way home. But, as the 15-car motorcade reached the Orleans Gate in a working-class district, between 1,500 and 2,000 demonstrators blocked the boulevards, shouting anti-Adenauer slogans.

Viet Nam Bomb Plan Reported

CHICAGO (AP)—The Soviet Union unofficially has been warned that the United States may bomb Van Viet Nam if it continues to be used as a base to support guerilla forces in South Viet Nam, the Chicago Sun-Times said Saturday.
In a story by Thomas B. Ross of its Washington staff, the Sun-Times said it was emphasized that the bombing threat was unofficial. It does not represent a policy formally approved by President Kennedy, the paper said.
The warning reportedly was conveyed to the Russians through several diplomatic channels, including delegates at the Laos Peace Conference in Geneva, Switzerland.

The spokesman first denied but later confirmed that U.N. jets have gone into action inside the city.

"THE U.N. aircraft made direct hits on the post office with cannon at 1 p.m. Saturday," he said. "The diplomatic representatives in Elisabethville confirm that there were no civilian casualties and that the post office was empty at the time of the attack."

In Dar-es-Salaam, Tanganyika, an informed diplomatic source said U.N. Undersecretary Ralph Bunche of the United States is expected to go to the Congo. But Bunche, in Tanganyika for independence ceremonies, said such a trip would depend on many factors, but he is ready to go if Acting Secretary General U Thant sends him.

The United Nations in Leopoldville said Katangese troops, stirred up by a harangue from the commanding general, M. Muke, attacked U.N. headquarters in Elisabethville.

IT SAID the U.N. immediately sent its Canberra medium jet bombers, piloted by Indian airmen, against screaming hordes who attacked at night. The planes fired cannon but did not drop bombs.

The U.N. spokesman said U.N. jets have attacked a military convoy and arms and ammunition dumps outside Elisabethville as well as the post office inside the city.

He said the U.N. command had "positive proof" the Katangese were painting Red Crosses on military vehicles or flying Red Cross flags and using them to direct fire against U.N. positions and convoys.

WIDE SEARCH

Strontium 90 Applicator Disappears

BAKERSFIELD (AP)—A widespread search was under way Saturday for a strontium 90 medical applicator described as dangerously radioactive.
"If the thin metal window covering at the active end of the cup is ruptured the release of strontium 90 could present a serious contamination problem," said a spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission at Berkeley.
He said the applicator, used in treating eye conditions in animals, was found to be missing Thursday from the office of Dr. Leon Ackerman, Bakersfield veterinarian.

The AEC spokesman said "the applicator was last seen some time in October. It consists of 100 millicuries of strontium 90 encased in a metal cup mounted on the end of a metal rod about ¼ inch in diameter and 7 inches long."

Reds Shoot Down Youth in Border-Break Attempt

BERLIN (AP)—East German guards Saturday night shot down a 20-year-old Austrian student in a group of three youths and three girls who had crossed the border and were cutting a hole in the barbed wire behind it.
West Berlin police said they believed he was killed.
The incident took place near Staaken, where the Communists' wire is back of the actual boundary line between West Berlin and the East German countryside. Western police said the group had wanted to help the mother of one of the girls escape to West Berlin.
Five fled safely from the guns, but the Austrian fell and was quickly dragged behind the wire. His body was seen lying on the ground there for more than two hours.

Draft Aides Quit, Blast 'Favoritism'

BURLINGTON, Iowa (AP)—Four former Des Moines county draft board members informed President Kennedy Saturday they had resigned because "we want no part of any operation that is undermining this country."

In a letter to the President, the four men said they left the board "not as bitter citizens. We resign because of a feeling of frustration."

The letter was dated Dec. 7 but was made public Saturday. It was signed by D. D. Stonehocker, Dr. Paul Hippe, Frank H. Knight and Thomas J. Trehan.

They accused state Selective Service headquarters of making a "political jackpot" out of the draft, and complained some colleges are sending in false statements to prevent drafting of students.

In their letter to Kennedy, the four men listed these criticisms of the selective service system:

1. "Purposeful pregnancies" to avoid the draft.
2. Stockpiling of technically trained employees by some large corporations.
3. "Light handling of the truth" by some employees and schools.
4. Draft deferment promises given to some youths by some school boards.
5. More noncollege than college men being drafted.

Banners Banned

WETHERSFIELD, England (AP)—An attempt by bomb demonstrators to break into the giant U.S. Air Force Base here fizzled Saturday. Fewer than 300 showed up and found themselves heavily outnumbered by servicemen and police. Thirty were arrested. Demonstrators at two other U.S. bases also found hard going against tough police, who arrested 300 at one place, 16 at another.

Cuban Ties Broken Off by Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI)—Colombia Saturday night broke off diplomatic relations with Cuba, hours after Cuban Premier Fidel Castro charged in a radio speech that the Colombian government was composed of "traitors."
Colombia became the 11th Latin American nation to rupture relations with Cuba since Castro took power nearly three years ago.

Dr. Litwak Robbed

More than $2,080 in cash, jewelry, furs and bonds was stolen from the home of Dr. Irving D. Litwak, city health officer, of 3804 Walnut Ave., police reported Saturday night. The thief entered through a window while the Litwaks were away, then ransacked the house.

Superblast Boast by K 'Unproven'

Still Preparing for JFK-Ordered Atmosphere Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission Saturday credited Russia with progress toward lighter nuclear bombs, but said "there is no reason to believe" that the balance of nuclear power has shifted in her favor.

"This balance," the AEC said in a statement, "rests not only on nuclear technology, but also on numbers of weapons available and effective system of delivery."

AT THE SAME time, the AEC said preparations which President Kennedy has ordered for atmospheric tests are going forward. A decision on whether the United States will resume testing in the atmosphere will be made "at the appropriate time, in the light of all the evidence," the AEC said.

The AEC's evaluation of the recent series of Russian nuclear tests was based, it said, on "preliminary analysis," which has been completed.

The AEC said the Russians conducted approximately 50 atmospheric tests with a total yield of about 120 megatons.

In crediting Russia with technological progress, the AEC said: "... The Soviet Union has made advances in certain areas, especially in improving the yield-to-weight ratios of weapons in the megaton range."

"THE FISSION yield in comparison to the total yield for some of the large weapons is lower than achieved in their previous tests."

The AEC statement provided no confirmation for the claim made Saturday by Premier Khrushchev that Russia has nuclear bombs even more powerful than 100 megatons. A megaton is the equivalent of a million tons of TNT.

As it had done before, the AEC said the Oct. 30 Soviet test was of 55 to 60 megatons range. "Of special interest," the AEC said, is "the small fission yield" of this test.

KHRUSHCHEV did not say Russia had exploded a 100-megaton weapon, but said such a bomb is in the Soviet arsenal and:

Another Russ Space Venture Indicated

LONDON, Sunday (AP)—A rearrangement of Russia's internal radio channels caused speculation here today about a new Soviet space venture, possibly a manned orbit around the moon.
The alteration of radio channels will last three days. Such announcements have at times, anticipated the need for a national link-up to announce some major event, notably the Gagarin and Titov space flights.

L.A.C. Says: Being Too Extreme About Extremists

One of the most difficult subjects to cover objectively is that of the present groups fighting communism in the United States. On the one hand we have extremists who see a Communist in everyone who disagrees with them. By their intemperate charges against our State Department and even former President Eisenhower, these people have destroyed confidence in anything they say. However, only a few individuals in such groups are so extreme. But they get the headlines.

On the other hand, we have actual Communists and many left-wingers who support the programs of Communists. These are extremists of the worst kind. But they have been with us so long the public has become apathetic. But they are more dangerous today than they have been in the past because there has been so much apathy. We may be sure these left-wingers, pseudo intellectuals and their apologists are enjoying and promoting this feeling toward the extreme anti-Communists.

The real danger, it seems to us, is that the great majority of our people are taking too much of an extremist attitude themselves toward the anti-Communist groups which are attempting to awaken the people to the danger of appeasement of communism in government or wherever it tries to expand its philosophies. It is probable the great majority of the people agree with what these groups are attempting to accomplish—but thoroughly disagree with the way some of the individuals go to extremes.

This means the great majority of people are doing nothing to fight against subversive influences in labor unions, churches, government and social organizations. This apathy keeps people from voting or writing their public officials or newspapers to express their views. They refuse to read literature showing how Communists work because they are too busy watching television or playing golf. It is a deadly apathy that encourages those who would change our way of life for one few of us would like. And a record of the past 20 years shows a drastic change in the system we have called the American Way.

We do not like extremists regardless of which side they represent. But we certainly agree with the principals of the many anti-Communist groups. We are not willing to condemn them all because of a small minority of extremists among them. We despise the left-wing extremists—and we are deeply concerned over the terrible apathy of the great majority of people who justify their apathy by saying all anti-Communists are extremists.

This anti-Communist movement that is sweeping the country is actually a switch to conservatism. The great meeting a few months ago in the Los Angeles Sports Arena was one of the most inspiring patriotic demonstrations we have seen or heard. There was no extremism in that group when 15,000 young people and their parents were told of the benefits of our free enterprise society. It was an example of what is taught in most neighborhood meetings taking place all over the country.

This is why we say too many of us are being too extreme in our criticism of what we call extremists. It is well to criticize individuals who make radical charges against some of our finest citizens. But there are extremists in every organization, whether it be a school or country club, or labor union, or Chamber of Commerce. But we do not close our eyes to the good that is done by these organizations. We would be wise to take the good that is apparent in this awakening of Americanism and accept individual responsibility to try to guide it and take part in a movement to keep America free. The worst enemy we have is the defeatism or apathy of our people who do nothing themselves, while loudly criticizing any group that is attempting to do something that should be done.—L.A.C.

Balaguer Denies Agreeing to Resign

SANTO DOMINGO, D.R. (UPI)—Dominicans Saturday night celebrated the apparent end of their government crisis, but President Joaquin Balaguer denied he had agreed to resign Jan. 1 to pave the way for a transitional junta to rule.

The general strike ended early Saturday and the curfew was lifted for the weekend. Night clubs and movies, dark for days, reopened their doors. Dominicans sang and shouted happily in the streets to celebrate.

BUT A presidential palace spokesman said talks between the Balaguer government and opposition groups were continuing, and Balaguer, in a statement to local newsmen, said reports he would resign Jan. 1 were "insidious propaganda" designed to disrupt the public.

The agreement called for Balaguer to resign about Jan. 21. It provides for a transition to full democratic government, with the combined opposition sharing power with the remnants of the Trujillo dictatorship.

Details of the coalition agreement, reached after nearly a month of day and night wrangling, were being completed in a series of discussions that lasted through the day.

IN ADDITION to Dominican officials and political leaders, representatives of the United States, Venezuela and Chile took part in the final settlement which is basically civilian and non-partisan but has a coalition cabinet of opposition and government parties.

The transition council or junta probably will take office next week. It will be composed of six non-partisan members plus Balaguer as chairman of the council.

Green Beret Official for Ranger Units

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—The green beret became the official distinguishing mark Saturday of the U. S. Special Forces soldier.

Official authorization of the new headgear by the Department of the Army ended a long struggle by the Special Forces, the nation's guerrilla fighters, for the return of the beret, once the unofficial cap of the group.

The decision was prompted by a message from President Kennedy after his visit to Ft. Bragg in October. The White House communication congratulated the Special Forces on their part in a presidential demonstration.

"I am sure that the green beret will be a mark of distinction in the trying times ahead," the President wrote.

'Fanatics' Gain GOP Influence, Demo Says

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—National Democratic Party Chairman John M. Bailey said Sunday that the Republican party leadership "is moving closer and closer to the fanatics of the far right."

Bailey addressed the final session of the national convention of Young Democratic Clubs of America at which Allan A. Howe, 33-year-old Salt Lake City attorney, was elected national president, defeating Berrien Moore, 32, of Inglewood, Calif., 644-380.

"Bailey" accused Republican leaders of trying to delude Americans into thinking that "rock firmness and cool patience are the same as appeasement" in international affairs.

Republicans, he said, "try to pin the tags of socialism or communism or reckless spending on any program to improve the American way of life."

Southland Seeks 11 More Seats in State Senate

PALM SPRINGS (UPI)—A proposal to correct inequalities in representation in the state Senate by adding 11 new seats in Southern California counties was presented Saturday to the governor's commission on state reapportionment.

The plan, presented by George V. Berkey of Palm Springs, chairman of the special study committee of the Southern California Regional

Association of County Supervisors, was based on a new balance between city and farm areas.

Boy's Model Train Leaves Him in Lurch

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP)—A boy, wearing a red stocking cap, ran as fast as little legs could carry him, trying to catch a New York Central freight train moving into Bay City Saturday.

Brakeman Edward Ebel and conductor Robert Austin, watching from the caboose windows, were puzzled. Why was the boy so determined?

The train picked up speed and soon they lost sight of the boy.

After the train arrived at Bay City's West Side depot, the trainmen found a package on the caboose platform. It contained what most little boys and a lot of their fathers would like for Christmas—an electric train set.

The trainmen figured the boy, before trying to climb aboard, had laid the package on the platform as the train slowed down on the outskirts of the city. But the train increased its speed and left the boy behind.

If the youngster can be found, he can have his train back, the trainmen said, and maybe even get a free ride on the caboose.

THE redistricting would be based on a large urban area and the rural balance of the county. At present there are 40 seats in the upper chamber.

Under the plan Los Angeles County would have five seats, San Diego, three; and Santa Barbara, Ventura, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties would have two each.

Berkey explained that in Santa Barbara County, for example, one senator would represent Santa Barbara and another would represent the rural areas.

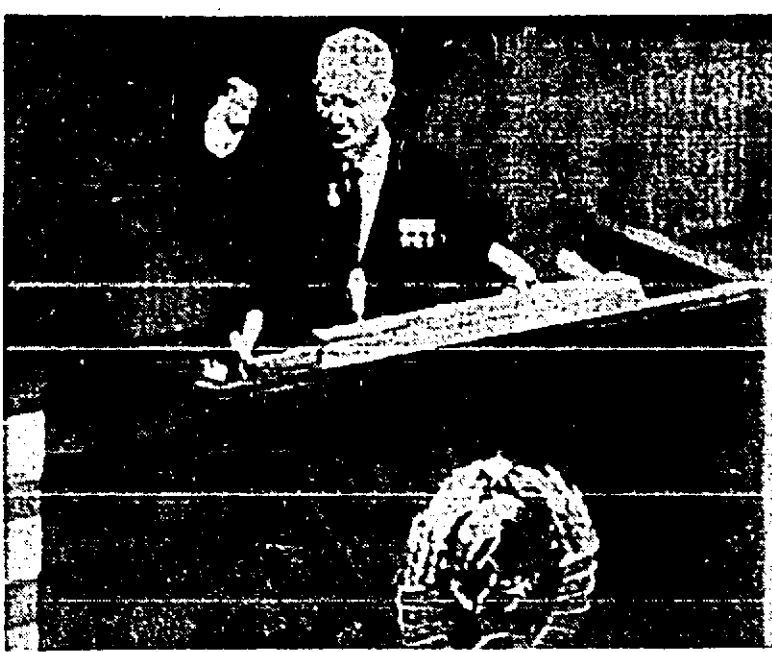

"This proposal maintains a majority for the rural areas and actually increases rural representation in areas where it's lacking," Berkey said.

The proposal was endorsed by Lionel Steinberg, vice chairman of the state Board of Agriculture, and Los Angeles County Counsel Harold W. Kennedy.

BERKEY'S plan will undergo study by the governor's blue-ribbon reapportionment committee which will meet for the last time Dec. 15 in San Francisco.

The group concluded two days of hearings in Los Angeles the past week prior to the single Palm Springs session.

The group is chaired by Glendale savings and loan executive Charles Wellman.

NIKITA TELLS OF SUPERBOMBS

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev tells Congress of World Federation of Trade Unions Saturday in Moscow that Russia has built 50 and 100 megaton bombs which the Western Powers have not yet matched. He warned West that the superbombs "will always hang over their heads like the sword of Damocles."—(AP) bombs will hang over their (the Western powers) heads like the sword of Damocles."

In its statement, the AEC said "the significance to the national security of these Soviet developments is still being evaluated."

It added: Although substantial progress has been made and much useful information obtained by the Soviet Union there is no reason to believe that the balance of nuclear power has been changed in favor of the Soviet Union."

AMERICAN weaponeers have disclosed that for U.S. and British bombs of the H-bomb variety tested up until late 1958 the ratio between fission and fusion was approximately 50-50, although this country claimed to have made much progress toward the cleaner bombs. They had estimated a similar ratio for Russian H-bombs detonated up through 1958.

The fusion reaction—which provides most of the punch of the popularly termed hydrogen bomb—produces little fallout.

But fission energy—that of the conventional atom bomb—can produce 110 pounds of radioactive material for every megaton of explosive energy.

In his Moscow speech, Khrushchev for the first time seemed to tell the world the superbomb is a terror weapon in dealing with the West. He warned that the rockets that sent Soviet astronauts into orbit can deliver superbombs any place on earth.

Khrushchev addressed more than 1,000 labor leaders from around the world assembled in the Kremlin for the congress of the Communist-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions. Khrushchev was cheered repeatedly as he spoke of Soviet weapons exceeding the equivalent of 100 million tons of TNT. He vowed never to use the weapons except in defense of the Soviet Union.

Again accusing the West of war preparations and forcing the Soviet Union to resume nuclear tests—including 50-megaton shots—in September, the Premier said "We would be slobbering idiots if we did not carry out the nuclear tests."

He said the new Soviet tests had brought the biggest bombs into final shape. Nothing that Soviet space ships had carried astronauts around the earth, he added: "But we could have replaced them with other loads." He said there is "not a single place on earth which can consider itself safe from them (Soviet rockets)."

Blue Law Lasts Only Five Days

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI)—The City Council, in the face of a stormy protest, Saturday rescinded a Sunday "blue law" it passed just Tuesday.

Although the council took the law off the books before it was tested on a Sunday, council members set up a committee of 15 residents and merchants to study the problem.

On Jan. 16, the committee will hold a public hearing on controversial Sunday selling. The ordinance against Sunday selling was enacted at the urging of businessmen who protested some of their "cut-rate" competitors insisted on remaining open Sunday.

Protests against the "blue law"—which exempted such items as drugs, gasoline and food—were loud and many.

Editors of the Beverly Hills Citizen said one irate lady telephoned her protests, pointing out that since toothpaste is not a drug, drugstores could not sell it on Sunday.

Navy Launches 2 Nuclear Subs

By Associated Press

Two new atomic submarines, America's 27th and 28th, slipped down the ways a continent apart Saturday, soon to strengthen the U.S. Navy's force to meet the demands of a nuclear and missile age.

Also launched in separate ceremonies were a guided-missile frigate and a guided-missile destroyer. Another guided-missile destroyer, launched several months ago, joined the fleet.

But it is not ships alone which give an enemy pause, a speaker at one of the ceremonies pointed out.

REAR ADM. Lawrence R. Daspit, deputy commander of the Atlantic Fleet submarine force, told the audience at the launching of the atomic submarine USS Tinoso at Portsmouth, N. H.:

"The potential enemy will not be deterred merely by the number of missile ships and planes, but by the knowledge that these units are manned by skilled people able and ready to use them if ordered. Many ships of war are built and never fire a shot in anger, but they serve by their very existence to keep the peace."

AT VALLEJO, Calif., the atomic submarine USS Plunger—sixth of the Skipjack hunter-killer class—was launched while a group of pacifist pickets paraded at the entrance to Mare Island Naval Shipyard.

Security police arrested one student who entered the grounds carrying a sign which said "Peace Through Love, Not Subs."

The Tinoso is the second of the Thresher class submarine, considered one of the world's fastest, capable of diving deeper and running quieter at high speed than any other type.

Because her finely tapered stern might cause her to dive, the Tinoso entered the water bow first, christened on the stern by the wife of Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y.

Crippling Snows Bury Wide Area

By United Press International

A death-dealing snowstorm, biggest of the season, struck much of the nation Saturday, clogging Christmas-shopping traffic and creating treacherous conditions on thousands of miles of highways.

There was two feet of snow in western New York state. At least five persons were dead in Iowa, three in Illinois, two in Indiana and one in Pennsylvania as a result of traffic accidents caused by the storm. In Omaha a boy was killed sledding on a street.

About 75 rugged road runners clicked off a 9-mile race in freezing rain and sleet between Blacksburg and Christiansburg, Va. A county deputy posted to keep the traffic clear said:

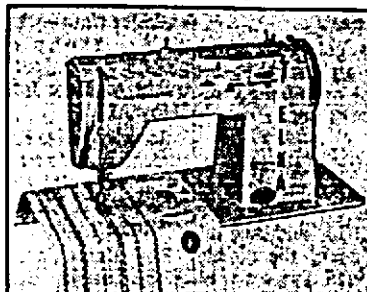

"I felt sorry for those boys. When they finished in that cold they ranged in colors from red to dark blue. Boy, was it cold!"

Three young men taking an 80-mile canoe trip down the ice-clogged Des Moines River in Iowa said they were half-way but "mighty cold." The youths, making the trip in conjunction with President Kennedy's physical fitness program, braved heavy snow, 26-degree weather and large chunks of floating ice.

Four inches of snow swept into Illinois, and forced cancellation of a "Christmas party in the sky" for a group of crippled children. The group was to have left Mount Vernon by plane for a ride with Santa Claus.

A fog-like snow settled over Chicago. Six inches or more was due for the city before Sunday morning. There were 437 accidents in Chicago in 4½ hours Saturday.

Snow also piled up in isolated areas of central New Mexico.

JFK Trip Safe, Says Salinger

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Security plans, plus President Kennedy's personal popularity, are enough to insure his safety on his visits to Venezuela and Colombia, White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said here Saturday.

In Caracas, the Venezuelan capital, President Romulo Betancourt dismissed pro-Castro and Communist rioters demonstrating against Kennedy's visit as "four dozen irresponsible persons."

Betancourt urged the people to give Kennedy a cordial reception on his arrival next Saturday and thus teach the extremists a lesson. And he assailed the "despotic totalitarian regime" of Cuba, which he said was following orders from Moscow.

IN HAVANA, Prime Minister Fidel Castro called the Kennedy trip an attempt to defend U.S. "oppressive policy against workers." He charged that Kennedy is going to Venezuela to "attack justice, defend ignorance, plot with the reactionary for the destruction of progress and culture."

Salinger came here from Caracas to coordinate the program for the President's visit to Bogota Dec. 17. He told reporters he saw no reason for undue concern about Kennedy's safety in Bogota and added: "I don't think we have to worry about Caracas either."

He pointed to security measures taken by both Latin American and U.S. agents and said they would be more than adequate.

Kefauver Offers Drug Truce

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Estes Kefauver offered a truce to the much-investigated drug industry Saturday but he warned the manufacturers that "clearly excessive" prices must come down.

The Tennessee Democrat showered unusual praise on the $2.5-billion-a-year industry—the first such in two years of investigation—for agreeing to accept more government supervision to keep impure and worthless drugs off the market.

He applauded an agreement by the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association (PMA) that no new drug should be marketed in the absence of substantial evidence that it works as advertised. This, Kefauver said, was an "act of industrial statesmanship."

In return, the senator offered to moderate hotly disputed patent sections in his pending bill.

He said he was not wedded to provisions that would reduce from 17 to three years a patent holder's exclusive right to manufacture the new drug.

Instead, he invited the PMA to make some alternative proposal aimed at giving consumers "some measure of relief" from unreasonable prices. The industry has denied that its drug prices are too high.

"The people are demanding, and will secure, action by the Congress to lower those prices which are clearly excessive," Kefauver said in a statement closing three days of hearings.

John Blair, chief economist on Kefauver's Senate anti-trust subcommittee, sparked a dispute with the PMA by introducing a chart which he said showed vast differences in the wholesale cost of patented and nonpatented drugs.

Virus Found in Tots With Pneumonia

WASHINGTON (AP) — A newly recognized virus has been found responsible for a severe outbreak of pneumonia in a group of young children, public health scientists reported Saturday.

They noted that "in the early months of life, infections of the lower respiratory tract are a leading cause of death."

The evidence came from Junior Village, an institution operated for homeless children by the District of Columbia Department of Public Welfare.

THE PUBLIC Health Service said interest was stimulated in the relation of this virus to children's diseases when National Institutes of Health scientists and physicians at Children's Hospital, Washington, reported last June that they had been able to isolate the virus and to associate it with respiratory illnesses.

The linking of the RS—respiratory syncytial — to pneumonia is described in an article in the current issue of the American Journal of Hygiene. The authors are Drs. A. Z. Kapikian, J. A. Bell, K. M. Johnson, R. J. Huebner and R. M. Chanock of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases and Dr. F. M. Mastrotta, formerly with the district's welfare department.

THE HEALTH service's announcement of the findings said:

"Involvement of the respiratory syncytial virus in an outbreak of pneumonia affecting 36 of 90 children, ranging in age from 8 months to about 4 years, supplies further evidence that the virus plays a significant role in causing pneumonia in the very young . . .

"A striking feature of this outbreak was the extremely high proportion of children it affected."

Sex Attack Reported by TV Actress

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television and film actress Dolores Michaels told authorities she was raped early Saturday by a young man—the same one, she said, who attempted to rape her last August.

Sheriff's Lt. John Norris said the attacker fled when Miss Michaels' roommate returned to their apartment.

The intruder apparently slipped in the front door. Miss Michaels had left it open for the roommate, actress Sue Barton, 25.

Miss Michaels, 27, is a divorcee. She had roles in "The Wayward Bus," "April Love" and "Fraulein" at 20th Century-Fox and has had many television roles.

MISS MICHAELS was unable to give a complete description of the man who entered her apartment. She said that his voice sounded similar to that of a young man—between 17 and 20—who attempted to rape her last August in the same apartment.

Miss Michaels, a blue-eyed blonde, is from Kansas City, and attended Kansas University. She came to Hollywood in 1954 after a TV career in New York City. In 1955 she and interior decorator Maurice Martine of Laguna Beach were married. They were divorced in 1959.

Formosa Calls Nehru 'Coward'

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Formosa provincial government newspaper, Shin Shen Pao, said today the Chinese Communist charges of aggression by India were a "direct outcome of the cowardly policy of appeasing the Communists pursued by Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru.

The newspaper urged Nehru "to have the courage to deal with the Chinese Communists," but said, "This is unlikely because he is a coward."

DO-IT-YOURSELF KIT

Army Probes Reserve Gripe Letter

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (UPI) —The Army Saturday disclosed it was investigating a do-it-yourself gripe kit found tacked to the bulletin board in a barracks housing Army reserves.

An Army public information officer said the kit was made up of carbon copies of a form letter, urging reservists to complain to their congressmen and explaining how to go about it.

The letter suggested the men get 10 of their buddies to co-sign their complaints, and to make things easier, the form letter spelled out some common gripes.

Army officials would not say how many of the letters had been found, but a spokesman in Washington said that distribution was limited to Ft. Bragg.

The letter came to light while Gov. Wesley Powell of New Hampshire was visiting the Army post.

His visit had been prompted partly by published complaints from members of New Hampshire National Guard on duty at Ft. Bragg. The gripes ranged from charges of poor food to inadequate equipment. Powell said he felt they were "minor and undisturbing."

Powell continued on to New Orleans for an executive committee meeting of the National Governors Conference. He is president of the conference and Friday said he would ask other governors to visit reservists and National Guard troops called to active duty because of the Berlin crisis.

The New Hampshire governor said he felt his visit to his home state unit was

"a definite morale booster," adding that "the men were obviously pleased I had taken this interest in them."

During his 4½-hour tour through the barracks Friday night he said he heard no complaints of a major nature.

A sergeant did complain to him, however, that there was a lack of maintenance equipment for servicing the 155 mm. howitzers, and that the food had been in short supply until the past couple of weeks.

Sec. Ribicoff Plans to Curb Relief Abuses

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff is expected to announce Monday 10 major administrative changes aimed at curbing abuses in the federal welfare program and at helping people leave relief rolls.

Details are a closely guarded secret but some of the changes are expected to be in the direction of increasing state responsibilities in the relief program. The administrative changes will be preliminary to legislative changes to be proposed next year.

Ribicoff has said he favors work relief as a means of rehabilitation. But he feels the question of federal participation in work relief is so important that Congress should express itself before there is a change.

Currently, no federal public-assistance funds may be used for work-relief purposes, under rulings dating back to the 1930s. Some advocates of work relief contend Ribicoff has administrative power to change the situation.

The secretary is believed to have given a clue as to the scope of the administrative changes when he recently told the American Public Welfare Association:

"Changes are needed, both large and small, and they must be made in two broad directions. First, they must be made to meet head on any abuses at all which exist in our welfare system—with practical solutions. Changes must be made to correct abuses . . . with fair solutions rather than heartless, nickel-saving schemes that cost more dollars in the long run."

"Second, and equally important, changes must be made to develop a new constructive approach: To make of public welfare a positive, productive force in our society, a force that helps people move off relief and into self-respecting and satisfying lives . . ."

"The very essence of our new and vital program will be full use of preventive and rehabilitative services, including, but not confined to, the provision of financial assistance," Ribicoff said.

However, at no point did he draw clear lines between steps he may take administratively and those which require legislation.

One study made for Ribicoff by George K. Wyman, a former deputy commissioner of Social Security, specifically found that among administrative changes the secretary could make are:

Permitting states to provide incentives for children and adults to accept employment by allowing retention of a portion of individual earnings for future identifiable needs.

Requiring states to provide intensive case-work services and to offer maximum preventive, protective and rehabilitative services for all family and children's cases involving proven money mismanagement, social maladjustment, illegitimacy, and behavior problems.

Encourage states to establish training and retraining programs for recipients with potential for self-support.

Require states to establish case-load diagnosis, management, supervision, and review methods.

Direct that all department statements of policy and program regulation be focused on the prevention and reduction of social and economic dependency.

2 Veteran Fire Dept. Men Retire

Two Long Beach Fire Department captains with 61-years and 19-days experience between have retired—with just one regret.

"Leaving the best fire department in the country and the fine men who are on it."

Both captains, Donald C. Tyler, 1415 Loma Ave., and Robert W. Carroll, 12 W. 47th St., have identical plans—to travel in their trailers with their wives.

Capt. Tyler and his wife, Lila, plan to hunt and fish in this country and Capt. Carroll and his wife, Jean, plan to concentrate on fishing here and in Canada. Capt. Carroll also plans to indulge in another hobby, skin diving.

CAPT. TYLER was appointed a fireman July 16, 1929, was promoted to auto fireman April 16, 1942 and captain Aug. 16, 1942. He completed 32-years, 4-months service on the department.

Capt. Carroll was appointed fireman March 24, 1933 and from Oct. 12, 1942 until Dec. 10, 1945 served in the Seabees in the Aleutian Islands and the Pacific theater. On July 20, 1947 he was promoted to engineer and on Sept. 20, 1949 to captain. He served a total of 28-years, 8-months and 6-days on the department.

Fire Department engineer Jesse W. Recourt was named to succeed Capt. Carroll and engineer Lauren M. Peck succeeds Capt. Tyler.

BOTH RETIRED captains recalled oil fires as the most difficult to control and said the new fog nozzle used on fire hoses has helped to combat them.

Capt. Carroll said the worst fire he helped fight was the Richfield refinery fire in 1933. In that fire nine Richfield employees lost their lives in an explosion.

In a similar vein Capt. Tyler recalled the 1938 Hancock refinery fire in Signal Hill in which two Hancock men were killed.

Fire Chief Leonard V. Foster praised the ability and devotion to duty of the two captains, wished them well in their retirement and added "the department will miss them."

L.B. Man Wins $100 for Idea

Paul T. Berry, senior deputy probation officer in the Long Beach office of the County Probation Department, has been awarded a $100 check for a labor-time saving suggestion.

County Probation Officer Karl Holton made the presentation to Berry on behalf of the department. The prize suggestion was that all deputy probation officers carry pre-carboned forms of various types making it unnecessary for them to make time-consuming trips to the office from the field.

Holton said the suggestion is expected to save several thousand dollars annually in operation costs.

Berry lives at 7109 Premium St.

JFK Praises Kress Family for $50 Million Art Gifts

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 20-year project which has given away paintings and other art treasures costing more than $50 million was hailed by President Kennedy Saturday night as "an achievement of which America can be proud."

Kennedy sent a letter to a ceremony at the National Gallery of Art, marking the turning over of final documents covering the huge donation by the Samuel H. Kress Foundation to the National Gallery and to 18 other museums.

"The successful completion of your plan to make great works of art available to the public... is an achievement of which America can be proud," Kennedy said in a letter to Rush H. Kress of New York, president of the foundation and brother of its founder.

"This extraordinary contribution to the artistic resources of our country, unprecedented in scope, will be an enduring memorial to the industry, foresight and generosity of the Kress family and of the Samuel H. Kress Foundation."

CHIEF JUSTICE Earl Warren, chosen to preside at the ceremony in his capacity as chairman of the National Gallery's board of trustees, called the Kress donations "a landmark in the history of American philanthropy."

He added in prepared remarks: "As a result of the gifts which will be made here this evening millions of people will gain an insight into values that lie beyond the reach of time."

"Each of us contemplating these achievements of human genius will feel renewed faith in the dignity of man and in the ultimate triumph of our humanistic ideals."

The Kress collection given away during the past two decades cost the foundation more than $50 million, but Director John Walker of the National Gallery says that "a valuation of the gift in terms of today's prices staggers the imagination."

It was started by the late Samuel H. Kress, who quit a $25-a-month school teaching job in 1896 to found a chain of specialty stores which brought him a multimillion-dollar fortune.

No Labor-Management Crisis Seen in Study Group's Report

No crisis exists in labor-management relations today, an independent labor study group headed by Dr. Clark Kerr, president of the University of California, reported after a two-year study made public today.

There are, however, changes needed to improve the functioning of union organization and collective bargaining and to adapt these systems to new problems, the study found.

The 160-page report covering policies of government, unions and employers was made by an independent body financed by the Committee for Economic Development (CED) and is titled, "The Public Interest in National Labor Policy."

Some of the matters covered in the report:

The principle of "self-determination" should be applied on the question of unionization of public civilian employees, hospital workers and some others outside the area of union representation.

kets where demand was weak"; "bidding up of salaries of managerial, technical and scientific personnel not covered by collective bargaining."

GOVERNMENT help to meet transitional problems created by automation is advocated but emphasis is put on the government's role in seeking improvement in the operations of the labor market and maintenance of high levels of employment.

In discussing the economic power of both labor and management, the report states it sees no harm in associations of employers so long as they "confine their attention to collective bargaining." The report opposes curtailment of use of "strike insurance" by employers as "little different from a union strike fund."

The study opposes payment of unemployment insurance to workers involved in a labor dispute and asks study of the financial impact of government policies on struck employers since these policies may sometimes mean that the employer does not bear the cost of the strike.

THE REPORT hit hard at labor organizations and corporations guilty of discrimination. Unions which discriminate should not be certified as exclusive bargaining agents, and employers so discriminating should not be given government contracts, the study declared.

Serving with Dr. Kerr in the study were Douglass V. Brown, Abraham V. Siegel and Robert M. Solow of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; John T. Dunlop and W. T. Elliot of Harvard University; David L. Cole, attorney and arbitrator of Paterson, N.J.; Albert Reese and George P. Schultz, University of Chicago; Philip Taft, Brown University; and George W. Taylor, University of Pennsylvania.

Top Secret' of U.S. Told by Izvestia

By FREDERICK W. COLLINS
A.P. Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The Russians are now mad at the United States for a new reason.

As they view the scene from atop the Kremlin towers, they see the United States aiming to create a "world community."

They should have let sleeping dogs lie.

If they hadn't sounded off, the chances are very good the pursuit of this devilish purpose by the Washington government would have remained in the classification of top-secret material as far as the American people are concerned.

NOW that it has been called to American public attention by Izvestia, someone around here might think it smart to pick the idea up and run with it.

Particularly if the Russians don't like it. That makes it an okay idea, automatically.

To heighten their error, the Russians claim that this American purpose which they alone perceive is a new form of imperialism.

Obviously the news has not yet penetrated the Kremlin towers, which ought to be ivory, that all Americans nourish a latent nostalgia for things imperial. We apply the adjective "imperial" to one of our automobiles. We favor king-size cigarettes. A long series of plays called "The Age of Kings" appeared on our television screens. The Emperor Concerto is broadcast by any self-respecting good music station at least once a week.

ANY idea that (A) frets the Russian, and (B) opens vistas of imperial splendor is likely to sweep the country—if the country finds out about it.

This latest Russian tantrum is really very funny, in a cosmic sort of way, when sprayed with reality.

It is based upon two recent speeches—one by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the other by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

According to Izvestia which special reasons is almost the sole authority for the statement, Mr. Rusk suggested to the Academy of Political Science at New York that a world community could be based on present United States alliances such as the NATO, SEATO, CENTO, and such alphabetical groups.

VP LBJ told a banquet audience in New York that the central U. S. objective is to build a world community, meaning "a world of progress . . . a world of security . . . a world of interdependence."

THE JOKE is that the editor of Izvestia appears to have been the only one who caught these speeches, for reasons which in the context offer their own amusement.

The Rusk speech on Nov. 28, which ordinarily might have been carried in full text or generous excerpts by many American papers, was absolutely swamped the next morning by another story. That was President Kennedy's interview with the editor of Izvestia, who also happens to be Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law. Ironically, the part of the Rusk speech which did squeeze into the papers here had to do with four possible areas of negotiation with the Soviet Union. The editor of Izvestia seems to have muffed that part.

VICE President Johnson's disquisition on a world community, delivered the next night at New York, also got lost in the next morning's newspapers. And again the Russians were to blame. The Soviet representative at the United Nations, Valerian S. Zorin, walked out of the banquet because another part of Johnson's speech irked him. So, of course, the headlines and bost of the space were taken up by that tasty item.

But now, thanks to the diligence of Izvestia, the Kennedy administration has been caught in its secret task of building a world community. The people of the United States have been duly warned. It only goes to show what a free press can accomplish—when it finally gets around to printing what Izvestia says is happening in the United States.

SIDEWALK SEATE

ARE WOMEN'S DRESSES TOO SHORT?
(Asked at Fourth Street and Pine Avenue.)
BETTY WALL, 147 W. 223rd St., Torrance, homemaker: When you can't sit down without showing your knees, it's too much.

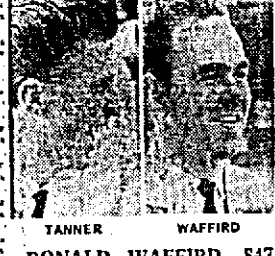

WALL PRINCE
EDNA PRINCE, 904 Island St., Wilmington, homemaker: Dresses are entirely too short. They don't do anything for you. Why wear something that doesn't do anything for you?

DELBERT MARTIN, 815 E. Ninth St., assistant merchandise manager: They're not short enough. They ought to be knee high. That's about right.

MARTIN RUSSEL
BOB RUSSELL, 2921 Delta Ave., receiving manager: You want my personal opinion? They're real nice.

REX TANNER, 4729 Hazelbrook Ave., stock clerk: Some are too long. Others are just about right—a little above the knee.

TANNER WAFFORD
RONALD WAFFORD, 847 Raymond Ave., drug store floor manager: I think they're about right. Women should show their figures; they should wear the clothes to do it. That's what I tell my wife.

KATHLEEN SOLMUNDSON, 160-D Quincy Ave., receptionist: Some of them are too short—not all. Some people go to extremes, and the ones that shouldn't go to extremes, do.

SOLMUNDSON DOHLMAN
CHARLEEN DOHLMAN, 3159 Oregon Ave., homemaker: Yes. Knees show—and they shouldn't.

Blood-Type Tags Seen of Little Use for Civilians

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tags identifying blood types would be of little use in treating civilian victims in a nuclear attack, the civil defense and public health officials believe. Officials said there has been no national program for issuing such tags, although this may have been done by local authorities in some areas.

A Public Health Service expert said, in answer to questions, that use of such tags for civilians would be of doubtful value for several reasons. He said that tags might accidentally be shifted from one person to another. Before any transfusion of blood was made, there should be the precautionary "cross match" and "compatibility" blood tests made of each victim, he added.

U.S.-Russia Arms Race Gains Momentum

By HARRY WILSON
SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The greatest arms race the world has ever seen gained momentum this week with no check in sight.

The Soviet Union announced its largest peacetime military budget in history—$14.740 billion—in the wake of U.S. plans to spend $50 billion in 1962.

But Moscow's smaller figure was not a true reflection of overall Russian military outlays. Other categories in its $88 billion general budget concealed defense spending. For example, missile and space rocket projects were carried under a science tag.

came under economic expansion.

The United States is spending $47 billion on defense in the current fiscal year out of a $90 billion budget, and will step that up to $50 billion and perhaps more next year.

American officials said the United States and Russia actually were spending about the same amount on arms.

Moscow said piously that it was forced to raise military spending to counter the West's "aggressive" North Atlantic defense alliance (NATO). The truth is that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has balked at all disarmament proposals in a drive to outstrip American defense strength.

In the light of this and the Russian threat in Berlin, President Kennedy is determined to keep the United States out in front. A few weeks ago he said the United States had superior armed power and doesn't intend to be overtaken. Congress agreed and voted millions more for planes, missiles and manpower.

The Washington Post editorially summed up the situation as "a melancholy index to the state of world affairs—a dismal forecast of things to come" in terms of "mutual impoverishment and then mutual destruction."

The President put in a busy week, capped by announcements of visits to Venezuela and Colombia Dec. 16-17 to press his alliance for a progress program and for Berlin strategy talks with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in Bermuda Dec. 21-22.

He used an address to the National Manufacturers Association in New York to unveil a legislative plan to replace the reciprocal trade act with powers to permit him to lower tariffs. He said this would allow American products to compete in the new European Common Market and, together with the latter, build an extraordinary economic NATO to combat Communist trade inroads.

The President carried the same message to the AFL-CIO convention in Miami Beach and in each instance appealed for business and labor support. He warned of economic troubles for both unless the U.S. and the West keep pace with revolutionary changes in the trading world.

Kennedy said that what he was proposing was a new American trade initiative which will harness the marketing potential of the U.S. and the common market countries in a team "capable of pulling the full weight of our common military, economic and political aspirations." He said labor and management could play an important part by stabilizing wages and prices.

The NAM reacted with reserve until the program is spelled out. The AFL-CIO pledged its full cooperation. In Congress there was strong protectionist sentiment which bodes ill for the plan.

On other news fronts, Secretary Dean Rusk defended United Nations military action against rebellious President Tshombe's troops in secessionist Katanga province as necessary to save all the Congo from civil war and anarchy. He said the loss of life was regrettable but that the U.N. "must not be prevented from fulfilling its mandate." Tshombe charged the U.N. had become a tool of international communism.

aided and abetted by the United States.

The National Space Administration delayed until January plans to put a Mercury astronaut in orbit. This dashed hopes of matching Russian successes this year.

The Labor Department reported the first substantial improvement in the job picture in a year, with the number of persons out of work cut to 4 million. At the same time employment in November rose to 67.3 million.

United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson turned down a proposal by Illinois Democratic leaders that he try to unseat Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen in the 1962 election. The Senate has been Stevenson's ambition since he was twice defeated for the presidency. But President Kennedy was reported to have offered him a stronger voice in foreign policy to stay where he is.

The council of the Organization of American States voted 14 to 2 to meet next month on whether to impose a trade embargo against Cuba. The action came after Cuban Premier Fidel Castro boldly proclaimed he was a Communist and that he had duped democratic nations into supporting his revolution.

In Washington the Communist Party of the United States pleaded innocent to an indictment charging it had failed to register as an agent of the Soviet government. Trial was set for Feb. 1.

Yule Tip: Deck Halls With Fireproof Holly

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Deck the halls with boughs of holly, but make sure they're fireproof.

By doing so, explained State Fire Marshal Glenn B. Vance, you won't hear the jingle bells of a fire truck.

Vance said that flameproof Christmas trees and flameproofing chemicals for other decorations were easily available. Vance also suggested that parents choose toys that won't cause fire, electrical shock or an explosion.

Naples Residents Elect Officers

Auto Makers Produce 162,695 Cars in Week

DETROIT (AP)—Ward's Reports show passenger car production last week will total 162,695 units and will run the year's total output to 5,087,255.

The total for the week is off slightly from the 164,834 cars built the previous week but well ahead of the 135,834 in the comparable week of 1960.

Ward's said 26 of the nation's 47 car assembly plants were working overtime Saturday including 14 of the 16 Ford plants. Truck production ran 27,357 units last week.

Does He Regret It Today?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Twenty-five years ago romance did what the centuries rarely could—toppled a King of England. Here's a review of the tense days that cost Edward VIII his crown that also asks two intriguing questions: Has the Duke of Windsor any regrets? And did he leave the throne willingly—or was he pushed?)

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Twenty-five years ago, on Dec. 11, a king-emperor paid an American woman one of the most magnificent compliments of modern times.

After nights and days of soul-searchings and wranglings with an astute and stern prime minister, King Edward VIII gave up his throne to marry Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson.

And now, on the eve of the abdication anniversary, an intriguing question has been asked here:

Did the duke freely abdicate—and thereby step down to the title of the Duke of Windsor—or was he pushed off his ancient throne

COINCIDENT with this theory, another and perhaps even more audacious question has been raised:

Why is the Duchess of Windsor still not allowed to share her husband's title?

Without exception, the wives of the other royal dukes carry the full royal tag.

Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express says the exclusion of the Duchess of Windsor after 25 years appears to be childish on the

THEIR WEDDING DAY
The Duke and Duchess of Windsor on the steps of the Chateau de Candé at Monts, France, a few moments after the ceremony which made them man and wife on June 3, 1937.—(AP Photo.)

She was married to a London shipping magnate. She was witty, urbane, slim and highly attractive at the age of 35.

Striking up a conversation, the prince asked Mrs. Simpson if she, as an American, didn't find discomfort in Britain's lack of central heating.

"I'M SORRY, SIR," replied Mrs. Simpson, "but you have disappointed me."

"In what way?" asked the prince, pleasantly surprised at a woman, or anyone else for that matter, giving him anything but a sugary answer.

"Every American woman," she is reported to have replied, "is always asked that same question. I hoped for something more original from the Prince of Wales."

That was as far as the conversation went. But the prince was intrigued by her.

More and more they found themselves together at parties. Mrs. Simpson's husband was usually along too.

THE FRIENDSHIP blossomed to the point that the Simpsons invited the prince to their apartment in London.

He accepted, had a good time and began dropping in on them.

In his own account of their friendship, he has said:

"And then one day she began to mean more to me in a way she did not perhaps comprehend."

By the summer of 1936, the Prince of Wales was king, his father having died.

He and Mrs. Simpson were truly in love.

In the summer of 1936, he asked her—and a number of other friends—to accompany him on an Adriatic cruise.

THE PACE of romance quickened.

By this time he knew he wanted to marry her. The question was—how

As king he was the titular head of the Church of England, which doesn't recognize divorce.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Simpson started divorce proceedings against her husband, accusing him of misbehavior with another woman.

The king replied that he did.

THAT WAS where he made his first big tactical mistake.

By asking for their advice, he automatically bound himself to accept it.

At last, Baldwin had him in his pocket.

From then on the king didn't have a chance. The pressure against him stiffened. It became almost unbearable.

The suggestion of a morganatic marriage was turned down.

Now feeling very secure in his struggle with the king, Baldwin offered him three choices:

Abandon Mrs. Simpson. Marry against the government's advice—which would have brought on a resignation of the government and a true constitutional crisis.

Abdication.

RECALLING the meeting years later in his memoirs ("A King's Story"), the former monarch said:

"Never taking his eyes off me, he went on to say that if I would not abandon the project (marriage), there was really no choice for me but to go."

"Believe me, sir," Baldwin is said to have replied, "it is my sincere hope—and the hope of the cabinet—that you will remain our king."

Edward told his beloved Wallis that the prime minister had left him no choice but to give her up or abdicate.

The ex-king and his closest friends here maintain that she replied that no matter what happened, he must not surrender the throne.

But the pressure became too crushing. The king wearied of it all.

He decided to abdicate.

It was a gloomy night when the king broadcast his abdication message to the nation and the world.

The scene was Windsor Castle, in the leafy countryside 20 miles west of London.

"At long last," he began, "I am able to say a few words of my own."

He spoke slowly and with great dramatic effect.

"I have found it impossible to carry on the heavy burden of responsibility and to discharge my duties as king as I would wish to do without the help and the support of the woman I love."

"The woman I love. . ."

REFUGEES FROM TARGET AREA

New Yorkers Settle Down in Quiet Chico

By DE VAN L. SHUMWAY CHICO (UPI) — Dancer Joanne Hirsch says she hasn't felt so relaxed in years.

Painter Jane Andrews says the residents are so polite and helpful.

Concert pianist-composer Alvin Baumann believes it's a remarkable experience.

Those comments come from a group of New Yorkers who came west to seek refuge from nuclear war they hope won't occur.

THE 13 families, totaling 34 men, women and children, arrived in Chico Oct. 2 and settled down to community life in this western city of 16,000 persons.

After two months, the group remains at 34 although two single men moved to San Francisco.

One other man followed the original vanguard west and one of the families had a new baby.

As a sign of how well they are being accepted,

Tass Writers in N.Y. Take Calisthenics

NEW YORK (AP)—Although there is no connection with President Kennedy's physical fitness program, it was disclosed Saturday that employees in one Manhattan office are exercising daily.

The office: Tass, the Soviet News Agency.

The President, a one-time touch football expert, wants Americans to get in better shape—to lose those bulges around the middle.

Employees of Tass, which has its U. S. headquarters here, have been exercising for several months and the reason is a young-appearing mother who came from the U.S.S.R. to operate a Tass teletype machine.

She is Mrs. Helene Vassiliev, 30, the mother of a 5-year-old son.

Mrs. Vassiliev kept saying around the office that calisthenics were common in Soviet offices and that she had felt better doing them.

In time she got some followers, demonstrated some exercises and got a tape recording made of ballet music for accompaniment.

Now most of the Tass employees take part once a day at 11:30 a.m.

Develop Driverless Tractor Shovel

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. has announced the development of an 82,900-pound driverless tractor shovel. It can be operated from a helicopter or by an operator within visual range with a radio panel strapped to his chest.

Baumann, spokesman for the group, pointed out that one of the young girls is getting married to a Chico boy soon.

BESIDES, the refugees are starting their own business and Baumann said it was "taking shape." The group, which believes in eating "natural" foods, has started the "Chico-San" bakery and will share the profits. The bakery will make breads with no sugar and little yeast.

Later, the group hopes to start a specialty restaurant where the menu will contain exact calorie counts per serving. It will feature live music by group members as well as a weekly discussion on controversial or popular topics of the day.

Members of the Ohsawa Foundation, they follow the teachings of a 68-year-old Japanese philosopher, George Ohsawa. He believes in an orderly life based on natural foods and he believes in taking concrete steps to avoid war.

WHY DID THEY leave New York?

"Because we did not want to be in a place of potential dense fallout," said Baumann. "New York is an imminent disaster area."

Why did they choose Chico, only seven miles from a soon-to-be-completed Titan missile site and 50 miles north of Beale Air Force Base, location of a Strategic Air Command base?

"We chose Chico because it is relatively safe—a place for us to work without keeping one eye on Russia."

BAUMANN HAD firm ideas on the subject of war.

"We feel it is time to change the image of war," he said. "The pacifists have spoken of the horrors of war but this doesn't seem to have any effect."

"A way must be found to put war into perspective."

People must make the rather simple decision that they do not want it."

BUT LIFE for the group in Chico is the same as for anyone else. They must figure a way to make a living in their new homes.

The group includes artists, doctors, lawyers and teachers—a fact that proved a boon to art interests in Chico. Miss Hirsch is teaching interpretive dancing at the Chico Creative Art Center. Others of the group are following their own occupations.

Said Baumann: "People are accepting us better and better every day."

Heavy Rain Perils X15 Altitude Try

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI)—X15 project officials hope today the rocket plane could make a record altitude flight to 47 miles high this week—weather permitting.

But heavy rains on the lake beds where the record-setting craft must land have darkened the outlook — not only for this week, but if they keep up, the rest of the year.

Forty-year-old Joe Walker — like prime astronaut John Glenn, the oldest man in the program — was tabbed to make the difficult flight to 250,000 feet.

IF HE succeeds, both the speed and altitude goals set by the X15's builders will have been reached this year. Air Force Maj. Robert White, who holds the current rocket plane altitude mark of 41 miles above earth bettered the speed goal this fall by flying 4,093 miles an hour.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) officials said that if it appeared the rains were continuing, the two X15's now flying would be taken down for check-outs and modifications.

If muddy lake beds do force a prolonged delay, officials said, the altitude flight might not be scheduled until mid-January. Officials have not yet scheduled the flight for next week — waiting to see if the mud there now dries up.

WORKMEN at Edwards are now finishing one modification on the stubby research plane to eliminate a danger that cropped up on both of White's record flights. Moulding holding the twin-

Change in Name of Osteopathic College Sought

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The College of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons has requested permission to change its name to the California College of Medicine.

College President W. Ballentine Henley said the formal request was forwarded to the California secretary of state in Sacramento following action of the college's board of trustees.

The trustees voted the change in line with action taken by the osteopathic and medical professions toward uniting the two schools of medicine in California.

SHOP MONDAY THRU SATURDAY NIGHT TILL CHRISTMAS

BEACH COMING

SOMETIMES my unofficial reporters come through with some pretty vivid stories. Like the woman who was just on the telephone. Her report:

She saw a young man walking on the sidewalk at Seventh St. and Long Beach Blvd. in Long Beach.

A woman came along in one of those electric sidewalk cars. She was going too fast to stop, hit the young man amidst his somersaults right across the driver's lap and landed in a heap on the sidewalk, pens and other items spilling from his pockets.

He picked himself up ruefully and looked indignantly at the sidewalk car operator. She giggled boisterously at his discomfiture and went riding off, possibly looking for other pins to knock down.

My informant didn't like any of this. "Fine way to show the Christmas spirit!" she snorted.

A BETTER way to show it: Leave your porch light on foggy nights.

Several foggy night drivers have mentioned this to me as an appeal worth making. The lights serve as guiding beacons to the lonely wayfarer trying to steer a machine through the soupy blanket. And they also identify your house for him. Otherwise, he might come driving right through your front wall.

GREAT showing for the Long Beach Community Chest was made by the officers and men of the USS Larson, a Navy destroyer based here.

They gave a total of $1255, averaging more than $5 per man, and came out tops in contributions among all destroyers. One of the groups on the Larson averaged $5.82 per man.

As I was saying, if Long Beach civilians would do as well by their own worthy agencies as the service men do, we'd never have any trouble making quota.

RECENT item here quoted Phil Hattery, business man, in a complaint that the Long Beach meter maids don't give any warning noises when they're about to tag a fellow's car. The maids evidently read the paper. They've gotten Hattery half a dozen times since the item appeared, never once making any noise. Maybe he'd better hunt up a parking lot.

Another reader reports an encounter with a meter maid. He said he parked on L.B. Blvd. but found he had no nickel for the meter. He went into a nearby shop to get change. When he came back, a "girl in blue" was just writing up a ticket for him.

He complains that she simply handed him the ticket when he put out his hand, and walked away with a smile. He thinks that she should have withheld the ticket when she saw he had change for the meter.

But he didn't tell her he had gone in to get change. I think the maid is innocent of unfair tactics. If our friend let himself get tongue-tied, he has only himself to blame. On the face of it, he was parked in violation, and coming up late to make amends (as he appeared to be doing) hardly lets one off the hook. You ought to speak up, man.

He was just darned lucky the maid smiled at him.

(And if that doesn't get me in good with the gals in blue, what will?)

DRIFTWOOD—Understand long-windedness is getting its second wind. A certain public official, they tell me, nearly bored a big audience to tears with a long dissertation when he was expected to give only a brief word of greeting.

Traffic Hearings Just, Says Judge

By DON MADDOCK

Many U.S. traffic courts may be a disgrace, but not the one in Long Beach, presiding Municipal Court Judge Lyman Sutter said Saturday.

Judge Sutter took exception to an article in the Parade section of last Sunday's Independent Press-Telegram. The article pointed out many miscarriages of justice in courts across the country which mete punishment to traffic-law violators.

The courts were accused of being overcrowded and inefficient, of ignoring or flouting basic constitutional rights of offenders, disregarding their duty to re-educate defendants and fostering contempt for law and order.

"I don't know about courts in other parts of the country, but none of those charges applies here," said Judge Sutter.

LONG BEACH Traffic Court is part of Municipal Court. Last year it won an American Bar Association award for "outstanding improvement of practices and procedures."

The court was honored for its constant effort to expedite processing of traffic-law violators while assuring each defendant his day in court—if he wants it.

"Persons who know they're guilty and wish to save time are allowed to post (and forfeit) bail on all but the most serious charges, rather than being forced to waste time through a useless trip to a courtroom," said Judge Sutter.

UNLIKE MANY major cities, Long Beach allows parking-law violators to mail in their fines. The back of each parking ticket carries the bail schedule so offenders can tell easily how much is due.

Council's Calendar

City Council agenda items for Tuesday:

Notice by Signal Hill of a Dec. 19 hearing to decide whether to designate Willow Street, four-lane street, prohibiting parking between California and Temple Avenues and, during peak traffic hours, between California and Atlantic Avenues. All States Society activity report calling attention to inadequacy of present building.

Final map, for approval, of Tract 2896, east of Atlantic Avenue and south of 70th Street.

Ordinance committee recommendation for approval of new buildings permit fee schedule.

Ordinance, for adoption, rezone property south of East Second Street on Naples Plaza at Davies Bridge approach from 41 to 42 public use.

Board of Supervisors request for Council action on public reaction to need for fallout shelters.

Ordinance, for adoption, rezone property south of East Second Street on Naples Plaza at Davies Bridge approach from 41 to 42 public use.

Information presentation at 1 p.m. by George Hill, Highway Division, on proposed realignment of Riverside (Artesia) Freeway from Orange Avenue to west city limits.

Award of contract to Hale Young Ford Co. for 40 medium light-duty trucks to Sheriff E. Thomas for 24 light-duty trucks.

Processed permit with Henry Jackson for use of park property for entrance and exit to proposed parking lot between Ocean and Seaside Boulevards of Atlantic Avenue.

Prisk Honorary '62 ARC Drive Chairman

William F. Prisk, long time civic leader and former publisher of the Press-Telegram, last week was appointed honorary chairman of the 1962 Long Beach Red Cross Campaign for members and funds.

In making the appointment, John Munholland, Red Cross Chapter chairman, said, "Bill Prisk has faithfully served this community in many untold ways but none more dramatic than his personal contributions through the Long Beach Red Cross. His term of service dates back 52 years to the time of the original formation of the Long Beach Chapter of the American National Red Cross.

"He presently holds the position of honorary member of the board of directors for the chapter. His acceptance of this new post clearly demonstrates his dedication to community service and his prime concern for the welfare of his fellow citizens," said Munholland.

THE HENDERSONS COULD 'READ'

Face of Jazz Changed

By GEORGE C. FLOWERS

Two brothers from a town in Georgia improbably named Cuthbert changed the face of American jazz in the 1920s and 30s.

They were Fletcher and Horace Henderson, classical pianists, college graduates and "readers."

In the world of jazz, a "reader" is a man who can read music. Until the advent of the Hendersons, few jazzmen read or wrote music. The two sons of the principal of Randolph County High School made the big band possible.

FLETCHER Henderson died in 1949, after a musical career that included fronting his own band, writing the arrangements that Benny Goodman rode to glory, teaching and writing music. His "kid brother," Horace, now 51, is marking his 25th year in the world of jazz.

Horace, too, wrote the music that made others famous. His Goodman arrangements included "String of Pearls," "Three Little Words," "Japanese Sandman" and a thing called "Walk, Jenny, Walk," that was mighty big when Dad was a lad, tad.

WITHIN the past year, Horace Henderson has seen the "big band" return to the scene, and he's come right back with it. Saturday night he debuted his new band in the grand ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel, and he'd added a thing called "The Twist."

"We like to keep up with the times," the little man who writes the big sound said, with a mental shrug.

"This 'twist' thing, though isn't a bit new. It's out of rock-and-roll, and we had it a year ago in the finale of a show we gave in Vegas. Only we didn't call it anything.

"Somebody's given it a name, added a gyration or two, and it's big."

The fads come and go, Henderson says.

Like, for instance, the time he teamed with a musician named Chu Berry and wrote a thing called "Christopher Columbus." It was a jumping tune that rocked the country for a few months. Alas, now it's just the name of a navigator out of Spain.

IN THE annals of jazz,

the Henderson brothers are immortal for bringing intellect to a field that had a world of rhythm and "damn little sense."

Fletcher, Horace and their sister, Irma, were the children of Fletcher Henderson Sr. and his wife Ozie. The father was a classical pianist, taught all his children in that field.

Despite that, Fletcher Jr. struck out for New York to become a chemist.

IN NEW YORK, he soon fronted a band. Such men as young Louis Armstrong played for him—often as second cornet.

Trailing his brother, Horace went to Wilberforce University, in Ohio, in 1937, and again followed his brother in the band business. He organized "Horace Henderson and His Legions" to play for summer casinos, soon hit the "big time" at Gene Goldkette's Graystone Ballroom in Detroit.

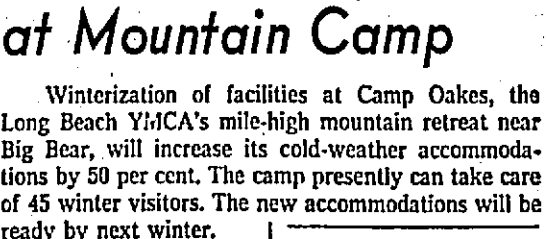

BROTHER Fletcher kept sending Horace arrangements, and both brothers got interested in this field of music. When Fletcher retired from the bandstand to write for Benny Goodman, Horace moved into the Fletcher band as its pianist.

During World War II, on a 30-day tour of Army camps, Horace came to California, liked it and stayed. For two years he was arranger and pianist for Lena Horne, served as arranger for the Armed Forces radio service, did the same for Billy Williams—

"all his music is from my current library."

'Y' Doubles Capacity at Mountain Camp

Winterization of facilities at Camp Oakes, the Long Beach YMCA's mile-high mountain retreat near Big Bear, will increase its cold-weather accommodations by 50 per cent. The camp presently can take care of 45 winter visitors. The new accommodations will be ready by next winter.

The local YMCA Board of Management's announced the plans at the annual meeting.

Highlight of the meeting was the re-election of Max J. Durham as board chairman for the ensuing year. Ray F. Berbow was elected vice chairman, Gene Dreckman, secretary, and William J. Harbert, treasurer.

The site for Camp Oakes, in a primitive forest and meadow area, was a gift to the Long Beach YMCA from Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Oakes of San Francisco. The camp opened in 1958.

DURING THE summer it is the scene of a 10-week camping session which is attended by youngsters belonging to the local YMCA's five branches.

Summer camp facilities accommodate a maximum of 120 kids plus 19 members of the summer staff and as many as 45 counselors. This is the big feature of a year-around program which, during the past 12 months attracted a total of more than 2,600 different campers.

The Camp Oakes program is self sustaining. The camp operates under a special charter as a member of the National YMCA's camp program, with its own executive secretary, Al Holladay. The facility also holds membership in the American Camping Association.

Present winterization work at Camp Oakes is part of a long-range expansion program designed to double its present cold weather potential, Holladay said.

County Contracts for City Services Deserve Scrutiny

COUNTY SUPERVISOR Frank G. Bonelli has practically invited the independent cities to protest the continued increase in county personnel and payrolls at a time when territory and population of unincorporated areas are shrinking.

(In this context an independent city is one which, like Long Beach, performs its own municipal services rather than contracting with the county for them.)

Sheriff Peter Pitchess touched off a sour reaction from Bonelli by asking for 25 additional employees—mostly deputies—despite the fact that recent annexations by Whittier and El Monte have absorbed some 40,000 residents of formerly unincorporated territory. Both cities handle their own police duties.

PITCHESS EXPLAINED that his department is understaffed and, further, he needs the extra personnel to handle traffic patrol work formerly discharged by the state in the contract cities. The county will recover from the contract cities the payroll cost of the added employees, according to Pitchess. L. S. Hollinger, the county's chief administrative officer, agrees with the sheriff.

But Bonelli is still unconvinced. He remarked that the independent cities "will blow the whistle on county government if we do not make corresponding reductions in the cost of county government under such circumstances as these large annexations." The matter is still pending before the Board of Supervisors.

WE ARE NOT prepared to take sides on the issue of the sheriff's request. It would be irresponsible to suggest that the contract cities (or unincorporated territory) should get along with substandard police protection—if they are paying their way fully under the various service agreements with the county.

But this is the question that worries officials and taxpayers in the independent cities. Are the contracts equitable in all respects? Are they being kept up to date so that the county taxpayers who live in independent cities are not paying part of the cost?

IF SO, why can't county personnel and payrolls be reduced as the unincorporated territory diminishes? Supervisor Bonelli also is thinking along those lines, as demonstrated by his comment: "If we don't face up to the problem of continually adding personnel, our payroll of 40,275 county employees will continue to pyramid."

County administrative officials say they can prove the service contracts are self-sustaining. The contract cities take the same position. We are not for promoting civil war between the two categories of cities in this county. But neither side should object to an independent and impartial study to develop the facts. It would also help if the study is brought up to date with each new annexation or incorporation.

Opinions Differ on Future Crop Needs

By ROBERT E. LEE and WILLIAM BROOM

WASHINGTON—U.S. officials in Asian posts have reported to Washington that Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman made an excellent impression on his recent trip. One U. S. aide in Pakistan said the former Minnesota governor's winning personality and frank approach went over in a big way with Pakistani officials and also the public. He won rave notices in the press.

Back home, however, Freeman is up to his elbows in problems. A chief one, how to plan future agricultural production, is also among the most complicated, as illustrated by this:

FREEMAN

Menshikov sent word he was available in case the club would like to have him address one of its famous luncheon sessions. The club wrote the ambassador Nov. 27 to invite him for Dec. 11. Two days later—a near record for any speaker—Menshikov accepted.

AS THE presidential special train returned from the Army-Navy football game last weekend, President Kennedy noticed that Undersecretary of Navy Paul B. Fay wasn't taking part in the post-game banter. Fay was laboring over a sheaf of papers, and told the President that he was drafting a speech to be given the following Monday.

"What's the subject?" asked the President. "Leadership," said Fay. The President then sat down and quickly roughed out an outline of the speech within a few minutes, enabling Fay to savor Navy's triumph on the playing field.

Pentagon Snowed by 18,000 Appeals for Service Delay

WASHINGTON—There has been a run on crying towels at the Pentagon for reservists who want to get out of active duty. Some have difficult, legitimate cases. But the most cries have come from men who missed the past two wars, then signed up in the reserves or National Guard to avoid the peacetime draft.

Now that their numbers have been called, they are howling about "hardship." More than 18,000 appeals for deferments and postponements have swirled down like autumn leaves upon the Pentagon.

NO "HARDSHIP CASE" has received more political endorsements than that of David Shuirmann, 26-year-old owner of Radio Station KSFE in Needles, Calif.

Except for his training, he not only has escaped active duty but has been deferred from the draft because of his reserve status.

Yet he carried his campaign, first for a deferment, then for a 90-day postponement, all the way from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers to the White House. On the Republican side, California Sen. Thomas Kuchel added his political influence.

Two days after Shuirmann was ordered to active duty, he telephoned the Air Force Reserve Records Center and asked for a deferment. He argued that his radio station, as part of the conelrad system, was vital to defense.

He was politely told, however, that he could be excused only for death, illness or injury.

A WEEK later, he wrote a letter to Secretary of the Air Force Eugene Zuckert requesting a 90-day postponement. This was turned down too, with a reminder about his duty to his country.

But Shuirmann didn't give up; he got the town's leading citizens to write to the Pentagon in his behalf. Letters arrived from the Needles Rotary Club, Needles Lions Club and Local 383 of the Locomotive Engineers. The engineers were joined, too, by the Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Local 237.

Finally, the political guns were brought into action. Sen. Kuchel fired a telegram to the Air Force about the importance of Station KSFE to the national defense. The White House was also alerted, reportedly by California Democrats.

Secretary of Defense McNamara's top assistant, Adam Yarmolinsky, was obliged to review Shuirmann's file and report to the White House.

The young radioman succeeded in stirring up a lot of political smoke. But last month he reported for active duty with the 162nd Fighter Squadron at Springfield, Ohio—on schedule.

BIGGEST government competition of the year was that of 140 advertising agencies to handle U.S. tourist advertising abroad. Most of the top ad agencies of the nation submitted ideas. The top winner, as finally selected by Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges, was Ogilvy, Benson & Mather. They will handle the advertising campaign in England, France and Germany. Significantly, David Ogilvy is British.

All sorts of pressure was brought by individual congressmen for other ad agencies, but a Britisher was finally selected, partly because of his experience in handling the travel campaign for Puerto Rico and the British government. His exhibits were photos of beautiful, quiet scenes in the U.S.A. which the average European never heard about.

Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osburn, the agency which F.D.R. used to rib, came in as second choice and will handle U.S. advertising in Italy. Secretary Hodges' boys picked BBD and O despite the fact that they are the official ad agents for the Republican National Committee and contributed $5,000 to elect Ike in 1956.

A recent international race at Laurel, Md., had as entries horses from five foreign countries, including two Russian horses named Zabeg (zah-byeg) and Irtysh (eer-TYSH).

Here are some useful phrases for international racing enthusiasts to try on bookies or others at future meets:

Spanish: Cual es el favorito? (kwahl ehs ehl fah-voe-REE-toh) "Who is the favorite?"

German: Er hat Reugeld gezahlt (ehr haht ROY-ghelt geh-TSAHLT) "He's been scratched."

Russian: Pashlil (posh-LEE) "They are off!"

French: Qui mene? (kee-menn) "Who is ahead?"

And returning to the Laurel meet, which the Russian horses did not win, here is what the other horses might have said to Zabeg and Irtysh, after the race, if, of course, they could speak Russian:

Vas Soshliut v'sibir za to chto vi proigrali? "Will you be sent to Siberia for losing?"

To which they might have truthfully answered: Mili-yez tovo tam jiviot. "We live there anyway."

Assassins Left and Right Narrow Nixon's Middle Road

SOME 20 YEARS removed from the USC backfield, Joe Shell probably could still jump and click his heels twice in the air.

That's an unconservative gesture however and Joe didn't do it here Friday when he spoke before Republican Associates, Long Beach Advisory Board. But the nip-up was in his eyes.

He was telling Assembly colleague Bill Grant and other table mates that Jim Copley had assured him that Richard Nixon would not get a primary endorsement from the Copley chain papers in the June 1962 gubernatorial primary.

"Does that mean you'll get the endorsement?" I asked Shell.

"I always go after these things in two parts," Shell answered. "Step No. 1 is to get the assurance that somebody else won't be endorsed. I haven't got to Step No. 2."

"Isn't it logical that you would be the likely one to get the endorsement if Nixon doesn't?"

Mr. Shell's nod indicated he thought it would indeed be logical.

Now, for any but the Copley press to disengage from Nixon in the primary is fathomable. But remember that this empire provided Mr. Nixon with press secretary Herb Klein. And remember you had to hold a copy of the San Diego Union up to a strong light to get any news about JFK during the 1960 campaign.

Abandonment of Nixon, if it is the fact that Shell asserts, is however, not as illogical as might appear. Because if there's anything the Copley empire admires more than a Nixon, it's something more conservative. Shell is.

SHELL'S TELLING of the tale, with undisguised satisfaction, included what he obviously felt to be a development of separate but equal significance—the fact that the San Diego Union told Klein about a month ago to come home from the Nixon camp and tend to his editor's job.

Of course it's possible the Copley group will bypass any primary endorsement in deference to its recent great romance with

Nixon. Shell says he's sure the papers would endorse Nixon in the general election if he happens to win the primary. This is understatement in the best tradition of the conservative mind.

Until Pat Brown declares himself officially in the race and starts to make campaign speeches under that sanction, he could do worse than let Joe Shell do his work for him against Richard Nixon.

The Republican national committeeman for California, Joe Martin, likes Nixon—even for publication. It provokes Shell to bittersweet ambivalence, like this:

"I asked Joe what his position would be with regard to the candidates before his election as committeeman. He told me he would be impartial. I could have blocked his election at that time. We've gone round and round over this. We're still the best of friends."

I gather from this that Shell has the utmost regard for Martin but if he steps on a land mine soon, that's okay too.

SPEAKING OF VIOLENCE, Joe made it quite a day here Friday when he virtually offered to throw himself in front of a speeding train or submit to some similar coup de grace if only the state's voters would give him a four-year stay of execution, to be spent in the bare corner room at Sacramento with only bread, water and blue pencil.

Joe says he could blue pencil California budgets to return California to the forefront of states of business opportunity from its waxing image as a welfare state—a state just one percentage point removed from the 35 per cent taxation brink which has historically separated the free enterprise men from the socialistic goat.

BUT ONCE the goat is dead—in 1966—the man who killed him is also dead politically, Shell says. So any man who intends to use the office of governor with any intent of building his stature for a political future is not going to be able to do the ruthless budget cutting job that has to be done.

Even an accomplished cat like Nixon must entertain some soupçon of despair with his lives being threatened by murderous thunder from his left and from (the most unkindest cut of all) his right.

Says U.N. Caused Congo's Bloodshed

EDITOR:

We talk out of the left side of our mouth about fighting communism and send planes to The Congo to help the Reds kill off the anti-Communists. Why not let the Reds do their own fighting? If, as we say, we do not want communism, why are we helping them in The Congo, Cuba (we buy their tobacco) and nothing is done by the U.N. to free the colonies of Russia in Europe.

If any whites have any rights in The Congo, it is not the Reds. If colored people have rights in the country in which they were born (this one), then the Belgians who were born in The Congo are also natives of The Congo and as such are entitled to fight for their own country, which would be The Congo. Why turn it over to anyone?

The U.N. started the conflagration in The Congo and is responsible for the blood bath there. Too many people are interfering in things that are none of their business all over the world. The U.N. is taking over the clothing of a dictator, a wolf in sheep's clothing, in the name of peace. Peace has become a dirty word.

What did the women of America give their husbands and sons for in two world wars?

Won't Patronize Sunday Business

I have thought considerably about the problem of what to do about doing business on Sunday. I have come to a very satisfactory conclusion. This is it.

I, being a Christian, will not patronize a store that holds business hours on the Lord's Day.

I have spent a lot of money in the past month, and it all went to businessmen who have consistently refused to open their doors on Sunday.

Since I have reached this decision there has come into my neighborhood a food market that is closed on Sundays.

Need New Tactics for Peace in Congo

THE BLOODY business in Katanga dramatizes the grave issue which is now before the United Nations.

The issue is whether it shall revert to being merely "a conference machinery," as Dag Hammarskjöld put it, or shall be also a tentative venture in international government.

The intervention of the U. N. as law and order collapsed in the newly independent Belgian Congo was a bold attempt to fill a dangerous vacuum.

When the intervention was decided upon, there was no visible alternative to multiple intervention by the various powers concerned, which included not only Belgium, France and Great Britain but also the Soviet Union and the United States. However badly the U. N. intervention has gone, it probably will be said in retrospect that the alternative would have been much worse.

NEVERTHELESS, the intervention has worked badly, and the reason is that it has never had the support of the great powers. The U. N. is not a world government. It is and always has been an association of national governments in which the most powerful ones have a veto on action. They have a recognized and legalized veto because in fact they have the power to obstruct decisively.

This veto, which means that the U. N. can act only with the unanimous consent of the great powers, is the inner principle of the U. N.

Thoughts

And they were very sorrowful, and began to say to him, one after another, 'Is it I, Lord?'—Matthew 26:22.

Mere sorrow, which weeps and sits still, is not repentance. Repentance is sorrow converted into action; into a movement toward a new and better life.—Marvin R. Vincent.

This principle distinguishes the U. N. from a world government.

Dag Hammarskjöld's bold experiment, which worked successfully enough on a small and unobtrusive scale in Palestine and in Laos, never had the full support of any government except to a considerable degree that of the United States. The U. N. action in The Congo aroused the implacable hostility of the Soviet Union. For all practical purposes, also, the U. N. has been opposed, not supported, by France, Great Britain and Belgium.

It is the division of the great powers in the Congo affair which underlies the conflicts in The Congo. For were the great powers united, the U. N. could impose law and order instead of having to fight a series of indecisive skirmishes.

THE SOVIET UNION took the position that, since it disapproved of the Congo operation, it would not pay its share of the cost. This was a demonstration that a great power, whether or not it openly exercises a veto, has the inherent power to frustrate actions which it disapproves of.

If this became the general rule of the U. N., no government would ever vote for anything unless it was prepared to pay not only its share but also the share of those who vote against the proposition.

The combined effect of the U. N. policies of Mr. Khrushchev and Gen. De Gaulle is in substance to eliminate from the competence of the U. N. all executive action to pacify areas of disorder. The U. N. would remain as a grand piece of conference machinery capable of debating and mediating for peace but, except in some rare case where the great powers are unanimous, incapable of enforcing peace.

If this is the way it is, then we shall all of us have to face the problem of how to contrive in the unworkable situation in The Congo something that will work. It is not easy to see what that could be, and it is not being made any easier for the responsible powers by the grand abstainers in Moscow and in Paris.

Homestead Law History

Q. How did the Homestead Laws originate? R. T. A. The Republic of Texas entered the Union on December 29, 1845, under the conditions (1) that she keep her unappropriated and vacant land; (2) that she might divide herself into no more than five states; and (3) that the United States should settle all foreign boundary questions. Texas was the only state which kept ownership of the public lands, and this resulted in a separate general land office, in a state university with a high endowment, and in separate land laws unique to Texas. The practice of donating land to settlers under Homestead Laws began in the Republic of Texas, and was later adopted by the United States.

Kathy Davis Fine in 'Lady in Dark'

Kathy Davis is a great actress. She proves it again as she plays Liza Elliott, the confused fashion magazine editor in "Lady in Dark," which opened this weekend at the Magnolia Theater. She demonstrates an amazing depth of understanding and breadth of talent in a difficult part which calls for a wide variety of styles. In each she is superb.

For instance, in one scene she plays a high school girl disappointed in her first important date. With an artful sense so sure that it never shows, she creates a real high school girl and conveys her agony completely. Gesture, tone of voice, general movement all blend to bring alive a young, sensitive girl easily hurt by life's inevitable cruelties.

But in another scene, she is a brassy, sexy stripper who recounts the saga of Jenny, the girl who would make up her mind. The high school girl has entirely disappeared. In still another scene she is the efficient woman executive, with no hint of Jenny left. And so on through a number of roles. Never in any one of her scenes is she anything less than wonderful.

The variety of roles Miss Davis is asked to play arises out of the nature of the show. "Lady in the Dark" concerns the various steps in the process of psychoanalysis of Liza Elliott.

"Lady in the Dark," despite its musical sequences, is not a musical comedy in the usual sense, but a serious play with music. Moss Hart wrote the play, Ira Gershwin the lyrics, and Kurt Weill the music. The songs and dances are confined to the dream sequences, where they emphasize the significant events in the analytic probing. The music is thus organic and not just ornamental.

In both the musical and dramatic scenes Miss Davis has a good deal of competent help. Among a cast of actors, singers, and dancers too large to list here, a number stand out as especially capable. Dave Roberts, in his best performance to date, plays the psychoanalyst who is helping Liza to find herself. Madelon Annable and Vi Coulter are two of Liza's female associates on her magazine. Keith Laing doubles as magazine photographer on the magazine and ringmaster in the circus dream. He is very good in both roles. Ed Skillman plays the advertising manager skillfully, and Bill Dusablon plays Liza's lover. Ron Hallmark is Randy Curtis, the movie star. Risa Burk and Bobbie Miller portray Liza as a child. General director of these plus all the other singers and changes. It had not yet jelled into the smooth production it promises to be for the rest of the 22-performance run. However, smooth or rough it has Kathy Davis, and that alone is enough. The rest of the show is only accompaniment. Reservations are still available for weekend performances. Call the Magnolia Theater any time. Curtain is the usual 8:30.

How to Create Christmas Tree

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — How do you make a Christmas tree? First, take a 60-foot pole, attach 6,636 pounds of reinforced steel rods, loop the rods with 11,025 feet of wire and drape on 10,000 pounds of cedar branches.

For decoration, add 3,000 lights, 120 balls, 60 bells, 400 yards of garland, 200 yards of foil and 100 yards of red plastic ribbons.

That's how Parks Director Bob Frazer told his workmen to make the annual community Christmas tree for downtown Alamo

Torrance Man's Car Just Misses Dive off Bluff

A Torrance man narrowly escaped serious injury when his car went out of control on Ocean Boulevard Saturday, ran over the curb and crashed into a fence.

Officers said Raymond J. Anderson, 2519 Arlington Ave., lost control of his vehicle in the 3200 block and almost plunged off the high bluff above the ocean.

Anderson, who was not injured, was booked by police for investigation of drunk driving.

Plaza, Frazer said the tree will cost $1,800.

Gunman Due in Court on Two Charges

Albert B. Cote, 34-year-old three-time loser nabbed for shooting an off-duty unarmed Anaheim policeman who thwarted an alleged kidnap attempt, will be arraigned Monday on dual felony counts.

Police said they will file tent to kidnap a teen-age charges of assault with in-girl and assault with intent to murder Officer Samuel D. Punter, 28, when he sought to capture Cote.

The arraignment is set for 10 a.m. Monday in Anaheim Municipal Court.

OFFICER PUNTER continued to rally in his battle for recovery. Surgeons at Buena Park Memorial Hospital took a 25-caliber slug from near his spine after Cote gunned him down late Thursday.

Punter rushed to the aid of a girl who said Cote tried to force her at gunpoint to enter his car. Two other girls with her fled to a nearby residence and screamed for help. Punter was shot as he pulled the girl to safety.

El Segundo officers are checking out Cote's alibis for his whereabouts July 22, 1957, when two El Segundo policemen were slain by a man who opened fire on them when he was stopped for driving a stolen car.

EL SEGUNDO police said Cote gave them "garbled stories" they will have to check out. They said they intend to question him again after checking his alibis.

Cote, who told police he had "a $50-a-day heroin habit," allegedly admitted a drugstore robbery Nov. 24 in Alhambra and a market hold-up in Fullerton Dec. 2. No robbery charges have been drawn against him, as yet, however.

Brothers Created New Jazz

at home, another controversy in another field. From his first marriage came his daughter, Ozie, named for his deceased mother. She, too, became a classical pianist, now teaches music in Chicago public schools.

His second was a "mixed" marriage, to a Caucasian singer, Phyllis. "It's been a happy marriage. Well, it's lasted 18 years and we're still happy. She loves music and understands it."

HORACE preserves the memory of his brother. His band is called "Fletcher Henderson's Hot Six"—named after an old and famous recording unit—and is subtitled: "Directed by Horace Henderson."

So long as the music of the Goodmans and the Dorseys is remembered, so will the writings of the Hendersons. Horace now feels, with big bands back in popularity, the bands of the Hendersons may achieve hall-of-fame status, too.

WITH THE Horace Henderson band is an entertainer named Tangerine (she uses no other name) and Horace becomes hilarious when Tangerine explains how anyone can do the twist. Her version:

"Jes' act like you are grinding out cigaret butts with your feet. And then act like you got a towel behind you, and are drying off (the lower part of your spine) after you come out of the shower."

Somewhat or other, Horace' classical education hasn't been able to formalize an arrangement for that step.

WOMEN PAST 35 MAY LOOK OLD & TIRED

From Bladder "Weakness" With Secondary Backache and Nerve Tension

Are you one of the hundreds of thousands of sufferers who feel old, tired, worn out and depressed by losing sleep and worrying about getting up nights, due to common irritation of the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages? Does this condition cause frequent, urgent and painful daytime urination and sometimes result in backache? If so, you owe it to yourself to try NEW IMPROVED CISTEX at once.

OTHER SYMPTOMS
Common Kidney and Bladder Irritations which cause getting up nights may also cause strong, cloudy urine and sometimes result in secondary Backache, Headache and Nervous Tension.

OLD, TIRED, WORN OUT FEELING MAY RESULT

If frequent urination worries you, and hils you at the most embarrassing moments, you're bound to feel tense and nervous. Then if your sleep is disturbed by getting up nights and you can't get much rest and you wake up feeling tired and groggy—yes, you really begin to feel old. And if your back aches you feel grouchy—hard to get along with—and your work is a burden.

CAUSE OF IRRITATION

The cause of common Kidney and Bladder irritation frequently arises from a germ called the colon bacillus, and non-specific germs resulting from colds, bad teeth and other causes. These germs can set up so much irritation in the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages that nature sends a warning through your nerves to your brain that help is needed. Heed this warning now and you may easily avoid many anxious, worrisome hours and days.

HOW CISTEX HELPS

NEW IMPROVED CISTEX releases a gentle, soothing bacteriostat in acid urine to combat germs which may be causing irritation. This is like a gentle, mildly antiseptic, soothing bath for the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages. CISTEX also contains two of the very best known analgesics for soothing, gentle pain relief of the discomforts due to common Kidney and Bladder Irritations. Thousands have been amazed to discover how quickly CISTEX helped them to combat such irritations thus feel cleansed and refreshed, and because of lessened nerve tension able to sleep better and feel better, and stronger. So get CISTEX from your druggist today. Fresh up and cheer up and feel better fast.

Kennedy Asks Industry to Back Low-Tariff Move

By JACK LEFLER
NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy appealed to business and labor this week for support of what he called a "bold and new" foreign trade policy.
He spread his proposal for broad tariff cutting powers before the National Association of Manufacturers in New York City and the AFL-CIO convention in Miami, Fla.
Neither of these groups in the past has expressed much enthusiasm for lower tariffs.
Kennedy based his pleas for support on the argument that improved international trade will be a means of providing prosperity and more jobs.

Record Year for Business Is Forecast

NEW YORK (AP)—The largest one-year increase ever made in national output was forecast for 1962 by the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, second largest in the nation.
In the company's annual business prediction to be issued last week, Louis R. Menagh, president, said the gross national product—the value of all goods and services—will reach $566 billion.
This would make 1962 the most productive in the nation's history.
IT WOULD result from an increase of $46 billion or 9 per cent over 1961, the largest increase ever made in one year, both in dollar amount and percentage.
The company's economists noted that most of this will be "an increase in real output instead of a bookkeeping rise resulting from inflated dollars."
Marring the picture, the company said, was its prediction that joblessness will stay at more than 5 per cent of the total labor force.
IT ADDED that this unemployment would result largely from "inadequate training, poor information regarding job openings and lack of geographic mobility."
But for most Americans, it said, 1962 will mean a higher standard of living.
The prediction indicated the public will purchase more new automobiles, home appliances and other durable goods, and put more money into education, travel, recreation and other services.
SUCH SPENDING will total about $364 billion, some $25 billion more than last year, Prudential said.
Business will increase its investments in new plants and equipment to $51 billion, $5 billion more than in 1961, and governments (federal, state, local) will spend $119 billion, a gain of $11 billion, the forecast continued.

MOST members of both organizations apparently were waiting for the President's program to be spelled out upon submission to Congress in January before committing themselves definitely about his desires.
However, qualified approval of lowering international trade barriers had been expressed earlier by chairman Ralph J. Cordiner of general Electric Co. but he said he was not commenting on any specific proposal.
Kennedy took the occasion of his appearance before the AFL-CIO to announce that the unemployment rate declined in November for the first time in a year. The rate dropped to 6.1 per cent of the work force from 6.8.
THE total employment of 67,349,000 in November was a record for the month.
An encouraging development for the economy as a whole was the tremendous surge of new car buying. Sales of 584,960 U.S.-made passenger cars in November were the highest ever for the month, exceeding the 530,000 sold in that month of 1955 and 1960.
General Motors, Ford and American Motors set records for the month.
Total November production of 646,015 cars was second only to November of 1955, the year in which sales set an all-time record.
Production continued to boom this week with output estimated at 160,000, compared with 164,967 last week and 135,453 a year ago.

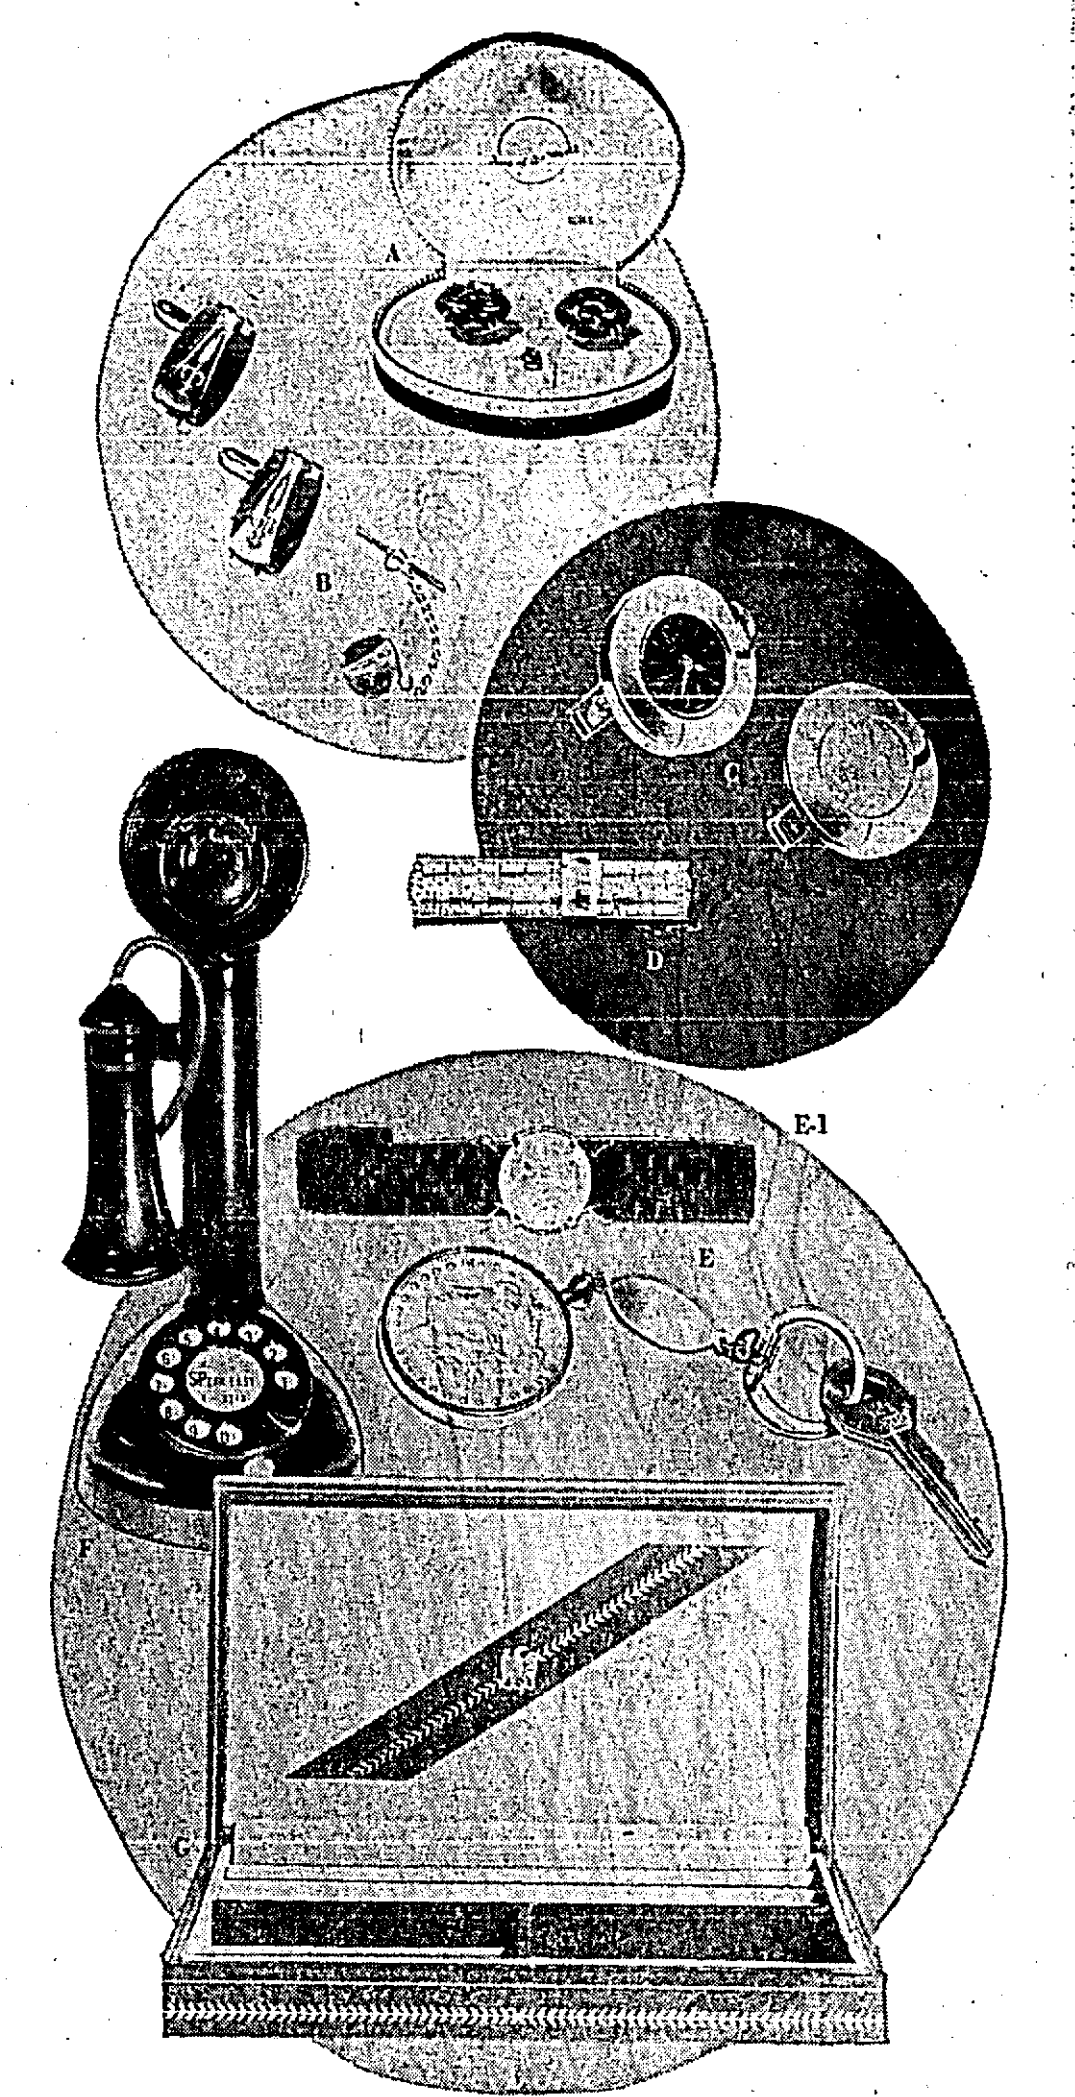

SPURRED by increasing demand from automakers and other users, steel production last week posted its biggest gain in two months. Production of 2,073,000 tons was 2 per cent above the 2,032,000 tons turned out the previous week. Producers aimed at another increase this week, putting more facilities into operation at several plants. Some steel facilities which have been idle as long as 20 months were set to go back into production.
Another good sign was the Commerce Department report that combined record sales were registered by manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in October. The $63 billion total was 2 per cent ahead of September.
Forecasts of record production, income and profits in 1962 came out of a Washington conference sponsored by the United States Chamber of Commerce. An 8 per cent increase in private housing starts next year was forecast by the Commerce Department. Housing starts were estimated at 1.4 million.

Santa Visits Rams Early, 34-17

41,268 See Colts' Lacing

By JERRY WYNN

Yes, children, there is a Santa Claus. With their 1961 epitaph all but inscribed, the poor-boy Rams came up from the gutter to feast in a 34-17 triumph over the swanky Baltimore Colts at the Coliseum Saturday.

There was an aura of disbelief among the 41,268 fans when Joe Marconi barreled through the line for a six-yard touchdown in the final seconds to seal the outcome. Surely, a Ram victory couldn't end so conclusively.

But this was the rare day when the Rams not only played good football but had all the breaks falling their way. After a season of miseries and following their debacle at Minnesota last week, it was both sweet revenge and a well-deserved present.

"YOU WERE TREMENDOUS both ways (offense and defense)," coach Bob Waterfield told his players in the dressing room. "There's no reason we can't do the same against the Packers."

The Rams, who, temporarily at least, vacated the Western Division basement with their fourth win in 13 games, close out the season against champion Green Bay at the Coliseum next Sunday.

Almost everything went right for the Rams Saturday. They had good passing (14 of 23) and excellent play-selection from Zeke Bratkowski; strong running from Dick Bass, Jon Arnett and Marconi... the latter who delivered a big fourth-quarter boost. Sparked by rookie Deacon Jones and veteran Lindon Crow, the defense stayed tight. John Lovetere blocked his first kick of the season, and even the Ram kickoffs traveled into the end zone. Har-rumph!

BALTIMORE WAS A PUZZLE. Johnny Unitas had as much poise as ever and completed 15 of 27 passes. Lenny Moore was a constant breakaway threat and averaged 10.0 for six runs. Raymond Berry caught six passes. And yet the results were nebulous. This Colt team could not stampede.

Baltimore did muster one explosion.

Trailing 20-10 near the end of the third quarter, the Colts had a fourth down with seven yards to go from their own 40. They went into a normal deep punt formation, and the Rams massed their normal 10-man rushing line. But the snap from center never reached the punter.

Jim Welch, a who's-he reserve defensive back, took the ball from a blocking-back post, and shot through the on-charging Ram line before it could discover the sneak attack.

Aggies Surprise Gades, 28-20

Cameron Clicks for JC Crown

By RAY CUNNINGHAM

Good ol' Cameron College probably ran a lot of gamblers out of business Saturday.

Amid the glamour of the 16th annual Junior Rose Bowl, the heavily-underated Aggies from Lawton, Oklahoma, opened up in the early minutes and then proceeded to upset mighty Bakersfield, 28-20, before a shocked crowd of 49,023.

The game wasn't quite as close as the score and statistics indicate. A touchdown in the final 34 seconds brought the Renegades within a respectable distance, but Cameron actually was a much-superior team Saturday.

Bakersfield was a strong pre-game favorite and was expected to move easily, which it did but in the wrong direction.

BY WINNING, THE AGGIES thus lay claim to the national junior college championship won last year by Long Beach. The victory was their 11th in a row this season.

Nearly 30,000 Bakersfield fans, who had traversed the Ridge Route to watch the great conquest, sat in hushed disbelief as the Oklahomans struck for a quick 10-4 lead after only 6:49 had elapsed in the first quarter.

The first play from scrimmage was sort of an indication of what was to unfold. All-America halfback Bob Kelly arched a 38-yard jump pass to right end Jack Mars who was downed on the Bakersfield 31.

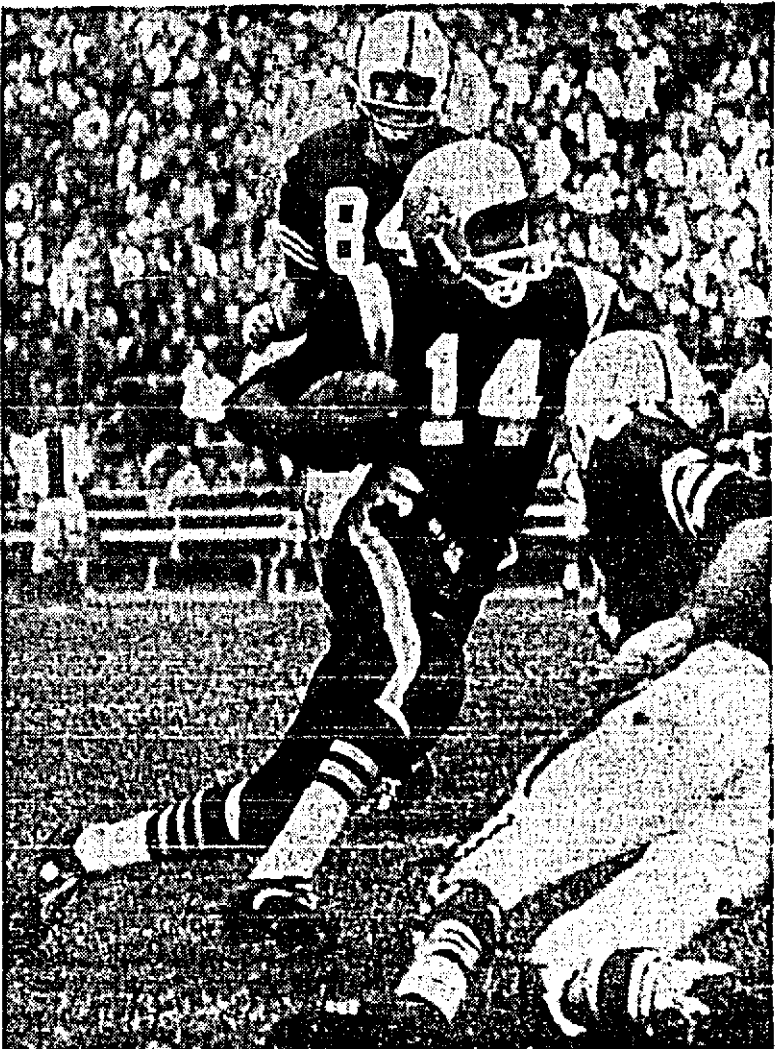

Three plays later from the 32—Bakersfield looked good on defense—Bill Harper slipped from the arms of onrushing Leon Standridge and twisted 32 yards through the rest of the Renegade defenders for the opening touchdown. Stuart Tonemah kicked the first of his four conversions.

HARPER'S RUN WAS THE beginning of a brilliant performance for him. He did so well that it is a virtual certainty he will be named "player of the game" when it is announced Monday.

Bakersfield took the ensuing kickoff, but on the third play Ronnie O'Rear intercepted Paul Franklin's pass and took it 10 yards to the Gade 35.

Five plays later Harper saw end Ulysses Kendall all alone in the end zone and rifled a 27-yarder to him for the second Aggie tally.

The West Coast representative got back in the game with 4:39 left in the first quarter when Joe Don Looney's quick kick attempt was blocked by Earl Corley and picked up by all-America end Ed Witzke, who loped 21 yards to the goal. On a fake kick play, Franklin passed to

ARMY FIRES COACH-- COULDN'T BEAT NAVY

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Army, smarting from three straight defeats by Navy, fired head football coach Dale Hall Saturday and tossed its 50-year policy of hiring only U.S. Military Academy graduates as football coaches onto the scrap heap.

Hall's successor will be "the finest coach available" even if he is not a member of the Army alumni, said Col. Emory S. Adams Jr. in announcing Hall's release.

Hall, a former Army star who was hired in 1939 when famed Army coach Earl (Red) Blaik retired, got the gate even though his contract still had one year to run. Maj. Gen. W. C. Westmoreland, Academy superintendent, said Hall "will be compensated" for the remaining year.

Hall, whose three-year record at Army included 16 wins, 11 losses, and two ties, said the firing "caught me by surprise" and said he had not made any plans for the future.

Despite Hall's surprise, reports had been widespread for some time that his job was in jeopardy. There were numerous reports—none of them denied—that he would be fired unless Army beat Navy this year.

Army, rated at even money, lost that game to the Middies last week, 13-7, just as it lost to Navy, 43-12, in 1959, and 17-12 in 1960.

Dodgers to Meet Braves in Apr. 8 Blair Field Benefit

By GEORGE LEDERER

The Dodgers' final spring exhibition game against the Milwaukee Braves is the plum awarded to Blair Field by Dodgers general manager Buzzie Bavasi, under sponsorship of the Independent Press-Telegram.

Bavasi made the announcement Saturday in his second annual "thank you" to the City of Long Beach, home of the Dodgers' pre-spring training workouts.

As last April, when the Dodgers met Dallas-Ft. Worth, Bavasi will contribute the Dodgers' entire receipts to the Long Beach junior baseball program. The Dodgers-Braves spring windup, first all-major league contest to be played here in 15 years, is scheduled Sunday, April 8.

The Dodgers open the season in their new stadium 48 hours later against National League champion Cincinnati, then meet the Braves in a three-game series April 13-15.

Eleven Long Beach junior leagues shared the Dodgers' $3,769 donation for the first game. Each league received $342.66 for the purchase of equipment. Participating leagues were Long Beach, East Long Beach, Plaza, Los Altos and Lakewood Village Little Leagues; Kiwanis T-Shirt, Elks 888, Catholic Boys, PONY, Rotary and Dodger Intermediate leagues.

Bill Feistner again will serve as chairman of the game committee, which includes Gerald Desmond, Toby Wick, Rod Ballard and Charlie Brown. I. P-T executive sports editor Hank Hollingworth, managing editor Miles Sines and George Lederer represent the sponsors' advisory board.

WELCH, then, had just one man to beat... Arnett at safety, and he deftly spun out of Arnett's clutches on the Ram 30 before continuing unimpeded into the end zone. Steve Myhra kicked the extra point to make the score, 20-17.

Instead of willing under the low blow, the Rams boomed back as Bass returned the ensuing kickoff from his goalline to the Colt 45. Bratkowski passed to Jim Phillips for 25 yards and three runs by Marconi took the ball to the 8, from where Bratkowski speared Marconi with a touchdown toss. With 1:22 elapsed in the final quarter, the Rams had regained their cozy 10-point spread 27-17.

Baltimore then made one big comeback bid. Starting on their own 20, the Colts moved downfield on Unitas' short passes (6 for 6) to a first down on the Ram 7. Three runs left the ball still on the 2. Ever the gambler, Unitas tried to pass it over and his cinch touchdown flip to Dea Mackey failed only because the ball flip-flopped out of the big end's grasp.

Unitas fumbled the next time the Colts had the ball, and Les Richter recovered on the Ram 41 to set up the Rams' final touchdown. Arnett and Marconi traded off blasts at the injury-weakened Baltimore line, and Marconi

Fullmer Decks Paret for Full Count in 10

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Body-brawl was staged before an estimated 6,500 fans in the Las Vegas Convention Center.

The nationally televised fight was staged before an estimated 6,500 fans in the Las Vegas Convention Center.

The Utah bruiser, ahead all the way, finally polished off Paret with three knockdowns in the riotous 10th, the last for the full count.

The first knockdown came early in the round as Fuller sent the Cuban kid staggering into a neutral corner, where Paret slumped down and sat on the lower rope.

Fullmer, of West Jordan, Utah, weighed 159½ in this seventh defense of the National Boxing Association portion of the world title.

PARET, succumbing to only his second knockout, weighed 156½.

The end was evident and came soon after as a long Fuller overhand right sent Paret reeling backwards and down for the final time.

Paret staggered to his feet after the count but again collapsed on his way back to his corner.

The Cuban kid's only knockout loss in 47 previous fights was by Emile Griffith, when Paret lost the welterweight title in Miami last April 1.

Paret regained supremacy of the 147-pound welterweight division by defeating this title match.

capped the march by scoring from the 6.

"Those injuries hurt us," said Baltimore coach Weeb Ewbank, who kept his dressing room locked to reporters for 20 minutes. "The Rams didn't do anything special. Neither did we, huh?"

COLT casualties included fullback Joe Perry and defensive linemen Billie Ray Smith and Ordell Braase.

So it will be a bruised and unhappy Baltimore club which will regroup Monday in Long Beach to begin a week of training here for its game at San Francisco next Sunday. The setback ended a three-game win streak and visions of a second-place finish and trip to Miami for the NFL Playoff Bowl.

In view of a national-TV audience, the game began as a wide-open offensive show.

Baltimore took the opening kickoff and rolled to the Ram 18 before having to call on Myhra for a 30-yard field goal.

ARNETT then signaled the Rams' offensive intentions by returning the ensuing kickoff 54 yards to the Colt 45. Bratkowski passed up the middle to Carroll Dale for 38 yards to the Colt 5. On second down from the 3, Bass cracked over the goal line to put the Rams ahead, 7-3.

Baltimore regained the lead in the final seconds of the quarter on a lightning 71-yard, three-play thrust. Unittas passed to Jim Mutscheller for 37 yards, Moore ripped off 13 to the Ram 22, and Perry covered the remaining distance on a high-stepper through the line. The Jet was grounded on that play by a leg injury.

A 36-yard field goal by Danny Villanueva of the Rams was the only scoring of the second quarter and left the game knotted, 10-10, at halftime.

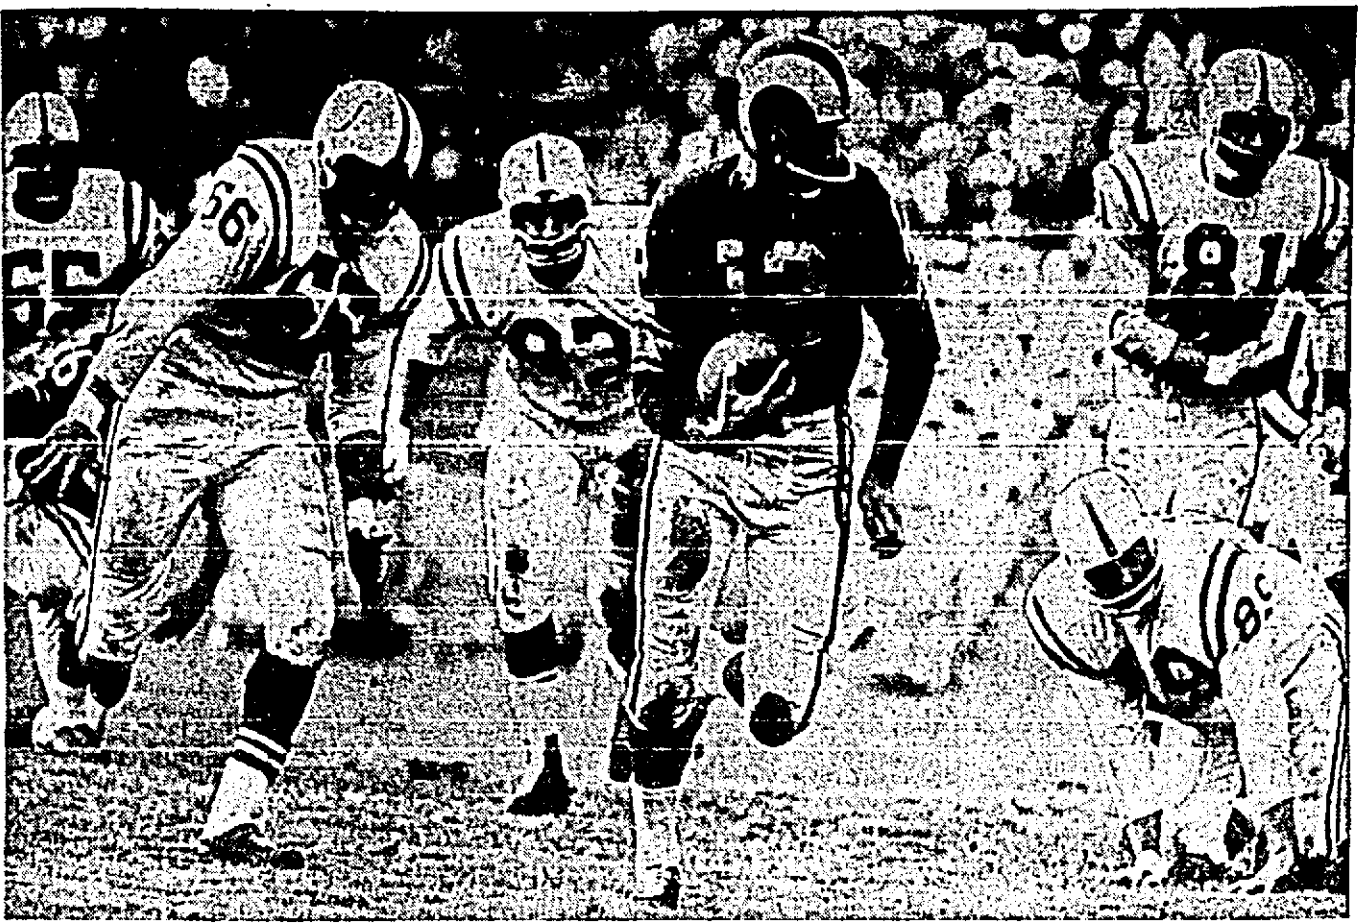

MYHRA HAD one field goal attempt from the Ram 19 blocked by LoVetere, and missed another from the 49

after the whistle ending the half had sounded. The Colts received the extra play (shades of Notre Dame vs. Syracuse) when Urban Henry, the Rams' answer to Tom McNeeley, was called for roughing Unittas.

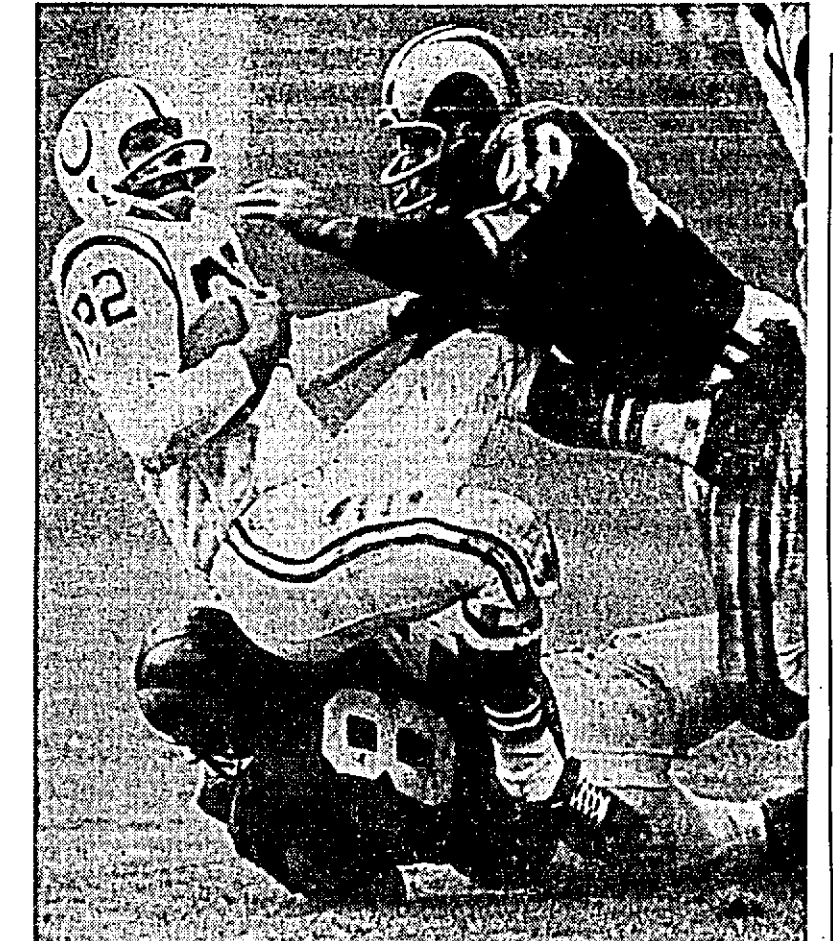

The third quarter was only 24 seconds old when the Rams went ahead to stay on a 63-yard touchdown pass from Bratkowski to Dale, who snared the ball on the Colt 35 and sped away from defender Gary Glick.

Their momentum high, the Rams soon took over on their 36. Arnett cruised end for 16 and a pass to Phillips gained 10. Then faced with a fourth-and-two on the Colt 30, the Rams boldly went for the first down... Bass succeeding by inches. However, a field goal was in order after a few more plays, and Villanueva delivered from the 20 to boost the score to 20-10.

The Rams had one injury. Defensive back Alvin Hall took 14 stitches to close a shin gash. The team awarded the game ball to Bass.

Our Worst Game--Gade Boss

Bakersfield coach Ray Newman said after Saturday's 28-20 Junior Rose Bowl loss that the Renegades played their worst game in two years and that one of the reasons might have been the harsh publicity his team had received during the week.

Newman was referring to the Metropolitan Conference meeting Tuesday in which the Renegades were subjected to much criticism for their recruiting tactics.

He was quick to point out, however, that he did not want to minimize Cameron's outstanding effort. He admitted the Aggies outcharged his Potato town boys and that the Oklahomans had come to the game with more desire.

Newman thought the turning point of the game came on the first play of the fourth quarter when Bob Miller, hampered by a bad pass from center, got off only a nine-yard punt.

Cameron moved to its third touchdown shortly thereafter.

There was a certain air about Newman that indicated he was not sure Cameron would beat Bakersfield if the two teams met again. He did mention he would rather face Cameron than either Long Beach or Santa Monica.

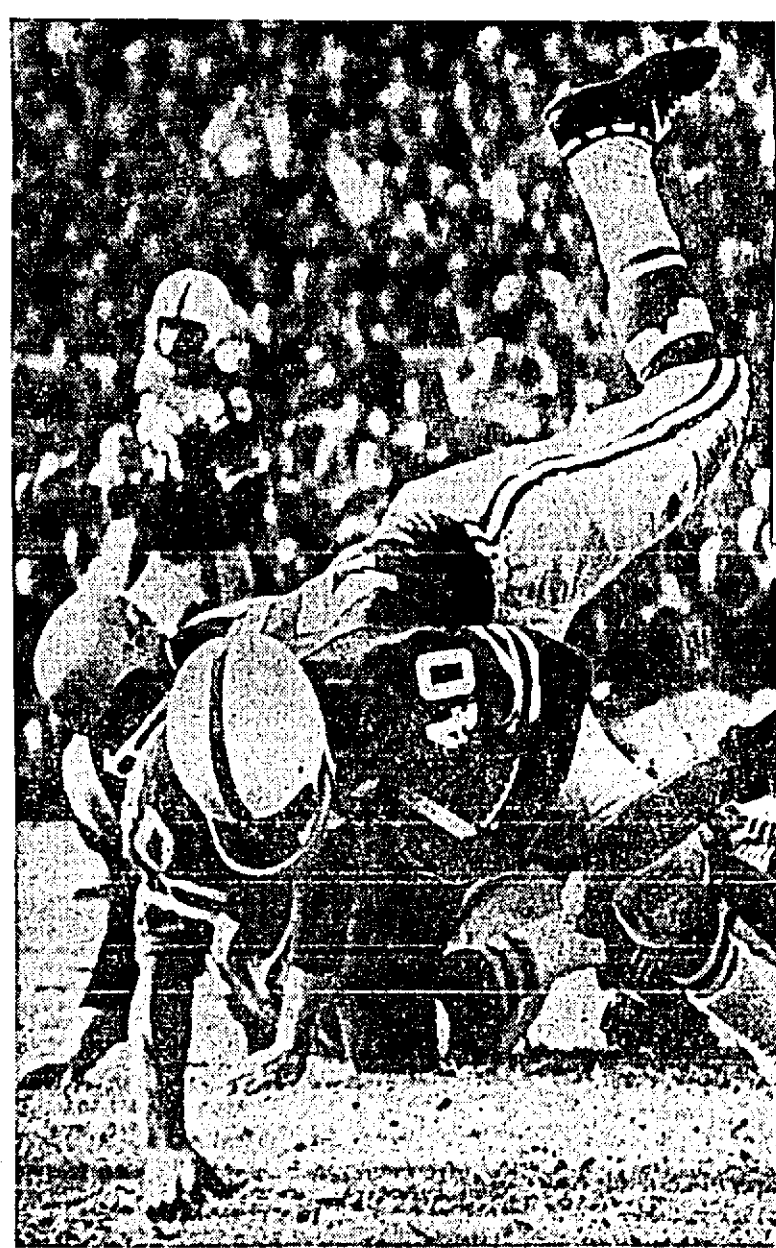

Meanwhile, coach Leroy Montgomery of Cameron said the game had come out just as he had expected. The Aggies had Bakersfield well scouted. For example, he said game films showed the Gades "didn't have a respect for the lonesome end deep" so his team practiced this play about 100 times the past week. It paid off in Cameron's second touchdown.

Cameron players were just as happy as their coach. Almost to the man they expressed that they were extremely happy but not particularly surprised. They had expected to win.

Only one who showed any disappointment at all was defensive halfback Jimmy Cabbiness who was a bit mad at himself for letting Vance Fisher catch a touchdown pass just before the half.

Cabbiness blinked his eyes and said, "He done snuck behind me and the ball went way ova mah haid."

Clifton Chilton for the two-plays. It was set up by F. Miller's nine-yard punt.

Touchdown came on a third fourth-down situation: the goal line.

Bakersfield's touted offense held from the two three straight thrusts, then Harper tossed a bare ball-type pitchback to F who scampered around r end the final yard.

The relentless Oklahoma taking a fumble, rolled yards to sew up the game with 4:39 left. On the play Looney exploded yards up the middle, three defenders trying to get out of his way.

Bakersfield still kept trying, though, and covered 62 yards in eight attempts for the last touchdown. Payoff was a nine-yard pass from Ricky Swan who threw across field to Witzke.

The Aggies then took the kickoff and ran out the clock. They already had run out Bakersfield.

Patriots Whip Raiders, 35-21

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Babe Parilli and Billy Lott, a pair of veteran backs the Oakland Raiders traded off, gave the Boston Patriots a 35-21 victory over the Raiders Saturday.

The win pulled the Patriots within a half game of the Houston Oilers, who lead the American Football League Eastern Division.

Lott scored three touchdowns and carried the ball for the first downs time after time in key third-down situations.

PARILLI passed for three touchdowns and had one of the best days running the ball in his eight-year professional career.

PARET TOUGH AS I'VE EVER MET---FULLMER

LAS VEGAS (AP)—"I can't remember hitting anybody as hard and with him not falling down," NBA middleweight champion Gene Fullmer said Saturday night after his 10th round knockout of Benny (Kid) Paret.

"This guy was as tough as I've ever fought," Fullmer, blood-spattered and disheveled, said in his dressing room.

"You can't take that kind of punishment but I thought he was going to."

Fullmer, a cut beside his left eye and an angry purple welt rising alongside his right eye, said Paret did not have him in trouble at any time in the fight but admitted: "He hurts."

In his dressing room, Paret said through an interpreter that he was not hurt by any single punch. He blamed his loss on Fullmer's rough-house tactics against the ropes.

The Cuban's manager, Manuel Alfaro, spluttered that the referee, Harry Krause, should have taken "at least 20 points" away from the middleweight champion.

Alfaro said there would be no more middleweight opponents immediately for his fighter.

NFL Jubilant Over Ferguson's Signing

HITTING THE HIGH SPOTS: The NFL scored a smashing and significant victory over the rival AFL in the battle to sign 1961's top college stars when the Pittsburgh Steelers inked Bob Ferguson...

The significant thing about the signing of Ferguson is that the Steelers, not one of the wealthier clubs in the NFL, outbid the aggressive San Diego Chargers—one of the three clubs in the new league which figured to give NFL teams their toughest competition in the player market...

CHARLES FINLEY
'Not Saying Much'

NFL officials were jubilant over the news and are highly confident now that they'll sign an even greater number of their top draft choices this season than they did last year...

They point out that it is apparent the collegians feel the AFL is fighting a losing battle and can't last much longer...

The new league is feeling the financial pinch more all the time. The loop lost $3 million a year ago and will blow another $2 million this trip...

Although the AFL has been boasting of a general gate increase through the league over 1960, this has been offset by reduced television revenue, which dropped from $180,000 per team last year to $115,000 this season. That's a grand total of $320,000...

Meanwhile, it is heard that a certain major league club is keeping extra-close tab on one of baseball's top stars to see that he doesn't associate with former friends during the off-season because they feel they have too much influence on him and might get him in trouble...

They've already had one extremely close call with him!

CUS D'AMATO'S STATEMENT that "Liston knows what he has to do" in answer to whether Floyd Patterson will fight Liston next spring has the fight world speculating as to just what terms Cus is asking...

Consensus is that Cus wants a contract similar to the one negotiated by Jim Braddock before giving Joe Louis a crack at the title...

Knowing he had little chance of beating Louis, Braddock agreed to fight him only after Joe agreed to giving Braddock 10 per cent of all his ring earnings for 10 years if the Brown Bomber won the championship...

Braddock netted far more off that contract than he did from all of his own fights combined...

You can be sure that any Patterson-Liston contract will be "loaded" with clauses!

ANYONE FOR TRIVIA? One of the classic statements of the year was delivered by Charles O. Finley, owner of the A's, in discussing the firing of Frank Lane recently: "At no time did I find Lane knew as much about baseball as I did, and that's not saying much"...

Definition of golf: "A game in which you place a ball an inch and a half in diameter on a ball 8,000 miles in diameter and try to hit the little one and miss the big one"...

Suggestion of the month: "Learn to speak karate and break a bone with your bare mouth"...

Grid coach Ed Doherty, one of sports' great wits, says he once had a tryout with the Yankees, "but I didn't make it. They told me I couldn't switch blades fast enough!"

ADD TRIVIA: A lobster expert at a nearby sea food eatery reveals that they are just like people in that they are either left-handed or right-handed...

Whenever they get in a shipment of live lobsters, this fellow gives each a bit of a tussle to see which side he grabs from and then tapes that claw to keep from getting gashed open when handling them...

The other day, though, he was wearing a bandage on his hand and he explained that "the Mickey Mantle of lobsters finally arrived..."

"A real switch-hitter!"

WHEELS WIN 40TH IN ROW

The Long Beach Flying Wheels made it 40 in a row and 2-0 in the young season as they crushed the San Fernando Valley Hawks, 54-31, at Garden Grove High Saturday evening.

Bill Johnson swished the bucket with 16 points for the local five, while Eric Gerard was right behind with 13. The Wheels shot 46 per cent.

Debbie Decided Not to Retire

(Editor's Note: Rick Du Brow is on vacation. Today's guest columnist is actress Debbie Reynolds, who tells why she changed her mind about retiring.)

By DEBBIE REYNOLDS
Written for United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—About three years ago I told an inquiring reporter that I intended to retire from the entertainment field in five years.

Usually, when I make a decision, I stand by it. There have, however, been exceptions.

When I was first offered a movie contract, I turned it down. I would never for one minute give up my ambition to be a gym teacher. I told the man who was a few weeks later to become my agent, for such a nebulous undertaking as acting.

But just as I thought I was serious about never entering pictures in the first place, I thought I was serious about making an exit.

AT THE TIME, I had finished "Tammy and the Bachelor," a picture enjoyed making, but another in a line of young ingenue roles. I couldn't see any future for me in those parts, and, to be honest, didn't know if I would be believable in other parts.

In the past three years I've had the opportunity to find out, by having been given the opportunity to appear in a wider variety of roles.

I'm not an actress who wants to concentrate on drama. I've liked the dramatic things I've done—"The Catered Affair" and "The Rat Patrol"—but my preference is comedy and musical comedy. Regrettably, musicals aren't as prevalent in Hollywood these days, but comedies are, which balances the scale where I'm concerned.

LUCILLE BALL is the comedienne I admire most. She is a reason I like to do all my own work in a film. She does it—and no one is funnier or more successful than she is.

It seems odd, what with the popularity of westerns and what with the number of films I've made, that I had never appeared in a rough and ready outdoor role until just recently. Then, suddenly, two in a row.

The first is "The Second Time Around," a comedy about the West of the 1900s. In the second, the first cinerama film which tells a story, MGM's "How the West Was Won," I appear opposite Gregory Peck. It has become my favorite role—I just finished it—and I portray an eastern music hall entertainer who plays a part in the development of the West.

NEXT I'll appear opposite

Geraldine Page Gets Stage Roles in Films

By JAMES BACON

The star of two stage hits, she also plays the same roles in the movie versions. Within six months, moviegoers will see Miss Page in "Summer

Jack Lemon in a romantic comedy for Columbia Pictures called "Try, Try Again."

The motion picture isn't the only medium I'm thinking about these days. Next year, I hope to realize an ambition I've had for a long time by appearing in Las Vegas. I've had offers to work in Las Vegas since I first started in pictures, but I've never found the time.

I'M LOOKING forward to Las Vegas. Since I'm not a gambler, I won't leave my salary there. I'll have to admit: Las Vegas will be like a vacation. No scripts to study, no TV spectaculars to worry about.

By the time I've finished "Try, Try Again" and Las Vegas, I'll be ready to start other pictures for which I've signed. These will take me well into 1964.

After that, I'm thinking of retiring in five years. By then again, if I'm still being asked, I may change my mind.

Lucille, Gary Explain 'Permanence' Formula

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Lucille Ball and Gary Norton have worked out a way to keep their marriage permanent—"For one thing, I won't be going to Gary's night-club openings," Lucille says.

"I'll frequently be busy, but even if I weren't busy I wouldn't go," she adds.

"Because if you go, people mistake the reason."

"They don't think you go because you want to be with somebody you like. They think you go to help business!"

Lucille will, therefore, never be doing the Elizabeth Taylor-Eddie Fisher opening night ritual. "It's strange," she says. "It's all right before you get married—but not afterward! I accept that fact and so I'll stay home."

This was one of the few serious moments when the new Mrs. Morton and her shirt-sleeved bridegroom talked it over at her big apartment in the Imperial House recently. The comedian in Gary kept coming out and he kept making jokes—and Lucille kept laughing.

"Lucy lives in Beverly Hills and we'll lead like a suburban life," Gary said. "And you can park your car out there!"

"Right darling, I'm glad you like that about it," Lucille said.

SOMETHING was said about Lucille's cooking. "She can cook, buddy!" a friend of Lucille's, who was there, spoke up.

"That's right... she cooks buddies. Fried buddies. Delicious!" Gary said. "I keep thinking of the laughs we had the first time she cooked dinner for me. The steak tasted like hockey pucks. I kept smiling with the whole thing in my mouth. I couldn't get it out."

"I'm very good at cooking for 20 people," Lucille insisted. She was reclining in a pink terry-cloth robe after a hard day of rehearsing here for a TV show.

"Yeah, she's great for a restaurant, but for one person—forget it!" Gary waved his hand, and Lucille laughed again.

"HAVE YOU ever made any effort to coach him in his work?" I asked Lucille.

"Yes, I'm guilty of that," she nodded. "I heard him do his act one night at the Concord. One word bothered me. I didn't say anything for weeks. Then he did it again and I said, 'Guess I'll tell him about the one word he's dropping.'"

"Criticism of that kind is like coming from the Queen," Gary said. "And it worked. I wasn't pronouncing one word clearly. When I corrected it what was a snicker became a scream."

"It was just a setup for a joke," Lucille said.

Only Realtors Have Multiple Listings

REALTOR OF THE WEEK

STORMY Allen KEATS is a native of Wichita, Kansas; where she spent the early years of her life before moving to Enid, Oklahoma. While in the Sooner State, she was associated with the Enid Business College. Stormy came to Long Beach in 1941. She entered the Real Estate profession ten years ago. She opened her own business office on Pine Avenue seven years ago. This past March she opened a branch office in Elsinore Valley.

She is an active member of the Long Beach Board of Realtors; a willing and capable Realtor devoting much of her time to board committee work.

Stormy has become extremely interested in Real Estate Exchanges, and is a Charter Member of the Long Beach Traders Club. She is an active member of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, Civic Development Committee. Husband Clint Keats is associated with her in the real estate profession. She has two sons, Charles and Rex Allen.

Stormy recognizes a tremendous opportunity in California Real Estate as the key to financial security. However, the buyer and seller must be protected with the knowledge afforded by the professional Realtor. Her motto is: "Buy, Sell, Exchange... You need a Realtor... because Real Estate Is Our Business."

First Freeway Link to Open in Month

Opening of the first link of the San Diego Freeway in this area is scheduled in about a month, it was reported today.

The one-mile connecting link between the Long Beach Freeway at the interchange north of Wardlow Road and Alameda St. is the first of three projects which will join the Long Beach Freeway with the Harbor Freeway about next June.

According to a completion schedule of the various contracts compiled by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, the San Diego Freeway will tie the Long Beach Freeway to the Ventura Freeway (Highway 101) in March of 1963 and to the Golden State Freeway (Highway 99) before the end of the summer of 1963.

To the east of the Long Beach Freeway, the San Diego Freeway is expected to be completed to the Orange County line in February 1963.

More than $18,000,000 worth of interchanges and grade separations in that direction are being constructed at the present time. Additional projects overpasses and underpasses at Spring, Clark and Willow Sts.

A contract also has been let for $7,340,424 to construct interchanges at Long Beach Boulevard and Atlantic Avenue.

$4½ Million Building Set at College

A $4½ million building for the music, speech and drama departments of Orange County State College will be the college's next major construction project, it was learned today.

Dean Stuart F. McComb, in charge of the college's building program, said that it will be the second "permanent" structure. The $12 million science building, now under construction, is due for occupancy in September 1963.

McComb said that the music-speech-drama building would be ready for use a year later. It will be started in September 1962, he said, and will include a 500-seat Little Theatre, a 200-seat recital hall, two radio-TV studios for both open and closed-circuit broadcasting, and workshops for building and designing stage scenery.

LBSC Aids Move Into New $528,000 Section

Long Beach State College's student services units have moved into a $528,000 addition to the college's administration.

The addition, with 20,800 square feet of office space, is occupied principally by the counseling, testing and activities advisers.

Dr. Francis J. Flynn, executive dean for development, said that three other projects are receiving their finishing touches and will be occupied next month.

Included is Science Building No. 3, the most expensive facility at LBSC which will cost $5.3 million when it is equipped. It has 112,000 square feet of floor space and a wing will connect it to Science Building No. 2.

$2.5 million engineering unit and the $2 million Fine Arts Building No. 4.

When these projects are completed the college will have 936,000 square feet of floor space—39 per cent more than at the start of the school year.

Posts Go to Pair

Two Long Beach general contractors, Robert Boyd of Guy F. Atkinson Co. and John L. Connolly of Connolly Pacific Co., have been elected members of the board of directors of the Southern California Chapter of Associated General Contractors for 1962.

PROPOSED BAY SHORE TOWER APARTMENTS would soar 11 stories overlooking Long Beach Marina district. Target for completion of 102-unit project, which would cost about $3 million, has been set for next October.

Boat, Copter Facilities in Project Plan

A $3,000,000 11-story resort-type apartment building has been proposed for construction on Apian Way adjacent to the new Alamitos Bay bridge and Marine Stadium Park in Long Beach.

An application for a special permit to construct the high-rise Bay Shore Tower Apartments in the area has been filed with the City Planning Commission, according to Hugh Gibbs, A.I.A., architect on the project.

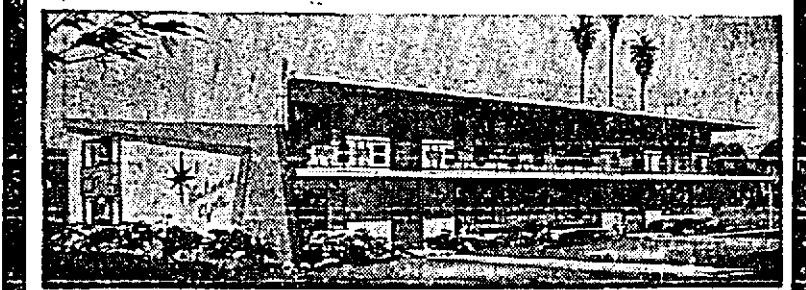

Gibbs said that the building would include 102 apartment units, including six roof penthouse apartments with lanai areas. Plans call for the apartments to be both rental and own-your-own types.

THE DEVELOPMENT provides for 164 tenant and guest automobile parking spaces, a ratio of more than 1½ park-

Developed by Mervin Johnson, Fashion Homes in Garden Grove offer models like this priced from $17,950. Vets need no down payment. In three or four-bedroom styling, the homes may be seen by driving east on Seventh Street out of Long Beach to Brookhurst, turn right to Bolsa, then left to the homes.

Reserve Homes in Suburbia

Early reservations for Suburbia, Santa Ana, are being made by home buyers visiting the developments, reports Bart Allan, general sales manager of the Harry Tancredi Co.

"Normally," said Allan, "we do not staff our developments for sales this early in construction. However," he continued, "we feel many home buyers will appreciate the opportunity to see for themselves just what is going into the home they buy."

Suburbia homes feature many design and construction extras. In addition to Medalion Kitchens by Hotpoint, the homes have vinyl asbestos and 100 per cent wool carpeting throughout, ceramic tile counters, lumi-lite bath ceilings, hardwood cabinetry, 18 different exterior designs, 6 new plans, and the Suburbia Premium Room.

TUNING UP FOR SHOW

Chairman Appointed for '62 Home-O-Rama

Planning for the third annual Long Beach Home-O-Rama is under way with the appointment of Phil Weidrich as general chairman of the event which is sponsored by the Long Beach Builders Exchange.

The appointment of Weidrich was announced by Norman Scott, Builders Exchange president, who said the Home-O-Rama will be held next Feb. 28 through March 4 in the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium.

George Colours will again be producer-manager of the event, Scott said.

Jack Horner, manager of the Builders Exchange, along with Weidrich, Scott and Colours, is a member of the key planning group which will direct over-all arrangements for the show.

THE HOME-O-RAMA will feature displays of the latest products of builders and al-

Quiz Program Slated by Club

Norm Woest, community relations director, and Hal Humphrey, customer relations representative for Title Insurance & Trust Co., Los Angeles, will present the silver dollar quiz at the Thursday meeting of the North Long Beach Real Estate Club, Mrs. Lela Starr, president, announced today.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 a.m. at Mayo's Restaurant, 5925 Cherry Ave. in North Long Beach, Mrs. Starr stated.

Quizmaster Woest will award silver dollars to those who answer correctly his questions based on practical problems relating to real estate procedure as well as questions of a general nature.

Third Unit Now Half Sold at Walled Fullerton West

Fullerton West, popular new walled community by Park Village Homes, reports its sales volume reaching $1,250,000, with its third unit now half sold.

A full selection of luxurious three and four bedroom and family room plans is still available, according to Walker & Lee, sales agents. Homes are priced from $18,250, with no down payment required of veterans, except for costs and impounds. FHA terms are also available.

The master-planned development, strategically located in the western part of the City of Fullerton, is a couple of minutes from entry to the Santa Ana Freeway, and 25 minutes from Los Angeles Civic Center. It is similarly close to elementary and high schools of the unified school district, shopping centers, two colleges, and many major employment centers of the Fullerton-Anaheim complex.

Spacious living rooms "in the grand tradition" are highlighted by massive stone fireplaces, and sliding walls of glass to patio and garden areas. Many are of the step-down variety.

CONSTRUCTION features which have won favor include select oak hardwood floors over 2-inch by 6-inch tongue and grooved sub floors, wrought iron railings, hard-wood paneling, decorator wall-paper and shake and shingle roofs.

Weidrich said every effort will be made to obtain displays that will best reflect modern trends in building materials, home furnishings and other products of interest to homeowners and prospective homeowners.

Other features of the Home-O-Rama will include a queen contest and special entertainment.

Las Lomas Sales Over 50 Per Cent

Many investors are taking advantage of the chance to trade a house, land, or other residential property for a high-income interest in Las Lomas Apartments in residential Long Beach, said a spokesman for the Mills Construction Co.

The apartments have been completely remodeled and re-furnished by Mills Construction as part of a three-quarter-of-a-million-dollar improvement program. Well over 50 per cent of the apartments have been sold to date, the spokesman said.

Just across from Las Lomas Apartments is a beautiful recreational park and golf links. Close at hand are inviting beaches, the Long Beach Boating Marina, Long Beach State College, and complete shopping.

The Las Lomas furnished model apartment may be viewed at 5320 Anaheim Road, then right to model.

Taxpayer Saving Seen in Fuller Use of Schools

By EDWIN S. CAPPS
SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Every time a high school system can absorb 100 new students without providing new classrooms, laboratories and other facilities for them, taxpayers in the district save a potential $200,000 in construction costs.

Hundreds of millions of dollars are being poured into new school construction every year, as well as expansion of existing ones. Some top state financial officials believe these expenditures could be reduced substantially through a fuller use of school facilities.

One method of increasing usage of school plants which has met with less objection than others is the lengthening of the school day. The average high school operates on a six-hour day. Teachers have classes for five of these hours and spend the sixth in preparing for the next day's work or correcting papers.

The proposal is to extend the day to eight hours. By proper arrangement of schedules, one group of students would begin school at 8 a. m., finishing at 2 p. m. Another group would begin at 10 a. m. and finish at 4 p. m.

The first two hours in the morning and the 2 to 4 period in the afternoon would be devoted entirely to academic courses. During the 10 to 2 period, when the number of students in school was the highest, some could be assigned to physical education classes; still others would be on lunch hour; and others would be in laboratory work.

One state official said this practice has been used in some California school districts when they were hard-pressed for classroom space or in other financial difficulties. In other states where the system has been used, it produced less objection than to an all-year school operation.

"But the main objections still came from the parents," said one official. "For sometimes, they think it's very important that all their high school children arrive home at exactly the same time."

The elongated school day also permits a double use of buses, thus reducing the amount of original outlay for buses, as well as wages of drivers and upkeep on the rolling stock.

Among disadvantages of the longer school-use day, in addition to the irregularity of hours, is some interference with extra curricular activities, such as athletics. Also, in schools where laboratory sessions have run as late as 6 p. m., it's found that some students do not learn or retain so well that late in the day.

However, it's also been found that there are students who do better in the afternoon but are sleepy in the mornings.

The plan for better use of school facilities which has received the most attention and comment in California is that of the all-year, or four-quarter school.

STRIKING INTERIOR

Favorable veteran and nonveteran financing announced for the lovely "sea view" luxury homes at Huntington Hills in Huntington Beach, now offers veterans a total "move-in" of $99, officials state. Nonveterans have monthly payments as low as $125 on the new 35-year FHA loans.

Vet 'Move-in' Costs $99 at Huntington Hills

New and unusually favorable veteran terms which have been added to the excellent nonveteran financing, now make the handsome "sea view" luxury homes at Huntington Hills in Huntington Beach available to veterans for a total "move-in" of just $99, according to W. D. McCaffrey of Sales Co.

For the nonveteran home buyer, McCaffrey said, the new 35-year FHA loans have monthly payments as low as $125, and there is also good conventional financing. Full prices, which include the impressive category of luxury and convenience features, are from $17,500.

Strategically located, Huntington Hills offers magnificent panoramas of both the ocean and the mountains, and the community is "just minutes" from state beach site, providing all of the healthful fun of sand and sea, McCaffrey said.

Firm Gives Service Pins to Employees

Kwikset Division, Anaheim, one of the youngest lockset manufacturers in the nation, now in its 16th year, awarded 15-10- and 3-year service pins to 23 of its employees.

Earl Robinson, die cast foreman, and Chester Thompson, polisher and buffer, were presented the 15-year service awards.

Those receiving the 10-year service awards were Ethel Hammons, Cecelia Plume, Virginia Flores, Edith Heinrich, Jay Cornelison, Alice Sanchez, Catherine Chapman, Coleen Marshall, Mary Maggio, Marshall Lueders, Eleuterio Cancino, Art Mollica, Josephine Greene, Arlene Crowell and Nina Meade.

Joining the 3-year service group were Carl Ford, Edmond Fodor, Roberta Miles, John Rozboril, Gerald Osborne and Helen Avemaria.

EXTERIORS ARE charming and distinctively diverse, and the homes are oriented on large lots that are level and terraced, which encompass from 7,500 to 15,000 square feet. Flexible plans are designed with three and four bedrooms, hospitable family room and two baths and the attractive entryways have floors of slate.

Partial list of attractions includes handsome wood burning fireplaces, walls of sliding glass to the patio area, gleaming oak floors, marble tops in the baths and plumbing fixtures in decorator colors, forced air heating with thermostat, acoustical ceilings and natural mahogany wood paneling throughout.

Kitchens have been a major attraction. Planned for eye appeal and function, they are equipped with built-in wall oven and range, sink-installed disposer, double sinks with swing spout faucet, lots of hardwood cabinets and drawers, and a built-in passtru service-snack bar. Conveniently adjacent is a built-in ash cabinet for washer and dryer.

Elderly Want to Stay Where They Are Now

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Where do older people want to live?

Right where they've lived all their lives, says a housing markets expert.

Alfred K. Eckersberg of Real Estate Research Corp. of Chicago, writing in the latest issue of Urban Land, asserted that "the biggest market" for housing older people "is in or near the communities where the elderly now live." (Urban Land is published monthly by Urban Land Institute, a non-profit study organization.)

According to Eckersberg, studies have shown that "four out of five older families want to stay in their home community or nearby. An estimate has been made that only one-half of 1 per cent of the elderly people move to distant states and only 2 per cent of such northern residents move south."

ECKERSBERG suggests elderly housing falls into two types: units for independent living and for group living. Houses, apartments, flats and trailers are the first kind. Hotels, rooming houses, clubs, Y's, nursing and convalescence homes provide for group living.

"Since around two-thirds of the elderly householders own their own homes, it would appear that independent housing would be more strongly in demand in the early part of the senior years," writes Eckersberg. "Then group housing could be provided for older people." Eckersberg makes these points about elderly housing:

—Conventional loan money "has been restricted" because lenders are afraid the borrower will die before the loan is paid off.

—Most institutional housing for the elderly has been for those who can afford to pay large sums for care and service or for persons of very low income.

—Projects should be near public transportation or within walking distance of stores, libraries, doctors' offices and other community facilities. Use of private cars decreases with age.

—Houses and apartments should have skid-proof floors, grab bars at bathtub and shower, flat thresholds, sit-down counter space in the kitchen.

—The 1960 census recorded nearly 16.6 million persons in the United States who were 65 or older. That was five times as many as in 1900. Since then, average life expectancy has risen by 22.2 years to 67 years for men and 73 years for women.

HOW THE CARLSONS BECAME INDEPENDENTLY WEALTHY

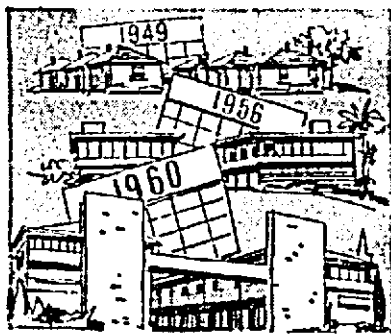

"There's really no secret to it," Mr. Carlson told us. "We just knew that while the number of people moving into California was increasing every year, the amount of land wasn't. This fact—more people, no more land—meant that more people would be looking for places to live and land prices would be increasing. Here's what we did:"

"About 12 years ago, we used our savings as a down payment on a small apartment house. The rent money we got every month took care of the trust deed payments on the building and gave us a little extra besides. The 'extra' we saved."

"When we'd built up a good equity in it, we sold—for a profit, too, for the property had increased in value since we bought it. We then used our savings, and the money we got from the sale, as a down payment on a bigger apartment."

"Over the years, we've continued to buy apartments, use the rent to pay off their trust deeds, and—thanks to rising land values—sell them for a profit. The building we own today is valuable enough to make us independently wealthy."

"Second, they should insist that their property has the full protection of a title policy issued by Title Insurance and Trust Company. This policy is their best assurance that they really own their property, that their ownership rights are insured."

"Many folks can do what we did," Mr. Carlson went on, "for the opportunity's still here. Every day, nearly 1000 people move into this state, and land values continue to rise. When they buy, though, they should protect themselves these two ways."

"First, they should deal only through a realtor. He'll save them time and money, for he knows land values and population trends, and can show them more good property in their price range in a day than they can find on their own in a week."

Take Mr. Carlson's advice and ask your escrow officer about Title Insurance and Trust Company. He'll tell you that of all title companies, T.I. has the best facilities for searching, examining, and insuring land in California. That's why a T.I. policy gives you the best possible protection of your ownership rights...why it's so safe, so sure, so low in cost. When you buy or sell, insist that your title policy is backed by T.I.—the company with America's largest staff of title specialists and up-to-date land records in every county it serves.

Area Big Factor in Home Buy

Location is one of the most important factors in the selection of a home, according to Walter Simmons, official of Westwood Gardens in Garden Grove.

Simmons attributes much of the picturesque residential community's wide acceptance to its unexcelled location, in the heart of one of the Southland's most rapidly expanding areas.

The development is adjacent to new, modern schools, just a few minutes walk. Model residences are on display in a home show that clearly demonstrates a high standard of living excellence and luxury and are priced within the budget of the average family. Terms are actually lower than rent, Simmons stated.

The builders have put three model homes up for sale at prices that are a saving of several thousands of dollars. The homes are complete with carpets and drapes, landscaped, trees, shrubs, lawns, sprinklers front and rear and fenced. Built-ins are a part of the luxury features of these homes and they are ready for immediate occupancy.

Fireplaces are real wood burning of brick, Palos Verdes rock and used brick according to the interior decorating and color coordinating.

QUALITY CONSTRUCTION

Both lath and plaster construction and a wide use of ceramic tile are featured at Bolsa Park in Huntington Beach. Corner lots are still available.

Ceramic Tile Widely Used in Homes at Bolsa Park

Comments from large crowds of homebuyers express pleasure at finding both lath and plaster construction and a wide use of ceramic tile at Bolsa Park in Huntington Beach, said sales director Ernie Merrill.

Genuine lath and plaster construction is offered in Huntington Beach only at Bolsa Park, according to Merrill.

The Ceramic Tile Institute has extended congratulations to Bolsa Park for its imaginative use of ceramic tile, he said. Bolsa Park homes offer a ceramic tile kitchen with breakfast bar, full ceramic tile bath with shower over tub, and separate ceramic tile shower with special decorator tiles.

STILL AVAILABLE on a first-come, first-served basis are choice cul-de-sac and corner lots with pricing no higher than other lots, Merrill said. This chance for a preferred preselection is offered prior to formal opening of the new second unit.

Priced from $19,250, the Bolsa Park homes are offered with 3 or 4 bedrooms, 2 full baths, and a large family-dining room. Custom entry and loggia areas highlight four plans by William M. Bray, AIA, who designed the 1961 Research Home. The loggia areas give access to all rooms, cutting wear-and-tear on living areas.

Sales of attractive Dutch Haven Unit No. 19 homes are continuing their upward swing despite usual Christmas slackening, sales agent Edward Boyd reports.

Dutch Haven Sales Rise Shows New Yule Trend

As the Christmas season approaches, traffic and sales at Dutch Haven's new Unit No. 19 in Huntington Beach are continuing their upward swing, indicating, in the opinion of Edward S. Boyd, exclusive sales agent for Dutch Haven, the start of a new trend in Christmas gift-giving.

It is usual, said Boyd, for home sales to slacken during the holiday period and it could logically be inferred, from recent increases in Dutch Haven sales, that many couples are foregoing the traditional "dress and suit gift exchange" this year in favor of the mutual gift of a beautiful new home.

Located on Edinger Avenue near Bolsa Chica, Unit No. 19 was first previewed early in November and since that time, has experienced record-breaking sales and traffic. It is the third Dutch Haven unit opened since May of this year. The other unit, No. 18 is located on Beach Boulevard.

"American Home Series" models are being featured exclusively at Unit No. 19 and

Time to Move Into New Home by Yule

Buyers can move in before the close of escrow and enjoy the holidays in their own new home at Golden West Estates in Huntington Beach, said George and Merlin Sant of Sant Construction Co., co-builders with McCarthy Co.

Golden West Estates now offers lower monthly payments as a result of their new 35-year, 5 1/2% FHA terms, the first such terms in Huntington Beach, the builders said. FHA down payments are from $800. Also offered are VA terms with no down payments, and conventional terms with down payments from $695.

Priced as low as $17,500, Golden West homes are available in 22 exterior styles, including provincial, colonial, Spanish, Monterey ranch, contemporary and Hawaiian. The homes offer 3 or 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, large family rooms, and over-sized 2-car garage. The Pageant Realty Co., sales agents, administer an exceptional trade-in plan which allows buyers a cash refund or lower monthly payments when their equity in their present homes exceeds their down payment.

Big Tower Highlight of Seattle's Fair

SEATTLE (UPI)—Visitors won't have any trouble spotting the site of the 1962 Seattle World's Fair, whether they arrive by land, sea or air.

They can't miss the symbol of the space age show, a 600-foot steel structure mounted with a revolving, saucer-shaped restaurant and capped by a flaming gas torch. Fair officials have named the spectacular spire the Space Needle, and already it is the most talked about, photographed item of the fair's extensive array of futuristic showpieces.

The needle, shaped like a gigantic, modern sculpture of a full-grown lady of steel with an extremely narrow waist, rises from the 74-acre fairgrounds at the foot of Queen Anne hill to an elevation that will place viewers 150 feet higher than the hill crest.

IN FACT, if there's anything in all of Seattle higher than a visitor atop the Space Needle, it's flying.

Fair officials expect more than 10 million visitors between the opening and closing dates of the show, April 21 to Oct. 21, and it's a good bet that practically all but those suffering acrophobia or heart trouble will take the trip to the top.

One of the jokes going the local rounds has another restaurant, called the Chicken Out Inn, planned for the bottom of the spire.

The trip to the Space Needle restaurant or observation platform will be made by high-speed elevators, traveling at an 800-feet-per-minute clip and designed with portholes.

THE RESTAURANT will revolve once an hour. Thus, in the time it takes to eat lunch or dinner, space diners will see the full sweep of the city's horizon. The view, in addition to the fairgrounds below and the city, will take in much of Puget Sound, the Cascade Mountains with 14,410-foot Mount Rainier to the east, the snow-capped Olympics to the west and Lake Washington which defines the city's eastern limits. The restaurant will seat 260 persons.

Pre-Crop Quotas Hit at State Group Meet

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The California, said canners opposed both measures.

HAWKINS SAID if quotas had been in this year's processing tomato crop, canners said they could not have met the demand.

Tomato growers this year planted a record 150,000 acres, at record prices, but adverse weather cut crop expectations by about 15 percent.

Support of the measures came in a telegram read into the record from John Kovacevich of Arvin, a member of the State Board of Agriculture.

Kovacevich said the bills "would improve the operation and administration of the California Marketing Act for the farmer-industry groups who find it practical to develop programs under the act."

Spending Soars

NEW YORK (UPI)—From 1956 to 1960 consumer spending for grooming items, education, foreign travel and medical care jumped by approximately 40 per cent each.

Spending for such services as insurance, brokerage fees and investment counseling rose from $14.6 billion in 1956 to $20.6 billion last year.

50th Year Marked at Big Creek

FRESNO (UPI)—This week marks the 50th anniversary of Southern California Edison Co.'s Big Creek hydroelectric project.

Fifty years ago the $214,000,000 project was begun and since that time it has grown into a major power source for Central and Southern California.

The operations currently includes a chain of man-made lakes, dams and powerhouses which harness the melting snows from 1,200 square miles of the High Sierra. To date, it has generated an estimated 85 billion kilowatt-hours of electricity.

TODAY THE project's 6 lakes, 15 dams, and 8 powerhouses are capable of generating almost 700,000 kilowatts — enough to supply a city of almost a million population.

Set 11-Story Marina Area Apartments

Planned for the top of the parking structure is a recreation area with a swimming pool and cabanas.

Adjacent to the recreation and pool-deck area would be boat slips for the use and convenience of the tenants. A helicopter landing is provided for the roof top. Planned for the ground floor is a sheltered boat landing for water passenger service from downtown Long Beach and other points.

GIBBS SAID that the building would provide a unique view of all segments of the marina, the Alamitos Bay Channel, Naples and the Pacific Ocean.

Owners in the project are W. H. Campbell, C. M. Cooper, R. A. Lowe and L. E. Williams, all of Long Beach.

Gibbs said that construction could start on the building on April 1. It would take about seven months to complete.

MR. ROSS W. CORTESE, BUILDER OF ROSSMOOR LEISURE WORLD, COOPERATIVE GOLD MEDALLION APARTMENTS

1ST ALL-ELECTRIC CITY USHERS IN THE ALL-ELECTRIC FUTURE

6,750 Gold Medallion Home units featured in largest and most advanced senior-citizen community ever developed

Its name: Rossmoor Leisure World. Its location: Seal Beach, California, near Long Beach. Its single source of power: electricity.

Every one of the 6,750 cooperative apartments is a total-electric Gold Medallion Home unit.

Why? Because Mr. Ross W. Cortese, builder, and Mr. Lewis M. Letson, President of Golden Rain Foundation, sponsor of the multi-million dollar undertaking, wanted it to be the best-planned, most up-to-date project of its kind in the world. Above all, they wanted it built for the all-electric future. "Naturally this called for the cleanliness and ease of operation of Gold Medallion Home units," says Mr. Letson.

Senior-citizen residents will enjoy insured medical care and drugs—short of hospitalization—included in moderate monthly payments for apartments. Leisure World will be the first to provide housing, social, medical, recreational, religious and shopping facilities at one centralized location.

Among many unique electrical features are electrical outlets placed two feet above the floor to eliminate the need to bend; built-in safety night lights; individual room electric heat control, with radiant electric heat in ceilings.

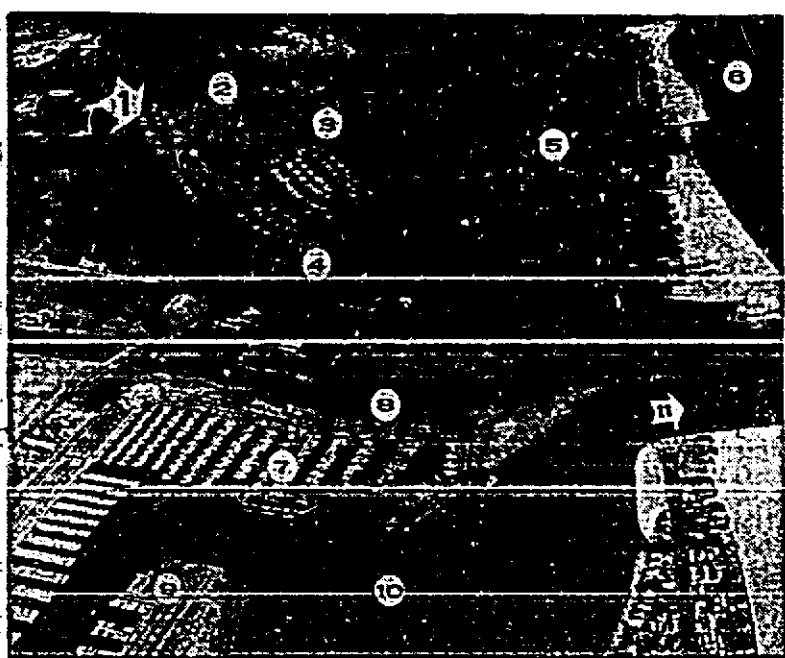

Whenever you build or buy, use the same good judgment that guided Messrs. Letson and Cortese. Go all-electric.

Only one new home in five is able to qualify for the Medallion Home Award. The requirements: a flameless electric kitchen; full "Housepower" wiring; abundant lighting. A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these plus flameless electric space and water heating.

Marina Hills Bow Attracts Throng

Grand opening of Marina Hills in Seal Beach last week attracted a tremendous number of people. The prospective home buyers were enthusiastic about Marina Hills "homes that grow". These luxurious two story view homes are architecturally designed to grow—planned for future expanding as needed.

The large double garage can easily and inexpensively be converted into a rumpus room or den. Some are completely plastered and each garage has a door into the house.

The porte chausse or carport can be used now for parking or boat storage and can easily be converted to an enclosed garage or another room.

More room to grow is provided by a spacious sun deck which will accommodate additional rooms. Also, every lot at Marina Hills allows ample room for a swimming pool.

MARINA HILLS homes each have three bedrooms, two baths and a den or formal dining room. Deluxe electric kitchen includes Kelvinator built-ins with range and rotisserie oven, Modernaire hood, automatic dishwasher and garbage disposer. Glamorous bathrooms feature built-in marbleite pullmans and ornamental fixtures. Several models have double lavatories.

More quality features in these Medallion homes are all-wool mothproof carpeting, beautiful custom fireplaces, oversize closets (some walk-in), concealed TV antennas and forced-air heating systems. Kitchen and dining room (or den) are separated by a convenient serving bar.

BUYERS of Marina Hills homes may choose from a selection of several smart ex-

Computers to Cut Agriculture Department Costs—Freeman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has announced an administrative improvement program for the agriculture department.

He said it would cut costs and increase efficiency of the department by putting electronic computers to work on routine record keeping and paper work.

"It will contribute to the productivity of administration," Freeman said. "It will give effective public management."

Freeman said the new system, designed entirely within the department and using existing equipment, is expected to:

—Eliminate more than 17,000 individual reports now required each year.

—Centralize into one office payroll preparation now done in 67 offices, and enable payroll checks to be issued automatically.

—Reduce administrative costs of payroll and maintaining records of employees by $15 per year per employee.

—Provide savings of as much as $1.5 million per year once the new system is in full operation.

—Give department management new tools for program evaluation which never before have been available to a government agency.

—Give professional and technical employees greater opportunity for advancement and service in their special field.

Freeman said the conversion to computer operation will reduce labor requirements by 241 man-years, the equivalent of 241 employees per year. No one is expected to lose his job because of the new system. Those who are displaced by the machines will be reassigned by the department.

THE COMPUTER work will be done on a machine which the department already owns and is using in the New Orleans commodity office, and on a presently rented machine in Dallas, Tex.

The administrative improvement program will be put into effect in two steps. The first, already under way, will combine payroll, personnel record keeping, and related budget and accounting work into an automatic data processing system. This will be put into operation early in 1963.

The second step will be put into operation by 1964. It will apply the information gathered from payroll, personnel, and related budget and accounting operations to new management techniques.

Freeman said the administration would have a substantial farm program to put before Congress next year.

He said he believed President Kennedy would deliver a special message to Congress on behalf of his plans although there was nothing firm on this as yet.

HE SAID the proposed farm program "hasn't jelled yet." Ever since the 1961 Farm Act was adopted the department has been considering ways and means of bettering the agricultural situation, he said.

The National Broiler Advisory Committee has set up an eight-member subcommittee to "draft a possible self-help program" for the broiler industry.

The full 30-member committee met here for two days with agriculture department officials to review the possibility of stabilizing broiler prices through some form of marketing regulation.

Expert Sees 'Relatively Slow' '62 Home Building

CHICAGO (UPI) — The home building industry, hit by the 1960 recession and lagging through the first half of 1961, faces another relatively slow year in 1962, a housing economist has predicted.

Leon Kendall, of the U.S.

See Surge in Building Supplies

NEW YORK (AP)—Sales and earnings of most building supply companies are likely to make good recoveries next year, an investment advisory service says.

However, the Value Line Investment Survey is of the opinion that a keen competitive situation in most products will prevent a general return to the 1959 level of profits.

It bases its outlook for sales and earnings on an estimated 6 per cent increase in new construction spending in 1962 over 1961.

Other sources predict that new housing starts will rise to 1.35 or 1.4 million.

VALUE LINE agrees that residential activity, which has lagged until recently, is expected to provide much of the thrust for next year's advance.

It says building materials makers whose primary market is housing can expect the best demand for their products since 1959.

"But," it adds, "with the vacancy ratio at the highest level in many years, the increase in family formations expected to be modest, and the threat of tighter long-term money rates by next spring overhanging the mortgage market, a real boom in home building seems improbable."

Value Line points out that it is more difficult to make a profit in the building materials manufacturing business now than at any time in the past 10 years.

THIS IS because capacity for almost every type of product exceeds demand, imported products are cutting into some markets, and swollen fixed costs created by the capital investment programs of the past five years put pressure on managements to cut prices in attempt to obtain volume.

There are quite a few indications of a strong January for the stock market, says Joseph E. Granville of E. F. Hutton & Co.

Weakness in the electrical equipment issues — 22 companies were hit by price-fixing damage suits — has done nothing to upset the balance of strength, he feels.

Other strong indications for continuation of the rally include the new high in General Motors, the continued advance of Standard Oil of New Jersey and further mushrooming of strength in the steels," Granville says.

"When the market comes within sight of a peak which still may be weeks or months away, it is usually preceded by some groups topping out well ahead of the market. The savings and loan group appears to have topped out. Weakness in this group also had no disturbing effect on the market as a whole. The strength shows no signs of abatement."

Castro's Loss

MIAMI (UPI) — Florida farmers are increasing their plantings of sugar cane to cash in on the cut-off of Cuban sugar imports. The Sunshine State will produce 2.1 million tons of cane this year, compared with 1.6 million tons in 1960. Next year output is expected to climb to 7 million tons.

avings and Loan League, predicted this trend would continue. He foresaw little increase in the market for single homes until close to 1970 when this year's crop of newlyweds is in the market for a house.

Kendall estimated residential building starts in 1962 would total 1,350,000-1,400,000, only seven to eight per cent above the projected total of 1,275,000 for 1961.

He noted that town houses, apartment houses and other multifamily dwellings accounted for 27 per cent of new housing in 1961 and predicted this trend would continue. He foresaw little increase in the market for single homes until close to 1970 when this year's crop of newlyweds is in the market for a house.

"In the meantime," Kendall said, "single homes will have to come down in price to attract the young families who are the only potential buyers."

He foresaw wide discussion at the NAHB meeting of price-cutting building techniques, including increased use of panels, plastic materials and prefabricated construction.

"If building codes must be revised to permit these innovations, builders will agitate for the changes," Kendall said. "They have faced up to the fact that cutting $1,000 from the cost of a house may be the difference between selling it or not."

Kendall also anticipated considerable talk among the builders of the possibility of federally-ordered open occupancy before the close of 1962.

"Builders are running scared of any such order," Kendall said. "It could drastically curtail the sale of houses, at least temporarily."

Whip That List! Tote Those Gifts

By IOLA MASTERSON
L. P-T Women's Editor

Well, Ho, ho, ho! Christmas is just a fortnight away. And ow, ow, ow! These next two weeks will test the soles of shoppers.

But to the rescue. Here are some just-barely timely tips to ease your shopping chores and keep your serenity and good looks. Basically, they are provided by Max Factor, the make-up man with a few notations of my own.

Ways to spare feet, temper, backbreak and illusions are, as follows:

Before you take the next shopping step, sit down and make a list and plan of operation. Beside every name, list size, color and other vital statistics. See how many gifts you can order from local stores by phone for delivery—it's too late for that good, old standby, the catalog, now. You can save miles by judicious use of your telephone and careful checking of I, P-T ads which call attention to the gift items our many fine stores are featuring.

REMBER, too, that many large department stores have personal shoppers. They'll round up all manner of things for you, send them through for gift wrapping and hold them at the Will Call Desk or send them, COD or charge, to your home. If you are REALLY the indecisive sort they will even make your selections for you if you will just give them the amount you want to spend and a few hints about the person—age, size, type, etc.

Plan to duplicate last year's successful gifts, pleasing new recipients with your thoughtful choices — already pre-tested.

YOU HAVE 12 shopping

days left until Christmas. Divide this number by the gifts you still must purchase—or by 10 if you want to be finished in plenty of time. (Hah!) Before you become dead-set on a specific item, check by phone to make certain it is still available and where. This is no time to wander aimlessly from shop to shop, parking lot to parking lot.

SHOP ALONE. No adage better speaks the truth than the one which says you-know-what about one who travels swiftly.

Wear comfortable clothes, especially shoes — the roomiest you own — and check the weatherman's forecast before you start out for the day. Wear something appropriate to the temperature expected. Don't sacrifice good grooming, says Factor. The shopper who looks like a slob gets treated like one.

DON'T GO all day like a steam roller. Break up the hours with a stop for lunch in a pleasant place; shorter stops for coffee, tea or Coke.

Between counter scrimmages, go to the powder room a time or two. Kick your shoes off (if it's a room that lends itself to such informality) or sit at the dressing table for a few moments while you re-do your make-up.

Never shop until you're overcome by exhaustion. This is the season to be merry. If you're too tired to be pleasant with your husband and children, you'll be defeating the spirit of Christmas.

Last but not least, repeat after me: "I will never again be caught so late in the season with so little accomplished, so help me!"

Deck Your Home With Imagination

By ELISE EMERY
L. P-T Staff Writer

You've waited until this last minute to dress your house for the holidays?

Borrow ideas from Mrs. Gerald V. Martin, professional florist and decorating consultant for some of Hollywood's most glamorous parties.

"From items readily bought at stationers, art supply stores, hobby shops or even variety stores, you can create arrangements vibrant with color, elegant in design," said the slender, silver-blond.

The Martin home is one of seven on the "Christmas in Rossmoor" homes tour, presented by Rossmoor Woman's Club today from noon to 6 p.m. Mrs. Martin has chosen "Angels of the Orient" as theme for her contemporary style home at 12372 Foster Road.

In her 25 years as a florist on both the East and West Coasts and in Hawaii, she has done decorating for such events as the wedding of Henry Ford II, the coming out party which introduced debutante Delphine Dodge to society ("we'll never again see such an era of elaborate private parties") and numerous charity balls.

AS SHE completed holiday plans for her home, Mrs. Martin described methods she used to create the angel display, set against a rich blue background.

Angels are made of heavy white cardboard, poster board weight. Decide first on proportions you want. For her arrangement, mounted on a 3 by 5 foot background, Mrs. Martin cut strips 2 1/2 by 27 inches.

You will need two strips for the body and two for the arms, which are about half the size of the body pieces. Round off the edges to form long, narrow ovals. Cut six body-size pieces of cardboard for the wings, but trim corners off on the diagonal. Wings also may be made from ribbon.

THE HEAD is a white, satin-finished Christmas ornament, with eyes and mouth (no nose) painted with enamel. Glue on a copper scouring pad for hair and add a gold doily at the back to form a halo.

Wrap the hanging or "neck" end of the ornament with adhesive tape, then with wire; staple the wire to one end of the first body piece.

Decorate the two smaller arm strips with braid, ribbon, rick rack or scraps of fabric to make sleeves. Use your imagination here, adding sequins, tiny jewels or any decoration you wish. Staple the arms just beneath the head, add wings sprayed with gold and glittered.

Dress the second body piece in similar fashion, then staple it to the top of the first strip, covering neck and arm joinings. Add a jeweled ornament or bow of narrow velvet tubing to cover staples.

NOW for the background. Use plastic glue—no other kind is satisfactory—to join sections of styrofoam, if you cannot find a piece as large as you need. Cover this base with organza, or a similar material, in the color of your choice. Fasten the fabric to the back of the styrofoam with dressmaker pins.

Cut styrofoam in an irregular shape to form a base for the cloud. With an apple-corer make holes through which you can push electric twinkie lights. Mount the cloud at the top of the background styrofoam with florists' fern pins or short pieces of wire bent in hairpin shape. Cover cloud and lights with puffed-out angel hair. Pin completed angel figures beneath the cloud.

BECAUSE the finished arrangement is lightweight, it may easily be hung over a fireplace, as Mrs. Martin will use it, or for dramatic effect on a wall.

For accent in her home decorations, Mrs. Martin will use topiary trees like (Cont. on Page W-8, Col. 5)

Big Brims Get Straw Vote for Spring

... also given top billing are drape shapes, flower towers

By MARY ELLIS
L. P-T Fashion Editor

Big brims are out to win the straw vote for spring.

Some are big enough to turn cartwheels. Others make a portrait, frame the face, shade the orbs, roll up around high crowns, slouch over one eye or push back to show the hairline.

They play ring around the rosie (also pansy, chrysanthemum, daisy or just any posie) on chapeaux of meline, straw cloth, nylon braid, bali pan (a smooth straw; finer than bali buntle) and toyo.

Proving that spring millinery will be brimful of fashion, designing members of the California Millinery Guild have given top billing to "hatter hats."

But also in the running are chiffon wraps and drapes, tailored pillboxes, high-rising turbans and chic cloches.

Wisteria sets the pace for pastels in California-designed millinery. But every hue is represented—including blues and greens, rosy romance shades, blacks and whites (always popular), as well as flag-waving Americana combinations of red, white and blue.

And, democratic-like, there's a style for every woman.

Junior League Debs Are Impressive

Traditionally, debutantes are endowed with grace, good looks and social acumen; and statistics on the 1961 Junior League presenters reveal these qualities with some noteworthy additions.

Of the 13 young women who will be presented formally on Dec. 27 at Pacific Coast Club, 10 are active sportswomen — including a national champion sharpshooter, a scuba diving instructor, swim show soloist, dog trainer and another who gives trampoline exhibitions.

Indoors as well as out the girls are impressive. All attend college and share among them 10 different alma maters and 5 national sororities. Six of the debs won top state scholastic awards in high school, and six are artists of no mean talent — one is a ceramist of national recognition and another has exhibited water colors at the Los Angeles County Fair.

Their ages range from 17 to 20; their heights from 5'2" to 5'9"; and their career plans include law, foreign language, marine biology, business administration, music, psychology and education. Among them they have eight sisters and eight brothers; six have traveled or lived abroad; five are daughters of Junior Leaguers.

and her family lived in Salsburg, Germany. Linda Bock, a 90-pound 18-year-old, packs a 15-pound target gun. In 1959, with the Randal Team composed of 10 top women shooters in the U.S., she won an international trophy. Now at U of New Mexico, Linda majors in advanced Spanish, is an Alpha Chi Omega pledge, and a member of the National Rifle Association.

BLOND, blue-eyed Sharon Dach was Alpha Phi "pledge of the month" in October at LBSC. Joan Reinhalter, a Pi Beta Phi pledge at USC, has interests ranging from baseball and clothes designing to her English major. Four of the debutantes are Californians of long standing background. Vicki Durham's maternal grandparents crossed the plains in 1851 and were active in the founding of San Bernardino. Vicki, who was a Kappa Kappa Gamma pledge at Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., currently studies at LBCC. Michelle Murphy's grandparents also traveled the covered wagon trail and helped in development of San Diego. Michelle is a Delta Gamma pledge at U of Arizona.

Lesley Pearsall, whose maternal grandparents were long-time Long Beach residents, is a Kappa Kappa Gamma pledge at U of Oregon and president of the freshman dormitory. Sue Buell's family name can be found in Buellton, Calif. Sue is the third generation of her family to attend Occidental College.

Blond, and poised, Marie-Louise de Bronac comes from a family whose service to France is a proudly cherished tradition. She is a Delta Gamma and an education major at UC, Santa Barbara.

CHARLSIE Huey has a national instruction certificate for scuba diving and studies marine biology at Oregon State where she has pledged Pi Beta Phi. While at Poly, she won the Exchange Club scholarship and national scholastic recognition.

Rebecca Jackson and Kathleen Sheeran both went from Poly to LBCC, both are 18. Rebecca, a blue-eyed brunette with naturally curly hair, likes dramatics; Kathleen enjoys sewing and water skiing.

All 13 of the girls have been meeting since August to share plans and parties in anticipation of their formal debut during the Christmas holidays.

Tristram R. Swan and Carolyn Dyer Are Wed

Carolyn Donita Dyer and Tristram Robert Swan exchanged nuptial vows at a recent double ring ceremony at First Brethren Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Dyer, 3849 Rose Ave., wore a gown of white peau de soie trimmed with Alencon lace and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and orchids.

Her attendants were Mrs. George Christian, matron of honor, and Questa Swan, the bridegroom's sister, Carol Abbey, Mrs. Lyle Marvin, the bride's sister, and Mrs. Rodger McPheeters, bridesmaids.

Dennie Jean Marvin, the bride's niece, was flower girl. Others in the wedding party were Quentin B. Swan, the bridegroom's twin brother, best man, and Lyle Marvin Jr., Brian Avers, Glenn Harmonson and Duane Swanson, ushers.

BOTH THE bride and bridegroom, who is son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace B. Swan of Canoga Park, were graduated from Brethren High.

She attended Pasadena City College School of Nursing where she was secretary of the Student Nurse's Association and was graduated from Memorial Hospital's School of Nursing.

Mrs. Tristram R. Swan

The bridegroom was graduated from Cerritos College and now attends LBSC. He also was graduated from Los Angeles Sheriff's Academy.

The newlyweds are at home in Long Beach following a honeymoon in Palm Springs.

ALL WE WANT . . .

For Christmas, a fur coat, diamond pin or new car would be fine—but first of all we want a dance, say Bachelorette Club members (left) Pat Brinkerhoff and Lois Williams. And Santa's all for the idea—promises there will be dance, in fact, it's slated to take place this Saturday at Lafayette Hotel at 7 p. m.

Bachelorettes to Greet Holidays With Dance

Red and white Christmas decor will lend enchantment to the regal setting of Lafayette Hotel Red Velvet Room Saturday evening when Bachelorettes Club of Long Beach stages its annual holiday dinner dance.

Guests will be greeted by Patricia Brinkerhoff, president, and Lois Williams, vice president and dance chairman.

Invitations for the event, which opens with cocktails at 7 p.m., followed by dinner at 8 p.m., have been extended to inactive and honorary Bachelorettes as well as members of Auxiliary to Children's Memorial Hospital.

Max Laurence and his orchestra will provide music for dancing until 1 a.m. Kay Cayley, with Connie Lu Berg as accompanist, will lead Christmas carolling during intermission.

chestra will provide music for dancing until 1 a.m. Kay Cayley, with Connie Lu Berg as accompanist, will lead Christmas carolling during intermission.

DECORATIONS for the event will feature a 15-foot flocked white tree prominently displayed before a huge mirror. Table centerpieces will consist of feather trees gleaming with dainty ornaments.

The decorations will be sold at the close of the dance with proceeds to be donated to the Auxiliary to Children's Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Harrison Moore, auxiliary president, will assist in the sale.

Cordes, Gurley Are Wed

Beta Sigma Phi Sets Yule Fete

Long Beach Area Council of Beta Sigma Phi will have its annual Christmas party Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Tropical Room of Elks Lodge.

A champagne cocktail hour will precede dinner; following will be a brief business meeting and exchange of gifts. Mrs. Thomas Carter is in charge of arrangements.

Ruth Ann Gurley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Gurley, 167 E. 67th St., became the bride of John W. Cordes, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallace Cordes, 5451 El Jardin St., at a recent ceremony in North Long Beach Community Presbyterian Church.

The bride, attended by Mrs. Jean Jones, matron of honor, wore a gown of white satin and carried a cascade bouquet centered with a white orchid.

Both she and the bridegroom were graduated from Woodbury College. He attended Wilson High where he was a member of Lambda Sigma and LBCC where he was affiliated with Order of Tong.

She was secretary of Alpha Sigma Rho at Jordan.

INCLUDED in the wedding party were William Anderson, best man; Shelly Haven, flower girl; Marshall Bell, ring bearer; and Ronald Cordes, Michael Loegering and Russ Hill Jr., ushers.

Following a honeymoon in Northern California, the newlyweds will make their home in Downey.

Violet Society

African Violet Society will have its annual Christmas party and gift exchange at 1 p.m. Thursday in Linden Hall. Mrs. Dorothy Powell succeeded Mrs. Florence Mitchell as president during the group's November meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Ewens

Elderweds Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Ewens of 3440 Josie Ave., will be honored at a party celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary next Sunday.

The party will take place from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in El Dorado Park Clubhouse, 2800 Studebaker Rd.

Married in Hallsville, Mo., in 1911, the Ewens lived on a farm near Centralia, Mo., until 1920 and then moved to Belleville, Kan., where Ewens worked for a railroad company for 32 years. Upon his retirement the couple came to Long Beach where they now make their home.

THEY ARE members of the Christian Church, Eastern Star and Masons.

They have four children Mrs. Louis Leonard, Santa Monica; Mrs. Joe Vanous, Wilmington; James V. Ewens, Los Angeles; and Richard D. Ewens, Poway, and seven grandchildren.

Little Club--A Heritage of Service Then and Now

"Remember when" will be keystone words when members of Little Club celebrate their 30th anniversary Tuesday. The event will be a combined birthday and Christmas luncheon at 12:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. John W. Buol, 4251 Pacific Ave.

They will recall how they first happened to join together. It was in December of 1931, a year of confusion and deepening depression, that Mrs. Roland Swaffield invited a group of friends to her home for luncheon. It was not designed as a social function but as a serious working session to decide how they could best help the jobless through the Press-Telegram's Christmas Cheer Fund at the holidays.

On the spot it was decided help just at Christmas was not enough. They organized into a club to give year-round aid, deciding to make their main contribution by providing layettes for families without means of securing their own.

Later, Little Club branched out into various phases of community philanthropy.

FOR INSTANCE, they purchased this city's first infant respirator and presented it to Seaside Hospital; they bought orthopedic equipment for Tichenor Clinic and volunteered their services as receptionists and office workers.

In 1942 members assumed charge of the Municipal Service Men's Club canteen. With assistance of friends and neighbors they manned the canteen for 10 hours a day, 7 days a week, providing homelike food and friendship to a steady stream of men and women in uniform. For the 42 months that Little Club administered the canteen an average of 500 service men and women were served daily. With the generous support of patriotic organizations and citizens $45,000 was raised to cover this operation.

Members recall with satisfaction how the club was one of the first co-sponsors with Municipal Art Center for an art show and reception. They purchased three winning canvases to present to the center as a nucleus for a permanent collection. They remember presenting a $1,000 check to Exceptional Children's Foundation making it possible to begin construction of the school building . . . of supporting hospital clinics, day nurseries, the Salvation Army, and a variety of other causes.

AT TUESDAY'S celebration the talk will not all be of remembering but of the future, too. New officers will pick up the challenge of guiding the club in continued efforts for the good of Long Beach.

Mrs. Laurence B. Updike will accept the president's gavel. Serving with her will be Mmes. Leslie E. Geary, Frances Singleton Able and Paul H. Dudley. Mrs. James G. Craig Sr., the outgoing president, will officiate.

WILD WAVES SAY . . .

By Iola Masterson • I, P-T Women's Editor

FLYING high with happiness—like you know, man, out of this world—are a guy named Philip Ober and our own former localite Jane Westover. Reason for all this successful orbiting is that they'll be married Dec. 30 in Beverly Hills.

Phill is a well known "Like art, man" motion picture and television actor. You may not recall his name from cast credit lists but you'd know his face.

Standing up with the couple will be Ralph and Alice Bellamy. Jane's daughter and son-in-law, Marj and Chet Smith, will be present—in fact Chet will give the bride away. Invited to attend the intimate ceremony are Virginia and "Ches" Braley of Long Beach and Bobby and Bob Gray, Rolling Hills.

Filmland guests will include Norma and Burt Lancaster, K. T. Stevens and her husband, Hugh Marlowe.

The newlyweds will spend a New Year's honeymoon weekend with the Bellamys and Jimmie and "Bill" Cagney at the Cagney's desert home near Twentynine Palms.

A SUSPENSEFUL day (there were so many gorgeous door prizes) a merry one (over 950 women present) a brilliant day (style show, decorations and tree display all terrific) at Downtown Opti-Mrs. annual Candy Cane Lane holiday party Tuesday at Lafayette Hotel.

In fetching bibs and tuckers spotted Ariene Lockyer, Lynn Powers, Navis Calderella, Eileen Wetmore, Marian Magree, Ruth Grisham, Lei Smith, Georgia Nelson, Olga Springer and Vera Springer, Dottie Whitford, Bobbie Carlson, Ethel Case, and, as an educated guess, about 962 others.

SHORT OF being struck slightly loco or seriously out of town, no one on the guest list ever wants to miss Marvella and Bob McNulty's big, merry holiday cocktail buffet—an affair of next Sunday. The party is traditionally for Armed Services people and city officials since ol' Bobbo is Armed Services chairman for the City of Long Beach.

DISCOVERED that localities Artie and Al Stevenson and Ethel Severson were guests at a most fascinating, glamorous party. They were dinner guests of Queen Nazli, Queen Mother of Egypt (her son is King Farouk) and of her daughter, Princess Fathia with her husband, Riad Ghali, at their family home in Beverly Hills. It was an exceedingly continental affair.

RAIN OR fog, snow or sleet, even a touch of unseasonal heat, won't stay more than 100 from their rounds tonight. "Their rounds" meaning a round-trip trek to Gwen and Dean Jones home for holiday open house being co-hosted by Charlene and Jim Fruthey.

HERE IT IS! The oldest known local bridge club meeting consistently over the years. Haven't checked m' crystal ball but can't imagine that we'll find one to beat it. Helen Curry heeded my plea for information about the senior club.

The scoop is this. It started in 1919 when a group of former friends, all graduates of Poly High, served together in the Red Cross Tea Room and served as an RC auxiliary to make layettes for the Belgians during World War I.

From patriotism the gals went on to bridge and have never ceased either. The original gang included Mona (Hershey) Beck, Lillian (Lynds) Brunn, Helen (Deems) Curry, Dorothy (Funnell) De Coudres, Madeline (Lupher) Gardiner, Louise (Stewart) Garner, Rena (Darling) Kennedy, Bille (Teepie) Smith, Dorothy (Swartz) Updike, Emily (Stewart) Mencke, Mayro (Schoeneman) Hall — she now lives in Santa Cruz — and Elta (Jones-Wonder) Yates, who lives in Sierra Madre but still joins the card table cronies at every opportunity.

Sue (Richardson) Teepie is the only "newcomer". The members, who will celebrate their 43rd anniversary as a club in January, say that they haven't got a secret in the world from each other. How could they? They're all grandmothers now; in fact, Lillian is a great-grandmother.

"SIMPLY gorgeous" raved guests of Helen Hamman, Virginia Avery and Lois Fellowes of their Christmas tea at Virginia Country Club Thursday. Most spectacular part of their decor were the red and green bead leis the three made (all by hand, no less) for the assistants. They were wreathed with holly (they painstakingly cut all the prickles off so don't worry) and red baubles.

Simonds-Fota Vows Said

More than 400 guests attended the recent wedding ceremony at Saint Anthony's Catholic Church uniting Loretta Frances Fota and Robert Bruce Simonds.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Augustine Fota of 4317 Stanbridge Ave., was attended by Helen Gibbons, maid of honor, and Geraldine Smorol, Linda Smith, Lois Knoll, Marjorie Simonds and Mrs. Barbara Newton, bridesmaids.

For the ceremony the new Mrs. Simonds chose a gown of ivory silk taffeta and a crown of seed pearls with fly-away silk illusion veil of ivory.

Her bouquet was composed of two dozen white roses intermingled with stephanotis.

THE BRIDEGROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Adams Simonds of Los Alamitos, was attended by William Simonds III, his brother, as best man. Ushers were William Fota, James Starrick, Thomas Welch, William Perry and Richard Robbins.

Both the bride and bridegroom were outstanding high school students. She was awarded a scholarship to Immaculate Heart College for Women while at St. Anthony High, along with Bank of America, DAR and Good Citizenship awards. She was active in a number of clubs and was student body and junior class president and prom princess.

FOLLOWING STUDY at Immaculate Heart College, the bride enrolled at LBSC where she now is a senior. She is a member of Tri Delta and Little Sisters of Minerva.

Mrs. Robert Simonds and is included on the Dean's List.

The bridegroom, an alumnus of Wilson High School, was graduated from Long Beach City and State Colleges. At City he was Tilsman Council President and active in sports. At LBSC he was president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon's pledge class and a member of the varsity crew for one year.

The newlyweds departed for a honeymoon in San Francisco and Las Vegas following a reception in their honor at Long Beach Yacht Club. They will reside in Bellflower.

Zubers, Wed 60 Years, Honored at Open House

A festive open house next Sunday, 2 to 5 p.m., will celebrate the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zuber, 3634 E. Fourth St.

It will be held in the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Simpson, 413 Ocean Ave., Seal Beach.

Co-hostesses will be the couple's other two daughters, Mmes. Peter Gaden and Albert Schaefer, both of Long Beach.

ASSISTING to greet the 100 hidden friends and relatives will be grandchildren of the honorees, Mrs. Lloyd Knott, Sue and Monty Gaden. Also present will be their great-grandchildren, Shelly and Nancy Knott and Kim Gaden.

Masses of yellow and gold chrysanthemums, as well as arrangements of yellow roses, will be used throughout the Simpson home to carry out a gold and white motif.

The Zubers said their wedding vows in 1901 in Gettysburg, S. D., with the bride's father, the Rev. M. E. Bacon, officiating.

John Simpson Wed in Santa Monica

A honeymoon trip to Yosemite and Monterey followed the recent marriage ceremony in First Methodist Church of Santa Monica uniting Anne Lenore Couchois and John Frederick Simpson.

The bridegroom is the son of long-time Long Beach residents Mr. and Mrs. Matthew C. Simpson, 4455 Myrtle Ave. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs.

Maxim Bryan Couchois of Malibu.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the new Mrs. Simpson wore a peau de soie and organza gown, fashioned with floral appliques on panel inserts. A pearl and lace crown held her fingertip length veil and she carried butterfly orchids with stephanotis.

Attending the bride were her sisters, Kathy, maid of honor, and Carol, bridesmaid. Both wore gowns of autumn haze peau de soie and carried yellow and bronze mums. Completing the wedding party were Richard W. Dickinson, best man, and Donald H. Witort and Daryl Uecker, ushers.

THE NEWLYWEDS now are at home in San Jose while the bride completes studies toward her February graduation from San Jose State College. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

The newlyweds then will return to Southern California while the bridegroom completes his studies in economics at U.C.L.A. A member of Beta Theta Pi at that school, he recently was released from six months national guard duty at Fort Ord.

Reflective Quality Is Desirable

A mature or older woman can be just as fashionable today as she was during her younger years, providing she practices the correct art of applying her make-up.

To keep from looking overly made-up, one beauty authority advises paying particular attention to choice of cosmetic colors.

Primarily, choose shades that have a high light reflective quality. These will help diffuse any lines or wrinkles, whereas darker colors tend to cause shadows which accentuate these conditions.

USE FACIAL make-up with an undertone of pink or rose to supplement any loss of skin color. Cheek rouge should be in pastel shades of pink or coral. For the eyes, the new powder eye shadow is an ideal light reflective requisite. Lips should be flattered with the attractive, soft shades of matte finish lipstick.

Holiday for Sote

Buffet supper, dancing and gift exchange will be on the party agenda Saturday when Sote Club members and guests gather for their annual holiday celebration in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kustura, 7139 Rosebay St.

"The First Lady of the World," Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, will visit Long Beach Tuesday.

Preceding her public lecture in Convention Hall of Municipal Auditorium at 8:30 p.m., she will be honored at an informal reception and banquet in the Red Velvet Room of Lafayette Hotel.

Both the banquet and lecture are sponsored by the Kahn-Guggenheim Forum of Temple Israel under the chairmanship of Irving Schneider and Dr. Julius Robbins.

Tickets for Mrs. Roosevelt's lecture, "Will America Live Up to her Role of World Leadership?" will be available Monday at the Trans American Agency, 143 W. Ocean Blvd., from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Reservations by phone will be held at the Auditorium box office until 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

THE LECTURE is being presented as a public service with no partisan or sectarian implications, states Irving Schneider, chairman of the sponsoring committee.

Banquet arrangements have been made under the direction of Mrs. Revan d'Komaroff assisted by Mmes. Gottlieb and Alexis Jacobowsky.

Mrs. Jacobowsky, president of Southern California State Council of American Association for the United Nations, a personal friend of the guest of honor, currently is serving on the National Board of Directors of AAUN. Mrs. Roosevelt is chairman.

Decorate for Holiday Program, Speech on Agenda for Christian Women's Club

You can make one from the simplest of materials.

PUSH a wooden dowel into a styrofoam ball about the size of a baseball and secure it with plastic glue. Set the dowel in a paper cup filled with plaster of paris mixed to a thick, creamy consistency. Allow plaster to harden, then place in any inexpensive container. The one pictured is ceramic vase from the dime store. Spray container and dowel with gold paint.

Make roses of tissue paper in harmonizing or contrasting colors. For each flower use a strip of tissue 6 by 20 inches. Place the paper horizontally. Fold over 2½ inches. You will now have a strip 3½ by 20 inches with a single thickness at the bottom.

WITH THIS single edge as a base, fold one end of the tissue around your left forefinger in a little funnel shape. Wind tissue around your finger, crushing and pinching it in at the bottom. When rose is completed, hold it firmly, slip it off your finger, then wrap the base with fine wire.

Next, use wire to fasten flower to a toothpick or florist's pick. When all roses are completed accent them lightly with glitter. You are now ready to assemble the tree.

Place the first blossom in the top center of the styrofoam ball. Add others symmetrically, designing as you proceed. Last, tuck gold leaves among the roses—but don't overdo this—use leaves sparingly for best effect.

For a wreath in your own color scheme, make roses from tissue paper but do not attach picks. You will need an 18-inch wire frame fashioned from a coathanger or bought at a florist's supply house.

THE FRILLY background is made of net in two colors. Use a yard-and-a-half of each color. Cut net into 6-inch strips, join pieces together and gather to fit frame. Tack the two ruffles of net together, then sew the frill to the frame with overcast stitches. Wire a gold leaf to each rose, then pin flowers around wreath. Finish with a three-color velvet bow at the top.

You will find more holiday ideas beautifully expressed in traditional and modern fashion at other homes on the Rossmoor tour, which will begin at the S. T. Lashbrooks, 11306 Loch Lomand Road.

Residences open today are those of Messrs. and Mmes. Alan Pollock, 11348 Wembley Road; Paul H. Hoffman, 3111 Donnie Ann Road; H. E. Stone, 11552 Donovan Road; Robert R. Gault, 2651 Piedmont Avenue; and William M. Couzens, 2702 Brimhall Drive.

Sylvia Andrew, professional florist-decorator, will demonstrate the making of Christmas decorations for the home at monthly meeting of the inter-denominational Christian Women's Club Wednesday.

Meeting will take place at noon in the Recreation Park Clubhouse, 4900 E. Seventh St.

Minetta Plescher, 430 Orlena Ave., is in charge of reservations which must be made before Tuesday noon. Rev. Jackie Burris, First Baptist Church, Los Angeles, will be the speaker.

Smith and Trower Names Are Linked

East Side Christian Church was setting for the recent marriage of Jennie Lee Trower and Richard Eugene Smith.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Holton Trower, 833 Atlantic Ave., and the late Benjamin Rush Trower, wore a gown of white peau de soie and carried a bouquet of rosebuds, carnations, stephanotis and lilies of the valley.

She was attended by Diane Mary Wilson as maid of honor. The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Lincoln Thomas Smith, 321 Pomona Ave., and the late Mr. Smith, chose Dwayne Wetzstein as best man. Arnold Hess, the bridegroom's brother, was usher.

THE NEW Mrs. Smith was graduated from Poly High where she was a member of Tajma. She was affiliated with Delta Delta Delta at LBSC.

The bridegroom was graduated from Wilson High and LBCC where he played varsity golf.

She Has Designs On Confirmed Bachelor

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: I'm a single, attractive female, age 23. I have a good job and work hard. There is a certain single male, Dr. X, in his early thirties, who makes frequent calls where I work.

I have known him, shall we say casually, for the past year. I have become more and more interested in dating him, but while he seems interested in me, it's never to the point of asking me to go out with him.

He is quite well off financially, but, cross my heart, it's his charm that gets me.

His brother says Dr. X is a "confirmed bachelor." He can stay a bachelor, as far as I'm concerned, if he'll just date me, his admirer.—BAFFLED BELLE

DEAR BAFFLED BELLE: I'm not against seeing snags set for eligible males, bless their selfish little egos.

Soooo, knowing ahead of time that you run the risk of being turned down, so no pride goeth before a fall, ask him to join a group for a dance, or dinner, or picnic, or movie party, or some such.

Remember, he can only say no, and there's a chance—yes, a chance—for a yes. Let me know!—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: I feel like crying. I love my husband very much, but I need help! You see, he's ashamed of me.

He doesn't like the way I look, the clothes I buy, the way I drive, bowl, or play cards. He has criticized me so much I'm beginning to feel like a lopsided piece of furniture instead of a wife.

Hardly a day passes I don't dissolve in tears because of his rudeness.

Oh, he's a good husband in many ways—doesn't drink or stay out nights, is generally good to me. But how am I supposed to feel when he keeps saying, "I wish you were like this, or like that?"

I'm beginning to feel like—MRS. MISFIT

DEAR MRS. MISFIT: Maybe you'd be more congenial if you made him feel slightly misfitted, too. Let him know he has a few faults, too. And let him

What's on the Menu?

FRIDAY: Baked fish, tossed green salad with Julianne cheese, strawberry sauce with whipped topping, whole wheat bread and butter, Christmas cookies and milk.

The above items make up the elementary children's lunch 30c.

JUNIOR-SENIOR HIGH
MONDAY: Barbecued beef on a bun, whole kernel corn, raspberry sauce with whipped topping, oatmeal cookie and milk.

TUESDAY: Creole noodles, buttered spinach, apricot halves, holiday bread and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Oven fried chicken, creamy coleslaw, peach-cranberry cup, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

THURSDAY: Beef-ricer casserole, buttered green beans, spicy applesauce with whipped topping, hot buttered French bread and milk.

FRIDAY: Baked fish with creamed potatoes or Mexican pie, garden peas, fruit cup supreme, Christmas cake, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

Newlyweds Residing in Washington

Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. James W. Knehan (nee Lynne Hall Lewis) are residing in Everett, Wash., following their recent wedding at Chapel of the Wedding Bells, Bellflower.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Lewis, 5312 Killdee St.; the bridegroom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Martel Field, 3320 E. Second St.

FOR THE ceremony the bride wore a white waltz length gown of Chantilly lace. She was preceded to the altar by Cynthia Hachmeister, maid of honor, and Mrs. Gary Lewis, bridesmaid.

Completing the wedding party were Gary Bell, best man, and Gary Lewis, usher.

The bride is a graduate of Millikan High School; the bridegroom, currently serving with the U. S. Air Force, is an alumnus of Poly High. Both attended LBCC.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Knows Sweet Smell of Success

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L. F. Food Editor

His college yearbook might have read—"The magnetism of his personality will always draw people to him."

We're speaking of H. Gregory Thomas, today's Chef of the Week, and president of Chanel, Inc., the company whose product is the dream of every woman.

Though Thomas was born in New York, his education was cosmopolitan, encompassing Switzerland, France, Spain and England, as well as the United States. With an M.A. from Cambridge, England, and a doctorate of law from the Universities of Paris and Salamanca, he had his own office, practicing Public International Law in Paris, where he lived 14 years. At the close of this period in his life, he represented one of the South American countries at the League of Nations in Geneva.

In 1934, Thomas gave up his law practice to handle the affairs in America of one of the fine French perfume companies. He later participated in the founding of the Toilet Goods Association, became first director of its board of standards and today is a lifetime honorary director. It was in 1939, that he became associated with Chanel, Inc.

PROBABLY one of the most outstanding and adventurous feats, of his career, and one which made a real contribution to the perfume business in the United States, occurred in 1940, when Thomas brought many essential oils out of France to this country. It was during the crucial wartime period.

During World War II, after serving the Office of Strategic Services, Thomas became special assistant to the American Ambassadors to Spain and Portugal, serving in these countries from 1942 through 1945, when he returned to the perfume industry.

That Thomas has continued to display keen interest in the field of America's foreign affairs is evidenced by the fact that since 1948, he has been a director and member of the Free Europe Committee participating in the development of Radio Free Europe which broadcasts to satellite countries behind the Iron Curtain. Its activities are well known through the nationwide campaign of the Crusade for Freedom.

A CHEVALIER of the French Legion of Honor, he is a director and member of the Executive Committee of the Federation des Alliances Francaises.

A gourmet and a wine connoisseur, our "chef" is a member of several great

H. Gregory Thomas

French wine societies: grand master of the Commanderie de Bordeaux and Grand Officer of the Chevaliers du Tastevin, the famous Burgundy wine group.

While Thomas is a big man, both in stature and accomplishments, we assure you all the big pots, 'n pans 'n kettles pictured are not necessarily a part of his cooking ventures. For instance, his Chicken Livers Granada. Here's his recipe:

CHICKEN LIVERS GRANADA
3 slices bacon, diced
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
3/4 pound chicken livers, cut in bite-sized pieces
2 tblsp. flour
1/2 cup chicken stock
1/2 cup dry red table wine
1/2 cup sliced ripe olives
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1 tblsp. dry or medium sherry
Salt and pepper to taste
Cook bacon, onion and green pepper together slowly in a large, heavy skillet until bacon begins to brown. Add chicken livers; saute over medium heat for about five minutes, turning livers often. Sprinkle with flour; add stock and red wine; cook, stirring gently until mixture boils and thickens. Add olives, parsley, sherry, salt and pepper. Serve piping hot, without delay. Serves 4.

HOLIDAY IS HIGH POINT IN CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

Liberal Arts

Christmas vacation fever already has hit the Long Beach City College Carson Street campus, but students still have a week of classes (including tests and term paper due-dates) to look forward to, along with seasonal activities.

Preregistration for the spring term continues, with Priority II enrollment (for those with 17-34 units of college work) starting Monday.

Holiday events this week include a candy cane sale (Tuesday) and AWS coed snacktime (Wednesday), annual Faculty Club Christmas Tea (Wednesday afternoon) and annual "Red and Green Day" festivities Friday.

Associated Women Students are sponsoring all of the aforementioned events except, of course, the faculty party—which is being hosted by the physical education department.

Fashions from local shops will be modeled by LBCC students at the snacktime, set for 11 a.m. Kris Cunningham is the chairman in charge of the candy cane sale, proceeds from which go to the AWS scholarship fund.

Friday's "Red and Green Day" will include a Christmas sing at 11 a.m. in the student lounge, along with a college choir concert. Refreshments will be served in the quad after the program, according to committee chairman Shaula Sauerbier.

Business, Technology

Christmas programs also are predominant this week on the LBCC Business and Technology Division campus.

All ASB members are invited to the Inter-Club Council Christmas party at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the gymnasium. Assisting in various parts of the production are Norsemen (door committee), Sigma (decking the hall), Christian Fellowship (hosts, table arrangements), Pacifian Society (decorations for serving tables) and the Airframe and Powerplant Club (providing a 15-foot Christmas Sock).

The ASB Council has engaged the Chuck Hix Orchestra to play for dancing, and Bowling Club is in charge of entertainment. Club members will escort independents to the party as their guests.

In addition to seasonal community service projects already noted here, Voksens are making "sock dolls" for the children in hospital welfare wards. Sigma had a bake sale and is helping with the Leukemia Fund campaign. Members of Electrical Industrial Regents devoted many hours to decorating the tall pine tree in front of the T-Building on the Pacific Coast Highway

Casting Club

Christmas will be celebrated by Long Beach Women's Casting Club at a party, 12:30 p.m. Saturday, in the Compton home of Mrs. Earl Thomas, 14826 Williams Ave. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Jennie Bishop, 5017 E. Broadway.

It's Human to Talk Too Much

CHICAGO (AP) — Women talk too much, admits a dis-taff researcher from Michigan State University. But it's just one more sign that they show more human concern than men do. "Communication is a quality that is distinctly human," Dr. Elizabeth M. Drews told Girl Scout lead-ers recently at a regional conference here. Garrulity is just one more quality ascribed by men as a weak-ness that could be turned into strength if given the proper guidance.

The Michigan educator suggested that women put their talents for human concern to helping the under-privileged in our own coun-try, the underdeveloped abroad in such fields as edu-cation, social services, and the medical profession.

Major & Minor Notes

LISA DELLA CASA WINS PLAUDITS IN SOUTHLAND

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P. T. Music Critic

There is a word in the German language which cannot be adequately translated because it combines too much. The word is "gemutlich" and it means homelike, kindly, cozy, genial and friendly. That was the atmosphere all about us recently when I interviewed the world-famous soprano, Lisa Della Casa, in a little bungalow right under the mountains in North Hollywood.

The "gemutlich" spirit was felt at once as her handsome husband, Dragans (which means "darling" in Yugoslavic), came to the car to greet us. Two years ago Lisa Della Casa made a great impression upon me when I heard her sing Mimi in "La Boheme" with the San Francisco Opera. So, when I knew she was to sing a recital in Pasadena a few weeks ago I was in the second row.

LISA gets "under one's skin." On the recital stage she combined her luscious singing with ingratiating wiles of charm and winning personality. You felt you had known her all your life. Then came "Die Meistersinger" at the Shrine Auditorium with the San Francisco and her Eva captivated me anew. No shy German fraulein was this Eva! She was impulsive, young and adorable. Her costumes were beautiful and she sang with golden liquid tone. Having sung Eva myself, I know the hazards of the difficult quintet. Miss Della Casa's voice vaulted the whole ensemble in purest vocalism. I sent her my rave review the next day, and the day after her husband called me, inviting me to come and see them. How avidly I accepted THAT invitation!

EUROPEAN hospitality at once made itself felt. The table was spread with "goodies" and Vesna (which means "spring" in Yugoslavic), their charming 10-year-old daughter brought in the coffee. I usually do not eat between meals, but who could resist such kindness?

Lisa Della Casa is a handsome woman; perhaps 5 feet 6 inches tall and very slender. Her brown eyes sometimes take on a grey-green shade when she warms to her subject. She has beautiful white teeth and, with no makeup but lipstick, her shock of black hair accentuates an olive complexion. Both husband and wife apologized for their informal attire, but under a mountain, what could be more appropriate?

BEING of Italian descent, Lisa loves gay colors. She wore blue-green capris with a jacket in a deeper shade. The silk tunic blouse was cerise. I imagine these two people like our California casual living. On Lake Constantine in Switzerland where they have their fixed residence, their home is a palace of 30 rooms built of stone more than 700 years ago. It even has its own chapel.

"We are now planning to spend our summers there," Lisa informed us. "After all, we have to have some home life when the rest of the year is booked solid with singing engagements."

Farce Opens Friday at Off-Bdwy

A Don Juan character, killed while escaping from a situation arising from one of his amorous adventures and "returned to life" as the most beautiful woman in the world, is the subject of Off-Broadway's production opening Friday night.

Diane Weber will play Charlie in "Goodbye Charlie," the George Axelrod farce. Charlie's best friend, George, will be played by Milt Kogan and Rusty by Merrill Ann Hadden. Others in the cast are Carole MacLean, Bruce Roth and Larry MacLean. Fred Martin directs.

TRYOUTS for the forthcoming Off-Broadway Theater production of "The Immortalist," adapted from a novel by Andre Gide and A. Goetz, will be held at 2 p.m. today in the theater, 211 Lime Ave. Needed to complete the cast of the play, which John Williams will direct, are a young Arab boy, a confused young husband and several mature men.

Gifts From Galleries Say 'Merry Christmas'

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

A gift of art is appropriate for almost everyone—an art-loving friend, a favorite youngster, a business man (essential for office status these days), or that friend

"who has everything." Long Beach galleries are bursting with varieties and prices for every taste.

The Art Association Gallery in the Villa Riviera has a collection of 142 works, pictures and sculptures, priced from $5 to $95 with pleasant concentration in the $15 to $35 range. Many are excellent, too numerous to cite, actually; among them are some lovely paintings of flowers and landscapes as well as abstract works. Several artists of recognized stature are represented.

ART RENTAL at the Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., offers gift certificates which enable your recipient to make his or her own selection of a distinguished 3-month visitor for home or office. These begin at $5, insurance included.

John Martin, an expressionist painter of note and deep dedication, is holding his own "backyard sale" today from 2 to 5 p.m. at 420 Los Altos Ave. His oil paintings and drawings are marked 50 per cent below gallery prices. Martin, a painting professor at LBSC, is taking this drastic step to raise funds for his forthcoming sabbatical in Europe with his family. Several of the oils are of golfers.

VELTMAN Gallery, 5608 E. Second St., has special collections for Christmas-gifting: ceramics range from $3.50 upwards; drawings from $7.50; original prints by contemporary German artists from $3; oil paintings begin at $35. The consistently high quality of the artists presented by Veltman is widely recognized.

Florence Ames Gallery, 25 39th Place, has a collection of contemporary Japanese wood block prints priced from $10 up, and a selection of 18th century European tinted engravings beginning at $5.

While there are many more fine offerings in the local area, any of these mentioned can be given with assurance of quality and a sense of saying "Merry Christmas" in a most meaningful and personal way.

Chamber Music

A program of chamber music will be played at Long Beach Museum of Art Friday by Lillian Steuber, pianist; Alexander Murray, violinist; and Wendell Hoss, hornist.

The free concert, which will begin at 8 p.m., will include music by Pierre and Faure.

LBCC Slates Mexican Show

By ELISE EMERY
ARTS PASS EDITOR

A photographic exhibit circulated by the minister of foreign relations of Mexico, "4,000 Years of Mexican Architecture," will open Monday in Long Beach City College gallery, Faculty Avenue and Harvey Way.

The traveling show will be on view through Dec. 15 and, after Christmas vacation, from Jan. 2 to 17. Loaned through the consulate general of Mexico in Los Angeles, the exhibit was prepared in cooperation with the Society of Mexican Architects and the National School of Architects of Mexico.

Examples of contemporary Mexican folk art, loaned by Fred and Barbara Meiers, will augment the show.

Visiting hours in the gallery are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays; 9 a.m. to noon Fridays.

"SEATED GREEN TARA," a sculpture from Nepal cast in solid bronze, is master work of the month at the Museum of Art. John Weeks, educational curator, will discuss the work, which dates back to the 9th or 10th century, when the art appreciation section of AAUW meets Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. The lecture is open to the public.

To provide background information, Mrs. Gordon C. Thompson will review the history of Nepal. After the program, guides will conduct a tour of the museum where the "Arts of Nepal" are on display.

JACK RUTHERFORD, who recently opened the School of Fine Art at 1217 Atlantic Ave., will open a one-man show of his drawings and paintings with a reception today from 7 to 10 p.m.

Rutherford is a native of Long Beach and received his training from teachers in this area.

PAINTINGS by Loretta Ann and sculpture by Sam Michaels are on view at Academy Book Shop, 73 Atlantic Ave.

Two oils by Loretta Ann are in the Museum of Art's permanent collection; Michaels teaches painting and portraiture in the general adult division of Long Beach City College.

DICK SWIFT, assistant professor of art at Long Beach State College, will speak at a meeting of Orange County Art Association Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in Fullerton Public Library. A collection of his prints is on display at the library and will remain through Dec. 30, then will be taken to Orange library for a month's show.

PAUL BARTLETT of Los Gatos has an exhibit of drawings, "Haciendas of Mexico," in the art gallery at the University of Santa Clara. The artist is well-known in the Southland, especially in the Laguna area. He spent months sketching the old haciendas in this display, and is author of two novels, one dealing with Mexico.

FORTY paintings by some of Italy's foremost contemporary artists may be seen at the Alitalia Airlines office, 611 Wilshire Blvd. The collection is valued at more than $40,000. Included are works by such artists as De Chirico, Cagli, Guttuso, Marino Marini, Afro, Mirko, Santomaso, Clerici, Spazzapan, Campigli and Levi.

THE CALIFORNIA Water Color Show will continue through Dec. 30 at Pasadena Art Museum. Paintings by Lee Mullican, glass work by John Burton and drawings by Richard Diebenkorn and Frank Lobdell will remain through Jan. 17.

Schola Cantorum, Choir to Sing Christmas Concert

Schola Cantorum of Long Beach City College, assisted by the College Choir, will present its annual Christmas concert at 8:15 p.m. Friday in the college auditorium, under the direction of Wayne B. Gard.

Tickets will be available from choir members during the week or at the box office Friday night.

"The Magnificent" by J. S. Bach will be performed by the 145-voice Schola in the opening portion of the program. Soloists will be Ruth Lahr, mezzo soprano; Mary Jane Gard, soprano; Milton Sager, bass; Iris Eshelman, contralto; and Topper Smith, tenor.

IN THE SECOND half of the concert, the Schola will be joined by the choir in a presentation of The Feast of Lights, adapted by director

Gard from an old English cathedral service.

Making use of tableaux, the two choirs will sing traditional hymns and carols against a narrative background of the Christmas story. Narrator will be Kenneth Porter. Soloists will include Sharon NeNobs, Mrs. Eshelman, Janette Dill, Mary Frazer, Paul Ewert and Bob Guyett.

Assisting in production will be technical director James White, stage manager Fred Kobus, tableau coordinator Marlene Silverstone, and members of the LBCC Community Orchestra, directed by Gaylord Browne.

Koepenick to Climax Film Fare

The only comedy to come out of post-war Germany, "The Captain of Koepenick," will conclude Long Beach Film Society's fall series. The picture will be shown today at 5 and 7:30 p.m. in Long Beach State College Little Theater.

Set in the dashing atmosphere of Imperial Germany, the story concerns an old convict who in 1905 memorized the Prussian drill manual, then used it to embarrass the government. Though warm and gentle, the film uses humor and satire to lay bare the weaknesses of petty officials and of society.

COMPANION piece will be the Dutch short film, "Glass," a documentary by Bert Haanstra. In one 12-minute picture, he shows the art of glass-blowing and comments wittily on the superiority of man over machines.

Tickets will be sold at the box office before performances.

The film society is a non-profit organization affiliated with the LBSC Evenings on Campus program, UCLA theater arts department and the American Federation of Film Societies.

Revue Held Over

The Jewel Box Revue, featuring Lynne Carter, will be held over through New Year's Eve at the Music Box Theater, Hollywood at La Brea.

Buoyant Music on Concert Bill

Long Beach Symphony Orchestra will play a program of buoyant music, filled with brilliant color, tonight at 8:30 p.m. in Long Beach City College Auditorium.

Bizet's "Symphony in C Major" which is the opening number, bubbles over with fresh, spontaneous melodies. The composer, best known for his popular opera, "Carmen," wrote the symphony in his 17th year with all the exuberance of youth. However the symphony had to wait 80 years for a performance, which finally took place in Switzerland in 1935. Since then it has become a favorite in symphonic literature.

In contrast to the pleasing but uncomplicated harmonies of the Bizet Symphony, Stravinsky's "Firebird Suite" is intensely exciting music which uses all the resources of the orchestra, including the piano. It is derived from the score for a ballet introduced in Paris by the Ballet Russe in 1910, and was the work with which Stravinsky first achieved prominence.

THE BALLET text is derived from an old Russian legend recounting the story of Ivan, son of the Czar. The suite has six sections describing his adventures as he captures, then frees the magic bird. The Introduction, eerie and somber, is followed by the undulating music of the Dance of the Firebird. The oboe and the harp then play together the graceful melody of the Dance of the Princesses. By contrast, the next movement, the Dance of the Katchel, is demonic and savage. Next comes a gentle lullaby for the bassoon, then the Finale opens with a soft melody for horn solo.

From this point on, the music gains in intensity and excitement until a feverish section for strings brings the suite to a dramatic conclusion. This is important music, full of originality and charm, and exhibits a use of the orchestra that is both exquisite and brilliant.

LIKE BIZET when he wrote the symphony to be performed this evening, Mozart was only 17 years old when he composed the motet, "Exsultate, Jubilate." Marie Gibson, soprano, will sing this work which consists of two arias, separated by a recitative, and concluded with a magnificent Alleluja.

Miss Gibson was a featured soloist in the Hollywood Bowl this season and has an impressive list of successful appearances in opera and concert. She also will sing a group of arias by Verdi, including two from "A Masked Ball" and one from "Ernani."

Lauris Jones will conduct the concert, second in the 1961-1962 series. Season tickets for the remaining five concerts are available at important savings from Mrs. Fred Ohlen-dorf of the Long Beach Symphony Association. Single seats also may be reserved. The box office at Long Beach City College will open at 7 p.m.

Marie Gibson

Dates Set for Operas

The 1962 Bayreuth Festival of Wagnerian opera will extend from July 24 to August 27. Eight operas will be presented, including two complete "Ring" cycles, consisting of "Das Rheingold," "Die Walkure," "Siegfried" and "Goetterdaemmerung."

Four conductors have been retained for the festival: Karl Boehm, Wolfgang Sawallisch, Hans Knappertsbusch and Rudolf Kempe.

Other operas on the program are "Tristan und Isolde," "Lohengrin," Tannhaeuser and Parsifal. Complete schedules may be obtained from the German Tourist Offices, in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Montreal.

Alice Taylor Takes New Post

Alice Taylor, former manager of Southern California Symphony Association, has joined the James A. Doolittle Productions in an executive capacity.

Miss Taylor was manager of the Symphony Association for 10 years and for the past two years has been executive assistant to the boards of directors of the Symphony Association and the Hollywood Bowl Association.

Magnolia Sets 'Egg' Tryouts

Tryouts for "The Egg," modern French farce by Felicien Marceau, will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in Magnolia Theater, 2400 Magnolia Ave.

Needed to fill roles are several French men and women of all ages.

Dr. W. David Sievers, professor of drama at Long Beach State College, will direct.

COUNTER ACTION

Books Are Forever Gifts

By MARY NETH

If you are a book-lover, you've undoubtedly selected a few for Christmas gifts already. But just as a reminder, books are always the nicest of presents to give—and receive.

They come in all sizes, shapes and topics and fit any purse—from the budget-bound to the extravagant. And, best of all, books last for years both on the bookshelf and in the memories of those who receive them.

For Art Minded

Book of the day—David Douglas Duncan's "Picasso's Picassos" is ultimate in this year's crop of over-sized art books. Picasso's personal collection of own works is presented for first time: 101 paintings never before shown are reproduced in full, brilliant color, plus 536 black-and-white photographs. Book also contains 10,000 words of commentary and 32-page word-and-color photo-profile of artist. Before Christmas $24.95; then $30.

For scope, Horizon Book of Renaissance Art can't be equaled. Covers whole period with pictures plus running commentary. Beautifully done, excellent color photographs. Before Christmas $14.95; then $17.50.

A treasure for collectors. "Japanese Netsuke," artistic work in itself, is inspiration for those interested in art, orient or decorative ideas. Photographs of little, thumb-size Netsuke carvings are masterpieces in color and placement. $5.15. Bound in Batic, "Exotic Art" is book that's—exotic.

Christmas Party

St. Matthews Catholic Church will have its annual Christmas party next Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in the church cafeteria, Seventh Street and Temple Avenue. There will be a gift exchange and covered dish luncheon. Edith Farmer is chairman.

On Stage---

COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE, 3221 E. Anaheim St., dark for holidays. REPERTORY THEATRE, 4000 E. 11th St., 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday. MAGNOLIA THEATRE, 2400 Magnolia Ave., "The Egg" 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday; 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Saturday; 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Features dramatic photographs of ancient artifacts and sculpture. Beautifully put-together; magnificent end-papers. $13.49.

"The Art of Color" by Johannes Itten is one of most comprehensive and authoritative books on color ever written; will be treasured by artists and laymen alike. Fantastic illustrations tell all about color, its mixing, blending and the why's of personal preference. $27.50 before Christmas.

For the Gourmet

"Larousse Gastronomique," encyclopedia of food, wine and cooking by Prosper Montagne is book not only fascinating to read—articles on table service, food values, diet, history of food—but practical, too. The 1,100 pages contain 8,500 recipes, the result of three years of intensive work by staff of 20 experts. First American edition, $15 before Christmas; then $20.

Another cookery delight—"Spice Islands Cookbook"—makes one of giftiest gifts of year. Beautifully put-together with exquisite illustrations on buff paper, it's bargain at before-Christmas price of $4.95. More than 300 adventurous recipes included, plus special section on use of each spice, herb, seasoning.

For Men

For the man-about-the-garage—"Motors, Auto Repair Manual" is man-sized book that can't be other than hit, $8.90. Other books for men: "Modern Refrigeration and Air Conditioning," $7.45; "The Ship," a history from primitive craft to now they lived, how they became extinct, $8.95; "The World's History of the Sport's Car," $10.

For Children

Whimsy for small fry comes in large-size color books this Christmas. Especially delightful are such favorites as "Babar, the Colorful World of the Little Elephant," in French and English; "Peter Rabbit," Beatrix Potter illustrations and "Alice in Wonderland." Published in San Mateo—all are bound to please anyone from 6 to 60. $3 each.

For Everyone

Human engineering books for people who live in today's world of Miltowns, A bombs and breakdowns are popular interest catchers.

Along such lines—"People in Quandries" by Wendell Johnson, $6; and "Our Language and Our World," S. I. Hayakawa, $5.

Other special interests: "American Needlework," an outline of New World embroidery and stitchery from 16th to 20th century, $5.95; "A Pageant of Hats," fascinating story of chapeaux through the ages, $4.

Mrs. Michael Joel Fisher

Fisher and Cohen Wed; Living Here

Following a honeymoon in Palm Springs and Las Vegas, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Michael Joel Fisher (nee Carolyn Sue Cohen of Long Beach) are residing at 1750 Park Ave.

Their vows were read before 200 guests in an evening ceremony at the Elks Club.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cohen, 292 Corona Ave.; the bridegroom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Fisher, Highland Park, N. J.

WEARING a French import gown of satin and Chantilly lace, the bride was preceded to the altar by Mrs. Dan Newman, matron of honor; Maxine Sheekman, Wendy Van Winkle, Wilma Zide and Lynn Baskin, bridesmaids.

Completing the wedding party were Robert Fisher, best man; Larry Cohen, Stephen Freedman, Dan Newman and Marvin Baskin, ushers.

The new Mrs. Fisher, a graduate of Wilson High School, attended UCLA, where she was a member of Phi Sigma Sigma sorority. Her bridegroom was a member of Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity, also the varsity football and track teams at his alma mater, Rutgers University.

Pauper In Tailor-Mades

DEAR ABBY: When should a man tell his wife all about his financial affairs? Before marriage or after? I am going with a wonderful man (he's a widower and I am a widow) and he has asked me to marry him. He is good to me in every way, but he has one fault. He has tried to convince me that he has no money. It is not possible for a man to live the way he lives on what little money he claims he has. He told me he bought his car second-hand when I know he bought it new. He also tried to tell me that his suits are inexpensive ready-mades, when I KNOW he has them tailor-made. I would not be extravagant if I married him, but I resent being deceived. What do you make of it?—RESENTFUL.

DEAR RESENTFUL: If your friend thought as much of you as his bankroll, he wouldn't be trying to kid you. Don't expect him to improve after marriage. His type usually gets worse.

DEAR ABBY: I have a sister who has been going with this guy for the last year. She told me this morning that they planned to get married eventually but no date has been set yet. Then she said she hoped it would be soon because she thinks she is expecting. What kind of a wedding should she have under the circumstances?—SISTER.

DEAR SISTER: A quick one!

DEAR ABBY: My boss has lost three secretaries

in the past eight months because his wife insists on letting their 3-year-old child call him on the telephone all day long.

I wouldn't mind it once in a while, but the wife dials the number and, without asking for her husband, she hands the phone to the child and goes off somewhere. All I hear is "da da, da-dee, da-deeee" until I am about to go crazy. How can a girl get her work done? And when there are people in the office waiting for the boss, it is a joke. If this keeps up Secretary Number Four will be looking for another job.—TELEPHONE NURSEMAID.

DEAR NURSEMAID: Tell your boss that the calls from home are interfering with your secretarial routine and suggest he shape up his home front. If he doesn't do it, follow the three wise women.

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the young girl correcting older people's English reminded me of something that happened years ago.

I was in the company of several older people and a young high school girl, who kept correcting their English. Finally, a sweet little elderly retired school teacher leaned over and whispered something into the young girl's ear. She was as quiet as a mouse after that. I later asked the girl what the elderly lady told her. It was: "My child, it is better to have good manners than good English." Respectfully, JOPLIN.

Everybody's got a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, in care of this paper.

ABBY

Wins With Freak Hand

Sometimes a part score doesn't do a bit of good. Particularly if you are up against someone like Dave Carter of St. Louis, who, in addition to owning around 4,000 master points, is one of our best rubber bridge players.

Dave looked at his tremendous freak hand and decided in view of his opponents' part score that the proper thing was to bid it as slowly as possible.

Therefore, Dave started proceedings with a pass. After West's opening diamond and East's one heart response, Dave produced another pass.

His next step was to try two spades. West passed and, after East went to three diamonds, Dave went on to three spades.

NOW PUT yourself in West's position and remember that as West you don't get to see Dave's hand. Wouldn't you think that Dave was defending desperately? West did, and West doubled!

East thought of taking it out, but he also thought that Dave was desperate.

Double dummy defense could hold Dave to eight tricks and set him, but West opened the nine of hearts. Dave won the trick with his ace and returned the suit. East took the trick and led the king of clubs, whereupon the roof fell on him. Dave ruffed the club, ruffed a heart, ruffed another club, ruffed his last heart, then conceded one diamond and the ace of trumps.

NO. 1 VILLAIN HAS PROBLEM

Son of Bruce 'Frank Nitti' Gordon Asks for Tommy-Gun

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Television's public villain No. 1 is worried: his 13-year-old son wants a tommy-gun.

The TV villain is Bruce Gordon. But you probably know him better as Frank Nitti, Robert Stack's gruff adversary on ABC's "The Untouchables."

Nitti always is outwitted by Stack. But Gordon is a winner in the money department. As Gordon, even playing opposite Helen Hayes and Judith Anderson, he always wondered where his next job was coming from.

But as Nitti, he's become a personality. And you never met a bigger softie.

"I gave up smoking and whisky six months ago," the TV gangster said in a filmtown restaurant. Turning to a waiter, he said:

"Give me a glass of burgundy—on a single rock."

Gordon, a native of Fitchburg, Mass., and former New York actor, said he's happy with the Nitti part—even if he is a gangster.

"Sure, I'm glad to be doing it," he said. "I don't know why actors bellyache if they play a part more than a few times. It's success, isn't it? And that's what they want, isn't it?"

★ ★ ★

"I USED TO RUN into those complainers in New York all the time.

And I'd ask them what they were doing six months before, and they'd recall—nothing.

"The only thing I don't like about the part is that the kids tend to idolize us. My 13-year-old boy wants a tommy-gun. I ain't kidding. It's murder.

"I think he's got a deal on with the other kids—I think he sells them my old scripts. He asks if he can borrow them 'to show Richie across the street.' I say sure, and I never see them again."

Gordon, known on TV for his Nitti costume of pin-stripe suit and buttonhole flower, also has an 8-year-old son.

"But he doesn't watch the show," he said. "He's asleep. But as for the 13-year-old, I feel like asking him, 'Wouldn't you rather idolize an Albert Schweitzer?'"

"The only thing I'm afraid of is that he'll say, 'Who?'"

★ ★ ★
GORDON, A NAVY VETERAN of World War II, paid his way through New York's Geiger School of Dramatics by ushering at the Roxy and Palace theaters. His first acting job came as a spear-carrier in Max Reinhardt's production of "The Eternal Road" at the Manhattan Opera House in 1937.

The actor, who now has a home in the nearby San Fernando Valley with his family, lived and worked out of New York for 20 years.

"I came here in 1957," he said. "I could see where TV was going—to the coast. So I just turned the key in my apartment one day and left."

Despite his villainous TV face, he is no mug. He toured the world with Miss Anderson in "Medea." But his real recognition as a stage actor came after he did a small part in "The Lark"—a tale of Joan of Arc—with Julie Harris. He didn't want to do the part, but his friend Boris Karloff, also in the cast, convinced him to take it.

"Ever since then," said Gordon, "I advise actors never to turn down parts.

"But what gets me in Hollywood is that agents don't understand you when you say, 'I'm an actor.' Everything is types. They don't say, 'We need an actor for this part.' They say, 'We need a heavy.' I argued for a while, then I gave up. Today I just say, 'How much and where?'"

"They even have money categories. If the budget calls for a $10,000 actor—that is, if the part is budgeted for so much—they don't want anybody for less. The budget says $10,000. So the actor's gotta be too."

BRUCE GORDON . . . Successful Loser

IKE INTERVIEW RATES THIRD

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

Former President Eisenhower ran third to "The Untouchables" and "Sing Along With Mitch" in his last TV appearance.

Howard Bell, a vice president of the National Association of Broadcasters, said that an hour-long filmed interview with Eisenhower shown Thanksgiving evening drew a rating of 6.8, meaning that 4.1 million TV sets were tuned to him.

Bell said "The Untouchables" posted a rating of 19.4 and song leader Mitch Miller's program led all three networks with a 24.6 rating.

Silent Screen Star

Esther Ralston, veteran actress of the silent screen, heads the cast of a new NBC-TV daytime serial, "Our Five Daughters." In addition to winning acclaim during the silent film era, Miss Ralston appeared in numerous talkies and on various television programs. The serial starts on Jan. 2.

BARBARA RUSH stars as an American secret service agent during the "Theater '62" presentation of "Notorious" at 10 p.m. Sunday, channel 4. She is forced into marriage with a Nazi boss in order to gain information. Joseph Cotton co-stars in the COLOR presentation.

CARA TALKS 'MILE-A-MINUTE'

Drops Housewife TV 'Image' to Disclose Financial Wizard

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD CA—Cara Williams is an actress who talks a mile a minute, usually about things she isn't supposed to talk about.

Cara is the ever-loving Gladys of the CBS-TV show, "Pete and Gladys." As co-star of a million-dollar enterprise, she is not supposed to discuss things publicly that might destroy illusions and endanger the investment. So they keep telling her.

"About your real estate—" I began. "It's going great," she said, grabbing the ball and running. "Don't let any actor tell you TV is for the birds—it's great. Because of TV, I've been able to make investments for the first time in my life.

"Got four houses now. Two of them are rented, I live in one and I'm fixing the other one up. That's my hobby—interior decorating. I buy these old houses, get them looking good and the value goes up.

"I'VE ALWAYS been interested in real estate, but I never had any money to do anything about it before. I guess it goes back to my childhood. We were pretty hungry in those days and mother used to make a date with a real estate man to see some property in Inglewood or something. He'd always take us to lunch—that's what we were after.

CARA WILLIAMS

"But gee, real estate is one of the things CBS doesn't want me to talk about."

What about stocks? "Doing fine there," she said. "Bought 600 shares of one stock at $1 and it went up to $19. My broker wanted me to sell, but I told him all I could lose was $600. Now it's down to $4, but I'm still ahead.

"ALSO BOUGHT some cattle in Kansas. Mother asked what I wanted cattle for and I told her even if we were broke again we'd be able to eat. She said you couldn't eat anything you owned.

"I guess I'm just a gambler at heart. But I've given up those poker games I used to play every week. Some of the boys were newspapermen, and I quit after I won $647 one night. Even if they were friends, they were still newspapermen and it might get printed.

"Now I play with the film crew on the set at lunch time—25-50 cents, that sort of thing. Can't get hurt and it's good to be friends with those boys.

"NO, NO, NO! I'm really not supposed to talk about gambling."

But she was permitted to talk about "Pete and Gladys," which she likes. Cara is making a name for herself as a comedienne, despite occasional comparison to Lucille Ball.

"That I can't figure," she said. "We're both redheads, but otherwise we're not a bit alike. 'I Love Lucy' was a three-camera live show in which Lucille played to both the studio and the home audience. The comedy had to be broad. Ours is a one-camera filmed show, which allows more subtlety.

"But I suppose everybody in show business has to be compared to someone else. Look at all the girls who are 'second Marilyn Monroes.' Look at all the actors who were 'second John Barrymores.'

"Oh dear, I'm not supposed to say that name, either."

The reference was to her ex-husband.

"But at least I meant senior, not junior," she added apologetically.

KBIG Moves to New Avalon Studios

Radio station KBIG (740) has completed transfer of the bulk of its programming operation to its new, two-story studio building in downtown Avalon, Catalina Island.

The move was made from facilities at the Renton Pass transmitter, a five-mile, uphill journey from downtown Avalon. The transmitter now is being operated by remote control.

The new 4,000-square-foot building includes KBIG's main studios, control room, offices, carport, a sponsor entertainment center and a fully equipped repair shop.

THE BUILDING'S record library includes 550 lineal feet of shelves which, when filled, will contain 15 tons of records.

Batt-type insulation, acoustical-felt soundproof doors and double-thick glass windows were employed in the construction to minimize speedboat and airplane noises.

The station, operated by the John Poole Broadcasting Co.,

also has Los Angeles studios for the origination of special features.

Mort Sahl Signs for 'Good Years'

Comedian Mort Sahl has signed to join host-narrator Henry Fonda in producer Leland Hayward's "The Good Years."

The 90-minute special will be presented Jan. 12 on CBS-TV.

Adapted from a book by Walter Lord, the television program will concentrate on the period from 1900 until the beginning of World War I.

It will trace, in song, dance, comedy skits and dramatic vignettes, the American pattern of life during this period.

Sahl, in addition to participating in several skits, will present especially written comedy monologues.

SINGER Patti Page guest stars on "Bachelor Father" at 8 p.m. Tuesday, channel 2. She enacts the role of a recording artist who seeks legal advice to break a contract.

GLORIA SWANSON COMBS HAIR FOR TV ROLE
Guest Stars Friday on "Straightaway"

Gloria Swanson Wants More TV Drama Roles

Give the lady a chance and she'll say "yes."

That is providing you're a television producer and you're asking her to appear on your dramatic program.

At 61, glamorous Gloria Swanson—yes, Myrtle, you can still be glamorous at 61—is anxiously looking for opportunities to do more acting on television.

She finds one such opportunity Friday when she appears on "Straightaway" at 7:30 p. m., channel 7.

Miss Swanson plays a silent film queen living with yesterday's memories. Any resemblance to her role in the 1950 movie "Sunset Boulevard" is probably purely intentional.

The TV dramatic assignment is the first for her in 13 years, although she has video-guested on variety shows in the interim.

★ ★ ★

HER LAST DRAMATIC appearance was on "Gloria Swanson's Hour," a program TV airing in 1948 only in New York.

"I think TV producers believe that I don't want to appear on their shows," said Miss Swanson.

"I want to do television if they'd only present me with some scripts. If I like the script and the part, I'll do it. It's as simple as that."

She recently returned from a three months' tour in Europe where she promoted two of her businesses dealing with hosiery and fashions.

She also has major financial interests in a button factory, a travel agency and a cutting-tool patent.

But she'd rather button down a good television role than cut stock dividend certificates.

★ ★ ★

THE ACTRESS STARTED her show-business career when she was 14 years old in 1913. At that time, she was a bit player with the Essanay Co. in Chicago.

Three years later, she left for Hollywood to begin a screen career that was as sensationally successful in the era of silent films as it was when the "talkies" took over.

It would make her extremely happy if she could triplicate that success on the video screen.

"I have to keep busy," she explained. "I'm no vegetable and if I have nothing to do, I'm not happy."

"Right now television is the dominant entertainment medium and all I need to get into it is some scripts."

Sign Five Stars for Special

Five stars, all of whom have appeared in musical comedies, have been signed to appear on "The Broadway of Lerner and Loewe," a COLOR special set for NBC-TV airing Feb. 11.

The stars are Julie Andrews, Richard Burton, Maurice Chevalier, Robert Goulet and Stanley Holloway.

They will reenact production numbers from musicals they appeared in where the composers were the team of Alan Jay Lerner and Fredrick Loewe.

The team's musical compositions include "Brigadoon," "Paint Your Wagon," "My Fair Lady," "Camelot" and "Gigi."

Pan and Fan Mail

Please print this reply to Mr. Asten, who wrote a letter about Mitch Miller.

"Dear Mr. Asten:

"I think you are very stupid and something must be wrong with your mind if you like a gangster movie about killing and things like that instead of a nice sensible program like 'Sing Along With Mitch.'

"And just because they might have pot-bellies doesn't mean there's anything wrong with them.

"Probably you have a pot-belly, too.

"Just because he has a beard, it doesn't mean he's a beatnik. I think his beard is cute and he is probably nicer than you because if you were nice, you wouldn't write such an awful thing about him."

Sixth-Grader Linda Hill,
Long Beach

"P.S. Santa Claus has a pot belly."

True, Linda, but can he carry a tune?

★ ★ ★

Will you please publish in your column sometime what the flowing liquid is that appears on the introduction to the "Checkmate" program?

Mrs. C. Everett, Lakewood

It's a not-so-liquid liquid, Mrs. Everett, namely, paint. A number of different color paints were poured into a huge bucket, then gently set into motion to give the swirling effect captured by the camera.

★ ★ ★

I wonder why they hold such fine programs as "Highways of Melody" so late.

My husband and I have two favorite singers. His is Dorothy Kirsten and mine is Eddy Arnold, both of whom appeared on the program last Sunday.

My husband, as well as other shut-ins, cannot sit up so late.

It would be great if they could put a show like this on early. Who wants to listen to a talking horse with this type of entertainment in comparison?

Mrs. H. E. King,
Long Beach

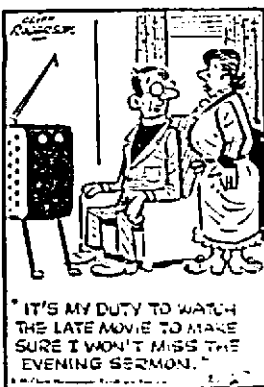

Other talking horses.

★ ★ ★

We are adults but we enjoy the "Soupy Sales Show." In these days a person who can make someone laugh is worth his weight in gold.

I bet some of his (ancient) jokes go over the kids' heads. We love them.

Mrs. Brown, Long Beach
KABC-TV officials aren't

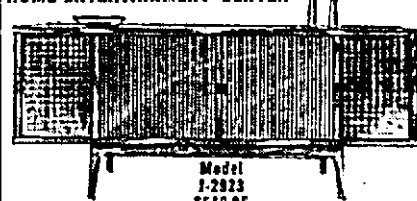

quite as generous as you, Mrs. Brown. But they do think Soupy is worth his weight in pies.

NO MATTER WHAT THE YEAR MAY BE, 1890 or 1962, Buster Keaton can't keep out of trouble with the police. The officers are Gil Lamb (at left) and James Flavin, who appear with the comedian in "The Twilight Zone" at 10 p.m. Friday, channel 2. The story is about a janitor who puts on a space helmet and is time transported.

FCC CHAIRMAN SOUNDS OFF

Urges Viewers 'Organize'

By RONALD H. NESSEN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Television viewers probably will get "just what they deserve" unless they organize to complain loudly about poor programs, according to Federal Communications Commission Chairman Newton Minow.

Minow said television stations do not deliberately put on bad programs, but he said broadcasters tend to under-rate the taste, knowledge and understanding of the public.

He made the remarks to an audience of about 200 at a panel discussion on television programming. Minow, who stung the industry earlier this year when he called television a "vast wasteland," was particularly critical of children's programs.

TELEVISION'S opportunity to broaden children's knowledge is "so often frittered away," Minow said.

"Too often television is used as a baby sitter and that's all," he said.

The government's role in improving television is a delicate one, he said, because it borders on censorship. He said he would rather have bad television than infringe upon free speech.

However, Minow said the FCC would make television stations live up to the promises of public service they made when they applied for licenses.

IN REITERATING the FCC's proposal that networks be brought under federal regulation, Minow said it was nearly impossible to fix responsibility for bad programs between local stations, networks, advertising agencies and sponsors.

Howard Bell, a vice president of the National Association of Broadcasters, presenting the industry's view, said television should aim for "high rather than low denominators" and broadcasters know that.

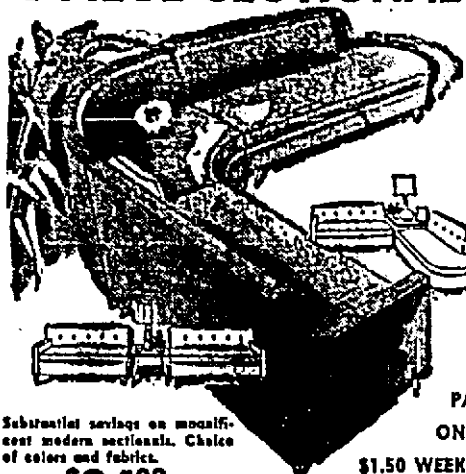

He said there were some programs that he wouldn't want his children to watch, but he declined to name them.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

A recent fall TV rating survey by the American Research Bureau put KHJ-TV (channel 9) in first place as the independent station with the most viewers during prime time hours.

In addition, the survey noted that "The Movie Station of Los Angeles," with its Sunday evening "Theater Nine," out-rated the three major networks as well as the competing independents.

The survey results made Wally Sherwin, KHJ-TV programming director, happy, but not contented.

"A top entertainer," he said, "entertains everyone."

Sherwin wants KHJ-TV to entertain everyone and, along those lines, has scheduled three major program series to begin after the first of the year. He frankly admits they are rating risks.

The first is "Perspective on Greatness," a series of one-hour programs on some of the world's greatest personalities.

★ ★ ★

INCLUDED ARE SUCH individuals as Dwight D. Eisenhower, Dag Hammarskjöld, Harry Truman, Sophie Tucker, Albert Schweitzer, the Windsors, Will Rogers, Helen Keller, Dr. Jonas Salk, Louis Armstrong, Douglas MacArthur, Casey Stengel, Charles Lindbergh and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Each one of these programs actually tells a story and is not merely a bunch of old film clips strung together," said Sherwin.

The second major series is "International Feature Films," including 50 foreign movies. Sherwin emphasizes they are not "furniture" films.

"By 'furniture films,' I mean old English or early American," said Sherwin. "Our package includes the 'greats' of foreign films, 40 of which were made since 1955."

Typical of the "greats" are "Gate of Hell," a 1954 Japanese movie which won the "best Foreign Film" award; "The Path of Hope," a 1952 Italian triple-award-winning feature; and "The World of Ape," a 1960 India-produced winner. All are dubbed in English.

★ ★ ★

THE THIRD MAJOR program is "The Golden World of Opera," a series of 20 color films made all over the world.

Some are films made of actual operas while they were being performed on the stage in La Scala, Italy.

Typical productions to be aired include Rossini's "Figaro, the Barber of Seville"; Puccini's "Tosca" and Verdi's "Rigoletto." Sherwin frankly admits the operas may not draw a large following.

"But we're out to attract that element we haven't reached yet," he said. "Important people will watch and talk about it. A top entertainer entertains everyone."

"Besides," he added, "a lot of people who have never seen an opera before just might learn they really like them."

"Now myself, I'm a 'Shirley Temple' viewer. I'm also a 'Bonanza' fan. I'd also watch a good opera, although I may not watch all of them."

Sherwin candidly admits he hopes to create an "image" for channel 9 and have it become something of a "legend" in the industry.

★ ★ ★

THE BUSINESS of "image-creating," according to Sherwin, takes three major ingredients, distinction, taste and the courage of your convictions.

Sherwin has been "image-creating" since he started in the broadcasting field with radio station WBBM in Chicago in 1939.

He was associated with such television shows as "Stairway to Stardom," "Mister Whistle" and "Two of a Kind."

In 1955 he was signed as general manager of television station KVTG in Tulare. He was a general manager who wrote the scripts and served as master of ceremonies for the locally originated shows.

When he arrived, there were five radio engineers trying to figure how to focus a camera. Sherwin showed them.

When he arrived, the station was doing $1,500 worth of business a month. When he left to join Riviera Sofa Bed Co. as the director of that firm's advertising campaigns, the Tulare television station was grossing $18,000 a month.

And an image had been created.

The station had become known as "The Voice of the San Joaquin Valley."

Sherwin joined KHJ-TV last June. The last two months have been the biggest financial months in the history of KHJ-TV.

Which could serve to prove that "image-creating," when done with distinction, taste and the courage of your convictions, can prove to be a highly profitable business.

WEEK'S TOP SHOWS

Sunday—"Close-Up!" at 10 p.m. on channel 7 presents "The Remarkable Comrades," a study of Communists in Italy. Outside of the iron curtain, the largest Communist vote is cast in Italy.

Monday—"The Bing Crosby Show" at 9 p.m. on channel 7 is a one-hour variety special taped in London. Guests include comedians Terry Thomas and Dave King, singers Shirley Bassey and Marion Ryan.

'Special' on Monday

Tuesday—Ernie Kovacs' fourth special of the season whimsically follows the changes occurring from the time of early western movies to present-day TV westerns. It's on channel 7 at 10:30 p.m.

Wednesday—"The Bob Hope Show" at 9 p.m. on channel 4 features guests Nancy Kwan, Danny Thomas and James Garner. In one skit, Bob portrays the chair-man of a committee investigating TV medical shows.

Thursday—The New York Philharmonic, conducted by Leonard Bernstein, presents an hour of music for the Christmas season at 7:30 p.m. on channel 2. The Choral Art Society and the boys' choir of St. Thomas Episcopal Church also musically participate.

Friday—"The Peace Corps in Tanganyika" at 9:30 p.m. on channel 4 follows a group of volunteers as they ready themselves for service in the East African nation. It also shows them at work and reporter Ray Scherer asks them how they feel about their first assignment.

Saturday—"The World's Twist Championship Contest"

is conducted at Hollywood's "Le Crazy Horse" and channel 11 catches the dance action for telecasting at 8:30 p.m. In addition to the contestants, featured artists will include Louis Prima, Sam Butera and The Witnesses, Donnie Brooks and His Twist Music. Master of ceremonies for the occasion will be Del Moore.

OUR COVER

Day's work for a quarter horse in racing season is a matter of slightly more than a quarter of a minute—that's how it seems to the better watching his choice among the sprinters flash down to the finish line. But there's far more than meets the eye here; there's a long and tedious period of training and conditioning, and every horse must meet the test of a fast getaway from the starting gate. Two-by-two they practice these starts until they qualify, or else they don't go to the post. They must learn to get away fast because every instant is precious in the short dashes they run. Two horses are shown breaking out of the gate on Southland's cover . . . and there's more about quarter horses on Page 7.

NEXT WEEK

Getting kicked in the shins, his beard pulled or, worse yet, set afire, suffering no end of indignities and boredom . . . That's old Santa Claus coming down out of the safety and peace of the North Pole to listen to all sorts of yammering monsters who reel off lists of Christmas wants, or perhaps commit mayhem on the person of the kindly old gent. But he laughs "Ho-Ho-Ho" unendingly as he sits around department stores and rides in parades. "It Happens Every Christmas." . . . See next Sunday's Southland Magazine.

By Maymie R. Krythe

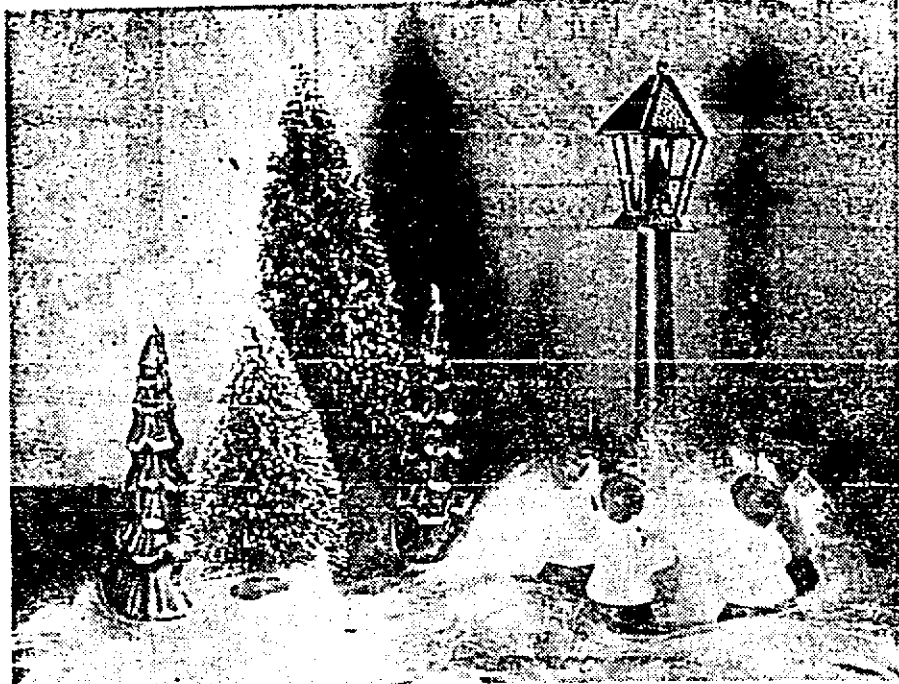

WHENEVER the Christmas holidays come around, the spirit of yuletide "gets" most of us, and we find it fun to decorate our homes with greenery and other items to lend a festive air.

Centuries ago, at this time of the year, the Romans adorned their temples, statues of the gods and goddesses, and their homes with boughs and garlands of flowers. Also in the northern part of Europe, the people went out to the forests and carried in branches and other greenery to hang on their homes to keep evil spirits away from them. This custom was especially popular in "Merrie England" where such plants as ivy, rosemary, mistletoe, holly and bay were hung up both in the great halls of manor houses, and in the humble cottages of the farm laborers.

Today moderns carry on this ancient custom, and enjoy using our ingenuity to concoct new ways of decorating our homes for the holiday season. There are numerous and clever methods and it is challenging to create original and distinctive touches, which not only intrigue the family but also delight guests.

A good idea, too, is to evolve a special Christmas tradition for your home, and family, and continue it each year. For example, some time ago I saw in a magazine an unusual Christmas that was formed on a wire clothes hanger shaped into a circle. To the wire I fastened candies wrapped in gold, silver, and gaily colored papers, and topped the wreath with an attractive bow of red satin ribbon.

A happy arrangement to brighten the home in the yule season, "Christmas Quartet" has appeal and novelty. With a bit of imagination, other scenes can be evolved.

On my annual holiday visit to my daughter's home, I gave this wreath to my small granddaughter, who was delighted with it. Now each year she sends her regular in-itation for me to visit them, and with it a "command"—"And, Grammie, don't forget to bring my Christmas wreath." She hangs the wreath in her room, and is allowed to eat a few candies from it each day. So without really planning it, I started an annual custom for her.

Since I am a strong Christmas fan, I try to make my apartment look as "Christmasy" as possible. As soon as the five and ten cent stores display their holiday goods, I go early to see what new or unusual items I can find for different yule arrangements.

LAST YEAR, for example, I was intrigued by a tree ornament in the shape of a street lamp. So I fashioned a scene of my own, using angel hair as the base. I put the lamp ornament on top of a dark green candle (to simulate a street light). I placed under it four of my candle choir boys, and I can almost imagine that I can hear them singing old familiar carols. I find

Padua Hills: Hub of Goodwill

FOR 30 YEARS NOW, a handful of Norte Americanos and their south-of-the-border associates at the Padua Hills theatre near Claremont have been drumming up good Mexican-American relations in a quiet and entertaining way.

They are led by Herman Garner, an industrialist whose passion is the non-profit Padua Institute, its theater and its Mexican players.

Throughout the year, visitors from the world over join in Garner's experiment. They do it merely by making reservations for dinner and the play and then enjoying both.

The whole idea revolves around the Mexican Players who are musicians, actors, singers, dancers, clerks, tortilla-patters, waitresses and busboys rolled into one and done up as nicely as an enchilada for a tasty, tasteful soiree.

A HINT of the evening before him may come to the visitor in the gift shop when he casually asks if the play is a good one and the clerk-weaver-actress answers, "I wouldn't want to tell you one way or another, senor, because I am in it and you might be disappointed."

By Al Krieg

Or in another way: a guest threads past the orchestra in the lobby, is seated in the dining room, but must wait to order until tenor Rogelio Alfaro finishes the ranchera he's singing and steps over to describe the bill-of-fare.

Although he can have American dishes, the guest needn't fear the turkey molle or the cheese enchilada. They're not hot with chiles; one laces them with salsa picante, if he wishes—at his own risk. Throughout the meal one or more of the boys and girls leave their customers to join the orchestra for a song or dance. Now and then there is a "slap-a-pat, slap-a-pat" heard from a corner. It's one of the girls making tortillas from freshly ground masa. Naturally, the slap-a-pat falls into the rhythm of the dance. As soon as they've been griddled on the tiled comal, the tortillas are brought, hot, to the tables.

There's time enough while dining room uniforms are exchanged for stage costumes to visit the other two shops among the olive trees. One displays Mexican style pottery made from the red clay of this Sierra Madre foothill.

A customer may have to wait, though, while Maria del Rosario Montes adds a dab of glaze color on a piece of greenware preparatory to firing. At the Artcraft shop are contemporary ceramics and paintings, many by artists who've settled in studio homes on a lower spur of the hill.

The theater is an indoor one, cool, weatherproof. Appropriately, the fire curtain is an asbestos map of Mexico. For the plays are Mexican or Spanish Californian, either traditional folk plays or in that manner but written by the staff. One of the busiest of the players is Eligio Herrera, director-playwright-actor-singer-dancer. Another is Kathryn Dickinson who makes the costumes, authentic for each play's setting, from Mexican fabrics and trimmings.

With the exception of the annual Christmas play, "Las Posadas," and the spring play of San Ysidro's Fiesta, "En el Mes de Mayo," the presentations are newly written and changed every seven weeks.

THE PLAYS are simple, the characters understandable. The plots hang on such things as farmers' prayers for rain or the lives of Jalliscan sportsmen-cowboys. They offer a far more real picture of Mexican life than does any border town that may be seen on a Southern California visit.

These performances are half of the Garner process for Mexican-American solidarity. The audience leaves the theater feeling it has taken part in some bit of Mexican adventure, fiesta or romance; that as a dashing caballero it has helped a neighbor through hard times, married off a daughter or had a whee of a time at a fiesta.

The productions are in English or Spanish. But whether the Players deliver their lines in halting English or in perfect Spanish, no one fails to get the drift of things.

THE PERFORMERS are the other half of the plan. Of Mexican or Spanish Californian descent, they take the American story back with them whenever they return to Mexico. They have given many a gringo-distruster a favorable picture of what's going on north of the border.

Castanet-clacking hostess-actress-singer-dancer Casilda Amador is a charter member of the company. Some are second generation Players. Romances have flowered in rehearsal, and Garner expects that third generation players soon will be learning songs and dances of Mexican states other than their own.

A summer evening at Padua Hills is wound up with "Jamaica," a miniature fiesta in which all are invited to join the Players on the patio for refreshments, more dancing, songs and games.

And when it's all over, "Buenas noches," echoes on air that has an orange blossom tint as it drifts up from groves below.

London to Las Vegas

Ray Hudson, "Miss London Latin Quarter," chats with Dick Winslow at the piano lounge aboard a Las Vegas Hacienda Champagne Tour flight. Miss Hudson was in the U. Dawn has scarcely broken when quarter horses turn out at Los Alamitos Race Track to go through the training necessary to qualify them for future racing. Workhorses walk along as a calming influence.

Ed Burke, Los Alamitos racing secretary, also turns out to watch the qualifying.

Bangtail Bustout

Story and Photos

By Grant Macdonald

QUARTER HORSES racing at the Los Alamitos track had to go through their paces—qualify—before the meet opened to prove that they have what it takes on the swift, straightaway course.

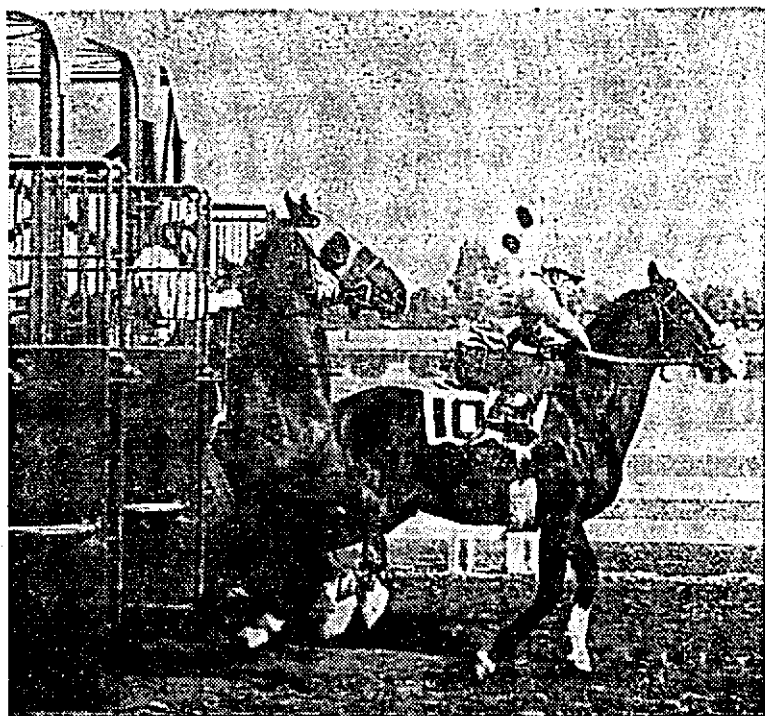

An interesting sidelight of the present meet which continues through Dec. 23, this activity begins shortly after sunup, when a nip is in the air and few bettors are even awake. In the crisp dawn the big electrical starting gate is wheeled onto the dirt track at the 350-yard pole. The high-spirited nags are "ponied" up and down the track for awhile by warm-up boys and apprentice jockeys.

Then the racers are put in the gate enclosures, usually two at a time, the bell rings, the gate clangs open and—they're off!

Most horses make the 350 yards in around 18 or 19 seconds.

After the workouts, the horses are walked around the "tow ring" and washed down. Then they leisurely munch their feed.

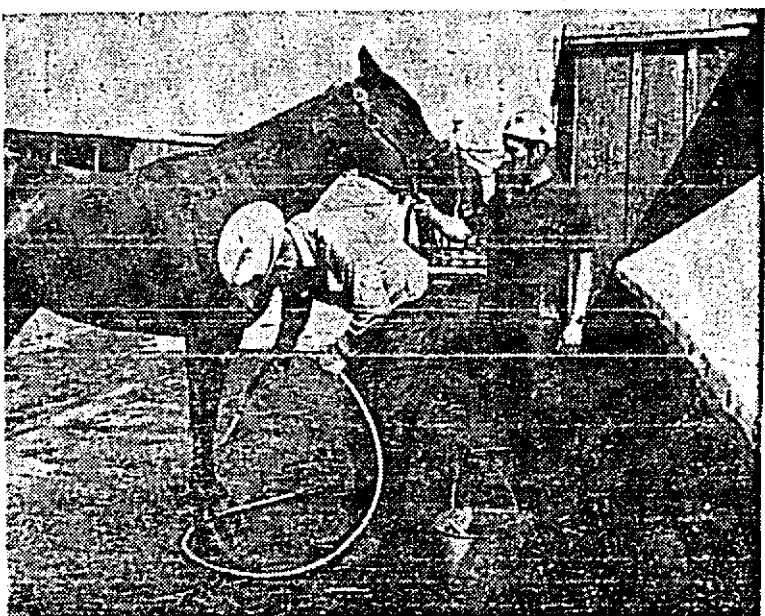

All this will be repeated just prior to the spring meet in 1962. At that time the "babies"—young horses who never have raced—will be broken to the initial terrors of the starting gate stalls.

Breaking from the starting gate is most important in the training of young horses. Every instant counts in the quarter horse speed events.

After a warmup and qualifying run, the racers are wrapped in blankets and walked around the "tow ring" by rider on "tow" pony to cool out.

Quarter horses are pampered in the stables after workouts. Mud is washed from their legs, hoots are cleaned and some even get an alcohol rubdown.

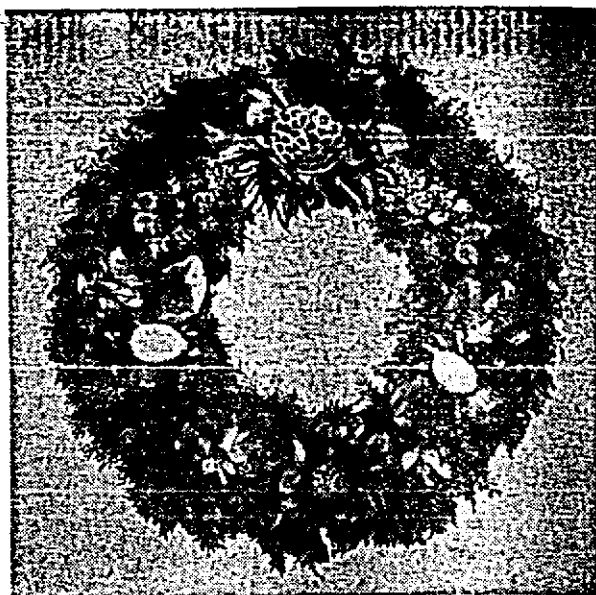

Busy hands at Boys' Republic make famed Della Robbia wreaths. It's a year-around activity that teaches boys industry and love for beauty, as well as raising funds.

Some materials are gathered in each season, but the real work begins when foliage of redwood trees, basis of the wreaths, is brought to Boys' Republic about this time.

Many celebrities are listed as customers of the boys, among them Ozzie and Harriett Nelson, posed here in a special wreath. A wreath is traditional at the White House.

Della Robbia wreaths are highly popular at Christmas. Into their make-up go different seed pods and cones.

'Della Robbia' is a magic phrase at Boys Republic . . .

Wreath of Inspiration

CALIFORNIA'S beauty and abundance is reflected in the famed Della Robbia wreaths which have won nationwide popularity at the Christmas season and which serve a double purpose—as decorative offerings to the spirit of yuletide and as an inspiration to the youths of Boys' Republic, near Pomona.

Boys' Republic is devoted to helping youths of high school age to productive, useful adulthood, and it has offered hope and encouragement to more than 5,600 deserving young men in its 54-year history.

In 1923, Margaret Fowler, world traveler, art lover, humanitarian and founder of Boys' Republic, developed a wreath in imitation of the ceramic wreaths of the Della Robbia family which she had seen in Florence, Italy. She made wreaths of natural materials and turned the scheme over to the school as a hobby project. A few years ago, the Republic turned to this hobby as a possible source of funds to allay a financial setback. Since that time, fame of the beautiful wreaths has spread and their sale has become an important source of school income.

WREATHS ARE MADE of leaves, cones, seed pods and fruit on a base of redwood foliage. With the exception of the redwood fronds, which arrive just before Dec. 1 and signal the start of the rush season for the boys, materials are assembled in every season of the year in all of the valleys of Southern California. Touches of bronze, gold and silver and a protective brightening spray are added to each wreath.

As the season progresses, a tent post office is set up on the Republic grounds and boxed wreaths are speeded on their way to fill the hundreds of orders. As the production tempo speeds up, residents of Chino and Pomona Valleys come in to lend a hand with the work.

Whatever the financial gain from the project, monetary considerations are far outweighed by what Republic officials term "plus values"—the incentive to industriousness and the advancement of love of beauty that are inherent in the program. The boys have pride in achievement, learn the dignity of labor and the rewards of work well done and gain appreciation of the beauty and bounty of the Southland—the latter gained on weekend seed pod and cone foraging trips.

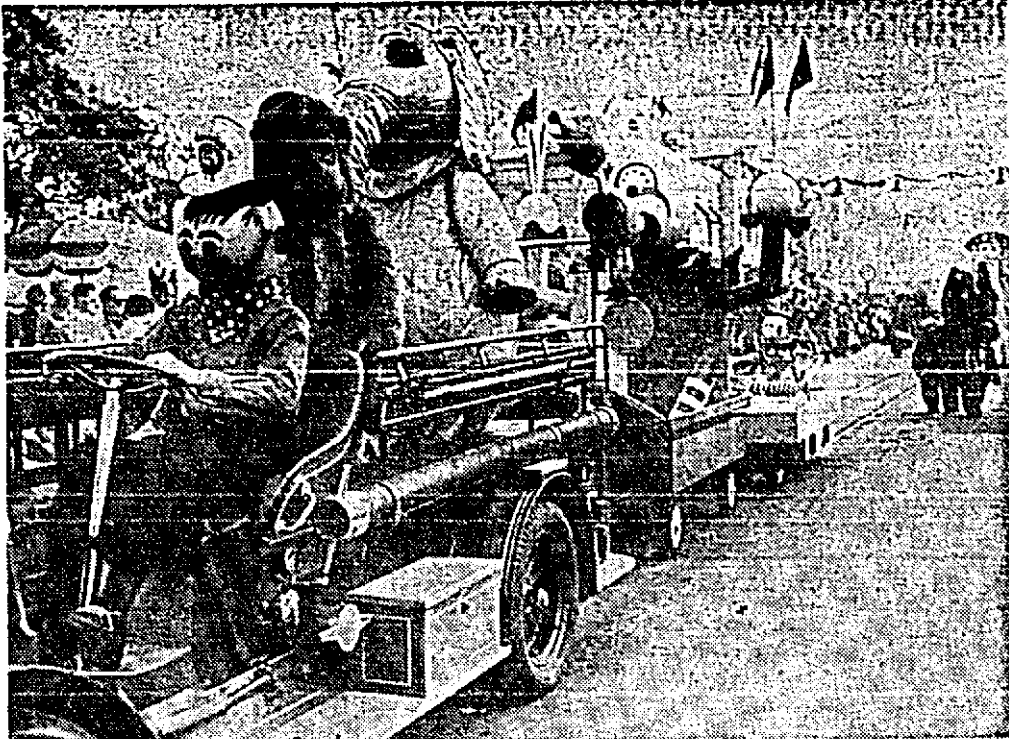

THE BOYS ARE also proud of their "name" list of customers. Included are famous names of the national scene—finance, business, military, manufacturing, as well as the motion picture and television fields. They are just as proud of the tremendous list of lesser-known individuals, business and professional people who use their "gift within a gift" to solve their Christmas list problems.

Wreaths are of 20-inch ($8.50) and 30-inch ($15) sizes. Orders may be placed at Boys' Republic, five miles south of Pomona on Route 71, and will be filled by parcel post or may be picked up at the shipping point. A pick-up service has been opened there and at the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel, Pasadena.

Winking doll, 12 feet tall, will march under her own power in Disneyland fete.

Floats and figures of fantasy will abound in the forthcoming "Parade of the Toys," biggest Christmas package yet unwrapped for the edification of young and old alike in Disneyland's holiday celebration.

Confetti-shooting warships, Disney characters coming to Magic Kingdom

'Parade of the Toys'

FOR MANY YEARS, toys—of all descriptions, sizes and shapes—have been almost as synonymous with the Christmas season as holly wreaths and tinsel-covered trees.

But for all their ingenuity, the manufacturers of wind-up, battery-powered and hand-operated toys have still left the ultimate in toy creation not to the factories of mass production, but to the craftsmen of show business. And Walt Disney has taken up the challenge.

Next Sunday Disneyland will unwrap the biggest "Christmas package" it has ever presented for holiday season visitors. And out of that package will tumble two fun-filled weeks of entertainment—appropriately highlighted by Walt Disney's own "Parade of the Toys."

THE ENTIRE kaleidoscope of Disneyland's holiday season activities will be premiered for guests next Sunday, including two complete parades daily, the lighting each evening of a 24-foot Christmas Star atop 14-story-high Matterhorn Mountain, daily performances by the Disneyland

Carolers, and the opening of a new attraction on Main Street—the "Babes in Toyland Village."

Heading the Disneyland Christmas list is the "Parade of the Toys" itself. Scheduled for twice daily presentation Dec. 18-31, its inaugural will be part of the annual "Christmas in Many Lands" pageant at the Magic Kingdom—a "parade of all nations" that this year will bring forward 2,500 participants gaily attired in the costumes of 30 countries to march, dance and sing for onlookers along Main Street.

Beginning at 1:30 p. m., the international parade will spotlight 15 marching bands, floats depicting customs involving toys of many lands, song and dance groups, reindeer, camels, zebras, elephants, and other animals related to Christmas through fact or fable.

At 5 p. m., still another pageant will take place on Main Street—a candlelight procession with more than 600 participants singing traditional yuletide carols.

BUT THE BRIGHTEST star of each day will be the "Parade of the Toys." All "life-size or larger," 6 to 12 feet tall, and all "live" or animated, the toys are ingenious creations from the workshop of Disney artisans.

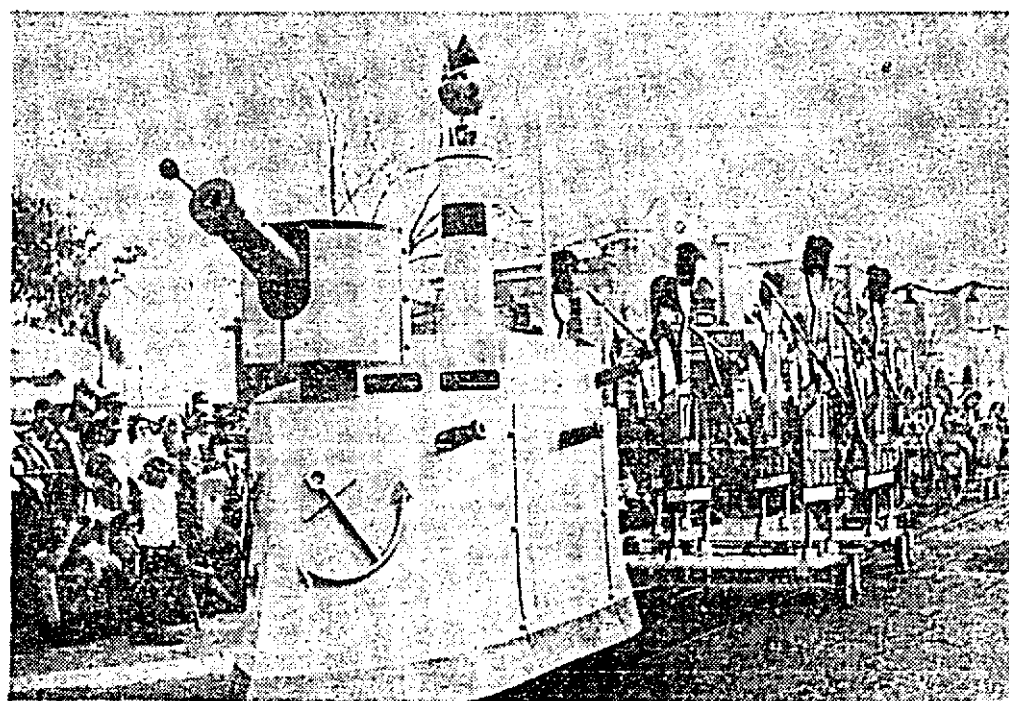

There will be a musical band of marching soldiers, towering dolls, clowns, knights on horseback and a whole array of costumed Disney characters. And floats—the "mousetrap band," confetti-shooting toy battleships, marionettes, trains, and many more. And of course, Santa Claus aboard his sleigh, with eight of the most comical reindeer that never saw the North Pole!

Both the "Parade of the Toys" and Disneyland's new attraction, the "Babes in Toyland Village," are based on Walt Disney's new motion picture, "Babes in Toyland," due for release during Christmas week.

The "Parade of the Toys" will be presented at Disneyland at 1:30 p. m. and 5:15 p. m. daily from Dec. 18 through 31. Following the 5:15 p. m. parade each day from Dec. 18 through Dec. 23 only, the exciting Candlelight Procession of massed choirs will take place on Main Street.

Wooden soldiers with their French balloons step along Disney's Main Street.

Massive wooden toy battleship pulls six wooden mounted knights in Disneyland's yule spectacle. These toys are in keeping with Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom. Many phases of the world of toys will be seen.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you genealogy on HOOK, HOOKS, HOOKER. — Mrs. B. H., J. H., Long Beach.

B. H., J. H.: HOOK and HOOKS are English surnames handed down from ancestors who owned a "hoke" or "corner of land." HOOKER, formerly Hokere, described "one who farmed a corner of land." Ancestors include Love del (of the) Hok of Oxfordshire and Hugh Hoker of Norfolk, both in the late 1200s. The Hook shield, granted in Yorkshire about 1199, has a gold stripe between three gold fleurs-de-lis on a blue background. One of several Hooker shields has a silver stripe between three silver roses on a red backing. John Hook arrived at Massachusetts on the Mayflower in 1620, but died soon afterward. A Massachusetts will of 1646 mentions a "Mr. Hoocher" as an administrator.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze CLINTON. — J. M., F. C., Long Beach.

J. M., F. C.: CLINTON was originally "Klint-tun" in early Britain, a geographical phrase for "Headland farmstead." Yorkshire records of the 1200s list Henry de Clinton. Descendants were famed in American history. James Clinton was a Revolutionary War general; his brother George was vice president of the United States 1805-1812; James' son, De Witt Clinton, a statesman, is familiar to many, since his picture was on the Internal Revenue stamps affixed to cigarette packages for many years.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on GIELISH—C. G., Los Angeles.

C. G.: GIELISH traces back eight centuries to the German warrior named Gisel-wolf, interpreted as "Staff-wolf," referring to the progenitor's dexterity in using a staff as a weapon of warfare. Gisel-wolf was contracted to Gisulf, then changed to Giel-isch and Gielish. No coat-of-arms is recorded for this lineage.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain GUIGNON. — W. G., Long Beach.

W. G.: GUIGNON has two sources. One was a soldier name in the early Middle Ages, "Win-berht," deciphered as "Brilliant friend or protector." Winberht was changed to Guinebert, then reduced to Guign and expanded to Guignon. Guignon was also a term for "eye winker," a most unusual old nickname. The Guignon coat-of-arms was granted in the medieval French province of Forez, a silver lion placed below three silver crescents on a red band across a blue shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like data on FLEMING. — A. F., Mrs. B., Long Beach.

A. F., B.: FLEMING is from a forebear who migrated from Belgian Flanders to Britain in the 12th century. "Fleming" is an English reformation of the Flemish word "Vlaming," for a native of Flanders. The Fleming shield from Essex, England, has a chevron between three silver owls on a red background. Early Boston, Mass., records list Sarah, daughter of John and Anne Flemming, born in 1639.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on GOODHUE — E. G., Westminster.
E. G.: GOODHUE is from the early English phrase "Good-Hugh," a complimentary village-endowed nickname for this family's founder. Hugh, a famous old baptismal cognomen, means "intellectual one." The Good-hugh coat-of-arms has a fur-covered chevron placed between three silver racing dogs on a red shield. Bertram C. Goodhue (1864-1924) was among the most noted American architects of the past century.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give the background of COUNTS. — Mrs. P. S., La Puente.

P. S.: COUNTS is an English respelling of the German surname Kounts. The remote source eight centuries ago was the warrior title Kuonrad, translated as "Bold counsellor." Kuonrad was altered to Kunrad, then to the nickname Kounts. No coat-of-arms is recorded for Counts or Kounts.

House That's Growing With a Family

In the expanding home of the Stan Ceplius family, more space has been won by an expertly executed extension of the living room, blending the areas into a whole.

By Stella George

YOUNG parents of a growing family, Mr. and Mrs.
Stan Ceplius, 11671 Puryear
St., Garden Grove, sought a home that would adapt itself to the needs and pleasures of the youngsters a small boy and a baby girl, as well as their own.

With still more remodeling plans in mind for the future, they have already started to custom their home in a professional and expert manner.
They have doubled the size of the former living room, added a patio beyond the living room and kitchen, and landscaped the sizeable yard in an artistic way.

The front door formerly opened to an average-sized living room with a partially open kitchen in the rear.

Champagne carpeting, which is long wearing as well as good looking, has been laid on the floor of this expanded room, and extends down the hall to the bedrooms. Black slate is at the entry directly in front of the door.

THE WALL behind and around the fireplace which is at the left from the entrance is of red brick which was carried down beyond the living room into what was formerly the patio, and is now the wall of the new addition.
Because of the unity of the House that is still growing: This is an exterior view of the Ceplius home where additions are still to come.

Another view of the Ceplus living room, showing the low bar that can be opened to kitchen when desired.

wall, the carpeting and the furnishings, there is no evidence that a new section has been added.

At the far end of the room a semi-circular brown couch faces a coffee table. A gold occasional chair is nearby. The far wall is lined with windows which command a picture view of an attractive garden and trees.

A dark turquoise sectional couch is near the front door, facing a marble coffee table and flanking a white tile end table. The ceiling is white beamed. Furnishings and carpeting were purchased with easy maintenance in mind.

The TV is near the fireplace. A very interesting wall-decoration was designed and made by Ceplus, is placed above the fireplace. On a free-form, white background rests a black violin flanked by theatrical masks in black.

THE MASTER bedroom is done in maple. Walls are blue, curtains gold-beige. Carpeting is neutral. In the other two bedrooms and the bath, the carpeting is Colonial candy-striped.

The kitchen has access to the living room with a low, sit-down bar which can be closed off when desired. The room is U-shaped and quite functional for a small kitchen. Future plans call for adding built-in appliances as well as opening up the window area above the sink to accommodate a service bar to what will be the new dining room.

The future dining room area is now a cement patio with a roof. The latter is particularly attractive, and provides a very flattering light to the area: fibreglass strips in shades of orange, yellow and turquoise are laid in the center section of the otherwise solid roof.

The yard is artistically landscaped, centered around three good-sized trees in a large, round, individual area, and shrubs and plants are in abundance.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Place With Personality Plus

By David L. Bowen

IN A LOT of ways, houses are like people.

Some are haphazard and hard to keep on an even keel. Some have a forbidding look on the outside and a complete lack of character inside.

Others have the kind of personality that makes friends at once, and the knack for organization that keeps things operating smoothly under any circumstances.

The proud claim of House of the Week B-58 is that it has solid character, pleasing personality and good organization. It was designed carefully by Architect Lester Cohen to provide large ranch luxury in the modest confines of 1,129 sq. ft.

1. A front-to-rear living room completely set off from the main traffic route and illuminated by large windows at both ends.

2. A compact reception foyer solving circulation problems.

3. A portico porch at the front, attractive from the street and serving an important practical function by providing a cover for the route from house to garage.

4. A well isolated bedroom section served by an impressively long bedroom hallway.

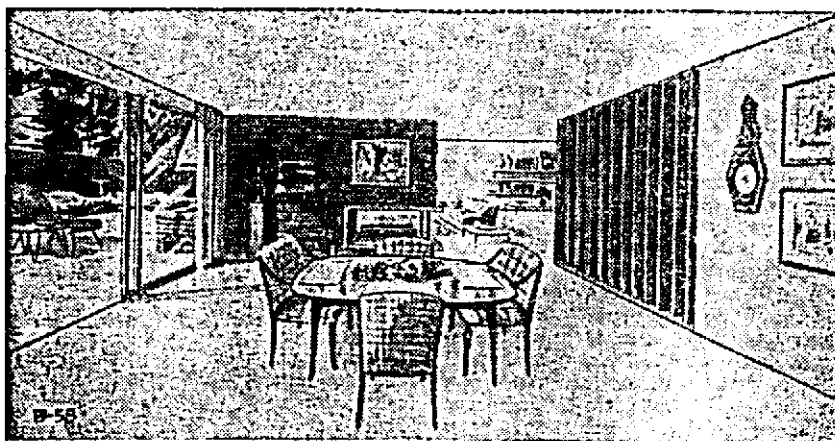

The attractive exterior lines are enhanced by the warm combination of fieldstone, vertical siding and wooden shingles. Dimensions are 58 feet 6 inches in width, including one-car garage, by 26 feet in depth.

A modern free-standing fireplace separates the living room from the dining room, which joins it in a rough L-shape. A louvered partition extends out from the kitchen to separate dining room and foyer. A window wall of sliding glass doors leads to the rear terrace.

An indoor casual room could be made of the third bedroom in a two-bedroom family. Plenty of space for a future playroom is available in the basement.

KITCHEN utilities are laid out in a practical L-shape, leaving room for a dinette next to the window overlooking the terrace. While it is completely out of sight from the front door, the kitchen actually is only a few steps away from the main entrance.

Looking from kitchen well across dining room to living room in background, this artist's sketch shows modern and expansive styling. Note the glass wall at left.

Entrance foyer and efficient hallway are secret of good circulation in this plan with glamour touches.

Each of the three bedrooms has cross ventilation and good wall space for furniture placement. There is a large family bathroom with a sanitary washbasin and a linen closet just outside the door.

Counting the front coat closet and the linen closet, there are six big storage compartments in B-58. A scuttle in the bedroom hall gives access to attic storage. The stairway to the basement is conveniently located in the hall near the kitchen and bedrooms and is easy to get to from the front door without tramping through any living area.

AN UNUSUAL optional should appeal to the gardening hobbyist in every family: behind the garage, with entry from garage and rear yard, Architect Cohen suggests a small greenhouse. Tender outdoor plants can winter here, or seeds germinate for spring planting.

For those not inclined to garden on that scale, the space would be ideal for an outdoor tool and toy shed.

Stained Glass, Budget Styled

By Lorena Fleissig

Colored cellophane was used here for stained glass idea.

STAINED glass windows are an object of art and not available to the average person because of the expense. However, one might experiment with cellophane which is produced in beautiful colors and with which one can obtain unusual effects.

This will be a fascinating occupation for colorful results are quickly achieved. In cutting the cellophane into patterns, first fold the material four or more times so that all your repeat patterns will be the same size.

By placing the cutouts of differing colors over others, new colors or gradations of color are produced. The colors used on these small paned windows are green, blue, orchid, pink and yellow. Orchid angels wear pink halos among blue stars. The holly is done with green leaves and blue berries.

IN ARRANGING diamonds, squares and circles, it is not necessary to have them placed geometrically perfectly, only try for the rhythm of color. For the light coming through will diffuse the colors with pleasing softness and any irregularity will be unnoticed.

When enough material is cut, place it in a box for it has a tendency to float away. Wipe the pane of glass with a damp sponge. Place the patterns evenly, occasionally spotting with the sponge and press firmly with a cloth. When the design is completed cover it with a sheet of clear cellophane wrap. For more delicate effect, use clear wax paper, taping it at the corners.

The cellophane pieces will hold for a time without the added covering sheet but eventually will peel off. If a permanent effect is desired, try giving the window pane a light treatment of spray glue before placing the design. Then you will have the nearest thing to an original design, stained glass window, done budget style.

Dental authorities agree:
You can lose more teeth from gum troubles
than from tooth decay

How brushing with new Ipana® helps you
protect your gums as you protect your teeth

Don't just do half the job! Gum troubles are often caused by tartar that forms on teeth when soft film is not properly cleansed away. Dental statistics prove that it is gum troubles, not tooth decay, that cause most loss of teeth after age 14. So don't do just half the job. Protect your gums as you protect your teeth.

If you brush properly with new Ipana with hexachlorophene, you can help prevent gum trouble due to tartar before it starts. Ipana's film-removing agents help you brush away the soft film that naturally forms on teeth before it hardens into tartar that irritates and inflames gums.

Only your dentist or dental hygienist can remove tartar once it hardens. But proper brushing, according to Ipana directions, can help prevent tartar before it attacks gums.

A superior decay fighter, too! Laboratory tests prove that new Ipana kills more decay germs than any other leading tooth paste—even the leading fluoride tooth paste!

Every time you brush your teeth with new Ipana with hexachlorophene, you destroy decay germs by the millions. Laboratory tests have shown that other tooth pastes leave behind many more decay germs because they don't have Ipana's superior germ-killing power.

Proper cleansing of teeth with Ipana helps protect your gums as you protect your teeth. Get new Ipana!

Sketchbook

Years of fun for a weekend of work. That's a good description of this easily made child's playhouse.

TODAY'S PROJECT is a playhouse designed for use in winter and summer — and to delight the hearts of little girls for years.

As William Meyerriecks, Huntington, N.Y., designer says, nothing gives a little girl more hours of pleasure than pretending she's grown up. If she can act out her "big folks" games in a house of her own, her make-believe gains a satisfying third dimension. Happy memories of her childhood fun will endure a lifetime.

And it really isn't very hard to provide a realistic setting for youthful imaginations. The playhouse shown in the illustration is cut from 1/2-inch plywood, attached to four corner posts. The house can be used all year round—set up in the basement or garage during winter months and out in the back yard during the summer.

The secret of its mobility is the way the walls and roof are fastened into place with machine screws. Fifteen minutes work with a screwdriver will dismantle the entire home into six easily handled parts.

The house is 6 feet wide, 4 feet deep and 6 feet high at the peak of the roof. Shutters and the door are simple cutouts, trimmed with molding.

TO OBTAIN Playhouse Plan S-35, send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

it is interesting to start with one object and then work out an arrangement with a central idea.

Even though one may tire of the old ditty: "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town," there is still the idea that Old St. Nick brings youngsters their presents on Christmas Eve.

After wondering just what to do with a miscellaneous collection of Christmas items, I decided to create a scene, illustrating this song, and depicting Santa Claus on his annual journey of love.

I covered the top of my radio and player with cotton batting; used a mirror for a pond, with a snowman and igloo nearby. Then I arranged some churches, houses, and trees of different sizes in the little village. At one side St. Nicholas is driving his reindeer toward town, while two deer seem to be interested in watching his yearly run.

Arrangements by the Author; Photos by the Inman Co.

"Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" is the title of this Christmas display in illustration of the popular song of the yule season. Similar scenes are easy to arrange.

A Faraway First

ing to where it fell apart faster than it could be rebuilt. However, his right arm almost useless, Rodgers took off again the next day. Fierce winds were tearing through the San Geronio Pass. They ripped at the frail kite of a plane. The radiator sprung a leak. The magneto came loose from its fastenings. Rodgers held it from falling and slipped down to a landing in a stubble field.

Once more the mechanics worked far into the night on the damaged plane. Once more the people, as they had all along the route—as they would today with a plane from Mars—milled around the guarded and roped-off craft. Once more, with a new day, Rodgers stiff and sore, climbed into the plane and took off. And that day, at 4 o'clock on Nov. 5, he landed in Tournament Park, Pasadena. There, the cheering of thousands drowned out the coughing of the motor. History had been made. The continent had been crossed by air. The continent had been crossed by air. But Rodgers was not satisfied until, more than a month later, amid cheering throngs, he dipped the wheels of his fragile shell in the ocean at Long Beach.

IN THE light of today the history of that 49 day crossing sounds like ancient lore. Rodgers landed 69 times. He made 30 stopovers. He never stayed in the air for as long as two hours at a time. His average flying time was 51 miles an hour. He rebuilt the entire plane four times. Many parts were replaced even more times.

And Rodgers, characteristically, pronounced his faith in the future of flying.

"Some day," he said, "we will do 100 miles an hour if we can box people in against wind and storm. I expect to see the day when one coast will be no more than three days from the other."

But Rodgers did not live to see the day. A short time after his historic flight, while flying a borrowed plane over the ocean not far from where he had dipped the wheels of his own plane, he plunged into the surf. His engine fell on him, crushing out his life. But his prophecy has come true and more. And who can say but what he helped to bring it about?

Dorothy Digs

Some people, when they see toadstools appearing in their lawn or garden, do not realize that this is an evidence of fungus of some sort in the soil. There are two things you should do to correct this fungus condition.

Use agricultural sulphur in the proportions of 2 pounds to 100 square feet. If the toadstools are in a lawn, just broadcast the soil sulphur over the lawn, selecting a cool day for the application. When you are applying it in other parts of your garden, scatter the soil sulphur in the same proportions and then dig it into the ground so that it becomes part of the soil.

Second, spray the soil with a good, safe fungicide. I personally like products containing copper when using them in the soil, and I would never recommend products containing mercury. The number of times you have to spray depends on the severity of the infection but you can judge whether you are having results by the rapidity with which the toadstools disappear.

When War Came to the Pacific

By Vera Williams

Independent Press-Telegram Book Editor

"WITH broken heart and head bowed in sadness but not in shame I report to your Excellency that today I must arrange terms for the surrender of the fortified islands of Manila Bay—"

From Gen. Jonathan Wainwright's message to President Roosevelt reporting his surrender of the Philippines, John Toland derived the title of "BUT NOT IN SHAME" (Random House, $6.50).

Subtitled, "The Six Months After Pearl Harbor," the book is a dramatic account of one of the most crucial, controversial periods in world history.

Toland spent months in the Pacific battle area, traveling 90,000 miles in eight countries. He interviewed 800 persons, ranging from Admirals Chester W. Nimitz and Kichisaburo Nomura to non-coms and civilians.

The volume is dedicated to Toland's wife, the former Toshiko Matsamura, whom he met when she was assigned as his chief interpreter for the Japanese interviews preparatory to the book.

IN MOVING autobiographical terms, Catherine Marshall, author of "A Man Called Peter" and "To Live Again," has written "BEYOND OURSELVES" (McGraw-Hill, $4.50). She tells what she has learned about God and man, love and sorrow. She writes of prayer, healing, guidance, faith and forgiveness, and the need of mankind for spiritual life.

AUTHOR Richard Armour, who spoofs history in "IT ALL STARTED WITH COLUMBUS" (McGraw-Hill, $3.50), has out an updated edition which pokes some fun at Sputnik, President Kennedy and current events.

Of the famous Kennedy-

Nixon debate, Armour says:

"Unfortunately, however, in preparation for Nixon's first debate with Kennedy he had his face made up by a retired mortician."

"OVER $200 MILLION was spent by the United States during the participation in the International Geophysical Year of 1957-58, much of it wasted," claims Capt. Finn Ronne in "ANTARCTIC COMMAND" (Bobbs-Merrill, $5).

Capt. Ronne, who has spent more time in the Antarctic than any other man, commanded Ellsworth Station, our largest base on the continent. This is the story of his command.

"It cost $1 million to put each individual scientist or technician on the Antarctic continent for a year," he says. "Less affluent countries, such as England, Norway, France and Australia showed greater results per dollar invested."

APPARENTLY European and American imperialists weren't the only ones who launched slaving ventures in

THE WORLD IS HER PLAYTHING. Ilka Chase, actress, TV personality, lecturer, recounts her varied adventures as a world traveler in "THE CARTHAGINIAN ROSE" (Doubleday, $5.95). Mircea Vasiliu did the light-hearted drawings.

Africa several hundred years ago.

"BLACK MOTHER" by Basil Davidson (Atlantic-Little Brown, $6.50) tells how some coastal African cities and provinces made money by selling the inhabitants of the interior into slavery.

The book probes how the slaving trade operated, and makes it clear that slavery receipts at one time were the cornerstone of Africa's economy.

ALTHOUGH 25 YEARS have passed since his death, the stories of Rudyard Kipling have not lost their luster. "THE BEST SHORT STORIES OF RUDYARD KIPLING" edited by Randall Jarrell (Harcourt, $6.95) brings Kipling to a new generation of young readers.

As Ziegfeld Follies comeback shapes up, show biz wonders what kind of show Ziegfeld would do today if he lived. It's certain there would be plenty of beautiful girls.

SIGH a nostalgic sigh, Father! The Ziegfeld Follies is being rejuvenated.

The deal has been set by oldtime comedienne Billie Burke, widow of the great showman Florenz Ziegfeld, and English-born producer Barry Ashton, 34. The Shubert Theater family, which

By Rick Du Brow
UPI Hollywood Writer

also owns a piece of the title, has agreed, too.

Ashton plans to open the Follies next fall in Las Vegas, Nev., then expand it into a full-scale revue and tour it east to Broadway.

And Miss Burke, once a movie headliner with her flut-tery, high-pitched voice and scatterbrain manner, says she's planning to be in Las Vegas for the opening even though she's 76.

"I wouldn't miss it," she said. "I've never been there. Maybe I should have made the rounds more with Mr. Ziegfeld when he was alive. But if I listened to all the stories about him, I would have committed suicide or gone crazy."

MISS BURKE, keen and witty, sat in the living room of her daughter's home in Hollywood, wearing a gray dress and yellow shawl below her grayish-white hair. Her voice was as fluttery, high-pitched and charming as ever.

"People have tried to re-do the Follies before," she said. "But they all seemed to have missed—even the movie of his life. What Mr. Ziegfeld had above all was exquisite taste in everything."

Miss Burke almost always refers to her late husband as "Mr. Ziegfeld." Did she ever take part in the shows or behind the scenes—or try to be a "Ziegfeld girl" in the chorus?

"Heavens, no!" she said. "I never qualified. My legs were Billie Burke, widow of famed Follies producer, in motion picture heyday. Now 72, she is eager to see Follies return.

fat, and I was short. I used to die, looking at those beautiful girls, biting my nails, wondering, 'Which one? Which one?' And Mr. Ziegfeld always teased me, saying, 'You've guessed thhe wrong one!'"

HOW DID the present deal come about?

"It started the way all such things do," said Miss Burke, who was born in Washington, D.C., the daughter of a circus clown. "We went to lunch and talked about everything except business — until next time. I decided Mr. Ashton has a good reputation for taste."

Said Ashton: "The two big shows in Vegas are the Lido Revue and the Folies Bergere. But America has its own great name—Ziegfeld. The Ziegfeld Follies are to this country what the Folies Bergere is to France. Why not put it on?"

Miss Burke, who has made such movies as "Dinner at Eight," "Becky Sharp," "The Wizard of Oz," and "The Man Who Came to Dinner," said she met Ziegfeld at a dance.

"I didn't know who he was," she said. "It was one of those dances where they blew a whistle and you stopped. Three times I wound up with him as my partner, but I didn't care—he was such a good dancer. When I returned to my party, they kidded me, 'Don't tell us you've fallen for Ziegfeld.' I was horrified, not knowing who he was."

THEIR COURTSHIP consisted mainly of clandestine meetings in places such as Grant's Tomb because her producer had forbidden her to see Ziegfeld and even made her sign a contract with a non-marrying clause.

But they were married in 1914 in New Jersey without fanfare. During the depression, his finances were in serious condition, and his health was cracking under the strain of business worries. He died in 1932, and she never remarried.

Happy Idea: A Flaming Dessert

Flaming plum pudding, fruit cake, cherries jubilee and oranges—all are dramatic desserts for holidays.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

THIS YEAR, there are new and easy versions of the traditional desserts that bring Christmas dinner to an end in a blaze of glory and a "blaze" in flavor!

Flaming desserts make a spectacular, fitting climax to the most festive day of the year; now modern, specially devised short-cut methods produce authentic, delectable plum pudding made from a mix.

The secret of successful flaming is to warm the flaming spoon (a stainless steel or silver soup ladle does nicely) before you pour the spirit into it; then warm the spirit by holding the spoon in the chafing dish flame. Tip the spoon slightly and the spirit will blaze up. In the kitchen, simply warm the liquor in a small pan on the stove, and fire it with a lighted kitchen match; then pour it blazing over the plum pudding and bring the dessert triumphantly to table.

Easy Plum Pudding

- 1 box oatmeal bread mix
- 2 eggs, lightly beaten
- 1 1/4 cups applesauce
- 2 teaspoons orange rind
- 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 3/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 1 1/2 cups chopped dried prunes
- 1 cup raisins
- 3/4 cup chopped walnuts
- Candied pineapple for decorations

Combine oatmeal bread mix, eggs, applesauce, 1/4 cup liquor or brandy. Mix well. Blend remaining ingredients. Pour into a well greased mold or coffee can. Cover container tightly with lid, aluminum foil, or double thickness of waxed paper, tied securely with string. Place on a rack in a deep kettle. Pour in boiling water to about 1/2 depth of mold; cover kettle tightly. Steam a 1 1/2 quart mold about an hour or 2 hours, coffee cans 1 1/4 to 2 hours. Keep water boiling briskly. Pudding is done when it is firm to the touch. To Flame: warm liquor or brandy about 1/4 cup—in a ladle; ignite, pour flaming over pudding. Invert on serving plate. Decorate base with candied pineapple halves.

Cherries Jubilee

- 1 can Bing cherries, 1 lb. 14 oz.
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 to 1/2 cup brandy or cognac

Pour juice from cherries into top pan or blazer of chafing dish, heat to boiling and boil rapidly until the liquid is reduced by about one half. Stir; in cinnamon. Add cherries; heat. Heat brandy or cognac in a ladle or warming pan. Ignite; pour over cherries. Spoon the flaming sauce over the cherries and serve still flaming over vanilla or egg nog ice cream. Serves 6 to 8.

- 6 to 8 large seedless oranges
- 6 to 8 maraschino cherries
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 cup orange juice
- 1 cup water
- 1 teaspoon lemon rind
- 1/2 cup gin

Peel whole oranges, removing all of the white membrane. Arrange oranges in a chafing dish and top each with a maraschino cherry; secure with a toothpick. Mix cornstarch with sugar; add juice, water, and lemon rind. Bring to boil; simmer 10 minutes, stirring frequently, until sauce is thick and clear. Spoon over oranges. Heat gin in a ladle; ignite; pour flaming over oranges. Serves 6 to 8.

$5 for Your Recipe

HOLIDAY CANDY tops the list as best recipe of the week and wins Southland's $5 prize for Mrs. E. Cahill, 6301 Elliot St., Long Beach 4.

Mrs. Cahill's recipe:

CHRISTMAS YULE LOGS

- 2 tblsp. evaporated milk, combined with
- 1/2 tsp. rum flavoring
- 3 tblsp. more of evaporated milk
- 2 1/2 cups white sugar
- 1 cup chopped candied red cherries
- 16 caramels
- 1 1/2 cups chopped pecans

Base: Combine two tablespoons of the evaporated milk and rum flavoring in a bowl. Stir in sugar until blended; knead until smooth and shiny.

To Form Logs: Knead in cherries, adding more sugar if necessary. Shape into two 6-inch logs, roll in waxed paper. Chill until firm. Combine caramels and remaining three tablespoons of evaporated milk. Heat over boiling water until melted, making certain to stir often. Turn caramel mixture into pie pan. Quickly roll logs in caramel mixture, then in outer covering of pecans. Roll into waxed paper, chill until firm. Slice and serve.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Each recipe must be on a separate sheet of paper, written only on one side of the sheet. No recipes will be returned, and selections of the judges is final. Send yours, with name and address, to: Recipe Contest Editor, Independent Press-Telegram Southland Magazine, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12.

GRADE CARD

Tips on Reading

By Harry Karns

YOUR CHILD may know how to read words, sentences, paragraphs—but does he actually know how to read a book?

Does he know how to START reading a book?

Reading a book of non-fiction to satisfy an assignment is like taking a trip to a specific place. It makes sense to study the route ahead of time.

The preliminary study of a book should answer these questions:

"Where does this book take me?"

"What am I supposed to get from it?"

"Which parts contain the answers to my assignment?"

HERE IS A list of suggestions which many good students find helpful as they advance in school and bring home more and more textbooks and reading assignments:

1. Give the book a quick general survey. Flip through it rapidly from beginning to end to get the "feel" of its length, printing, and general makeup.

2. Look at the very first pages to see when it was printed. Is it a new book on your subject or one which has been in print for some time?

3. Consider the title. What does it mean? Where does it come from?

4. Get acquainted with the author. Is there a biography in the front of the book? What other books has he written?

5. Read introductory materials. Is there a preface, an author's note, an introduction? These will help you understand the purpose and method of the book.

6. Now read the table of contents. Keep asking yourself: "How are the chapters related to one another and to the title?"

7. Glance through the index to see the sort of details which the book furnishes on the subject.

8. Examine the book from beginning to end a second time, more slowly than before. Look at the chapter headings, at the first sentences and first paragraphs of chapters, at the subheadings within the chapters. Pause to examine pictures, charts, and diagrams; these indicate points which will be stressed in the text.

AFTER DOING these things, the student knows generally what the book covers, how the writer is going to talk about the subject, and some of the specific kinds of information provided.

He is prepared to read the book more intensively, in part or in whole—depending on the ability of the book to provide what he needs.

Like a traveler, a student has the choice of heading blindly down the road or first looking at a map to see where it leads, what to expect along the way, and where the best places are to spend some time.

You Ask We Answer

By Haila

Q. Please give a recipe for a paste that can be used for cloth.

A. A flexible paste suitable for use with either cloth or paper may be made as follows: Stir four ounces of common starch and two ounces of white dextrine in one-half pint of cold water, making a smooth paste. Dissolve one ounce of borax in two quarts of boiling water and to this add one-quarter pint of glycerine. Pour the starch-dextrine mixture into the hot solution and stir until the paste reaches the desired consistency.

Q. When did U. S. life insurance companies first employ agents to sell insurance?
P. C.

A. The Institute of Life Insurance says that the first American company to do so was the New York Life Insurance and Trust Co., established in 1830. This company later discontinued its life insurance business and was subsequently merged with the Bank of New York. The first American agent for fixed premium life insurance is believed to have been Israel Whelen of Philadelphia, who was in 1807 appointed agent for the Pelican Life Insurance Co. of London.

Q. How many windows are there in the U. N. building?
N. H.

A. The United Nations Secretariat Building in New York has 5,400 aluminum-framed windows on its north and south fronts.

Q. How old was Shirley Temple when she started her acting career?

A. She was three and one-half years old when she made her first movie, with no dramatic training, playing leading roles from the beginning. She was born on April 23, 1928.

"On a trip overseas, is it now $100 each we can bring in duty-free?"

THAT'S THE new rule, $100 each once a month.

"... and if we ship back some clothing made in Hong Kong and Japanese china and other things, which should be declared as duty-free so that we pay on the items on which there is least duty?"

One good thing about this: U.S. Customs chooses the things on which you pay the least duty and charges on that.

That is, if you go over the $100 and there is a choice between paying for clothing (33 per cent) and some item at 10 per cent.

You can send gifts under $10 as often as you like — one per person per day — and this is NOT charged against your $100. So it is a good idea to send such things rather than carry them in. Carry them back with you and they are charged against your $100 exemption.

"... if you would suggest a few restaurants you like in London."

Three floors of three-table rooms with leaded-glass windows. Serves Dover sole, mainly. (There are four Wheeler's. The one you want has the address, Duke of York Street at Apple Tree Yard.)

Going Places

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

HONG KONG
AFTER World War II, this community was a badly disorganized city of over a million. In the past decade twice as many more souls have streamed here. They came from Red China's legal emigration quota of 50 a day, by junk and sampan in illegal hundreds of thousands, and by handfuls swimming across the Samshun River. More than a million of them were destitute.

Not only didn't Hong Kong collapse under the burden, but it bloomed. By some miracle money was raised for smart, clean apartment developments to house the millions who at first camped in squalid huts on the hillsides. Today only 300,000 of more than two million refugees remain in the shack towns. They too will be absorbed within three years.

ATTRACTED by the plentiful labor, small industry came and put nearly everybody to work, many as independent contractors in textiles. The rest went to work in construction or at what Chinese do well—setting up small shops to sell necessities to each other.

Attracted by the bargains available from all this cheap labor, as well as by the awesome proximity to China—a place most will never see—the tourists showed up. They were not disappointed.

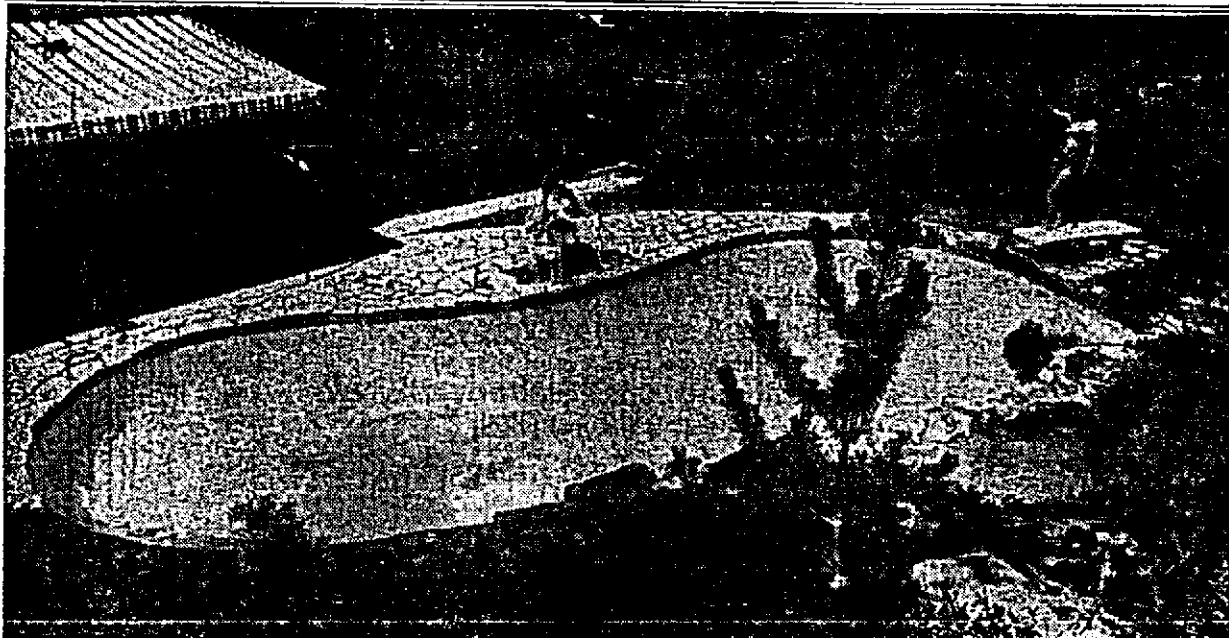

Hong Kong has one of the most startlingly beautiful settings in the world. It curls around a lovely deep harbor that winds far inland like a Norwegian fjord. It is blessed with a tropical sunlight that bathes it in morning and evening with breath-catching oranges and mauves. Butterfly sails of fishing junks punctuate the waters as if placed there for scenery.

MOST OF ALL, there are the 3,000,000 people that somehow have been jammed neatly into these 399 square miles. They swarm in the streets below the towering tenements—Cantonese women in Chinese pajamas with babies strapped to their backs, Shanghaiese girls in Suzy Wong dresses slit up to here, men staggering gingerly under yoke burdens of who-knows-what, screeching children playing soccer in the playgrounds and countless school yards... everyone busy, working, going somewhere and forever buying and selling whatever humans need in the thousands upon thousands of shop stalls.

The electrifying commerce goes on everywhere, all the time—among the neon-lit restaurants and blazing jewelry stores of Nathan Road at night; down the teeming alleys, side streets and canyons off Shanghai Street and Hollywood Road, where you won't see a word of English among thousands of signs; over the bolts of wool in the air-conditioned tailor shops of Cameroon Road; in the banking houses and department stores of Victoria, indistinguishable from the financial district of any American or European city.

THE THREADS of Hong Kong's many fabrics unravel block by block, mile by mile. The Chinatown of Wanchai or Hollywood Road gives out onto the climbing streets and colonial architecture of Albert Road and its palm-shaded government buildings or, from another direction, towards the Victorian homes and European look of Kennedy Town. The stalls of Shanghai Street end abruptly at an apartment development. A foliage-shaded residential section plunges suddenly into a tenement district where television antennae pierce the sky alongside washing hanging from bamboo poles.

And always there are the dinning throngs of people, content with a basic of life that scarcely crosses the visitor's mind—the chance to weave blankets and sell Coca-Cola in a free society.

Weekend in Caracas

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent Press-Telegram Travel Editor

CARACAS
EXCURSIONS to the moon aren't being offered—yet—but you CAN spend a weekend in this flossy Venezuelan capital.

It's done via Delta Air Lines' newly inaugurated 880 Convairet jet service, the only direct route from the West Coast without delaying stopovers en route.

I know, because I am on the inaugural flight, touching the Caracas airstrip exactly 11 hours and 29 minutes after takeoff from Los Angeles International, and after brief stops in Dallas, New Orleans, and Jamaica, British West Indies. The distance is 4,939 miles, and our actual flying time was 8 hours, 54 minutes.

If you don't think that's jetting, give it a try!

Caracas is many things to many people.

To the seasoned traveler, it is one of the most glamorous cities in South America, a gleaming, teeming metropolis of 1.3 million. And it has everything.

AFTER DEBARKING from your Delta jet, you go by limousine over Pico Avila mountain into Caracas. Well, you don't go all the way over; at one point you drive through a three-mile tunnel, at the end of which you see Caracas glistening in the sunlight.

Caracas was built at an altitude of 3,036 feet, boasts a year-around temperature of 68 degrees, Venezuelans (don't call them natives) declare that the temperature varies no more than 4 degrees the year around. A just dandy place to linger on if you wish to extend that weekend.

Skyscrapers are everywhere. Now rising on a hillside overlooking the downtown business section is an unusual one, the 15-story Heli-coid building. This one is built like a pyramid, wide at the bottom and much smaller at the top. When completed, it will have an auto ramp—an avenida—all the way to the top, making it possible to pass the doors of a veritable city of shops and restaurants and night clubs along the way.

Caracas is blessed with more hotels than you can count. Ours is the Tamanaco, of the Intercontinental chain. It was named for an Indian chief who once roamed these verdant hills, but to guests it means living at its best. Its architecture is Aztec.

ON TOP OF Pico Avila Mountain, facing the blue, blue Caribbean on one side and Caracas on the other, is the $5 million, 15-story Hotel Humboldt. You reach it by cable car, and its climb at some stages appears almost vertical.

Scheduled to open in mid-May is the Macuto Sheraton, on the coast above Caracas airport. It has 450 rooms, a private beach, a private yacht harbor and 16 types of the most expensive Italian marble. Government built by ex-Dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez, it is the most expensive hotel ever built anywhere, actually costing $47 million without furnishings. It is often referred to as "the disgrace of Venezuela," with the explanation that the cost included such items as graft.

(Caracas' tap water does have microbes, but it is not the liquid death you encounter in Mexico. All the best hotels strive to protect their guests with filtered water.)

CARACAS is the San Francisco of South America in many ways, but its flora is Hawaiian—no, Caribbean, which is similar. Nowhere will you see more vivid—and gigantic—poisettias (here we saw our first white ones), bougainvilleas, hibiscus and oleanders, which set a flamboyant color pattern for all manner of smaller blooms and greenery. The national flower is the orchid, of which 50 species grow within a few miles of the capital.

Brown—uniformed officers are conspicuous on every hand. You see them coming into Caracas, at both entrances of the great tunnel, with machine guns ready for any emergency. You see them in the jungle of downtown traffic. We are told that extra precautions are being taken since the diplomatic break with Castro. Only about one-half of one per cent of the people are Castro sympathizers, but they have made themselves known with various harassments.

Prices certainly aren't on the giveaway level, but Venezuelans point out that they have slid downward 40 per cent since the government devalued its currency a year ago. Dinner prices equal San Francisco's, or possibly a little higher; a good hotel room, for two, costs anywhere from $8 to $40 a night. You must remember that Venezuela's economy is based on oil.

ENTERTAINMENT—music, principally—is calypso. And the way they do it down here, you can sit for hours and watch and listen. Visitors do just that, too. If you turn in before 3 a.m., you're a piker.

Sports? You bet! There's horseracing every Saturday and Sunday. Venezuelans turn out for bullfighting in a big way, too, but the national pastime is baseball. You see the kids playing it on every vacant lot. Off the coast, in 78-degree water, is some of the finest sail fishing in the world.

The short-skirted señoritas are dark-eyed, but not all are dark-skinned. Eighty per cent of the Venezuelans are mestizos—Indians with a mixture of Spanish blood. Indian girls have no hair on their legs; the Spanish girls do have. So, all the women let the hair grow on their legs to prove their heritage of Spanish blood.

Gobierno: Revolutions come and go in the Latin countries, often with the seasons, but Venezuelans with whom we talked feel that President Romulo Betancourt's government represents the best interests of the United States and that he is South America's hope against communism. Since taking office, he has purchased idle lands and redistributed them among the poor, and has introduced other notable reforms. He has closed all Communist offices and jailed some 250 Red leaders. Thus, he didn't ban the Communist party; he simply put it out of business.

PASSPORTS are not required of visitors from the United States. A birth certificate, driver's license or Social Security card will do in its stead, plus four photos to be attached to visas.

While Caracas already is a "must" stop for travelers, Venezuelans see a tremendous surge of tourist business in the next two years. The direct Delta Air Lines' jet route from California, they feel, will be a very noticeable contributing factor.

(Next week: Visit to Jamaica, British West Indies.)

SPACE doesn't permit listing all the fine large breeds of dogs, but not long ago in a poll taken of large breeds favored by men, the top six were German shepherd, boxer, great Dane, collie, standard poodle and Irish setter, which is a wide variation from the popularity rank of the American Kennel Club. No poll has been taken to indicate breeds of any size favored by women, but if one were taken, mostly small breeds would be at the top. However, it is a safe bet to say that among a combined poll of men and women on large dogs preferred, the German shepherd would win first place by a landslide.

And they would want him to be as gentle, intelligent and beautiful as the German shepherd pictured with this article, a dog especially selected to appear here by this columnist because of these qualities which are combined in perfect balance. He is Philberlyn's Bravado owned by Philip and Bertie Freidberg, 1205 Kenneydale Ave., South San Gabriel.

AS MAN pulled up out of the muck of ignorance, he stopped being a wanderer and began to settle down, and this required capturing animals to keep his family in food. So began the pastoral age and with it a real use for specialized dogs. Several types of sheepherding dogs gradually evolved in Germany, each fashioned according to its environment. With the march of civilization, herders gathered together to brag about their dogs, and eventually the breeds were combined into a single shepherd dog that could work well under any condition.

Toward the end of 1889, Rittmeister (Calvary Captain) Max Emil Friedrich von Stephanitz set about in earnest to standardize the German shepherd. Realizing that the pastoral era was over, he wanted a strong, sound, dependable dog to serve in other roles such as the government or police agents might offer. With Artur Meyer, Stephanitz founded the first German shepherd club, the Verein für Deutsche Schäferhunde, a club that eventually drew 30,000 members, making it the largest club devoted to one breed ever created. The standard drawn up for the breed stressed utility and intelligence. That the dog proved beautiful as well was incidental.

However, his beauty plus his records in World War I and the heroic acts of Rin-Tin-Tin and Strongheart on the movie screen catapulted the breed into such popularity that by the mid-20s every third dog registered in the United States was a German shepherd. The resultant "puppy factories" as rapidly plummeted the breed almost into the discard. Dedicated fanciers, however, stood by their beloved dog and re-established the German shepherd as a breed without a peer, servant of all mankind. His acts of courage, his mercy missions, his members devoted to patiently guiding the blind cannot be calculated numbers.

How Sightless Can Tell Color

By Ben Zinser and George X. Trimble, M. D.

HOW CAN A blind person tell the color of the clothing he's about to put on?

It's easy if he has a selection of the tiny aluminum discs distributed by the American Federation for the Blind. Each disc is stamped with a two-letter Braille abbreviation for any one of 10 colors. The disc is sewn into the garment.

The discs are sent without charge to the blind. Write: American Federation for the Blind, 15 W. 16th St., New York City.

BECAUSE WOMEN are marrying younger, fewer twins can be expected in the U. S., predict two researchers, Amram Scheinfeld of Columbia University and Joseph Schechter of the U. S. Office of Vital Statistics.

A woman is four times as apt to have twins at 35 as at 20, they say in a report published by Medical World News, a physicians' news magazine.

A NATIONAL Dental Health Center, first of its kind, has been opened in San Francisco. The center, located on the grounds of the Public Health Service Hospital, provides facilities for applied research in the prevention and control of dental diseases. Dental public health workers also will be trained there.

INTELLIGENCE doesn't decline with age, says Dr. Robert W. Kleemeier, Washington University psychologist. He gave intelligence tests at intervals over a 12-year period to persons aged 65 to 90. Finding: No evidence of intellectual decline. However, in those about to die, regardless of age, there was a sharp drop in intellectual function.

TEN THOUSAND persons will be injured on the golf course this year, predicts the National Golf Foundation in a report in GP, a journal for family physicians.

Ninety-three per cent of the injuries will be caused by rocketing balls and swinging clubs, according to the estimate. The other 7 per cent will result from heat prostration and lightning.

NERVE IMPULSES speed along a human nerve fiber at a speed of about 200 miles an hour in a healthy human, says "The Wonderful Human Machine," a publication of the American Medical Association. Nerve messages are somewhat slower in newborn infants. Certain nerve ailments affecting muscular coordination can slow down the velocity.

Married women are sharing this secret

... the new, easier, surer protection
for those most intimate marriage problems

What a blessing to be able to trust in the wonderful germicidal protection Norforms can give you. Norforms have a highly perfected new formula that releases anti-septic and germicidal ingredients with long-lasting action. The exclusive new base melts at body temperature, forming a powerful protective film that guards (but will not harm) the delicate tissues.

And Norforms' deodorant protection has been tested in a hospital clinic and found to be more effective than anything it had ever used. Norforms eliminate (rather than cover up) embarrassing odors, yet have no "medicine" or "disinfectant" odor themselves.

And what convenience! These small feminine suppositories are so easy and convenient to use. Just insert—no apparatus, mixing or measuring. They're greaseless and they keep in any climate.

Now available in new packages of 6, as well as 12 and 24. Also available in Canada.

Unlike most dark red roses, John S. Armstrong retains color in every stage and will not burn or turn bluish.

Rose That's Constant

By Joe Littlefield

OF SEVERAL new roses planted in our garden last winter, John S. Armstrong, one of the four All America Rose Selections for 1962, was the first to bloom. The rich red colors didn't turn bluish as do some red roses that fade in hot weather.

We cut off the flowers and faded blooms stingily, just below the flower heads above the first bud or leaf. Flowers on new roses cut thus encourage good body and branch growth. Cut them greedily with long stems and you're likely to have short stunted bushes. New roses are cut with long stems after the first year.

To prepare soil for rose planting, work some organic matter in the soil before planting, and you'll do the roses a favor. The roses will start better and you'll have good rose bushes, provided you buy top grade roses to begin with.

Dig the holes about 18 inches to 2 feet deep and 18 inches wide. Mix about two parts of organic matter with three parts soil taken from planting hole. Organic matter may be manure, compost soil or prepared material containing peat moss and leaf mold. Soak down well. In a week or 10 days later dig the soil over and soak again. A week or two later, set out your bare-root roses.

OLD CHRYSANTHEMUM stalks from which flowers have been removed should not be cut back until new growth at base of stalks has grown out at least an inch. Cut the old stalks too early before new growth for the next year has begun and you may have only a few or no new growths. The old stalks with several live leaves on them, do their bit in helping the plants develop the new growths for next year.

A MAN WITH a marked foreign accent phoned Francois' Manhattan Restaurant, 1909 E. 4th St., the other evening. Owner-host Bob Boyle had difficulty understanding what the caller wanted, but finally determined that he was asking for reservations for a party of eight.

When the group arrived, Boyle realized they were French. With many gestures, they explained in halting English that they were visiting California from France, had heard about Francois' Manhattan Restaurant from friends in Paris and had decided to give it a try.

They were not disappointed.

Incidents similar to that occur at the Manhattan all the time.

The Manhattan's luncheons are masterpieces of culinary art created by Chef John Rossi. Among the unusual entrees are steamed finnan haddie ($1.65), which is a smoked haddock dish rarely served in other restaurants; spaghetti Tetrazzini ($1.60), which includes an unusual white sauce with bits of chicken, and fresh large mushrooms saute ($1.85), with rice and new peas. Often served throughout the week are tenderloin tips with mushrooms au vin rouge (cooked in red wine) and Swiss steak, both $1.50. All the entrees include large salad bowl or soup du jour, bread basket and coffee.

Luncheons are served from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The big table d'hote dinners (priced from $2.75) are served from 5 to 11:30 p.m. Both luncheons and dinners are available in the handsome banquet room, which has seating for parties of from 20 to 40 persons.

The Manhattan is closed Mondays. —TEDD THOMEY.

PERSONALITY PARADE

If you have a question on a personality, send it to Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Names will be used unless otherwise requested. PARADE cannot reply to inquiries.

Q. When President and Mrs. Kennedy go anywhere they are always protected by the Secret Service. Who protects the Queen of England and Prince Philip?—Diana Rawlinson, New Orleans, La.

A. The Queen and Prince Philip are accompanied on trips by their personal detective-bodyguards, Albert Perkins, 53, who guards the Queen, and Frank Kelley, 45, who guards the Prince.

Q. Would greatly appreciate information about Jennifer Jones, one of the world's best actresses. Is she married and does she have any children? Where does she live?—Janice Ohanian, Paterson, N.J.

A. Miss Jones lives in Los Angeles, has been married to producer David O. Selznick since 1949. They have a daughter, 7, and Mrs. Selznick has two sons, 20 and 21, by her previous marriage to the late Robert Walker.

Q. What is comedian Joey Bishop's real name and where is he from?—E.S., Chicago, Ill.

A. Joseph Gottlieb from Philadelphia.

Q. Who said: "Some movie stars wear their sunglasses even in church; they're afraid God might recognize them and ask for autographs."—Robert H., Asheville, N.C.

A. The late Fred Allen.

Q. Did any U.S. President ever reach the age of 90 in or out of office?—David Bass, Pittsburgh, Pa.

A. John Adams, out of office, died at 90.

Q. Was Audrey Hepburn ever a chorus girl?—Jonathan Stone, Sherman, N.Y.

A. Yes, that's how she started in show business. She worked as a chorus girl in Ciro's cabaret in London, then as a chorine in musicals.

Q. How old is Jolie Gabor, mother of the Gabor sisters? How old is their father?—Mrs. T. Smith, Sunnymead, Calif.

A. Papa Gabor is 80, Mama Jolie Gabor 71.

Q. How about that Jack Lemmon-Joan Collins romance? Anything there?—Della M., Rainier, Ore.

A. Mr. Lemmon and Miss Collins entertained each other while Mr. Lemmon was in Europe filming. Each denies a romantic interest in the other.

Q. I would like to find out if Ingrid Bergman's mother was German or Swedish, her maiden name, and where she came from.—M. McGovern, New Haven, Conn.

A. Ingrid Bergman's mother, the former Friedel Adler of Hamburg, Germany, died in 1929 when Ingrid was 12.

Q. Of all sports, which is considered the most dangerous?—Ellis Gilbert, Newark, N.J.

A. Auto racing. For example, of the 16 drivers who raced in the 1958 Grand Prix, six today are dead, a seventh so badly injured he will never race again.

Q. Does anyone know why the electronics industry in this country has been concentrated in Massachusetts and California?—A. Wheeler, Calais, Me.

A. Scientists prefer a cultural, scientific, and educational environment. In Massachusetts this is provided by Boston and its great nearby universities, Harvard and MIT. In California, this is provided by the institutions near San Francisco and Los Angeles, such as Stanford, University of California, UCLA, and the California Institute of Technology.

Q. Whatever happened to a young actor named Farley Granger who ten years ago was the teenagers' idol?—Louella Webster, Urbana, Ohio.

A. Granger decided to leave Hollywood and learn acting. He is currently in the road company of the stage play, Advise and Consent.

Q. I love the music of Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians. How old is he, and how long has he been leading this group?—Edna Mueller, Brookville, Ohio.

A. Waring, 61, put together his original foursome, called "The Banjassatra," in Tyrone, Pa., at age 18. The group grew in size, was known briefly as "Waring's Collegians," then expanded to approximately its present size and became known as Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians.

Q. Why don't the British have a draft or compulsory military service as we do?—Sanford Wheeler, Rocky Mount, N.C.

A. The British say they cannot afford it. They also do not believe a conventional war is possible in Europe. They maintain that if hostilities occur on the continent they will rapidly be "escalated" into a nuclear war.

No small potatoes these...

Tiny they are . . . these tasty new potato bites from Birds Eye. But when it comes to menu artistry, they are very big indeed. First of all, the flavor of Tiny Taters is zipped up with a bit of onion and fine seasonings, adding new taste appeal to the simplest meal. Then, the dainty size suggests all kinds of new eye appeal. Try chicken and Tiny Taters in a tempting basket like this. Put a ring of them around a hamburger. Or you can even dip them at hors d'oeuvre time. Tiny Taters are big any time of day. Oh, and the package is big, too . . . six to eight servings. With all Birds Eye products, the idea is new food pleasure for you. That's why—Better Buy Birds Eye.

For the pains and fever
of Colds and Flu
DOCTORS RECOMMEND ASPIRIN.

BAYER®
BRINGS FASTEST RELIEF!

...the fastest, most gentle to the stomach relief you can get from the aches, pains and fever of a cold or flu!

This is a simple fact: in private conversations, in magazine articles, in newspapers and medical journals, doctors and public health officials have repeatedly recommended one thing for painful discomforts and fever of colds and flu. That one thing is aspirin. Specifically, aspirin.

In fact, when we asked thousands of doctors if they themselves took aspirin, better than nine out of ten said, "Yes."

So when any member of your family suffers the painful discomforts and fever of a cold or flu, help him to feel better fast with Bayer Aspirin, preferred by more millions of people than any other brand of pain reliever.

Now children, as well as adults, can feel better fast with Bayer Aspirin. You can give Flavored Bayer Aspirin for Children with your doctor's blessing; it's the 1/4-grain dosage doctors recommend.

Yuri Gagarin

The true facts about

RUSSIA'S ASTRONAUTS

by OPAL GINN

WASHINGTON, D.C.
BEFORE Russia's first space explorers take their place in history alongside the pioneers of the past, they must clear up a few questions for historians. For their blast-off into orbit has also launched some rumors and mysteries as disquieting as have ever beset a scientific conquest.

Is it true, for instance, that Yuri Gagarin actually was the first man to leave the earth's atmosphere and return again after a fast whirl around the world? This question has been raised by no less than Lt. Col. John Powers, spokesman for America's astronauts. He suggested: "There have been so many inconsistencies in the report by Gagarin in connection with program details as to lend doubt as to whether he was the guy who went into orbit."

Quick-Change Act

And what about Gherman Titov, the second Soviet spaceman? One eyewitness reported Titov took off in an orange-colored space suit; but another witness who saw him land 25 hours later claimed he was wearing blue coveralls. Did he change suits in flight?

The doubts about his feat have been whispered even behind the Iron Curtain. In the satellite countries, for instance, Titov was the butt of recent jokes. Sample: In the privacy of his home after his triumphant return from space, Titov was confronted by his wife who asked: "Now that we're alone, honey, where did you spend that night?"

To add to the mystery, the Soviet Embassy here abruptly withdrew a movie of Titov in orbit ten minutes before it was scheduled to be shown to the Maryland Academy of Sciences. What was it that the Russians didn't want American scientists to see?

Snores in Space

Some medics are also mystified by Titov's announced ability to sleep and wake up by self-command. And what about the minor illnesses and accidents which reportedly have plagued both Gagarin and Titov since their historic flights?

Obviously, such questions cast a cloud over one of man's greatest achievements. Was it a true achievement? To get the answer, PARADE has gone to the experts, the American scientists and military men who have closely analyzed the Gagarin-Titov flights. Here is what they say:

Beyond any doubt, men were aboard both space capsules. Their heartbeats and respiration were actually picked up by our sensitive tracking equipment.

Gherman Titov

The intercepted information agreed completely with the announcement put out by Moscow. In the case of Titov's flight, we confirmed that television cameras were operating inside the capsule but couldn't intercept the pictures.

True, there were inconsistencies in the Russian reports of Gagarin's landing. But our experts suspect that the Russians deliberately scrambled the facts to disguise the landing technique.

As for Titov's suit of alternating colors, the available evidence indicates he wore an orange-colored space suit but carried blue coveralls which he pulled on later.

What about the case of the canceled movie? Westerners who saw it in Moscow claimed the photography was poor and the propaganda thick. Probably the Soviet Embassy here simply decided at the last minute that it would make a poor impression.

To explain Titov's ability to control his sleep, newspapers have speculated that he may have been hypnotized or may have used drugs. But our experts believe he simply had been trained to sleep and awaken without regard for night and day. They point out that Soviet scientists have been studying how to counteract the psychological effect of not having a day-night cycle.

Still in Good Health

Although both Gagarin and Titov have canceled public appearances because of minor injuries and illnesses, our space medics don't think the flights were damaging to their health. It isn't likely that they would have been healthy one day, sick the next, then healthy the next as Gagarin and Titov have been.

Our experts concede that the Gagarin-Titov flights will go down in history in red letters—unhappily, with a capital "R". But our astronauts, not far behind, may yet win the race to the moon. ■

MASS MURDERER EICHMANN'S LAST LETTERS TO HIS FAMILY

A PARADE EXCLUSIVE by JACK ANDERSON Parade Washington correspondent

EDITOR'S NOTE: PARADE sent Jack Anderson to South America last year to search for war criminals still in hiding. He made contacts inside the Nazi underground and exposed its operation in three PARADE articles. He also became the first American newsman to make direct contact with Adolf Eichmann's secretive family. From the family, Anderson has now obtained the letters which the mass slayer has written from his Israeli prison. These letters are presented to PARADE readers to help complete the record of one of the most dramatic episodes of modern times.

WHAT DOES THE MURDERER of six million Jews, after 18 months alone in a cell with only his memories for company, write home to his family? What are Adolf Eichmann's last words to the wife who had kept his terrible secret? To his sons who had thought him their uncle?

Since his dramatic capture by Israeli commandos, Eichmann has written only rarely to his family in Buenos Aires. These personal letters, which the overlord of the Nazi gas chambers signed simply "Your Papa," have been given exclusively to PARADE.

What advice does he have for the sons who carry on the name he has made infamous? Does he feel any twinge of conscience? Now that he is at the mercy of those to whom he showed no mercy, does he complain about his treatment? What is his philosophy as he awaits his fate?

Here are the answers in Eichmann's own words to his family.

He calls upon his boys to "be brave and stick together like cement."

He admonishes his wife, Vera, to keep out of debt: "I had a further thought that you might be forced one day to borrow money. I warn you not to do that, never lend money and never borrow money."

He reminisces about his last Easter at home: "I think in silent joy of our Easter celebration when Hasi [his pet name for his 5-year-old Argentina-born son, Ricardo] again and again busily looked for Easter eggs and then gave them to his mama. Little Hasi laughed and laughed and was excited over such a good Easter rabbit. In this way, a human being lives in joys of the past, like drinking from a spring which never runs dry."

'I Never Have Killed'

Ironically, the man who callously marked six million Jews for death now rails against the unfairness of his own accusers.

He declares his innocence to his loved ones: "On the eve of my monster trial, I will repeat once again: I assure you by the eternal peace of my dead parents and of my late father-in-law, their fathers as well as our brothers killed in the war, that I: (a) never have killed; (b) never have given a command for killing."

He whines about the accusations: "I cannot defend myself against lies and falsifications, against discrimination and meanness." He complains that prison authorities won't let him wear clothes from home.

He claims to be unconcerned about his fate, at peace with himself: "Rarely was there an accused man who regarded his immediate fate with as little concern as I do. Rarely was there an accused man who has had to take as little refuge in lying and betrayal as I have. I really praise the quietness of my imprisonment. This has to me the value of gold."

As the world now knows, after World War II Adolf Eichmann escaped from Germany to Argentina where his neighbors knew him as meek Ricardo Klement. His family followed in July 1952. Sons Klaus, Horst and Dieter, who had seen little of him as children, accepted their mother's explanation that he was their uncle.

The flop-eared, long-nosed German fugitive worked at mediocre jobs, built a modest home and occupied

Neatly-written letters show Eichmann's passion for order. He wrote only at irregular intervals.

Handwritten notes and signatures in German and Hebrew are visible around the typed letter, including "Lev Karmel Hotel" and "Materiel".

Squinting at his work, Adolf Eichmann writes in his prison cell. He helped prepare his own legal briefs.

himself working around the house, reading quasi-scientific articles, painting landscape scenes, and playing the violin.

Occasionally, he would sing Nazi marching songs, boast that he had never gone back on his Nazi oath. But he was careful to say nothing that would give away his true identity even to his boys.

Writing from his cell, he still boasts of his loyalty to the SS. "Several persons asked me in Israel, and especially the interrogating captain of the Israeli police," he relates, "whether I have been a good SS officer. I answered this question: 'I have done my duty, and I was obedient to the orders of my superior SS generals. I was always conscious of my vow which I have sworn to the flag. As an SS lieutenant-colonel, my honor called for as much loyalty as that of every last SS man.'

'I Will Not Bargain'

"I have kept this vow until exactly May 8, 1945, and not one day less," the letter continues. "If that which I have done according to my vow to the flag during the war and which I was obligated to do is punishable today, then I will not bargain. Then I have to take the consequences as a former SS officer."

On his last birthday, March 19, Eichmann used his attorney, Dr. Robert Servatius, to relay a message to his family. He dictated the words to Dr. Servatius who typed them. This letter complained about clothes.

"I thank you very sincerely, for sending me a suit, shoes, etc. I am sorry to report that these great expenses were completely for nothing because the authorities here have not given permission for me to wear your things. I have received all the necessary clothing here for the trial from official authorities."

He also refers to an article which his eldest son, Klaus, wrote for PARADE (My Father, Adolf Eichmann, March 19, 1961). The son simply told what life was like in the Eichmann home. But he also wrote: "I bear one of the most despised names in the world today. Yet I still love the man who gave me life. My father, Adolf Eichmann, is about to stand trial in faraway Israel for the murder of six million Jews in Hitler's gas chambers. . . . It is not easy for a son to believe such things of his father."

On April 17, as Eichmann was about to face the angry accusations against him, he wrote his family:

"On the eve of the beginning of my trial, I wish to speak once more to all my loved ones. First I thank all of you for your sincere greetings which have really given me much joy. If I had needed reinforcement, they would have done it."

He writes about Easter, then continues: "I send my thanks for the greetings and kisses to Horst, to Klaus, Dieter, Hasi, to my dear Monica (Klaus' daughter), to my dear Elvira (then Horst's fiancée, now his wife) and to my beloved Mama. I also send my thanks for their greetings and for their thinking of me to my dear brothers and sisters."

Of his trial, he writes bitterly: "I think that the sensations and lying propaganda around my person will suffer a defeat in this trial independent of how the trial might end. One certainly does not know how far certain notorious twistings of the truth will be able to twist my own words right from my mouth."

Bland Attitude

As Eichmann listened to the sickening evidence against him, his bland attitude was reflected in a letter he wrote his family on June 10. "Seldom has there been an accused man," he prates, "who could say that the court as well as the accusations were the very opposite of distasteful to him."

This letter contains a personal paragraph for his eldest son: "Dear Klaus, Martita expects a baby, and I think much of all of you and hope that everything will come out well. Maybe you could arrange it in such a way that you and Martita would move into the apartment at San Fernando during the absence of Mama in order that the house may not stay empty. I send you greetings and kisses and think of you."

Then the condemned man pens a postscript in Spanish to Klaus' pregnant wife. "My dear little Martita," he writes, "many kisses for you and for Monica. I hope in the next few days there will be hearty congratulations and a second little girl." Instead the grandchild, born July 30, was a boy, Marcelo.

What insight do these letters give into the mind of a monster?

Eichmann's letters reveal that there is something human in even the most inhuman of us. They show that even a monster is wrapped up in familiar, everyday concerns. They also show that this former SS officer and mass murderer remains an unrepentant criminal, a stiff-necked Nazi who believes to this day that allegiance to the Fuehrer was more important than six million innocent lives. ■

THE FAMILY WRITES BACK

WHAT KIND OF LETTERS did Adolf Eichmann receive from his family? For the most part, they are letters any family might write to a father away on a business trip. They report family news, say little of the trial.

Typical is a letter, dated September 17, from Klaus or Nicolas. "Monica is now a big girl. She is very clever and speaks a decent Spanish, also some German words," he writes. "Mama is completely taken by Monica's cleverness. We are all healthy. If Martita permits, then we will send you some photos of Monica."

"Horst, who is now married to Elvira, had to work hard. Dieter became quite an efficient factory boss—as nobody could have predicted. Aren't you surprised? You know we bought a very pretty piece of land last year. We hope to build on it one day. We are very careful about entertaining. Would you like a photo of the whole family? Do you get black cigarettes to smoke or could we send you a few cartons?"

"The little trees are growing. Recently I bought Mama a rooster, and in addition we will give her a few chickens. Also a duckling which Dieter bought yesterday. Some of the chickens were killed by the dogs, so we had to put some in the oven right away."

"We understand that you are well. Please write more! Maybe you have some special orders as in the past. I mean things we should do in the house for Mama? Yes, we have planted aras [grapes]. The fence is in good order, and the roof has been tarred. You would not recognize our house anymore."

How much is a husband worth?

by LLOYD SHEARER

Take a good look at your husband today. Sure, he's a dream and a darling. But ask yourself this question: How much is he really worth to you? Is he worth, say, $1,150 a week?

This is the type of perplexing problem that recently confronted attractive Marjorie Steele, 31, ex-cigarette girl, ex-actress, ex-wife of Huntington Hartford, 48, inheritor of an A&P grocery fortune estimated at $50,000,000.

This past June, after 11 years of marriage and two children, Marjorie was divorced from Hartford. She asked for $25,000,000, the largest divorce-claim ever filed in an American court, but eventually settled for a lump sum of approximately $400,000, plus an alimony of $60,000 a year until she remarried.

After receiving all this loot, Marjorie fell in love with—and married—a dimple-checked, curly-haired young British actor, Dudley Sutton, 28, now starring in a London play, A Whistle in the Dark.

After their surprise London wedding last month, Marjorie kissed off the money as "an embarrassment. Put it this way," she added, "—we had yachts. The yachts sailed away. So what?"

"What I want more than anything in the wide world," Marjorie declared, "is to build a solid, happy marriage. I want to make Dudley happy, and by making him happy I'll be happy.

"While I can't say that I like housework, so help me, I'm going to try."

Of this romance, Marjorie's first husband Huntington Hartford commented, "After all, for her to give up $1,150 a week for the rest of her life—well it really must be love."

Money versus marriage—this is the dilemma encountered by all divorcees once married to wealthy men and now enjoying financial security via alimony.

Take Frank Sinatra's first wife, Nancy. By terms of her divorce settlement she receives $50,000 a year plus 10 per cent of Sinatra's income over $150,000 a year. Or take Gregory Peck's first wife, Greta, to whom he pays $65,000 a year, or Marlon Brando's first bride, Anna Kashli, who wound up with $50,000 a year after only one year of marriage. Should these women jeopardize their financial security by falling in love and marrying again?

"Falling in love is fine," according to one cynical ex-wife, "but marriage is out unless the man I marry can give me more than the alimony I'm getting."

Debbie Bounces Back

Only rarely does that situation obtain. It happened most recently in the case of Debbie Reynolds, the Hollywood star. When her husband Eddie Fisher fell in love with Elizabeth Taylor and asked for a divorce, Debbie made him pay through the nose: an alimony of $1,250 a month plus a percentage of his earnings, their $125,000 home, support payments for the two children of $4,500 a month—all this despite the fact that she was earning more money than he. But then on-scene entered Harry Karl, a millionaire, the inheritor of a nationwide chain of shoe stores, a former husband of actress Marie MacDonald, a philanthropist who has both gambled and given away money as if it were going out of style in the morning.

Addicted to life in the movie colony, Karl proposed marriage to Debbie, who miraculously recovered from a broken heart, quickly gave up her alimony, from Fisher, and said, "Yes."

Not too long ago Karl bought a beautiful home in Beverly Hills for $110,000, had it razed to the ground so that he and Debbie could build on the same lot another structure more suited to their cultured taste. This will give you a small idea of how much money Karl has.

Catches like Karl, however, are rare for divorcees, most of whom are in their forties or fifties. In many cases these women are victims of their alimony in that these sizable payments deter them from making a fresh start in life.

For example, there is the former wife of a Hollywood movie star who receives each month an alimony check of $2,500. She has no pleasant memories of her first marriage, hates, in fact, to think about it. When she does, it is with recrimination. Having lost her husband to another woman, she has little faith in her ability to make a successful second marriage.

Nancy Sinatra—shown with son-in-law Tommy Sands—never remarried after her 1950 divorce from singer Frank Sinatra. She still receives a large share of his annual income.

HUSBAND continued

'I can always find a man

Fearful of risking her financial security, she goes from one love affair to another, backing away at the first serious suggestion of matrimony.

She has learned no new skill, spends most of her spare time shopping and gossiping. Her hefty and persistent alimony has prevented her from making or finding a new life for herself.

"I simply can't find a husband," she once told me, "who's worth $2,500 a month for life."

Eleanor Holm, ex-Olympic swimming star and former wife of showman Billy Rose, is frequently pointed out as a divorcee to whom large alimony payments have brought problems.

When Eleanor sued Rose for divorce, she figuratively had him over a barrel because of his friendship with blonde actress Joyce Matthews, who was found in his apartment, her wrists slashed. Rose agreed to pay Eleanor $600 a week until she remarried, together with a lump sum payment of $200,000.

Eleanor Holm's Dilemma

For years now Eleanor has been receiving her $600 each and every week, but this did not prevent her last year from taking an overdose of sleeping pills in the North Bay, Fla., home of Tom Whalen, a warm friend and escort who used to operate a Las Vegas gambling casino.

Is it possible that Eleanor is unhappy because she wants both a husband and $600 a week and can have only one?

Debbie Reynolds gave up sizable alimony checks from former husband Eddie Fisher when she remarried—but she didn't lose anything. Her new husband is shoe millionaire Harry Karl (above).

who's willing to help me spend my money'

One divorcee, ex-wife of a tobacco magnate, told me in Palm Springs recently, "It's hell for a woman like me whose alimony has been highly publicized. I can always find a man who's willing to help me spend my money. But when it comes to marriage, no guy wants to be responsible for my giving up the dough which made me attractive to him in the first place. You men are really such lice."

Gay Divorcee

Jack Douglas, who used to write jokes for Jack Paar, Jack Benny, and many other comedians until he decided to become one himself, went steadily with a divorcee for years. Countless times he proposed marriage only to be turned down because his girl preferred not to give up her alimony payments.

Eventually Douglas met a Japanese singer and married her. The divorcee fumed. "That miserable ingrate," she told a relative. "After all I did for him."

The culprit in all of this, according to the social psychologists, is alimony. Originally, alimony was a device of English ecclesiastical courts, intended to provide for wives separated from their husbands. This was in the days when there was no absolute divorce, and a husband could not abandon a wife without providing for her. "Alimony" is coined from a

Latin word meaning "to nourish."

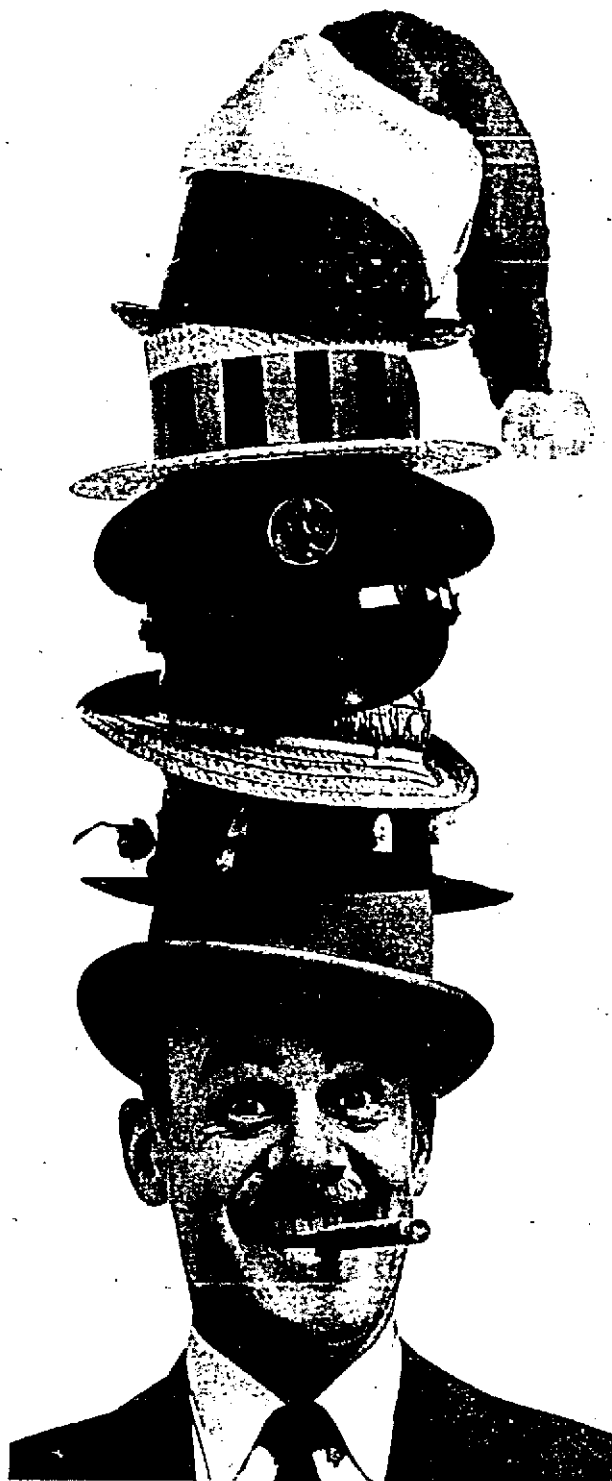

Nowadays, say the social scientists, there should be another form of nourishment for divorcees. They should not demand that alimony be paid them until they remarry since this invokes a financial penalty upon their future marriages and raises in their own minds the question of whether their future husband is worth the sacrifice.

Many divorcees insist upon having their cake and eating it, too. They prefer to live in sin rather than relinquish their alimony. I asked one such divorcee if she didn't find that particular modus vivendi incompatible with her childhood teachings and the morals of society.

"I have yet to find a man," she declared, "who insisted upon marriage. When I do I'll gladly give up my alimony."

All of which brings us back to the case of Marjorie Steele and Dudley Sutton. At 31, Marjorie has a normal life expectancy of another 40 years. If she had remained single, she would have received from Hartford or his estate roughly $60,000 a year. Her marriage to Sutton meant she lost the money—but gained in return love, companionship, possibly more children.

If you were Marjorie Steele, which would you have chosen: Dudley or the dough? ■

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

PAAR SUIT. Jack Paar, vociferous critic of the nation's press, was recently ordered to pay $15,000 in damages, the result of a libel suit brought against him by Pupi Campo, his former band-leader. Campo claimed that he was dropped from the Paar show in 1955 because he fell in love with fellow-performer Betty Clooney, now Mrs. Campo. He contended in his suit that Paar libeled him when he (Paar) gave his version on a CBS-TV morning show as to why he fired Campo. Paar, of course, through his attorney has moved to set aside the award.

BLACKMAIL. Ten years ago South Africa passed its tough Immorality Act. To date, more than 4,000 people, most of them white, have been convicted for its violation. The Immorality Act, which makes it an offense "to conspire to commit" relations between a white and a non-white, has now become a potential instrument of blackmail in every South African white home with a father or a grown son and a non-white female domestic. Many of these domestics are threatening to report their white male employers to the government for alleged immoral suggestions unless the men pay off. The Immorality Act has become a law of terror and a boon to blackmailers.

GERMAN GENERAL. New commander of the West German armed forces, General Friedrich Foertsch, was held five years before trial, then served five more in a Soviet prison for war crimes before he was sent to West Germany. Here, according to the Soviets, he was supposed to continue his sentence. Instead he was released and quickly joined the Bundeswehr, which he now heads.

LONGEST WORD. Longest word in the dictionary (28 letters) used to be -- antidisestablishmentarianism. No more. Third edition of Webster's New International Dictionary contains a 45-letter blockbuster: pneumonoultramicroscopicsilicovolcano-koniosis. It's a miner's lung disease.

TRADE PARTNERSHIP. In the next few weeks, the Kennedy administration will begin to prepare the American public for the effects of the European Common Market on the American economy. These effects will be considerable, since the United States in export markets will be undercut by expanding foreign economies based on lower standards of living. Sooner or later, the Kennedy administration believes, we will have to abandon any remnants of a protectionist policy and negotiate a free-trade area with the French, British, West German and Benelux countries. Undoubtedly there will be objections.

NATIONAL CRIME SYNDICATE. One reason Las Vegas, Nevada, is being considered as a possible secret headquarters for the national crime syndicate is that sooner or later most powerful underworld bosses turn up there. For example, when Peter Licavoli was recently released from the federal prison in Atlanta, Ga., the reputed secret boss of the Detroit and Cleveland mobs journeyed to Las Vegas. Like many other underworld kingpins, Licavoli has established business interests in the west, particularly in Arizona.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by RUSTY WARREN

EDITOR'S NOTE: Rusty Warren, reared in Milton, Mass., is a graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music. She first studied piano for the concert stage, later turned to popular music and began to play in supper clubs. After a few years of only moderate success, she broadened her act by adding comedy routines and soon became one of the leading night club comedienne in the country. She has played record-breaking engagements at New York's Roundtable, Detroit's Club Alamo, Pittsburgh's Horizon Room and Houston's Orbit Room. Her comic albums have sold more than two million copies and are consistently on the best-seller charts. Here are some of her favorite stories:

A TIGHTWAD visited a dentist to have his tooth pulled but hesitated when he heard the cost. "Ten dollars is an awful lot of money for about five minutes' work," he said. "Well, if you'd like," said the dentist, "I can pull the tooth slowly."

AN IRISHMAN met an American in London and asked: "And what country do you belong to?" "The greatest country in the world," replied the American. "So do I," replied the Irishman. "But where's your brogue?"

A SELF-MADE millionaire told a friend, "I've always had the theory that salary is the least important part of any job. Doing things wholeheartedly to the peak of your ability brings far greater satisfaction than money." The friend asked: "And you became rich after you convinced yourself that this was true?" "No," corrected the millionaire, "after I convinced the people who worked for me."

THERE'S A TEXAS Cadillac dealer who has a pile of small foreign cars in the corner of his showroom with a sign: TAKE ONE.

A SIGN on a gift shop door: PLEASE OPEN BEFORE CHRISTMAS . . .

TWO EMPLOYEES were discussing their bosses. One said, "Did you know that my boss talks to himself?" The other said, "So does mine, but he doesn't know it. He thinks everyone in the office is listening."

A RUSSIAN FATHER was discussing his three sons: "I'm very proud of them. One is a people's lawyer and one's a people's doctor. But I'm proudest of all of my son who's in America. He's unemployed and gets money from the government . . . and if it weren't for the few dollars he sends home, we'd all starve."

A MAN VISITED a psychiatrist because he thought he was a canary. A few months later, the guy's wife phoned the psychiatrist and asked how her husband was progressing. "Fine," came the reply. "Lately, I haven't heard a peep out of him!"

TWO MEN were discussing women. "They say brunettes have sweeter dispositions than blondes," said one. The other replied, "I can't see any difference and my wife has been both."

AN UNEMPLOYED COMIC visited his agent daily. Each day the agent told him, "Sorry, nothing for you." This went on for days, then weeks, then years. Then one day, the comic entered the office and said, "I just wanted to tell you not to book me for anything during the next two weeks. I'm going on vacation."

A MINK WALKED into a bar and ordered a double martini. He drank it in one gulp and then explained to the bartender, "I want to taste it before I become a coat and get it spilled on me!"

A MAN WEARING a beret, smock and a long, flowing beard consulted a psychiatrist. "Are you an artist?" asked the psychiatrist. "No," said the man. "Then why the beret, smock and beard?" asked the psychiatrist. "That," said the man, "is what I'm here to find out."

AN UNEMPLOYED WRITER was asked if a college education had helped him. "Certainly," he replied. "I'm probably the only person who can fill out an unemployment form in Latin."

RUSSIAN WOMEN don't think as much of Nina Khrushchev as ours do of Jackie Kennedy. I've never read or heard anything about a "Nina Khrushchev Hairdo."

Bavarian Creams—all from one easy Jell-O-Dream Whip recipe. Read here how simple it is to make the prettiest holiday desserts in America. Or even in Bavaria.

To make the BASIC BAVARIAN DESSERT (being held by your friend up there, on the right), dissolve a 3-oz. package Jell-O Gelatin with  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup of sugar in 1 cup boiling water. Add  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup cold water. Chill until slightly thickened. Prepare Dream Whip as directed on package. Stir  $1\frac{1}{2}$  cups Dream Whip into Jell-O until blended. Pour into 1-qt. mold or 6 to 8 individual molds. Chill about 3 hours for large mold or 2 hours for small molds. Garnish with remaining Dream Whip. Serves 6 to 8 (impressed) people.

diced candied fruits,  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup toasted chopped almonds, 1 tsp. rum extract into Bavarian; then pour into baked 9-inch pie shell. Chill about 3 hours. While pie chills, prepare for heroine worship.

CROWN LIME BAVARIAN (left rear) Prepare Basic Bavarian, using Jell-O Lime Gelatin. Prepare second (3-oz.) package Lime Jell-O as directed on package, using only  $1\frac{1}{4}$  cups water. Pour  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup of this Jell-O into  $1\frac{1}{2}$  qt. mold. Chill remainder in 8- x 4-inch loaf pan until firm. Then cut into cubes and fold into Bavarian. Fill remaining space in mold with this mixture. Chill about 3 hours. Makes 10 to 12 unbelievable servings. Not a speck will be left. We hope you have a very good holiday season.

LOW DOWN HEELS

women really love them?

by ROSALIND MASSOW

A MERICAN WOMEN will be down at the heels this year, but it means nothing more than another phase of fashion.

Shoes with three-inch heels and needle-pointed toes, in vogue for five years, have gently but firmly been booted out of the fashion picture, and in their stead there's the sensible look—low, stacked heels that hardly leave the ground and a sawed-off look at the toe.

One-inch heels, long regarded as the orthopedic or "old lady" style, may now be seen on such chic feet as those of Jacqueline Kennedy, Gloria Vanderbilt, Rosalind Russell, Princess Grace of Monaco and the Duchess of Windsor.

The walking shoe dressed up for big Saturday nights comes in gold alligator, sleek satins and patent leathers.

The new style is the first break women with bad feet have had since World War II, when the fashion was the low-heeled "Shank's Mare." Since then heels have been growing higher and higher until women have been virtually standing on their toes.

Was it consideration of health and welfare that prompted shoe designers to come up with a comfortable shoe, or just fashion business?

Roger Vivier, shoe designer for Dior, is reported to have started the new trend when he saw pointed toes in the Paris subway.

"As soon as a look becomes so popular that you see it in the streets and subways, it's no longer fashion," says Kenneth Lane, Vivier's associate.

The 'Platypus Look'

Vivier introduced the new style as a broad, blunt "platypus look," but this was only for shock value. The shoe has now been modified to an elongated snub-toe effect. In addition, it comes in 2 to 2½-inch heel heights and a slightly oval toe for those who don't like extreme fashions.

Delman's, Evins Inc., Sandler of Boston, I. Miller, Capezio and every other shoe manufacturer from Maine to Honolulu, no matter how large their inventories of pointed toes, are making the new shoes and reporting wide acceptance of the style.

David Evins, who introduced the new lower heel shoe and soft square toe last season, disclosed that only now are women beginning to regard the fashion seriously.

"We don't expect everybody to go out and buy low-heeled shoes for day and evening," Evins said. "Some short girls look terrible in them. I don't believe in one shape for every person, so we have modified the styles for different tastes."

High in the Evins fashion look is the female version of the gentleman's dancing slipper. It's a strictly little-girl look, comes in a boxy low heel and has a sailor bow of grosgrain. The five-year reign of the spike heel and pointed toe has caused considerable pock-mark damage to linoleum and soft-wood floors. Looped carpets will never be the same. As for the heel itself, it's been scuffed and endangered by sidewalk gratings, escalators and cracked sidewalks. The upkeep on lifts has been a staggering budget item.

As for the ladies themselves, the shoe has not dealt kindly with their feet. Dr. Louis Lewy, secretary of the New York Academy of Podiatrists, is one who personally hails the new footwear. He says:

"The new shoe conforms more nearly to the contour of the foot. Women who wore three-inch heels and pointed toes almost exclusively have suffered from bunions, cramped toes, ingrown toe nails and poor balance and posture."

Chance to Use Muscles

"Functionally the new shoe will benefit the body by offering proper balance, better locomotion and the opportunity to use muscles that have not been used in a long time," Dr. Lewy predicts.

While ladies are now blissful about their freedom to move their toes, it's not comfort but elegance that is directing them toward the shoe stores.

There are also those die-hards who like high heels no matter what the high fashion girls are wearing.

One young lady in a shoe store said, "I think the low heel is wonderful, but that's because I'm expecting a baby. I don't care for the style otherwise. It's clumsy-looking."

Another girl remarked, "I have long skinny feet, which sales people say is aristocratic. What they really mean is that they can't fit me. These new shoes make my feet look shorter and while I don't like low heels, I'm going to buy them anyway. I like to be in style."

A fellow we know who appreciates a nice ankle won't let his wife buy the new fashion. "I like women in high heels. It makes their legs more graceful. If my wife wants to wear those low-heel shoes, she can—when I'm not around." (She does, toting them to work with her in a bag.)

For tall girls who don't want to be taller than he is, for heavy women who are footsore from cramming their C's into triple-needle toes, and for gals who like to be in style, the low heel and blunt toe are the sharpest things in town.

Walking the beam is hard enough, but 9-year-old Chris Herald adds a thrill for himself and teachers by doing a leg balance too.

"Here I come, ready or not"—and all hands get set for Judy Brightwell's fall from rope.

kids with courage

by SID ROSS

Passing the medicine ball is great fun, and it is also good for coordination and muscle tone.

Kim Winter gets big hug from teacher Lawrence Frankel for balancing on the beam without falling.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.

SATURDAY AFTERNOONS, when most youngsters are happily away from school, 11 little children, aged 6 to 11, can't get to their classes fast enough.

The youngsters, most of them blind since birth, hurry to the gymnasium of the Lawrence Frankel Institute here for the kind of exercise few have ever dared give a sightless child.

Under the eagle-eye supervision of Lawrence Frankel, they are taught to climb 20-foot ropes, walk balancing beams, pass medicine balls and participate in games just as if they had normal vision.

Such exercise classes for the blind, one of a number of physical-fitness programs for the handicapped, were originated by Frankel, a former clothier with a life-long interest in athletics and children.

Before Frankel started his program there was no provision for this type of gymnastics for sightless children in West Virginia. Blind youngsters went to regular classes with sighted children in Charleston, but they were permitted little play. They were timid and helpless; they walked and played scared.

"I thought it would be a great challenge to work with the kids," Frankel said. "I wanted them as young and as helpless as possible. I wanted to see whether gymnastics could rehabilitate them not only physically but psychologically as well."

The results have been spectacular. These 11 blind children, selected from the Glenwood grade school on the basis of their ability to follow instruction, now run, jump and even climb trees. Their parents and teachers report they have changed from introverted, shy children to confident self-sufficient young people.

One little girl, 8-year-old Angie Cavender, blind soon after birth, became so confident as a result of these classes that one day while climbing the rope she called down: "Are you there, Mr. Frankel?" When he answered yes, she let go the rope and plummeted fearlessly 15 feet into his waiting arms.

Angie, according to her mother, Mrs. Nell J. Cavender, used to be afraid to walk. "She'd slide along, afraid of bumping things. Now she's a new person. She gets along better with other children."

While parents, teachers and community leaders are enthusiastic over results of the Frankel program, the youngsters themselves are its happiest boosters.

Eight-year-old George Arthur is thrilled over what he can do. "I'm afraid to get up on that beam, because it's real high above my head, but I like to climb the rope and swing and do handstands and somersaults. My younger brother Mike used to know more stunts than I did, but now I know as much as he does."

Dr. Willard Pushkin, one of the local physicians active in promoting the Institute's physical-fitness program, states: "These children will grow up to do more than sell candy or magazines at stands for the blind." They have learned to conquer fear.

If she stays, will he follow?

by KENYON LEE

LAS VEGAS, NEV.

SUPPOSE YOU WERE a girl married to a top movie star in the Philippine Islands, the teen-agers' idol, a tall, dark, handsome wealthy young man named Zaldy Zshornack. Suppose you had an adorable 3-year-old son, a lovely house in the suburbs of Manila, four maids and two gardeners, two cars, and a burgeoning screen career of your own.

With this near-perfect setup, why would you leave your husband and child, work in Las Vegas, Nevada, 7,000 miles from home, for $250 a week?

This is the question I recently put to Shirley Gorospe, one of the stars of Philippine Festival, a show currently playing here which is destined to tour the country and then become a TV spectacular.

Leggy and tall (5 feet 8), with large, luminous black eyes, a skin of porcelain white, and a figure that measures 37-23-36 in the curves department, Shirley is recognized as the Marilyn Monroe of the Far East. She is in constant demand by movie-makers there, and yet several months ago when producer Steve Parker, husband of film star Shirley MacLaine, asked her if she'd like to work in Las Vegas with other top Philippine talent, Shirley quickly said yes.

Average American Girl

The reason: the most beautiful girl in the Philippines is American.

"I was born 23 years ago," Shirley readily admits, "in Maui in the Hawaiian Islands. When I was nine, my father, who's Filipino — my mother is French and Portuguese — moved us all to Los Angeles where he opened a travel bureau. I went to school in Los Angeles, took dancing lessons there at Nico Charisse's studio—he was once married to Cyd Charisse—and lived the life of an average American girl. So when I got this opportunity to work in Vegas, only 300 miles from my home town, I grabbed it.

"The Philippines have been very kind to me; the people have adopted me as one of their own. Many regard me as a Filipina. But the truth is I'm American right down to my fingertips, and I can't get the California way of life out of my mind or blood.

"I took the Vegas job," Shirley confesses, "hoping that some Hollywood film or TV producer would catch my dance act and offer me work in the States. So far I've had several television offers. I think the show is going on the road, and perhaps there's a chance of my staying here. After all, I am an American citizen."

How about Shirley's husband and child? Would she give both of them up to remain in America?

"Of course not," she says. "But maybe I and Zaldy (her husband, who is half-Filipino, half-Polish) can make films in Hollywood together. We've made about six in Manila. I know Zaldy's not established here as a film star, but perhaps we could make films in Hollywood for Philippine consumption?"

I explained to Shirley that such films

would cost 10 times more to make in Hollywood than in Manila and that no producer would take the risk. Besides, I asked, would Zaldy consent to start over in Hollywood from scratch, particularly when there weren't many parts for Oriental leading men?

"Sometimes," Shirley confesses, "I wish I had never won that Miss Philippines beauty contest. There was a neighborhood beauty contest in Los Angeles in 1956. I won it, and first prize was a trip to Manila. When I got there I met a local film producer, Cirio Santiago, who asked me if I'd like to star in a movie. I thought he was kidding, so I said, 'Only if you shoot it in Hollywood.' It sounds impossible, but he agreed, and that's how I got into films. Only we had to finish the movie in Manila. I traveled back and forth.

"One afternoon in Manila," Shirley continues, "I watched Zaldy play basketball at Malacanayan Palace—he was a basketball star before he became a screen star—we got to talking and gradually we fell in love. In 1958 we eloped and got married. Friends said it would kill Zaldy's screen career. He was then regarded as the James Dean of the Philippines. But the marriage had no effect on his career. In fact three months later we got married again, this time in a church. Then we started making films together.

International Name

"Zaldy gets $10,000 a film, and I get $5,000. In the Philippines it takes two, three weeks to make a film. Zaldy's already made more than 60. We stopped filming together when our son was born. Zaldy wanted to call him Rizaldy which is his full first name, and I wanted Gary, so we've combined both names, and our son is Garysaldy Zshornack. How's that for an international name?"

While Shirley was dancing here, her husband flew in from the Philippines, suggested she fly back to Manila with him via Paris.

Said Shirley petulantly, "I know I should follow Zaldy, but I'm so homesick for America that I'm going to stay here as long as I can. Then I'm going to work on him. I know I can wear him down. The Philippines are wonderful, but honestly there's no place like the good old U.S.A. We're 75 in the troupe and practically all of us want to remain in this country."

A FESTIVE CHRISTMAS MENU

by BETH MERRIMAN

Parade food editor

How many will gather around your table on Christmas Day? This festive dinner will adapt itself to any number from 2 to 8, with a bit of simple arithmetic.

Elegant little Rock Cornish game hens make this possible; everyone gets a plump, pretty bird all for himself and does his own carving! No problem with drumstick fanciers, wing worshippers or light and dark meat devotees.

Rock Cornish Hens Grenadine

4 Rock Cornish	1/4 cup lemon juice
Game Hens	1/2 cup honey
Pineapple Walnut	1/4 cup Grenadine syrup
Stuffing	1/2 cup butter or margarine

Wash hens; pat dry. Stuff. Combine lemon juice, honey and Grenadine syrup. Set aside 1/2 cup for basting; add remainder to softened butter. Spread over surface of birds. Roast in moderate oven, 350°, about 1 hour or until done, brushing occasionally with honey mixture. Makes 4 servings.

Pineapple Walnut Stuffing

1/2 cup water	1 egg, slightly beaten
1/4 cup butter or margarine	1/2 cup crushed pineapple
1/2 package stuffing mix (4 oz.)	1/4 cup finely chopped walnuts

Heat water; add butter; heat until melted. Stir in remaining ingredients. Makes enough to stuff 4 hens.

Orange Potato Puffs

1 envelope instant mashed potatoes	1 tablespoon grated orange peel
2 eggs, unbeaten	2 tablespoons orange juice
1/2 teaspoon salt	2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, divided
1/2 teaspoon mace

Prepare potatoes as directed on package, except reduce water by 1/2 cup. Add eggs to potatoes, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in salt, mace, orange peel and juice; beat. Chill. Shape into mounds on well-greased baking sheet. Brush 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine over mounds. Bake in hot oven, 400°, until heated and tipped with brown, 18-20 minutes. Brush with remaining butter or margarine. Makes 4 servings.

TOYS in ORBIT

Science kits move into lead with small fry

THE BIG NEWS in Santa's $2 billion toy bag this Christmas (see cover). The trend to space-age playthings that started with Sputnik has snowballed to the point where they now account for five to ten per cent of the market.

The upsurge is so strong that this year, for the first time, industrial companies like General Electric and Infrared Industries are using their engineering know-how to produce toys. And established titans in the children's field like A. C. Gilbert, Lionel and Ideal, not to be caught short, are on the bandwagon with extensive new science lines.

Although many of the new gadgets may confuse the grown-ups, youngsters of all ages are showing a surprising grasp of everything from chemistry to advanced electronics, according to the Toy Guidance Council.

Pictured on these pages are just a few of the wonders our future scientists will be playing with on Christmas Day.

—BOB DRISCOLL

HOT QUAKER OATMEAL...

THE CEREAL MOTHERS BELIEVE IN MOST

... not just for traditional Quaker Oatmeal nutrition, but for its delicious hotness that warms children up inside... good and substantial, it sticks to their ribs all morning long... no wonder more mothers serve Quaker Oatmeal than any other cereal.

P.S. Try a peach topping... an added touch that children love.

Quaker Oats and Mother's Oats are exactly the same.

A future space scientist transmits his voice on a beam of invisible light via his "Astro-Phone." The toy utilizes principles of missile communication. The G.E. Analog Computer (foreground) is one of 7 transistor-electronic kits that are simplified offshoots of more advanced commercial systems from G.E. labs.

Gutenberg Printing Press (upper left) is one of 6 "Famous Inventor" assembly kits offered by Lionel in addition to lines of "build-it-yourself" electronics engineering and plastics engineering kits. Lab Technician's Kit (upper right) by Gilbert is but one of many science toys with proven appeal for girls as well as boys. One of several Hydro-Dynamic Building Sets (left) rates among the most versatile and popular toys with the younger scientist. The young miss (below) is building an Intercom by General Electric. When she's finished, her "toy" will have a range limited only by the length of connecting wire. Behind her, ready for assembly, is a Lionel Weather Station with which she'll be able to make her own forecasts. Biology and chemistry sets are also proving popular with distaff scientists who surprisingly aren't taking a back seat to their brothers. Nor is the junior scientist forgotten; kits that sell for as little as 59 cents keep him busy with basic experiments in most of the sciences.

Our chips are great, if you can stand the noise.

We have received several letters of complaint recently about the loudness of our chips. In reply we say: A noisy potato chip is a crispy potato chip. And conversely, a quiet potato chip is a soggy potato chip. That's life. If you want crisp, fresh, crunchy, delectable potato chips, you must accept the noise. Otherwise, be doomed to a potato chip-less life. (Horrible fate.) In all fairness to ourselves, we did conduct a little scientific experiment to turn down the noise level of our chips. We tried a quieter potato, a quieter cooking oil, a quieter salt, a quieter secret ingredient, a quieter cooking method, a quieter wrapping, even quieter salesmen. But when the noise went, the crispness went. So we've given up—unless you have any suggestions. Until further notice, then, Laura Scudder's potato chips will remain the noisiest chips in the world. Therefore we make just one request. If you eat Laura Scudder's potato chips, chips for dips or barbecue chips after 11 o'clock at night, please try to chew softly. LAURA SCUDDER'S

Look for our barbecue chips, potato chips and chips for dips in their bright new bags.
